This Church of St. Mary le Bow, was totally demoliſhed by the great Fire: Rebuilt, and Dame Dionyſſe Williamſon, of Haleſhal, in the County of Norfolk, gave to the Inhabitants of this Pariſh, 2000 l. towards the rebuilding and ſplendid furniſhing of this Church and Steeple; and furniſhing the ſame with Bells, &c. And ſurely, for the number and melody of the Bells, Bow, ſince the Fire, ſurpaſſeth former times. As for the Steeple, it ſhews its lofty top over all the City; being 225 Foot high. It was begun to be built in the Year 1671, and finiſhed 1680. deſigned by Sir Chriſtopher Wren. There is a fine Print of it extant.

GIFTS and CHARITIES.

Of the large and liberal Charities given to this Pariſh, theſe are ſome; favourably communicated to me by the late Incumbent, Dr. Bradford; now Lord Biſhop of Carlile.

Samuel Leſe, Citizen and Clothworker, by his laſt Will, dated April 26, 1634. gave to the Company of Clothworkers, two Houſes near Holborn-bridge, in the Pariſh of St. Andrews Holborn, for divers pious and charitable Uſes; particularly, for a Sermon to be preached in the Pariſh of Bow, on the 1ſt of May yearly, 1 l. to the Clerk and Sexton, 3 s. To the Churchwardens of the Pariſh of St. Andrew Holborn, for the uſe of the Poor, yearly, 2 l. To the Maſter and Wardens of the ſaid Company of Clothworkers, for their pains in ſeeing the ſame performed, five Shillings apiece; that is, one Pound five Shillings; (which Company come to the Sermon.) To the Aſſiſtants of the Yeomanry, [i. e. thoſe not on the Livery,] ten Shillings. To the Beadle, &c.

Theophilus Royle, Citizen and Draper of London, by his laſt Will, dated Feb. 5. 1655. gave, for a Sermon to be preached in St. Mary le Bow, on the 5th of November, yearly, at Five a Clock, by the Rector of the ſaid Pariſh; in commemoration of our great deliverance from the Gunpowder Treaſon, one Pound: Appointing that a number of poor People, whereof three of the Drapers Company, ſhould be at the preaching of the ſame Sermon; and receive five Shillings apiece, by the Hands of the Wardens.

Deputy Withers, formerly an Inhabitant of the Pariſh, who died in March, An. 1700. by his Will, gave to the Miniſter and Churchwarden of this Pariſh, an Annuity of Forty Shillings, to be paid out of the Houſe in which he dwelt, viz. at the corner of Bow-lane in Cheapſide, during the Leaſe of the ſaid Houſe; for a Sermon to be preached yearly, on Good-Friday in the Afternoon. Whereof, to the Preacher, 1 l. To the Reader of the Prayers of the Church of England, 5 s. To the Clerk and Sexton, half a Crown apiece. And to Four of the pooreſt Inhabitants, that frequent the Prayers, half a Crown apiece.

The following Sums were given by Will, for the maintenance of a Weekly Lecture in St. Mary le Bow, by theſe Perſons following.

The Lecture.

In January, An. 162½, on Thurſday at Five of the Clock, the Lecture was ſet up. The ſeveral Legacies before mentioned, having been laid out by the Churchwardens; together with ſome addition (as it ſeems) of the Pariſh Stock, for the purchaſe of two Tenements, and a Shop, in Abchurch Lane. Which was put into the Hands of Truſtees, of the ſame Pariſh; to employ the Rent of the ſaid Tenements, for the Maintenance of the ſaid Lecture.

The Rent received, as appears by the Pariſh Books, for divers Years, until the great Fire, was 26 l. per Ann. The Lecturer received after the rate of 30 l. per Ann. to the Year 1640. The Clerk and Sexton, 20 s. apiece, beſides Candles. From the Year 1640. to the Fire, he received 32 l. 10 s. After the Fire, the Houſes being burnt down, a Leaſe was made and ſigned by the Rector, Mr. Smalwood, and Churchwardens, July 16, 1668. granting to Tho. Bowes, Eſq; the Ground of the ſaid Houſes, for Ninety Years; paying twelve Pound per Ann. When the Church was rebuilt, the ſaid Mr. Smalwood, the then Rector, preached this Lecture once a Month: (viz. the Thurſday before the Sacrament) and received in conſideration of it, the ſaid Ground Rent of 12 l. per Ann. Since Mr. Smalwood's Death, the Lecture is diſcontinued: But of late, the Rector finding it in the Pariſh Books, hath ſet it up again; which is preached by the Reader, as it was before; and the ſaid Salary paid.

Parſonage.

In this Pariſh there is a Parſonage Houſe, let out by Leaſe, to be built for Forty Years; from Lady-day, 1676. at 4 l. per Ann. being the Woolpack, an Alehouſe in Bow-lane.

There is alſo a Ground Rent of Forty Shillings the Miniſter received, for an Houſe partly ſituate in the Church-yard; let by Leaſe to the Drapers for ſixty five Years; from May the 1ſt, An. 1670.

Church new repaired and beautified.

This Bow Church was repaired and beautified, and the Pews new placed for more Convenience, An. 1706. and a Skreen then erected at the North Door. It hath a very fair and coſtly Altar-piece, of exquiſite Workmanſhip: On each ſide whereof, is a large Pillar of the Corinthian Order, imitating Porphyry Stone. Upon the top of the Pediment, is the Figure of a great Golden Candleſtick, with a Wax Candle, as though it burned: And on each ſide, on three deſcents, ſtand as many other Candleſticks, with Candles appearing as lighted. In the ſaid Pediment, facing the Church, within a Glory, is a Round of Gold, inſcribed, Glory to God on high: Somewhat lower, over the Communion Table; On Earth Peace, good Will towards Men. The high Cieling of this Church, is made Archwiſe; and ſo is the Cieling over the Galleries, North and South, alſo arched; anſwerable to the denomination of the Church, viz. Le Bow, or of the Arches.]

A Shed or Standing for the King, called Crown Silde.

Without the North ſide of this Church of St. Mary Bow, towards Weſt Cheape, ſtandeth one fair Building of Stone, called in Record, Sildam; a Shed which greatly darkneth the ſaid Church: For by mean thereof, all the Windows and Doors, on that ſide, are ſtopped up.

Built by King Edward III. On what Occaſion.

This Building was made by King Edward the IIId, upon this Occaſion. In the Reign of the ſaid King, divers Juſtings were made in London, betwixt Sopars Lane and the Croſs in Cheape; (for the Standard ſtood not then in place where now it is,) namely, one great Juſting was there in the Year 1330. the Fourth of Edward III. whereof is noted thus. About the Feaſt of St. Michael, there was a great and ſolemn Juſting of all the ſtout Earls, Barons, and Nobles of the Realm; at London, in Weſt Cheape; betwixt the great Croſs and the great Conduit, nigh Sopars Lane. Which Juſting laſted three Days: Where, Queen Philip, with many Ladies, fell from a Stage of Timber; notwithſtanding, they were not hurt at all. Wherefore the Queen took great care to ſave the Carpenters from puniſhment. And through her Prayer, (which ſhe made on her Knees) ſhe pacified the King and Council. And thereby purchaſed great Love of the People.

Sold away by K. Henry IV.

After which time, the King cauſed this Silde, or ſhed, to be made, and ſtrongly to be builded of Stone, for himſelf, the Queen, and other Eſtates to ſtand in, there to behold the Juſtings, and other Shows at their pleaſures. And this Houſe (for a long time after) ſerved to that uſe: Namely, in the Reign of Edward the IIId, and Richard the IId. But in the Year 1410. Henry the IVth, in the twelfth of his Crounſilde.

In the firſt Edit.

his Reign, confirmed the ſaid Shed or Building to Steven Spilman, William Marchford, and John Whattel, Mercers; by the Name of one new Sildam, Shed or Building, with all Shops, Cellars, and Edifices whatſoever appertaining, called Crounſilde; (and in the Eighth of the ſaid Henry, called Tamarſild,) ſituate in the Mercery in Weſt Cheape, and in the Pariſh of St. Mary de Arcubus in London; [and a certain Shop in the ſaid Pariſh, between the ſame Shed, and the King's High-way of Weſt Cheape, annexed to the ſaid Shed: With two Shops, Cellars, and Edifices whatſoever; as well builded, or any way being over the ſaid Shop, as over the Entry of the ſaid Shed: Which were holden of him in Priorgage, as all the City of London is: And which were worth by Year, in all Iſſues, (according to the true value of them) 7 l. 13 s. 4 d. As was found by Inquiſition thereof, before Thomas Knowles, Maior, and Eſchetor in the ſaid City.]

Yet remained long after, the ſtanding Place to behold the Shows of the City.

Notwithſtanding which Grant, the Kings of England, and other great Eſtates; as well of foreign Countries repairing to this Realm, as Inhabitants of the ſame; have uſually repaired to this place, therein to behold the Shows of this City, paſſing through Weſt Cheape; namely, the great Watches accuſtomed in the Night, on the Even of St. John Baptiſt, and St. Peter, at Midſummer; the Examples whereof were over-long to recite: Wherefore let it ſuffice briefly to touch one.

And called The Kings Head in Cheape.

In the Year 1510. the 2d of Henry VIII. on St. John's Even, at Night, the King came to this Place; then called the Kings Head in Cheape, in the Livery of a Yeoman of the Guard, with an Halberd on his Shoulder; and there beholding the Watch, departed privily, when the Watch was done; and was not known to any but to whom it pleaſed him. But on St. Peter's Night, next following, He and the Queen came royally riding to the ſaid Place; and there, with their Nobles, beheld the Watch of the City, and returned in the Morning.

Sheds or Shops antiently, rather than Houſes.

This Church of St. Mary, with the ſaid Shed of Stone; all the Houſing in and about Bow Church-yard, and without, on that ſide the High ſtreet of Cheape, to the Standard, are of Cordwainer ſtreet Ward. Theſe Houſes were (of old time) but Sheds: For I read of no Houſing otherwiſe, on that ſide the Street; but of divers Sheds, from Sopars Lane to the Standard, &c. Amongſt other, I read of three Shops or Sheds by Sopars Lane, pertaining to the Prior of the Holy Trinity, within Aldgate. The one was let out for Twenty eight Shillings, one other for Twenty Shillings, and the third for Twelve Shillings by the Year. Moreover, that Richard Goodcheape, Mercer, and Margery his Wife, Son to Jordan Goodcheape; did let to John Dalinges the younger, Mercer, their Shed and Chamber in Weſt Cheape, in the Pariſh of St. Mary de Arches, for three Shillings four Pence by the Year. Alſo the Men of Breadſtreet Ward contended with the Men of Cordwainer ſtreet Ward, for a Sild or Shed oppoſite to the Standard, on the South ſide; and it was found to be of Cordwainer ſtreet Ward. William Waldrone being then Maior; the 1ſt of Henry the VIth.

The preſent State of the Ward.
Chief Streets.
R. B.

Now for the preſent State of this Ward. The principal Streets and Lanes in it, are Bow Lane, New Queenſtreet, Budge Row, Little St. Thomas Apoſtles, Pancrace Lane, with a ſmall part of Watheling ſtreet, and Baſing lane.

Watheling ſtreet.

Watheling ſtreet hath its greateſt part in Breadſtreet Ward; what lies in this Ward, begins on the Eaſt ſide of Red Lion Court, and ſo goeth to Budge Row. This Court is ſquare and large, well built and inhabited; having a Paſſage into Baſing Lane. Croſs Keys Court, a pretty handſome Place, with a Free-ſtone Pavement. St. Mary Aldermary Church-yard, a good large place, with an open paſſage for Coach or Cart, into Bow Lane; being a place very well inhabited by Merchants, and Perſons of good repute. In this Churchyard, at the end towards Bow Lane, is ſeated St. Mary Aldermary Church; being large and well built, with a towred Steeple all of Free-ſtone. This Church is a Peculiar of Canterbury, and the Archbiſhop is Patron.

Croſs Keys Court.
St. Mary Aldermary Church-yard.
The Church.

The Church being deſtroyed by the general Fire of London, was rebuilt far better than formerly. And to this Church and Pariſh, St. Thomas Apoſtles, not rebuilt, is united.

Built by the Gift of Mr. Henry Rogers.
J. S.

This Church was again reſtored and ſet up for the Worſhip of God, by one Man's moſt noble Gift of 5000 Pound; namely, Henry Rogers Eſq; Great Grandſon to Sir Edward Rogers, Kt. A Confeſſor and Exile for the Proteſtant Religion under Queen Mary the Iſt, and a Privy Counſellour to Queen Elizabeth. A grateful Remembrance of which Gift, remains engraven over the Weſt Door, in theſe Words.

Baſing Lane.

Baſing Lane hath but a ſmall part in this Ward, as appears by the Map; the greateſt part being in Breadſtreet Ward.

Bow Lane.

Bow lane begins at Trinity lane, and falls into Cheapſide, by St. Mary le Bow Church. The part of this Lane, in this Ward, begins about fifty Foot from Cheapſide, on both ſides the way; and ſixty Foot beyond Baſing lane: And then on the Weſt ſide, only to Trinity lane. This was antiently called Cordwainers ſtreet, being very well inhabited and built. In this Lane are theſe Courts and Places of Name; viz. Half moon Court, by ſome called Lugg Yard: a Place ſomething open, but ordinary. It is likewiſe, by ſome, called Whalebone Court, from one that there boileth Whalebones. Taylor's Court, a pretty handſome open Place. Robin Hood Court, indifferent long, and well built. New Court, a very handſome genteel Place, with a Door next the Street, to ſhut up at Nights. St. Mary Aldermary Church, the Weſt End ſeated in this Lane. Gooſe Alley, but ordinary; at the upper end of which is Twelve Bell Court, which is but ſmall and narrow. It hath a Paſſage through Compter's Alley into Bow Church Yard, both Places of ſmall account. George Alley, or Yard, but narrow, hath a Paſſage into New Queenſtreet, through Weld Court. Roſe Court, but mean and ordinary. St. Mary le Bow Church, the Front ſeated in Cheapſide, but the back part in Bow lane.

of London; and ſince rebuilt more ſplendid than before, with a lofty and ſtately Steeple; which from the Battlements, is raiſed up with arched Work, with a curious Lanthorn; above which, at a great height, on a Pyramid (which ſerveth for a Weathercock or Vane,) is a Dragon ſtanding on a Ball, both gilt; and from the Steeple hangs a fine Dial into Cheapſide.

To this Church and Pariſh, the Pariſhes of St. Pancras Sopar lane, and St. Alhallows Honey lane, are united; the ſaid Churches not rebuilt, and the Places where the Churches ſtood, incompaſſed in for burial Places for the Inhabitants.

New Queenſtreet, formerly Sopar Lane.

Kingſtreet.

New Queenſtreet, built in the Place where Sopar lane was, and now made a good open Street, (before the great Fire very narrow) with very good Houſes, well inhabited. It fronts Kingſtreet, which is oppoſite to Guildhall; and in a ſtreight Line runneth down to the Thames, at the Three Cranes; being now the Paſſage from Guild-hall, for the Lord Maior and Aldermen to take Barge to go to Weſtminſter Hall, for the ſwearing the new Lord Maior. But the part of this Street, in this Ward, goeth no farther than St. Thomas Apoſtles. In this Street is Weld Court; a good handſom ſquare Place, with well built and inhabited Houſes: This Court hath a paſſage into George Yard, which falls into Bow lane.

Weld Court.

Pancrace Lane.

Pancrace lane, comes out of New Queenſtreet, and falls into Bucklersbury; the South ſide is in this Ward, and the North in Cheap Ward. This Lane is but ordinary built and inhabited, except one large Houſe, the Dwelling of a Merchant, on the South ſide; and on the North, before the Fire of London, ſtood two Churches, viz. St. Pancrace Sopar Lane, and St. Benets Shearhog. But theſe two Churches remain unbuilt, and united unto others; viz. that of St. Pancrace, to St. Mary le Bow, and that of St. Benet Shearhog, to St. Stephen Walbrook; but theſe two Churches are ſeated in Cheap Ward. Adjoining to St. Pancrace Church, is a ſmall Court, but no fix'd Name is given unto it.

St. Syth's Lane.

St. Syth's lane comes out of Pancrace lane, and falls into Budge row, by St. Anthonines Church; a Lane well built, and inhabited by Merchants.

Budge Row.

Budge row takes its riſe from Watlingſtreet, and runs Eaſtwards to Canonſtreet; from which it is ſevered by Walbrook on the North, and Dowgate on the South. The Houſes are good, and taken up by good Tradeſmen, being ſo great a Thoroughfare. In this Street is Dodſon's Court, a good large place, well built and inhabited, and hath a paſſage into Cloak lane: On the South ſide, is a paſſage into Tower Royal ſtreet.

Dodſon's Court.

St. Anthonines Church.

St. Anthonine's Church, a very neat Freeſtone Building, with a curious wrought Spire, and a golden Ball on the Tower. On the Weſt ſide of the Church is an open ſquare Place, and on the South ſide are ſeveral free Stones placed in the Street, Pyramid faſhion, orderly along by the Church, the better to ſecure the Foot Paſſengers from Carts and Coaches, this part of the Street being very narrow. Of this Church the King is Patron. It was deſtroyed by the Fire of London, and rebuilt, as aforeſaid, more beautiful than before. To this Pariſh, is united that of St. John Baptiſt.

Strawberry Court.

Tower Royal ſtreet, but ſhort, comes out of Budge Row, and falls into St. Thomas Apoſtles. In this Street is a handſom ſmall Court, which bears the Name of that Street. Strawberry Court but ſmall. For what more relates to this Street, ſee in Vintry Ward.

St. Thomas Apoſtles.

St. Thomas Apoſtles, the Fore Street, or Great St. Thomas Apoſtles; ſo called, to diſtinguiſh it from little St. Thomas Apoſtles, or the backſide of St. Thomas Apoſtles; and both Streets run Weſtwards, croſſing New Queenſtreet, and falling into Bow lane. But the Street of Great St. Thomas Apoſtles is in Vintry Ward.

Little St. Thomas Apoſtles.

Croſs Keys Court.

Eagle Court.

In little St. Thomas are theſe Courts: Croſs keys Court, which is but ſmall: Key Court, alſo ſmall and ordinary: Eagle Court, pretty open, and indifferent well built and inhabited; with a Free ſtone pavement.

The Watch.

There is placed at the ſeveral ſtands in this Ward that watch every Night, a Conſtable, a Beadle, and Twenty four Watchmen.

The Jury.

The Jurymen returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt, for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts in Guildhall, in the Month of December.

The Government.

This Ward hath an Alderman, and his Deputy, Common-Counſellours Eight, Conſtables Eight, Scavengers Eight, Wardmote Inqueſt Men Fourteen, and a Beadle. It ſtands taxed to the Fifteen in London, at * 52 l. 16 s. In the Exchequer, at † 52 l. 6 s.

* 72 l. 16 s.
† 72 l. First Edit:

The Alderman of this Ward, is Sir George Thorold, Kt. and Bar.

Cheape Ward. The Bounds thereof. Buckles Bury.

‘ NEXT adjoyning is Chepe Ward, and taketh Name of the Market there kept, called Weſt-Cheping. This Ward alſo beginneth on the Eaſt, on the Courſe of Walbrooke, in Buckles bury, and runneth up on both ſides to the great Conduit in Chepe. Alſo on the South ſide of Buckles bury, a Lane turning up by S. Sith's Church: and by St. Pancrace's Church, thro' Needlers Lane, on the North ſide thereof. And then through a piece of Sopars lane, on both ſides up to Chepe, be all of Chepe Ward.

The *Poultry.

‘ Then to begin again in the Eaſt, upon the ſaid Courſe of Walbrooke, is St. Mildreds Church in the Poultrie, on the North ſide; and over againſt the ſaid Church-gate, on the South, to paſs up at that high Street called the Poultry, to the great Conduit in Chepe. And then Chepe itſelf, which beginneth by the Eaſt end of the ſaid Conduit, and ſtretcheth up to the North Eaſt corner of Bow-lane, on the South ſide, and to the Standard on the North ſide. And thus far to the Weſt is of Chepe Ward.

South ſide. North ſide. Conyhope Lane. Old Jury. Ironmonger Lane. Catton ſtreet. St. *Lawrence Lane. Guildhall.

‘ On the South ſide of this High ſtreet is no Lane turning South out of this Ward, more than ſome ſmall portion of Sopars lane, whereof I have before written. But on the North ſide of this High ſtreet is Conyhope lane: about one quarter of Old Jury lane, on the Weſt ſide, and on the Eaſt ſide, almoſt as much as to the ſign of the Angel. Then is Ironmongers lane, all wholly on both ſides; and from the North end thereof, through Cattonſtreet, Weſt, to the North end of St. Lawrence lane; and ſome four Houſes Weſt, beyond the ſame on that ſide. And over againſt Ironmongers lane end, on the North ſide of Cattonſtreet, up by the Guildhall and St. Lawrence Church in the Jury, is altogether of Chepe Ward.

Weſtward. Honey Lane. The *Standard.

‘ Then again in Chepe, more toward the Weſt, is St. Lawrence lane before named; which is all wholly of this Ward. And laſt of all is Hony lane, and ſo up to the Standard on that North ſide of Chepe: And ſo ſtand the Bounds of Chepe Ward.

A. M.

Cheape Ward.

NEXT adjoyning is Cheap Ward, taking name of the Market there kept, called Weſt Cheaping; which Ward, as a River that hath three Heads, and running along to the uttermoſt of his bounds, iſſueth out on the ſides into little Streams; So this Ward, beginning on the Courſe of Walbrooke, and is not the meaneſt of the Wards (if for no other cauſe, yet becauſe it is neareſt to the heart of the City) hath his beginning on the Eaſt from three places: The High ſtreet of the Poultry, the lower end of Buckles bury, and the neather part of the Venel or Entry into Scalding Ally; and ſo running along, as far as unto the North-eaſt corner of Bow lane on the South ſide, and from thence into Bow lane on the Eaſt ſide, until ye come to the channel over-againſt the Cellar Door under the Church. And then, on the North ſide of Cheape, up to the Standard, ſtretching itſelf into divers Lanes and Pieces on the Right hand, and on the Left hand, as it cometh along.

Firſt, for the high Street of the Poultry (which is the main body of this Ward) on the South ſide thereof, toward the Eaſt: This Ward beginneth at the corner Houſe, now in the tenure of one Robert Knight, in the way going down to St. Mary Woolchurch, antiently known by the ſign of the Lion. The outmoſt part of which Houſe, and of this Ward there (the Houſe being divided) is at the Croſs channel over-againſt, or very near the great Weſt door of Woolchurch; and ſo it goeth along on the South ſide of the Poultry to the great Conduit, and ſo into Bow lane, as is aforeſaid.

Secondly, for Buckles bury, this Ward beginneth there, toward the lower end. On the North ſide, at a Channel near to the end of the Houſe, bearing the ſign of the Chriſtopher, toward the Eaſt, now in the tenure of one John Hodges. On the South ſide, it beginneth at the Eaſt end of the great new frame of Building, over-againſt the ſaid Chriſtopher; which is the Tenement on the Eaſt ſide, next to the black Bull; and ſo it goeth into all the Barge. And then Weſtward, it goeth on both ſides the way, viz. on the North ſide to the great Conduit, and ſo to Bow lane, as is aforeſaid; ſaid; and on the South ſide, to the end of St. Sythes lane. Then croſſing over the channel, to St. Bennet Shorhogs Church, it ſtretcheth all along through Needlers lane, by St. Pancrates Church, on the ſame ſide, until ye come to a great Gate; which is in the nook of a little paſſage or entry to the Weſt, and is the back Gate of a Houſe ſtanding in Bow lane, ſometime the dwelling Houſe of Mr. Paruis. Then again it ſtretcheth from the Chain in the midſt of Sopers lane (on both ſides the Lane) upward toward the North, into Cheap on the South ſide, and ſo into Bow lane, as is aforeſaid.

Thirdly, for the laſt place of this Wards beginning: On the North ſide of the High ſtreet, near unto the Stocks-Market, is an Alley or Lane, called Scalding Alley, not erroneouſly (as ſome have publiſhed) but truly, as neareſt to the moſt antient denomination thereof; which was, Scalding-houſe, alias, Scalding-wike, and Scalding lane; as appeareth by good Records extant, of two hundred Years continuance. Within the Venel or entry of this Lane or Alley, near unto the Well, that ſtandeth in a corner to the Weſt, this Ward beginneth at the end of the ſtone Wall, wherein is the Door leading unto the Parſonage Houſe and Church of St. Mildred (of which more anon) and it runneth on that ſide the Channel, along to the Eaſt corner of the ſaid Church; and from thence, on the North ſide of the Street, into the Compter, and Cony-hoop lane; and within Cony-hoop lane, into all Skinners Alley, and the Grocers Hall and Garden; and then back again into the Old Jewry Lane, on the Weſt ſide, as far as Alderman Weld's Houſe; and on the Eaſt ſide, as far as the dead ſtone Wall of the great Houſe over againſt it, ſometime Alderman Anderſon's Houſe. Then to return to the Weſt end of Old Jewry again, this Ward ſtretcheth along on the North ſide by the Mercers Hall unto Ironmongers lane, (which all wholly on both ſides, is in this Ward) and ſo into Catton ſtreet. In Catton ſtreet this Ward entreth toward the Eaſt, at a Houſe antiently known by the ſign of the Talbot, on the South ſide, now in the tenure of Mr. Packhurſt; and over-againſt it, on the North ſide, at a deep channel, iſſuing out of a Houſe, and ſo goeth up to the Weſt on both ſides, videlicet, on the South ſide of the way, beyond the end of St. Lawrence lane, until ye come to that middle part of the Church Wall, which is beyond the Church Porch; and on the North ſide, from that corner of the Church Wall, it goeth on the Eaſt ſide of the Channel to the Church Yard; and from thence, on both ſides the way, unto the outward Gate leading unto Guildhall Yard, and adjoining to the Tavern of the three Tuns. Then again to come into Cheap, there, on the North ſide, is St. Lawrence lane; all which is wholly of this Ward, and ſo is Hony lane above that: And ſo it reacheth Weſtward, as far as a ſhallow Channel, cloſe beyond the Standard. And thus ſtand the Bounds of Cheap Ward.]

The Antiquities of this Ward.
Buckles Bury.

Now for Antiquities and Things worthy of Memory there: Firſt is Buckles bury, ſo called of a Manour and Tenements pertaining to one Buckle, who there dwelled, and kept his Courts. This Manour is ſuppoſed to be the great ſtone Building, yet, in part, remaining on the South ſide the Street: which, of late time, hath been called the old Barge, of ſuch a Sign hanged out near the Gate thereof. This Manour or great Houſe, hath of long time been divided or letten out into many Tenements: And it hath been a common Speech, that when Walbrook did lie open, Barges were rowed out of the Thames, or towed up ſo far; and therefore the Place hath ever ſince been called the old Barge.

The old Barge.

Barges towed up Walbrook unto *Buckles Bury.

A Tower in Buckles Bury belonging to King Edward III. called *Cornets Tower.

Alſo, on the North ſide of this Street, directly over againſt the ſaid Buckles bury, was one antient ſtrong Tower of Stone: The which Tower, King Edward III. in the 18th of his Reign, by the Name of the King's Houſe, called Cornets-tower in London, did appoint to be his Exchange of Money, there to be kept. In the 29th, he granted it to Frydus Guyniſane, and Landus Bardoile, Merchants of Luke, for 20 l. the Year. And in the 32d of his Reign, he gave it to his College, or free Chappel of St. Stephen at Weſtminſter, by the Name of his Tower, called Cornettes-Tower at Buckles bury in London.

This Tower taken down, and built into an Houſe.

This Tower, of late Years, was taken down by one Buckle a Grocer; meaning, in place thereof, to have ſet up and builded a goodly Frame of Timber. But the ſaid Buckle, greedily labouring to pull down the old Tower, a piece thereof fell upon him; which ſo bruiſed him, that his Life was thereby ſhortned. And another, that married his Widow, ſet up the new prepared Frame of Timber, and finiſhed the Work.

Grocers and Apothecaries in *Buckles Bury.

Peneritch ſtreet.

This whole Street, called Buckles bury, on both the ſides throughout, is poſſeſſed by Grocers and Apothecaries toward the Weſt end thereof. On the South ſide, breaketh out one other ſhort Lane, called in Records, Peneritch ſtreet: It reacheth but to St. Syth's Lane, and St. Syth's Church is the fartheſt part thereof. For by the Weſt end of the ſaid Church, beginneth Needlers Lane, which reacheth to Sopars Lane, as aforeſaid.

The Pariſh Church of St. SYTHE, or BENNET SHEREHOG, or SHROG.

St. Sythes Church *Bennet Shorn.

This ſmall Pariſh Church of St. Sythes hath alſo an addition of Bennet Shorne, or Shrog, or Shorehog, (for by all theſe Names I have read it:) But the antienteſt is Shorne. Wherefore it ſeemeth to take that Name from one Benedict Shorne, ſometime a Citizen and Stock-Fiſh monger of London; a new Builder, Repairer, or Benefactor thereof, in the Reign of Edward II. So that Shorne is but corruptly called Shrog, and more corruptly Shorehog, or (as now) Sherehog.

Repaired. *R.

This Church being very much decayed and periſhed, was amply repaired and beautified at the coſt of the Pariſhoners, in the Year of Lord God 1628.

Divers fair Marble Stones, that formerly lay hid under the Pews, were then removed, and placed in the Body of the Church, to add, (as was moſt fit) to its further Grace and Beauty.

Charities belonging to this Church.
J. S.

Now to ſhew the preſent State of this Pariſh, ſince the demoliſhing of the Church by the great Fire, and what Charities belong to it.

In the Parochial Viſitation, An. 1693. the Churchwardens brought in, no Revenues to belong to their Pariſh; nor any Legacies or Gifts, except 5 l. per Ann. left by Mr. Daviſon, for the keeping in repair a Vault, belonging to that Family. Which they did, and imployed the remainder for the uſe of the Poor.

The Plate, Bells, and other Ornaments of the Church, which they had before the Fire, were imbezelled by the Churchwardens many Years ago.

This Church is not built again, but the Pariſh is laid to St. Stephen Walbrook: And that Ground on which the Church ſtood, is imployed as a burying Place for the Pariſhioners.

Parſonage and Glebe.

There was a Parſonage Houſe before the Fire, rebuilt by Abraham Wooly, upon a Leaſe of Forty Years, paying the Parſon 5 l. per An. and no other Glebe pertaining to the Parſonage. But in the Viſitation Book, of the Parochial Viſitation, An. 1636. the Glebe belonging to the Rector, was brought in at 6 l. per Ann.

In the Year 1624, the Son of this worthy Gentleman, Mr. Thomas Chapman the younger, to the further beautifying of this Church, for the more graceful Entrance into it, built a very fair Porch, at his own proper Coſt and Charges. Then is a part of Sopars Lane, turning up to Cheap. By the Aſſent of Stephen Abunden, Maior, the Pepperers in Sopar Lane were admitted to ſell all ſuch Spices, and other Wares, as Grocers now uſe to ſell; retaining the old Name of Pepperers in Sopars Lane: 'Till at length, in the Reign of Henry VI. the ſaid Sopars Lane was inhabited by Cordwainers and Curriers; after that, the Pepperers or Grocers had ſeated themſelves in a more open Street, to wit, in Buckles bury, where they yet remain.

Pies ſold in Sopar Lane.

Lamentation against the City of Lond. Printed 1545. J. S.

By a paſſage in an old Book, printed in King Henry the VIIIth's Reign, I gather, that Sopers Lane was a noted Place where Pies were made, and ſet forth to be ſold; when Spices were ſo near at hand. ‘ Thou muſt, at Eaſtre, ‘ receive the God of Antichriſt; and thou muſt ‘ buy it, and pay for it, as Men ſometime ‘ bought Pies in Soper Lane.

Chaundlers here.

Chaundlers antiently had their Shops alſo hereabouts; the ſmell of whoſe Trade, it ſeems, was ſo nauſeous in the Chief ſtreet of the City, that they were appointed to remove thence, and remain elſewhere in the City.

Sopar* Lane a great place of Standing. J. S.

At the upper end of this Sopars Lane, in Cheapſide, was the common place of ſtanding in great Shows paſſing by: As when Kings and Queens, Princes, or Foreign Ambaſſadors paſt along towards Weſtminſter, or from Weſtminſter through London, towards the Tower. Here I find a parcel of Land, called The great Field in the Street, ſometime in the tenure of the Lady Katherine Dormer, Widow. This, under that Name, together with other things, was ſold to Sir Robert Cholmly, Kt. in the 2d of Edward VI. But, I doubt, whether it were a great Field in that Kings Reign; but it ſeems antiently to have been ſo, though in Cheapſide or very near it.] Thus much for the South Wing of Cheap Ward.

Poultry*; the South ſide.

Great Conduit in Cheape.

Now to begin again on the Bank of the ſaid Walbrook, at the Eaſt end of the High ſtreet, which is the main Body of this Ward. Firſt, over againſt the Pariſh Church of S. Mildred, on the South ſide of the Poultry, up to the great Conduit, have ye divers fair Houſes, ſometimes inhabited by Poulters, now by Grocers, Haberdaſhers, and Upholders. At the Weſt end of this Poultry, on the South ſide, have ye the great Conduit, which is the beginning of Weſt Cheap. This Conduit was the firſt ſweet Water that was convey'd by Pipes of Lead, under Ground, to this Place in the City, from Padington. It was caſtellated with Stone, and ceſterned in Lead: Which was begun in the Year 1285, Henry Waleis being then Mayor. This Conduit was again new builded by Thomas Ilame, one of the Sheriffs, in the Year 1479.

South ſide of Cheape, beyond the Conduit.

Sheds on the South of Cheapſide.

Beyond this Conduit, on the South ſide of Cheap, be now fair and large Houſes; for the moſt part poſſeſſed of Mercers, up to the North corner of Cordwainer ſtreet, corruptly called Bow lane: Which Houſes, in former times, were but Sheds or Shops, with Solars over them; as of late one of them remained at Sopers Lane end; wherein a Woman ſold Seeds, Roots, and Herbs. But thoſe Sheds or Shops, by incroachments on the High ſtreet, are now largely builded on both ſides, outwards, and alſo upward towards Heaven, ſome three, four, or five Stories on high, &c.

The Pariſh Church of St. MILDRED.

On the North ſide of the Poultry, is the proper Pariſh Church of St. Mildred.

St. Mildred. A. M.

It beareth the Name of St. Mildred in the Poultry, the Virgin. Which Name was given, ſurely for diſtinction, not for Superſtition, for ſo was the Cuſtom of the Kingdom (and yet is) in building theſe Things for the Service of God; that the Founders called them by the Name of ſome Apoſtle, Saint, Martyr, or Confeſſor, as beſt liked their own Conceit at the preſent time, to diſtinguiſh them from others.

Who Mildred was.

Who this Mildred was, whether ſhe was that eldeſt Daughter of Mervaldus, King of Weſt-Mercians, as ſome think; or that ſhe was Daughter of Ethelbert, King of Kent, one of the Founders of Paul's Church, I find no Record to ſpecify, neither is it much material. But it is probable, that ſhe was ſome holy and devout Maid, which the People of that Age held to be a Saint afterward in Heaven.

St. Mildred's Tabernacle. J. Worthing.

Here the Saint, to which this Church was dedicated, had her Shrine or Tabernacle, as it was called. And one Chriſtopher Suliok, who willed his Body to be buried here, bequeathed to the gilding of the Tabernacle of St. Mildred, in the Church aboveſaid, five Marks. And towards the edifying and reparation of Corpus Chriſti Chappel, in the Pariſh aforeſaid, five Marks.

This Will was made Auguſt 11. 1500.]

A. M. differs from M[illegible] in the date of this Gift.

Morſted a Benefactor.

The Church-yard given.

In what Years this Church was firſt erected, or who was the firſt Founder of it, we find not. But it appeareth by ſome ancient Evidences of the ſaid Church, that from the beginning, it had not ſo much ſpare Ground about it, as to make a Church yard of; until in the Year of our Lord God 1420, and the Eighth of King Henry the Vth, Thomas Morſted, Eſq; and Chirurgeon to the Kings, Henry the IVth, Henry the Vth, and Henry the VIth: (And afterward, in Anno Dom. 1436. was Sheriff and Alderman of London) gave unto the Church a parcel of Ground, lying between his dwelling Houſe and the ſaid Church, (and adjoining unto the ſaid Church, toward the North) to make a Church yard of, for the burial of their Dead: Containing in length, from the Courſe of Walbrook, toward the Weſt, forty five Foot; and in breadth, from the Church, toward the North, thirty five Foot.

The Parſonage Houſe and Chambers.

Within ſhort time after, ſome body, of religious and charitable Diſpoſition, erected upon the ſides of the ſaid Church Yard, but upon Poſts and Pillars, with Cloyſters underneath, toward the Weſt, a Parſonage, or Manſion and free dwelling of the Miniſters and Rectors of the ſaid Church: And toward the Eaſt, four Chambers, then called the Prieſts Chambers; now converted into a Tenement or dwelling Houſe, and demiſed for yearly Rent. But the Church Yard is much abridged, and, of late, fouly defaced, and the Light of the ſaid Parſonage hindered, by addition of pieces to the ſaid ancient Chambers, which ought not to be.

Church taken down and new built.

After ſome Years expired, the Parſon and Pariſhioners, as it ſeemeth, ſeeing the Church to be very old, purpoſed to take it down, and to build it new again: Which they began to do, about the Year of our Lord God 1456. At what time, Robert Snell and John King were Churchwardens, and continued in the Office, till the end of the Year 1467. Toward the which Building, as it may appear by their Accompts, John Saxton, being Rector or Parſon of the ſaid Church, gave Thirty two Pounds towards the building of the new Choir there, which now ſtandeth upon the Courſe of Walbrook. [And afterward, Richard Bowyer, being Parſon, gave ſix Pound and fifteen Shillings.]

Lovel, Puery, and Richard Keſton, have their Arms in the Eaſt Windows, as Benefactors. The roofing of the Church is garniſhed with the Arms of Thomas Archebul, or Aſchebull; one of the Churchwardens in the Year 1455. who was there buried.

Church yard and Buildings ſuppoſed to be concealed.
A. M.

Of later Days, to wit, Anno Domini 1594. and 35. of Queen Elizabeth, of bleſſed Memory, this Church-yard, and all the Buildings thereon, which had been thus long in the free poſſeſſion of the Miniſters and Pariſhioners of the ſaid Church; were, through the information of an evil-minded Man, then Tenent in the Chambers, ſold for concealed Land: Whereby the ſaid Tenement, Church-yard, and Cloyſters, were like to be loſt from the poſſeſſion of the Church; and the Miniſters of the Church to be charged with an yearly Rent of their Parſonage Houſe for ever. But the Parſon and Pariſhioners, by a judicial Proceeding, then, in Her Majeſty's Court of Exchequer, cleared all the whole Soil from that Incumbrance. The Tryal whereof was held by Niſi prius, in the Guild-hall of London; and the Record is kept in Maſter Fanſhawes Office for the Exchequer.

In the great Eaſt Window of this Church, are the Arms of divers Gentlemen, as Benefactors; and namely, the Arms of Lovel and Pury, quartered; and the Arms of Richard Keſton, ſingle.

All the Roofing of the Church is garniſhed with the Arms of one Thomas Aſhebill, * who had lent a great ſum of Money toward the new building of the ſaid Church; and was one of the Churchwardens there, and lyeth buried there, in the South Chappel. His Arms alſo are to be ſeen in the ſame Chappel, in the Window to the Eaſt.

Compter in the Poultry.

Chappel of Corpus Chriſti.

On this North ſide, ſome four Houſes Weſt from this Pariſh Church of St. Mildred, is a Priſon-houſe, pertaining to one of the Sheriffs of London, and is called the Compter in the Poultry; and hath been there kept and continued time out of mind; for I have not read of the original thereof. Somewhat Weſt from this Compter, was a proper Chappel, called of Corpus Chriſti; and St. Mary, at Cony hope lane end, in the Pariſh of St. Mildred, founded by one named Jonyrunnes, a Citizen of London, in the Reign of Edward the IIId; in which Chappel, was a Guild or Fraternity, that might diſpend in Lands better than 20 l. by Year. It was ſuppreſſed by Henry the Eighth, and purchaſed by one Thomas Hobſon, Haberdaſher; who turned this Chappel into a fair Warehouſe and Shops towards the Street, with Lodgings over them.

Within this Lane ſtandeth the Grocers Hall; Which Company being of old time called Pepperers, were firſt incorporated by the Name of Grocers, in the Year 1345. At which time they elected for Cuſtos or Guardian of their Fraternity, Richard Oſwin, and Lawrence Halliwell, and twenty Brethren were then taken in, to be of their Society. In the Year 1411. the Cuſtos or Guardian, and the Brethren of this Company, purchaſed of the Lord Robert Fitzwaters, one plot of Ground, with the Building thereupon, in the ſaid Cony hope lane, for 320 Marks; and then laid the Foundation of their new common Hall.

The Bank of England kept at Grocers Hall.
J. S.

Here, at this Hall, is now kept the Bank of England, eſtabliſhed by Act of Parliament; firſt for a term of Years, and afterwards, by another Act, for a longer. This Bank ſerveth for receiving in of Monies from any Perſon, where it is ſurely repoſited, and a conſideration of Increaſe allowed, while it remains there, eſpecially, if Stock be bought with it. Where Monies are alſo lent out upon good Securities; and likewiſe, chiefly upon occaſion for the ſupply of the Needs and Exigencies of the Crown; for which Exchequer Bills are granted out. And ſo it becomes of great and publick Uſe.

A Defence of the Bank, writ by Alderman Tench.

In the Year 1707. Nathaniel Tench, Eſq; a worthy and intelligent Citizen, wrote a Defence of this Bank; being a Reply to a Pamphlet, called, Remarks upon the Bank of England; alſo to two other Pamphlets wrote againſt the Bank, one entitled, A ſhort View of the apparent Danger and Miſchiefs from the Bank of England: The other, Reaſons offered againſt the continuance of the Bank, in a Letter to a Member of Parliament. Theſe Remarks and Pamphlets were thrown abroad, to prejudice the Parliament againſt granting a further enlargement of Time to the Bank. The chief Purpoſe of this Defence, was to vindicate a Corporation, and the Management thereof; not ſo much from Crimes they had already been guilty of in the Experiment of Eleven or Twelve Years, as the fear of what they might do hereafter. For it was acknowledged by their bittereſt Enemies, even in their Treatiſes wrote againſt it, That the Bank had been ſerviceable to the Government, and that the Managers thereof had not been guilty of thoſe Villanies and Knaveries, which they ſuppoſed their Succeſſors might be. But that it was a neceſſary Conſequence, that by a further Enlargement of their Time (if any ſuch they ſhould have) either They, or their Succeſſors, might for time to come ſo prevaricate, as to be guilty of thoſe Crimes, which they took upon them to ſuppoſe; though hereof was not the leaſt Proof brought.

Epiſt. to the Reader.

This Vindication of the Bank thus concludes, 'That it might be with Truth concluded, that 'ſince their firſt Eſtabliſhment, (which was 'then about Twelve or Thirteen Years) they 'never bought one Foot of Land, they never 'monopolized any one Commodity; that they 'had been ſo far from obſtructing Trade, that 'they had very much incouraged and enlarged it, by diſcountenancing foreign and inland Bills of Exchange; and by lending Money upon Notes, to very great Sums, at very 'low Intereſt. That they had never put any 'Hardſhips upon the Government, as thoſe 'Authors would inſinuate; but had at all 'times ſerved it to the utmoſt of their Power. 'That they had been ſo far from raiſing the 'Intereſt of Money, that they were the great,

‘ if not the only Cauſe, of lowering it. That ‘ they had never concerned themſelves in the ‘ Election of any one Member of Parliament; ‘ nor never advanced a ſingle Penny to influ‘ ence any Election. Neither could any Man ‘ complain, that he did not receive his Mo‘ ney on demand, that called for it. In ſhort, ‘ that notwithſtanding the Clamour and Noiſe ‘ their Adverſaries made againſt them, they ‘ had not brought any Inſtance, that they had ‘ been guilty of any baſe or unworthy Action, ‘ in any one Fact committed by them, ſince ‘ their firſt Eſtabliſhment. So that all the Cla‘ mour of their Ill-Willers, had been raiſed ‘ upon a bare Suſpicion of what their Succeſ‘ ſors might do hereafter.’ But now to return to the Grocers.]

Alms-houſes by the Grocers Hall.

About the Year 1429. the Grocers had licenſe to purchaſe 500 Marks Land. Since the which time, near adjoyning unto the Grocers Hall, the ſaid Company hath builded ſeven Alms Houſes, for ſeven aged poor Alms People. Thomas Knowles, Grocer, Maior, gave his Tenement in St. Anthonines Church-yard to the Grocers, towards the Relief of the poor Brethren in that Company. Alſo Henry Keeble, Grocer, Maior, gave to the ſeven Alms People, ſix Pence the piece, weekly for ever; which Penſion is now increaſed by the Maſters, to ſome of them, two Shillings apiece weekly, and to ſome of them leſs, &c. Henry Ady, Grocer, 1563. gave a Thouſand Marks to the Grocers, to purchaſe Lands. And Sir Henry Pechy, Kt. Bart. free of that Company, gave them Five hundred Pound to certain Uſes: He builded Alms-houſes at Ludingſtone in Kent, and was there buried.

King Henry VI. his Licenſe for this Standard.

The ſaid King, by his Patent dated at Windſor, the 21ſt of his Reign, (which Patent was confirmed by Parliament, 1442.) granted Licenſe to Thomas Knolles, John Chichley, and others, Executors to the ſaid John Wells, with his Goods to make new the High-way, which leadeth from the City of London, towards the Palace of Weſtminſter, before and nigh the Manour of Savoy, parcel of the Duchy of Lancaſter; a Way then very ruinous, and the Pavement broken, to the Hurt and Miſchief of the Subjects. ‘ Which old Pavement, then re‘ maining in that Way, within the length of ‘ Five hundred Foot, and all the breadth of ‘ the ſame, before and nigh the ſite of the ‘ Manour aforeſaid; they to break up, and ‘ with Stone, Gravel, and other Stuff, one ‘ other good and ſufficient Way there to make, ‘ for the Commodity of the Subjects. And ‘ further, that the Standard in Cheape, where ‘ divers Executions of the Law, before time, ‘ had been performed; which Standard, at that ‘ preſent, was very ruinous with Age; in ‘ which there was a Conduit, ſhould be taken ‘ down, and another competent Standard of ‘ Stone, together with a Conduit in the ſame, ‘ of new, ſtrongly to be builded, for the Com‘ modity and Honour of the City, with the ‘ Goods of the ſaid Teſtator, without inter‘ ruption, &c.

The old Standard in Cheape with a Conduit therein, taken down, and new builded.

A Doubt of the Place of the old Standard.

Now, whether the Standard in Weſt Cheape, ſo oft ſpoken of in former times, be the ſame, and ſtood juſt in the ſame place, or elſewhere; or that the ſame were removeable, were ſome queſtion. For it is manifeſt, that in the Reign of Edward the IIId, and at other times, when the great Juſtings, and their Runnings on Horſeback, were practiſed between the great Croſs, and the great Conduit at Sopars lane end. There was no ſuch Standard, or other Obſtacle between them; neither was that Street paved with hard Stone, as now it is. We read, that in the Year 1293. three Men had their Right Hands ſtricken off at the Standard in Cheape, for reſcuing of a Priſoner arreſted by an Officer of the City. It is very likely therefore, that the old Croſs in Cheape, (which was then newly builded) was alſo the Standard.

Executions at the Standard

But of the Executions at the Standard in Cheape, we read further; that in the Year 1326. the Burgeſſes of London cauſed Walter Stapleton, Biſhop of Exceſter, Treaſurer to Edward the IId, to be beheaded, with others, at the Standard in Cheape; (but this was by Paul's Gate.) In the Year 1351. the 26 of Edward the IIId, two Fiſhmongers were beheaded at the Standard in Cheape; but I read not of their Offence. In the Year 1381. Wat. Tyler beheaded Richard Lions, and others, there. In the Year 1399. Henry the IVth cauſed the Blank Charters made by Richard the IId, to be burnt there. In the Year 1450. Jack Cade, Captain of the Kentiſh Rebels, beheaded the Lord Say there. In the Year 1461. John Davy had his Hand ſtricken off there, becauſe he had ſtricken a Man before the Judges at Weſtminſter, &c.

Great Croſs in Weſt Cheape firſt builded.

Then next is the great Croſs in Weſt Cheape, (but in Faringdon Ward within,) which Croſs was there erected in the Year 1290. by Edward the Iſt, upon Occaſion thus: Queen Elianor, his Wife, died at Herdeby (a Town near unto the City of Lincoln;) Her Body was brought from thence to Weſtminſter, and this King, in memory of Her, cauſed in every Place, where her Body reſted in the way, a ſtately Croſs of Stone to be made and erected, with the Queen's Image and Arms upon it; as at Grantham, Woborne, Northampton, Stony-Stratford, Dunſtable, St. Albans, Waltham, Weſt Cheape, and at Charing; from whence ſhe was conveyed to Weſtminſter, and there buried.

Croſs in Cheape new builded.

This Croſs in Weſt Cheape, being like to thoſe which remain till this Day, and being by length of time decayed; John Hatherly, being Mayor of London, procured in the Year 1441. licenſe of King Henry VI. in the 21ſt of his Reign, to re-edify the ſame in more beautiful manner, for the Honour of the City: And had Licenſe, alſo, to take up Two hundred Fodder of Lead, for the building thereof, and of certain Conduits, and a common Granary.

The King's Letters for the Croſs in Cheape, and other Works. J. S.

For there was now, not only a fair Croſs to be ſet up in Weſt Cheape, but Conduits, with Standards, to be built, and Leaden Pipes, that conveyed the Water for above three Miles; and the Works about them to be look'd after, and a common Granary to be erected a-new. For the authorizing and licenſing the City in which Works, the ſaid King Henry VI. iſſued out Letters to this Tenor.

Pat. 21 H. IV. p. 2. m. 14.

Rex omnibus ad quos, &c. Salutem. Sciatis, quod cum dilecti nobis Johannes Hatherle, Maior & Cives London. *pro communi Utilitatis & decenciæ tocius ejuſd. Nos utilitatem, decenciam & commodum predict. intime conſiderantes, de gra. noſtra ſpiali. conceſſimus, & licenciam dedimus, &c.

The Granary.

This common Garner or Granary, ſpoken of in theſe Letters Patents, to be built a-new, was that which was built by Simon Eyre, or Leyre, Alderman, at Leaden-Hall, for the publick Uſe of the City. This Croſs to be erected here at Weſt Chepe, expreſt in theſe Letters Patents to ſerve pro quadam Augea tanquam mater, ſeems to be for an increaſe and ſupply of Water, as the Mother Aqueduct, to the reſt of the Conduits; as though there were Pipes laid from hence to the reſt.]

The Croſs curiouſly wrought.

This Croſs was then curiouſly wrought, at the Charges of divers Citizens. John Fiſher, Mercer, gave 600 Marks towards it; the ſame was begun to be ſet up, 1484. and it was not finiſhed before the Year 1486. the 2d of Henry the VIth. It was new gilt all over, in the Year 1522. againſt the coming in of Charles the fifth Emperour; and was new burniſhed againſt the Coronation of Edward VI. and in the Year 1553. againſt the Coronation of Queen Mary. And gilt again in the Year 1554. againſt the coming in of King Philip. Since the which time, the ſaid Croſs having been preſented by divers Juries (or Queſts of Wardmote) to ſtand in the High-way, to the let of Carriages, &c. as they alledged, but could not have it removed; it followed, that in the Year 1581. the 21ſt of June, in the Night, the loweſt Images round about the ſaid Croſs, (being of Chriſt his Reſurrection, of the Virgin Mary, King Edward the Confeſſor, and ſuch like) were broken and defaced. Whereupon Proclamation was made, that whoſo would bewray the doers thereof, ſhould have Forty Crowns, but nothing came to light. The Image of the bleſſed Virgin, at that time, robbed of her Son, and her Arms broken, by which ſhe ſtaid him on her Knees; her whole Body was alſo haled with Ropes, and left ready to fall; but was, in the Year 1595. again faſtened and repaired. And in the Year 1596. about Bartholomew Tide, a new Son, miſhapen, (as born out of time) all naked, was laid in her Arms; the other Images remaining broken as before. On the Eaſt ſide of the ſame Croſs, the Steps being taken thence, under the Image of Chriſt's Reſurection defaced, was then ſet up a curious wrought Tabernacle * of grey Marble, and in the ſame, an Alabaſter Image of Diana, a Woman (for the moſt part naked) and Water conveyed from the Thames, prilling from her naked Breaſts for a time; but the ſame is ofttimes dryed up, and now decayed.

In the year 1599. the Timber of the Croſs at the top being rotted within the lead, the arms thereof bending, were feared to have fallen, to the harming of ſome people; and therefore the whole body of the Croſs was ſcaffolded about, and the top thereof taken down, meaning in place thereof to ſet up a Pyramis; but ſome of her Majeſties honourable Counſillors directed their Letters to Sir Nicholas Moſley, then Maior, by her Highneſs expreſs Commandment concerning the Croſs, forthwith to be repaired, and placed again as it formerly ſtood, &c. Notwithſtanding, the ſaid Croſs ſtood headleſs more than a year after: Whereupon the ſaid Counſillors in great number, meaning not any longer to permit the continuance of ſuch a contempt, wrote

Top of the Croſs being feared to fall, was taken down.

Croſs in Cheape, commanded to be repaired.

Command again ſent for repairing the Croſs in Cheape, it being an ancient Enſign of Chriſtianity.

to Will. Rider, then Maior, requiring him by vertue of her Highneſs ſaid former Direction and Commandment, without any further delay, to accompliſh the ſame her Majeſties moſt princely care therein, reſpecting eſpecially the antiquity and continuance of that Monument, and ancient Enſign of Chriſtianity, &c. dated the 24th of December, 1600. After this a Croſs of Timber was framed, ſet up, covered with lead, and gilded, the body of the Croſs downward cleanſed of duſt, the Scaffold carried thence; About twelve nights following, the Image of our Lady was again defaced by plucking off her Crown, and almoſt her head, taking from her her naked Child, and ſtabbing her in the Breaſt, &c. Thus much for the Croſs in Weſt Cheap.

Old Croſs at the Weſt End of Cheape. Ralph Higden.

Then at the weſt end of Weſt Cheape ſtreet, was ſome time a Croſs of Stone, called the Old Croſs. Ralph Higden in his Polycronicon ſaith, that Walter Stapleton, Biſhop of Exceter, Treaſurer to Edward II. was by the Burgeſſes of London beheaded at this Croſs, then called the Standard, without the North door of St. Pauls Church, and ſo it is noted in other Writers, that then lived. This old Croſs ſtood and remained at the Eaſt end of the Pariſh Church, called St. Michael in the Corn, by Pauls gate, near to the North end of the Old Exchange, till the year 1390. the 13th of Richard II. in place of which old Croſs then taken down, the ſaid Church of St. Michael was enlarged, and alſo a fair Water-conduit about the 9th of Henry VI.

Juſtings and Tournament in Weſt Cheape.

In the Reign of Edward III. divers Juſtings were made in this ſtreet, betwixt Sopers lane and the great Croſs, namely, one in the year 1331. about the 21ſt of September, as I find noted by divers Writers of that time. ‘In the middle of the City of London, (ſay they) in a ſtreet called Cheape, the ſtone pavement being covered with ſand, that the horſe might not ſlide, when they ſtrongly ſet their Feet to the ground, the King held a Tournament three days together with the Nobility, valiant Men of the Realm, and other, ſome ſtrange Knights. And to the end the beholders might with the better eaſe ſee the ſame; there was a wooden Scaffold erected croſs the ſtreet, like unto a Tower, wherein Queen Philip, and many other Ladies, richly attired and aſſembled from all parts of the Realm, did ſtand to behold the Juſts: but the higher Frame in which the Ladies were placed, brake in ſunder, whereby they were (with ſome ſhame) forced to fall down. By reaſon whereof the Knights and ſuch as were underneath were grievouſly hurt: Wherefore the Queen took great care to ſave the Carpenters from puniſhment; and through her Prayers (which ſhe made upon her knees) pacified the King and Council, and thereby purchaſed great love of the people. After which time the King cauſed a Shed to be ſtrongly made of ſtone for himſelf, the Queen, and other States to ſtand on, and there to behold the Juſtings, and other Shews at their pleaſure, by the Church of St. Mary Bow, as is ſhewed in Cordwainer ſtreet Ward.

Edward III. held Touruament or Juſts in Weſt Cheape three days together. Queen Philip and her Ladies fell from a Scaffold in Cheap.

A ſhed or ſtanding made for the King to behold the Shews in Cheape.

J. S.

Hare at the Crown in Cheape. J. Hare, Windſor Herald.

Here in Cheapſide in Bow Pariſh formerly, in the time of King Henry VIII. and ſome time after, lived a conſiderable Mercer, at the ſign of the Crown, (And this perhaps that Crown of which we have that pretty odd Story in our Chronicles.) His Name was John Hare, of an ancient Family in Suffolk; Who left a fair Eſtate behind him to his Children, that were divers, beſides his charitable Legacies. He dyed Anno 1564. To Richard Hare his fourth Son (who as it ſeems, continued his Father's Trade) he gave by his Will his ſaid dwelling Houſe at the Crown, with all the Shops, Cellars, Yards, and Ware-houſes, thereunto belonging. He was alſo Owner of the Manour of Stow Bardolph in the County of Norfolk; which he purchaſed of Queen Mary; and alſo the Parſonage thereof, and other Lands and Tenements there, which he purchaſed of Richard Catlyn, Sergeant at Law: All which he gave by Will to his eldeſt Son, and Heir Nicholas Hare. He was likewiſe Owner of a great Manſion Place (as it is called in his Will) with Gardens, Orchards, Houſes, Lands, and Tenements, in Whitecroſs ſtreet in the Pariſh of St. Giles Cripplegate: Another Tenement in Morelane in the ſaid Pariſh, with Garden, Tainter-yards and other Commodities and Profits thence ariſing, or occupied with the ſame.

His charitable Legacies.

His charitable Legacies were as follows. To the poor people of the Pariſh of our Lady of Bow, where he then dwelt, 40 s. to be divided among them. To the Poor of the Pariſh of our Lady in Homersfield in the County of Suffolk, where he was born, 20 s. To the two Hoſpitals Chriſts and S. Thomas, to the Uſe of the Poor thereof, 40 l. to be equally divided. To S. Bartholomews Hoſpital 10 l. To the five Lazar Houſes about London, 10 s. to every Houſe. To every Priſoner within Newgate, Ludgate, the Marſhalſea and the Kings Bench, 4 d. in Mony, to every one that were Priſoners there at his Deceaſe. And to every one that ſhould be then Priſoners in the Counters of Woodſtreet and the Poultry 4d. a piece. To the thirteen poor Men in Whittington College 2 s. apiece.

His Liberalities.

Other Liberalities by his Will were: To the Worſhipful Company of Mercers, to make Banquet withal after his Deceaſe 12 l. to be paid within three Months after his Deceaſe, to the Wardens of the Company then being. To every Man or Maid Servant, not aforenamed (the reſt having particular Legacies aſſigned them) being his preſent Servants at the time of his Death 40 s. apiece. Item, to divers Perſons of Quality, and Citizens of Rank, he bequeathed Rings to each of fine Gold, already made, weighing near the weight of 3 quarters of an Ounce every Ring. Theſe were, Sir Thomas Leigh, Alderman, and my Lady his Wife, Sir Roger Martin, Alderman, Edmund Jackman, Alderman, Sir Tho. Greſham, Kt. and my Lady his Wife, &c. to the Number of thirty five in all. All this I have extracted from Mr Hare's laſt Will. Which I have ſet down thus largely, to ſhew the Wealth accruing to the Citizens in former times by their Trades and Diligence therein: and likewiſe their Charities and Generoſities.

Fabian's Chron.

In this Ward in Cheapſide, the Mercers chiefly had their Shops and Ware-houſes in former times: Who were alſo great Merchants, and ſometimes went abroad beyond ſea for Traffick, and eſpecially in Italy. A Story relating to which I find happening in the Year 1450. An Italian Servant walking through Cheapſide with a Dagger at his Girdle, a Mercer s Servant, that before had been in Italy, went to him, and blamed him for wearing a Dagger, being a Stranger, and out of his own Country: And knowing that in his Country no Stranger might do ſo. For this Engliſh Man had done ſo abroad, and was checked for it. But the Stranger gave ſuch Language to the Mercer, that they fell to quarrel; And the Mercer at length by force took his Dagger from him, and brake it upon his head. The Stranger complained to the Maior; and he, together with the Court of Aldermen, ſent the Mercer to Ward. But the Maior and Sheriffs walking homeward through Cheape, were met by a great number of Mercers Servants and others; and ſuffered them not to paſs, till they had delivered the young Man that was ſent to Priſon.

Hollingſh. p. 645.

This Story is thus continued by another of our Hiſtorians: That this Tumult ran to the Houſes of divers Venetians, Lucas's and Florentines, and ſpoiled and rifled them. But at length the Maior with divers diſcreet and ſober Citizens, having taken ſome of them, diſperſed the reſt, and perſwaded them to go to their Houſes. But upon this a Commiſſion of Oyer and Terminer was iſſued to the Dukes of Exeter and Bucks, and other Noblemen, for Enquiry and Puniſhment of theſe Diſorders. But when they were ſet in Guildhall, a number of light Perſons in Armour came to reſcue the Priſoners lately apprehended, as they were carried to their Arraignment. Which made the two Dukes and other Commiſſioners quickly depart for that time. Yet certain diſcreet Citizens ſo handled the Matter, that no Diſorder followed of that Jury: And the Maior the next day called a Common Council. Who appointed all the Wardens of the Companies to aſſemble their Companies in their Halls: and they to exhort them to keep Peace: and that if they eſpyed any ready to make a Stir, or to attempt the Deliverance of ſuch as were in Priſon, ſecretly to write their Names and deliver them to the Maior. This Courſe appeaſed this Outrage. And Commiſſioners afterwards ſat at Guildhall: where many of the Robbers were attainted, and put to Execution; beſides Fines ſet upon divers Merchants, for winking at the Matter.

Malory, a rich Citizen in Cheape.

Richard Malory, a rich Citizen lived in Weſt Cheape in S. Peters Pariſh (ſomewhat out of this Ward.) The Meſſuage wherein he dwelt, having been ſome Religious Poſſeſſion, came into the hands of King Edward VI. Who in his ſecond year ſold it to the ſaid Malory, for 128 l. with all other Houſes, Edifices, Shops, Cellars, Solars, Stables and Gardens thereunto belonging, being of the yearly Value of 8 l.] Thus much for the High Street of Cheape.

South ſide of Cheape ſtreet ſo far as Cheape Ward reacheth.

Now let us return to the South ſide of Cheape Ward. From the great Conduit weſt be many fair and large Houſes, for the moſt part poſſeſſed of Mercers, up to the corner of Cordwainers ſtreet, corruptly called Bow lane, which houſes in former times were but ſheds, or ſhops, with Sollors over them, as of late one of them remained at Sopers lane end, wherein a woman ſold ſeeds, roots and herbs; but thoſe ſheds or ſhops, by incroachments on the high ſtreet, are now largely builded on both ſides outward, and alſo upward, ſome three, four, or five ſtories high.

Now of the North ſide of Cheape ſtreet and Ward, beginning at the great Conduit, and by S. Mary Cole Church, where we left. Next thereunto Weſtward is the Mercers Chappel, ſome time an Hoſpital, intituled of S. Thomas of Acon, or Acars, near to the great Conduit in Cheape, for a Maſter and Brethren Militia hoſpitalis, &c. ſaith the Record of Edward III. the 14th year. It was founded by Thomas Fitz-Theobald de Heily, and Agnes his Wife, Siſter to Thomas Becket, in the Reign of Henry II. They gave to the Maſter and Brethren the Lands with the appurtenances, that ſometimes were Gilbert Beckets, Father of the ſaid Thomas, in the which he was born; there to make Church. There was a Charnel, and a Chappel over it of S. Nicolas and S. Stephen.

By whom founded.

The place where Thomas Becket was born made a Church.

From this S. Thomas anciently was a ſolemn Proceſſion uſed by the new Maior. Who the afternoon of the Day he was ſworn at the Exchequer met with the Aldermen here: Whence they repaired together to S. Pauls: and there prayed for the Soul of Biſhop William at his Tomb; who was Biſhop of London in the time of William the Conqueror. Then they went to the Church-yard, to a Place where Thomas Beckets Parents lay: and there they prayed for all faithful Souls departed. And then they went all back to S. Thomas of of Acons again; and both Maior and Aldermen offered each a Penny.

For King Edward VI. had Mills in Weſt Ham in Eſſex, called S. Thomas Milnes, being a Meſſuage and a Tenement with two Mills belonging to S. Thomas of Acars. A Chappel built here by Sir J. Allen.

Before this Hoſpital towards the ſtreet, was builded a fair and beautiful Chappel arched over with ſtone, and thereupon the Mercers Hall, a moſt curious piece of Work: Sir John Allen, Mercer, being a Founder of that Chappel, was there buried, but ſince his Tomb is removed thence into the body of the Hoſpital Church, and his Body-room, or Chappel is made into Shops, and letten out for Rent, by his Succeſſors the Mercers.

The Mercers.

Theſe Mercers were enabled to be a Company in the 20th of Richard II, and to purchaſe Lands to the value of 20 l. the year, the 17th of Richard II. They had three Meſſuages and Shops in the Pariſh of S. Martins Oteſwich, in the Ward of Biſhopſgate, for the ſuſtentation of the Poor, and a Chantry, the 22d of Richard II. Henry IV. in the 12th of his Reign, confirmed to Stephen Spilman, W. Marchford, and John Whatile, Mercers, by the Name of one new Seldam, Shed, or Building, with Shops, Cellars, and Edifices whatſoever appertaining; the Buildings called Crownſilde, ſituate in the Mercery of Weſt Cheape, in the Pariſh of St. Mary de Arcubus in London, &c. to be holden in Burgage, as all the City of London is; and which were worth by Year, in all Iſſues, according to the true value of them, 7 l. 13*s.* 4*d.* as was found by inquiſition before Tho. Knolles, Maior, and Eſchetor in the ſaid City; as was ſhewn before in Cordwainer ſtreet Ward. Henry the VIth, in the 3d of his Reign, at the requeſt of John Coventry, John Carpenter, and William Grove, granted to the Mercers to have a Chaplain, and a Brotherhood, for relief of ſuch of their Company as came to decay by Misfortune at Sea.

Crownſilde, under Bow Church.

A Gallery over the Old Jury granted to the Hoſpital of S. Thomas.

On Tueſday, April 27. Anno 10 of Henry VIII. it was granted unto the Maſter and his Brethren of the Hoſpital of S. Thomas of Acon in Weſtcheape, where S. Thomas the Martyr was born, (becauſe they wanted room in the Hoſpital) that for their more Eaſe they might make a Gallery in convenient height and breadth, from their ſaid houſe overthwart the ſtreet in the Old Jury; into a certain Garden and Buildings which the Maſter and Brethren had then lately purchaſed. So as the ſaid Gallery ſhould be of ſuch height, as ſhould not annoy Man, Horſe, nor Cart. And to make a Window on either ſide of the ſaid Gallery; and therein yearly in the Winter to have a ſufficient Light, for the Comfort of them that paſſed by.]

K. Henry and Q. Jane ſtand in Mercers Hall.

In the year, 1536. on S. Peters Night, King Henry VIII. and Queen Jane his Wife, ſtood in this Mercers Hall, then new builded, and beheld the marching Watch of the City, moſt bravely ſet out, Sir John Allen, Mercer, one of the King's Council, being Maior.

Archbiſhop of Spalatto preaches at Mercers Chappel.
J. S.

Of later time, a famous learned Italian Archbiſhop, viz. the Archbiſhop of Spalatto, who had forſaken his Country, and Archbiſhoprick for the ſake of the true Religion, and came and dwelt in England, preached divers Sermons in the Italian Language in the Mercers Chappel. The firſt Sermon, as it ſeems, he preached there was Novemb. ult. 1617. where were preſent as his Auditors, the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, the Lord Chancellor, the Earls of Arundel, and Pembroke, the Lords Zouch and Compton, and many other of great Note. He preached there again upon Sunday 19 April, 1618. And ſo he did upon Sundays divers years after. And from thence even to our remembrance that Chappel was uſed for Italian Sermons, at which Engliſh Merchants that had lived abroad were preſent, and contributed to the maintaining thereof.

Mercers Hall and Chappel new built.

This Hall and Chappel was demoliſhed by the great Fire, but new and magnificently rebuilt by the ſaid Company of Mercers: The Chappel hath a large Ambulatory before it, propped up with Pillars. And aſcending up thence by ſtone Stairs, you come into their Hall and Court Rooms. It hath a beautiful Front of ſtone towards the ſtreet, with a Balcony, and the Figures of Faith and Hope artificially wrought in ſtone, and above them a larger Figure of Charity (being the greateſt Grace of the Three) with three Children about her. Under the Balcony two Angels.]

Next beyond the Mercers Chappel, is Ironmonger lane, ſo called of Ironmongers dwelling there; whereof I read in the Reign of Edward I. &c.

The Pariſh Church of S. MARTINS Pomary, or Iremonger Lane.

Pariſh Church of S Martins Pomary.

In this Lane is the ſmall Pariſh Church of S. Martin, called Pomary, upon what occaſion certainly I know not. But it is ſuppoſed to be of Apples growing, where now houſes are lately builded: for my ſelf have ſeen the large void places there.

Repaired.
R.

This Church was repaired and beautified at the Coſt and Charge of the Pariſhioners in the year of our Lord 1629. There was a very fair Skreen at the Entrance into this Church, with this Inſcription. Me fieri fecerunt Hamletus Clarke, Generoſus, & Rodulphus Latham, Armiger. 20 Martii 1629.

In the year 1627, a great part of the North Wall of this Church, being very much decayed and periſhed, was, at the Coſt of the Pariſh, rebuilded. In it a very fair Window with theſe Words, This Window was new built and finiſhed at the ſole Coſt of John and Humfrey Slany, 1627. The Arms of theſe Gentlemen over it with this Motto, Deo Duce, Comite Induſtria.

MONUMENTS.

Monuments in this Church.

Monuments in this Church were none to account of, till after Stows Time. But ſince are theſe:

A fair Monument at the upper end of the Chancel.

Here under lyeth buried ELEANOR Wife of Hamlet Clarke, free of the Worſhipful Company of Fiſhmongers, London, and one of the four Clarks of the Lord Maiors Court, London, aforeſaid. She dyed on Sunday the 14th of January 1626. and was buried on Friday the 19th of the ſame: After they had been married 33 years, and about two Months. They had Iſſue only Mary, married to Ralph Latham of Upminſter in the County of Eſſex, Eſq; Common Sergeant at Law of this Honourable City. And the ſaid Eleanor had alſo Elizabeth another Daughter, by Charles Barnard, a former Husband, married to Thomas Latham of Stilford in Eſſex, Gentleman.

A very fair Stone in the North Iſle.

Here lyeth interred the Body of Randol Pickering, late Citizen and Haberdaſher of London, born at Turvine in the County of Cheſter. Who put off this Mortality Mar. 10. 1629. And Alice his Wife, Daughter of William Madox, and born in this Pariſh: Who departed this Life the 20th. of June 1618. By her he had Iſſue three Sons and three Daughters: William, Randol, Anne and Elizabeth ſurviving: John and Mary deceaſed.]

Gifts.
J. S.

Theſe Gifts belong to this Pariſh of S. Martins Ironmonger lane.

Mr. Stodder left 40 s. for a Sermon to be preached on S. James's day by an unbeneficed Miniſter, in Commemoration of the Deliverance in the year 1588. And 50 s. more to the Uſe of the Poor of the ſame Pariſh; To be paid by the Ironmongers.

Parſonage.

There was a Parſonage-houſe for the Miniſter, but burnt down An. 1666. And the Toft and Ground adjoyning was Ann. 1673. demiſed and lett by Dr. Hibbert, Parſon of S. Olaves Jury (to which Ironmonger lane was united) to ſeveral of the Pariſhioners, for 40 years, a Rent of 8 l. per ann. reſerved. And the Pariſhioners built a dwelling Houſe on the ſaid Toft.

Glebe.

The Glebe belonging formerly to this Benefice was 20 l. per ann. as it was given in at a Parochial Viſitation, Anno 1636.]

Farther Weſt, is S. Lawrence lane, ſo called of S. Lawrence Church, which ſtandeth directly over againſt the North end thereof. Antiquities in this Lane I find none other, than that among many fair Houſes, there is one large Inne for receit of Travellers, called Bloſſoms Inne, but corruptly Boſoms Inne, and hath to ſign S. Lawrence the Deacon, in a border of Bloſſoms or Flowers.

Hony lane.

Then near to the Standard in Cheape, is Hony lane, ſo called, not of ſweetneſs thereof, being very narrow, and ſomewhat dark, but rather, of often waſhing and ſweeping to keep it clean.

Alhallowes Hony lane.

In this Lane is the ſmall Pariſh Church of Alhallowes in Hony lane.

Repaired. R.

This Church was repaired and beautified, at the proper Coſt and Charge of the Pariſhioners, in the Year of our Lord, 1625.

Francis Waterhouſe, } Churchwardens.
Edward Powel,

The Charge of this Repair amounting to 55 l. and upwards.]

Monuments here.

There be no Monuments in this Church worth the noting; I find, that John Norman, Draper, Maior, 1453. was buried there. He gave to the Drapers his Tenements on the North ſide the ſaid Church; they to allow for the Beam Light and Lamp 13 s. 4 d. yearly, from this Lane to the Standard.

Beam Light and Lamp.

No Charities. J. S.

This Church hath the misfortune to have no Bequeſts, nor other charitable Gifts to Church or Poor; nor to any publick Uſe.

Parſonage.

There was a Parſonage Houſe before the great Fire; but now, the Ground on which it ſtood, is ſwallowed up by the Market, as well as the Ground of the Church. The Pariſh of St. Mary le Bow, (to which it is united) hath received all the Money paid for the Scite of the Ground of the ſaid Parſonage.

Glebe.

In the Viſitation, 1636. was brought in by the preſentment of the Churchwardens, 13 l. per ann. for Glebe.]

And thus much for Cheape Ward, in the High ſtreet of Cheape; for it ſtretcheth no further.

Catte-ſtreet.

Now for the North Wing of Cheape Ward, have ye Catte-ſtreet, ſo called in Records, 24 Hen. VI. now corruptly Catteten ſtreet. Which beginneth at the North end of Ironmonger lane, and runneth to the Weſt end of St. Lawrence Church, as is afore ſhewed.

The Guild-hall, and Courts kept. Lib. Fletw.

On the North ſide of this Street is the Guild-hall of this City, wherein the Courts for the City be kept; namely, 1. The Court of Common Council. 2. The Court of the Lord Maior, and his Brethren the Aldermen. 3. The Court of Huſtings. 4. The Court of Orphans. 5. The two Courts of the Sheriffs. 6. The Court of the Wardmote. 7. The Court of Hallmote. 8. The Court of Requeſts, commonly called the Court of Conſcience. 9. The Chamberlains Court for Apprentices, and making them free.

Guild Hall. The great Hall J. S.

The Hall it ſelf is very ſpacious and ſtately, ſuited to the Greatneſs and Magnificence of the City. At the upper end, on the Right Hand, coming in by a large Portico, is the antient Court of Huſting; where are placed againſt the Wall, in noble gilt Frames, three Pictures at full length, drawn by eminent Hands: One, of Queen Ann, on the Right of the Maior's ſeat, done at the City's Charge. The others, of King William III. and of Mary his Royal Conſort and Queen, on the Left. On the other oppoſite end of the Hall, are the two Sheriffs Courts, to which belong two Judges. This ſpatious Receptacle for the Citizens, is adorned round with Pictures of ſeveral eminent Judges in their Robes, who were concerned about ſettling the rebuilding of the City, and Orders thereabouts, after the great Fire. They are Eighteen in number; and among them, are Sir Orlando Bridgman, Lord Keeper, and Sir Heneage Finch, Earl of Nottingham, Lord Chancellour. Upon the Capital of the Pillars, againſt the Walls, on both ſides, are the Royal Arms, and the Arms of the City, and of the Twelve Companies.

The Giants.

Going up Stairs from this great Hall, by nine or ten ſteps to the Maior's Court, on each ſide, at ſome height, ſtand two Giants of monſtrous height and bigneſs, frightful to behold, and in Arms; the one holding a Pole-axe, the other an Halbert. The former, I ſuppoſe, repreſents an antient Britain, the other a Saxon. He on the Right hath very long black Hair hanging down; his Pole-axe is a round Ball ſet with Spikes every where, hanging by a Chain to a long Staff, which he wieldeth in his Hand: Both of them wear Garlands.

Colours and Standards in Guild Hall.

Colours and Standards taken at the Battle at Ramilles, An. 1706. were hung up here in the great Hall: The Queen, at the City's Requeſt, ordering them to be put up there, hugely adorning the Hall. On the 19th of December, they were all brought in great Magnificence through Weſtminſter and London. A Detachment of her Majeſty's Horſe Guards, and Horſe Grenadiers, and a Battalion drawn out of both Regiments of her Foot-Guards, drawn up on the Parade in St. James's, having received the ſaid Colours and Standards, (which had been laid up in White-hall) they proceeded; Twenty ſix of the Gentlemen, in the Century of the Horſe-Guards, carrying each a Standard taken from the Enemy; and Sixty three of the Pike-men, in a Battalion of Foot-Guards, inſtead of their Pikes, carrying one of the Enemy's Colours. They marched through the Park, and St. James's Mews; where the Queen, from the Lady Fitzharding's Lodgings, ſaw them paſs; the Guns being fired at the ſame time. And ſo they proceeded down the Pallmall, the Strand, &c. to Guild-hall; where they were ſet up, to remain as Trophies of that ſignal Victory, under the Conduct of his Grace the Duke of Marlborough; and as a laſting Monument of the immortal Honour gained by Her Majeſty's Arms.]

Yet but 20 Standards ſet up.

New built.

This Guild-hall, ſaith Robert Fabian, was begun to be builded new, in the Year 1411. the Twelfth of Henry IV. by Thomas Knoles, then Maior, and by his Brethren the Aldermen. The ſame was made of a little Cottage, a large and great Houſe, as now it ſtandeth. Toward the Charges whereof, the Companies gave great Benevolences. Alſo, Offences of Men were pardoned for Sums of Money, towards this Work: And extraordinary Fees were raiſed, Fines, Amercements, and other Things imployed, during Seven Years, and a continuation thereof three Years more; all to be imployed to this Building.

Four Boats and four Carts allowed by the King, for bringing Materials. J. S.

King Henry V. in the 3d Year of his Reign, which was about the Year 1415. granted the City free paſſage for four Boats, by Water, and as many Carts by Land, with Servants to each; to bring Lime, Ragg ſtone, and Freeſtone, for the Work of Guild-hall; as appears by theſe Letters Patents.

The Foundation of the Maior's Court

The firſt Year of Henry VI. John Coventry, and John Carpenter, Executors to Richard Whitington, gave towards the paving of this great Hall, 20 l. and the next Year 15 l. more to the ſaid Pavement, with hard Stone of Purbecke. They alſo glazed ſome Windows thereof, and of the Maior's Court; on every which Window, the Arms of Richard Whitington are placed. The Foundation of the Maior's Court was laid in the 3d Year of the Reign of Henry VI. and of the Porch, on the South ſide of the Maior's Court, in the 4th of the ſaid King. Then was builded the Maior's Chamber, and the Council Chamber, with other Rooms above the Stairs.

The new Council Chamber at the Guild hall, and the building thereof.

A. M.

The Treaſury.

The firſt Court kept in the new Council Chamber.

Having here ſo juſt occaſion, ſpeaking of that former ancient Council Chamber, which hath continued ſo ever ſince; I cannot but account it expedient, (as in no place better fitting) to remember the fair and goodly new Council Chamber; a worthy Aƈt and Honour, whereby to renown deſervedly the City for ever. The ſaid new Council Chamber, with a fair Room over the ſame, appointed for a Treaſury, wherein to preſerve the Books and Records belonging to the City; and another Room alſo underneath the ſaid Chamber, reſerved for neceſſary Uſe and Imployment; began to be builded the firſt Week after Eaſter, in the time of the Maioralty of Sir Thomas Middleton, Kt. and Alderman; in the Year of our Lord 1614. It was fully finiſhed ſhortly after Michaelmas, 1615. at the latter end of the Maioralty of Sir Thomas Hayes, Kt. and Alderman. But the Lord Maior, and the Aldermen his Brethen, kept their firſt Court in the ſaid new Council Chamber, on the 7th day of November: in the Year of our Lord 1615. Sir John Jolles, Kt. and Alderman, being then Lord Maior. By whoſe order and direƈtion, the ſaid Building was performed, from the firſt beginning thereof, to the final finiſhing of the ſame, amounting to the Charge of 1740 Pounds; than which, no Money (in my mind) could be better beſtowed; nor more to the City's Credit and Renown.]

The Porch to Guild-hall.

Laſt of all, in the ſaid King Henry the VIth's time, a ſtately Porch, entring the great Hall, was ereƈted; the Front thereof, towards the South, being beautified with Images of Stone; ſuch as is ſhewed by theſe Verſes following, made about ſome Thirty Years ſince, [reckoning from Stow's firſt Edition, An. 1598.] by William Elderton, at that time an Attorney in the Sheriffs Courts there.

Verſes made on the Images over the Guild hall Gate.

Names of the Images.

Though moſt the Images be pulled downe,
And none be thought remaine in Towne,
I am ſure there be in London yet
Seven Images, ſuch, and in ſuch a place,
As few or none,
 I thinke, will hit:
Yet every day
 they ſhew their face,
And thouſands ſee them
 every yeere,
But few, I thinke,
 can tell me where:
Where Jeſu Chriſt
 aloft doth ſtand,
Law and Learning
 on either hand; Diſcipline in the Divels necke,
And hard by her are three direct;
There Juſtice, Fortitude, and Temperance ſtand.
Where finde ye the like in all this Land?

Or rather others repreſented thereby.

J. S.

And to make this Fancy (for ſo I take it) the more probable; One of theſe Images appears with the Tables of the Ten Commandments, and another hath a Whip, and another a Sword, and another a Pot; which ſeem to have been Emblems added to theſe Statues of later times, to make them the better to correſpond to the Rhimes. But by their antient Habits, and the Coronets on ſome of their Heads; and according to the Praƈtice in former times, to ſet up on publick Struƈtures, the Effigies of Patrons and Benefaƈtors; I rather conclude theſe Figures to denote other Perſons. As for that which repreſented Jeſus Chriſt, it is now wholly gone; the two others aloof, beſpeak them to be two venerable Perſous. The one hath a long Beard, and a grave Aſpeƈt; who, it may be, might be good Biſhop William, Biſhop of London, a Norman, but a great Friend to the City; and who obtained from the Conqueror, the continuation of its Privileges. The other Figure on the other ſide, hath alſo a long Beard; and a Coronet, as it ſeems, on his Head; which might be the Conqueror himſelf, or ſome other great Nobleman that had deſerved well of the City.

The Four leſſer Figures, two on each ſide the Porch, ſhew them to be Four Noble Ladies; and, by their Dreſs and Habit, of great Nobility and Religion. Who they were, I do not pretend to aſſign, leaving it to the Conjeƈture of Antiquarians: But it is very probable they were ſome eminent Benefaƈtreſſes or Friends to the City. One of theſe might be Maud the Empreſs, who was born in London; and another might be Queen Philippa, Wife to King Edward III. who gained great Love of the Citizens, by reaſon of a Requeſt ſhe once made for ſome of them, on her Knees, before the King and his Council.

He that made the former Verſes, might, perhaps, have this crafty Deſign hereby; namely, the better to preſerve theſe antient and curious Statues from the Violence of the People, by concealing them under theſe feigned Fancies of his; whereby they might eſcape the ignorant Zeal of the Vulgar, who were in thoſe times, wherein he wrote his Verſes, viz. 1568. very buſy in pulling down and defacing all Images, as Popiſh Saints, and Monuments of Idolatry.

Theſe Stone Statues are venerable for their Antiquity, and over-living the great Fire of London; which, 'tis likely, were ſet up firſt when the Porch was built and finiſhed, which was not far from the beginning of King Henry the VIth's Reign; that is, by computation, near 300 Years ago.]

Divers Aldermen glazed the great Hall, and other Courts, as appeareth by their Arms in each Window. William Hariot, Draper, Maior, 1481. gave 40 l. to the making of two Loovers in the ſaid Guild-hall, and toward the glazing thereof. The Kitchens, and other Houſes of Office adjoyning to this Guildhall, were builded of later time; to wit, about the Year 1501. by procurement of Sir John * Shaw, Goldſmith, Maior; who was the firſt that kept his Feaſt there.

Firſt Ed.

[Since which time, the Maior's Feaſts have been yearly kept there; which before time were kept in the Taylors Hall, or the Grocers Hall.]

Towards the Charges of which Work, the Maior had of the Fellowſhips of the City (by their own agreement) certain Sums of Money; as, of the Mercers, 40 l. the Grocers, 20 l. the Drapers, 30 l. and ſo of the other Fellowſhips through the City, as they were of power.

Alſo Widows, and other well-diſpoſed Perſons, gave certain Sums of Money; as, the Lady Hill, 10 l. the Lady Auſtrie, 10 l. and ſo of many other, till the Work was finiſhed.

Nicholas Alwin, Grocer, Maior, 1499. deceaſed 1505. gave by his Teſtament, for a Hanging of Tapeſtry, to ſerve for principal Days in the Guild-hall, 73 l. 6 s. 8 d. How this Gift was performed, I have not heard; for Executors of our time, having no Conſcience, (I ſpeak of my own knowledge) prove more Teſtaments than they perform.

Executors reproved.

Guild-hall repaired 17 6.
J. S.

Guild-hall was again repaired and beautified, An. 1706. And over the great Porch is written, Reparata & Ornata, THO. RAWLINSON Mil. Maiore, Ann. Dom. 1706.

Soon after the beautifying and reparation of this Hall, together with the Maior's Court, and the Council Chamber, at a great Expence; as part of its Ornament, were fixed up on high, upon Irons, the Standards and Colours taken that Summer from the French and the Bavarians, at the Victory of Rameleis, the Duke of Marlborough General. They were ſet up the 19th of December, on which Day they were brought from Weſtminſter in great State; And the ſaid Victorious Duke, upon a grateful Invitation, dined with the City at Vintners Hall; Sir Rob. Bedingfield then keeping his Maioralty there.]

Duke of Marlborough dines with the Maior as was ſhewn before.

The Chappel of St. MARY MAGDALENE, by Guild-hall.

Chappel or Colledge at Guild-hall. Patent.

Now for the Chappel or College of our Lady Mary Magdalen, and of All Saints, by the Guild-hall, called London College; I read, that the ſame was builded about the Year 1299. and that Peter Fanelore, Adam Frauncis, and Henry Frowicke, Citizens, gave one Meſſuage, with the Appurtenances, in the Pariſh of St. Foſter, to William Brampton, Cuſtos of the Chauntry, by them founded in the ſaid Chappel, with four Chaplains; and one other Houſe in the Pariſh of St. Giles without Cripplegate, in the 27 of Edward the Third, was given to them; which was about the Year 1353.

Founders.

Moreover I find, that Richard II. in the 20th of his Reign, granted to Steven Spilman, Mercer, Licence to give one Meſſuage, three Shops, and one Garden, with the Appurtenances, being in the Pariſh of St. Andrew Hubberd, to the Cuſtos and Chaplains of the ſaid Chappel, and to their Succeſſors, for their better Relief and Maintenance for ever.

Chappel or College at Guild hall new builded.

King Henry VI. in the 8th of his Reign, gave Licenſe to John Barnard, Cuſtos, and the Chaplains, to build of new the ſaid Chappel or College of Guild-hall. And the ſame Henry the VIth, in the 27th of his Reign, granted to the Pariſh-Clerks in London, a Guild of St. Nicolas, for two Chaplains, by them to be kept in the ſaid Chappel of St. Mary Magdalen, near unto the Guild-hall, and to keep Seven Alms-people. Henry Barton, Skinner, Maior, founded a Chaplain there. Roger Depham, Mercer, and Sir William Langford, Kt. had alſo Chaplains there. This Chappel or College had a Cuſtos, ſeven Chaplains, three Clerks, and four Quireſters.

Guild of St. Nicolas for Pariſh Clerks.

MONUMENTS.

Monuments there have been ſundry, as appeareth by the Tombs of Marble yet remaining, ſeven in Number, but all defaced. The uppermoſt in the Quire, on the South ſide thereof, above the Reveſtry Door, was the Tomb of John Welles, Grocer, Maior, 1431. The likeneſs of Wells are graven on the Tomb, on the Reveſtry Door, and other places on that ſide the Quire. Alſo in the Glaſs Window over this Tomb, and in the Eaſt Window, is the likeneſs of Wells, with Hands elevated out of the ſame Wells, holding Scrowls, wherein is written, Mercy: The Writing in the Eaſt Window being broken, yet remaineth Wells. I found his Arms alſo in the South Glaſs Window. All which do ſhew, that the Eaſt end, and the South ſide of the Quire of this Chappel, and the Reveſtry, were by him both builded and glazed.

Monuments in this Chappel.

Wells's Tomb.

John Wells, a principal Benefactor to Guild hall College.

Here ſeems to have been buried Thomas Rich, Citizen and Mercer of London. For by his Will dated July 2. 1471. he bequeathed his Body to be buried in the Chappel of Guild-hall, London. In which Will, he appointed Sir Relone Prieſt, by the Advice of his Father-in-Law, to pray for his Soul, &c. And that all ſuch Sums as he owed unto his Father, Richard Rychе, ſhould be delivered unto his Executrice Elizabeth his Wife. He bequeathed alſo to the Lady his Siſter, Dame Margaret Walden, (a Lady Abbeſs as it ſeems) to pray for his Soul, a gilt Cup covered, called The Tubbe, &c. To the poor People of Hoxton, the Day of his Burial, 100 Shillings, to pray for his Soul. To the Nieces of John Rychе, his Son, 40 Shillings, &c.]

Thomas Rich, Son of Rich. Rich.

Regiſt. Lond.

On the North ſide of the Quire, the Tomb of Thomas Kneſworth, Fiſhmonger, Maior 1505. who deceaſed 1515. was defaced: and within theſe 44 Years again renewed by the Fiſhmongers. Two other Tombs lower there are, the one of a Draper, the other of a Haberdaſher; their Names not known: Richard Stomine (is written in the Window by) the Haberdaſher. Under flat Stones do lie divers Cuſtos's of the Chappel, Chaplains and Officers to the Chamber.

Amonſt others, John Clipſtone, Prieſt, ſometime Cuſtos of the Library of the Guild-hall, 1457. Another, of Edmond Aliſon, Prieſt, one of the Cuſtos's of the Library, 1510, &c. Sir John Langley, Goldſmith, Maior, 1576. lyeth buried in the Vault, under the Tomb of John Welles before named.

Of later times, theſe following have been buried in Guild-hall Chappel, under flat Stones.

This Chappel or College, valued to diſpend 12 l. 8 s. 9 d. by the Year, was ſurrendered amongſt other: The Chappel remaineth to the Maior and Communalty, wherein they have Service weekly; as alſo at the Election of the Maior, and at the Maior's Feaſt, &c.

The City purchaſed Guild-hall Chappel, &c. of King Edward. J. S.

It was in the fourth Year of the Reign of King Edward VI. the ſaid King ſold to the Maior and Communalty of London, the Scite of the ſaid College of Guild-hall, in the Pariſh of Baſſiſhaw, late diſſolved, and the Chappel there; and divers other Meſſuages, Lands, and Tenements and Hereditaments in the City of London, in divers Pariſhes, for the Sum of 456 l. 13 s. 4 d. upon their humble Petition, the yearly Value being computed to be 40 l. 6 s. 8 d. The date of the Patent was April 10. to commence from the Feaſt of the Annunciation of the bleſſed Virgin, in the 3d of the ſaid King's Reign.

Upon the Front of this Chappel, is ſet up, of later times, the Figures, in Stone, of the ſaid King Edward VI. Queen Elizabeth, with a Phenix under her, and King Charles I. treading upon a Globe.]

Library at Guild-hall.

Adjoyning to this Chappel, on the South ſide, was ſometime a fair and large Library, furniſhed with Books, pertaining to the Guild hall and College.

Theſe Books (as it is ſaid) were, in the Reign of Edward VI. ſent for by Edward Duke of Somerſet, Lord Protector, with promiſe to be reſtored ſhortly: Men laded from thence three Carries with them. But they were never returned. This Library was builded by the Executors of Richard Whitington, and by William Bury. The Arms of Whitington are placed on the one ſide in the ſtone work; and two Letters, to wit, W. and B. for William Bury, on the other ſide. It is now lofted through, and made a Store-houſe for Cloths.

The Pariſh Church of St. LAURENCE Jury.

St. Laurence in the Jury.

Jews, when firſt brought in.

First Edit.

Southweſt from this Guild-hall, is the fair Pariſh Church of St. Laurence, called In the Jury; becauſe of old time, ſince the Reign of William Conqueror, (that firſt brought Jews from Roan into this Realm) many Jews inhabited thereabout; [until that in the Year 1290. the 18 of Edward. I. they were wholly, and for ever, by the ſaid King baniſhed this Realm; having of their own Goods to bear their Charges, till they were out of his Dominions. The number of the Jews, at the time baniſhed, were 15060 Perſons. Whoſe Houſes being ſold, the King made of them a mighty Maſs of Money.]

Sir Nic. Bacon had a Meſſuage in this Pariſh. J. S.

In this Pariſh, a famous Man, Sir Nicolas Bacon, Lord Keeper to Queen Elizabeth, and the Father of Sir Francis Bacon, Lord Verulam, the great Philoſopher, had a Meſſuage in King Edward's Reign, where he then lived; and in the ſecond of the ſaid King, purchaſed it of him, together with other Meſſuages, Lands, and Tenements.]

Monuments

* So in Stow's Edition 1603. viz. 1533.

The Tooth of ſome monſtrous Fiſh, as I take it.

A ſhank Bone of 25 Inches long, of a Man, as is ſaid, but might be of an Elephant.

This Church is fair and large, and hath ſome Monuments, as ſhall be ſhewed. I my ſelf, more than 70 * Years ſince, have ſeen in this Church the ſhank Bone of a Man (as it is taken,) and alſo a Tooth of a very great bigneſs, hanged up for ſhew, in Chains of Iron, upon a Pillar of Stone; the Tooth, being about the bigneſs of a Man's Fiſt, is long ſince conveyed from thence. The Thigh, or ſhank Bone, of 25 Inches in length, by the Rule, remaineth yet faſtened to a Poſt of Timber; and is not ſo much to be noted for the length, as for the thickneſs, hardneſs, and ſtrength thereof: For when it was hanged on the Stone Pillar, it fretted (with moving) the ſaid Pillar, and was not it ſelf fretted; nor (as ſeemeth) is not yet lightned, by remaining dry: But where, or when this Bone was firſt found or diſcovered, I have not heard; and therefore rejecting the Fables of ſome late Writers, I overpaſs them.

Repaired and beautified. R.

This Church was repaired, and richly and worthily beautified at the Charge of the Inhabitants of this Pariſh, in the Year of our Lord 1618.

Thomas Dalby, } Churchwardens.
Edmond White, }

To this, in the Year 1631. they added the coſt of a new and very curious Pulpit; then alſo ſetting off their Font, and the place in which it ſtands, with a great deal of Coſt and Beauty.

In the ſaid Year, 1618. the time of this Repair, all the Windows in this Church were glazed by ſo many good Benefactors, with the Arms of the Company of every one of them.

Under the middle Window in the Chancel, a very rich and coſtly one, is thus written.

The Windows.

Sir William Eaſtfield, Kt. and Alderman of this Honourable City, and free of the Worſhipful Company of the Mercers, glazed this Window at his own proper Coſt and Charges, in the Year of our Lord 1442. And it was afterward repaired, and the Story ſupplied at the Charge of the ſaid Company, in the Year of our Lord, 1618.

A Note of this Bollein. J. S.

Godfrey Bollein, Mercer, Maior, 1457. but died about 1463. for that Year his Will bore date. His Chriſtian Name is ſet down Godfrey by Stow, both in his Survey, and in his Chronicle, but amiſs for Geffrey; for ſo it appears his Name was, by his laſt Will: Wherein he deſired to be buried in the Chappel of S. John, in the Church of S. Lawrence in Jury of London. He had Sons William and Thomas; and Daughters, Iſabel, Ann, and Alice. And had Lands in the Pariſhes of Blykling, Holtham, Stukey, Mulburton, Kemſing, and Sele, in Norfolk, and other Counties. This Note I inſert of that Man, from whom deſcended the incomparable and fortunate Princeſs ELIZABETH, ſometime Queen of England. Thomas Bollein, his Son, of Norfolk, Eſq; 1471. He left Ann, his Mother, Executrice, willing her to ſell his Place in the Manour of Ingham, in Norfolk; and that ſhe ſhould have the Money to diſpoſe of for his Souls Health. He deſired by his laſt Will to be buried in this Church, beſide his Father.]

In this Church I find two Fraternities or Guilds founded in the Reign of King Edward III. The one, of the Holy Trinity. They were bound to ſet up a Wax-Light to brenn before a certain Image of the Crucifix: and that all the Brethren and Siſters ſhould come to the ſaid Church in the Feaſt of the Exaltation of the Croſs, and there be preſent at the Maſs, and offer a Penny, &c.

Guilds of the H. Trinity and of S. Anne in this Church. Regiſt. Lond.

The other Fraternity was founded in the Honour and Worſhipp of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, of his Bleſſed Moder, our Lady Seint Mary, and of S. Anne, of whom the Image Stant in the Chappel of S John in the Church of St. Lawrence in the Jeweze, &c. beginning on the day of S. Anne in the yere of the Reygne of King Edward III. after the Conqueſt the 46. Alexander Seyvyle, William Reymond, Thomas Adam, and William atte Brigge were the Keepers of this Fraternity of S. Anne.

One of the Articles of this Guild was, ‘If ‘any of the Company be of wicked Fame ‘of his Body, and take other Wives than his ‘own. Or if he be ſingle man, and be hold ‘a common Lechour, or Contehour, or re‘bel of his Tongue; He ſhall be warned of ‘the Warden three times: and if he will ‘not himſelf amend, he ſhall pay to the War‘dens al his Arrearages that he oweth to the ‘Company, and he ſhall be put off for ever‘more. So that the good men of the Com‘pany be not ſlaundered, bycauſe of him.

Proviſion alſo was here made, for ſuch as fel in Miſchief by Sickneſs of Body, or by Robbery by Lond or by Water, or by Fire brennyng, or by Elde of body, or by Contek he leeſe hand, finger, or other Member of his body: wherefore he may not work, and live of his Craft; ſo that it be not at his Aſſault, no at his deſert; but at his defence by Record of his neighbours: And if he have wel and truly payd his Quarteridges and other things, as the good men of the Company doen; he ſhall have of the Silver of the Quarteridges of the Box every Week, for terme of his Life, x pence halfpeny, in helping of his Suſtinence, he praying for al the Company: And at his dying ſhal have the Light and Maſſes, as is beforeſeid.

And if ony man be of good State, and uſe hym to ly long in Bed; and at riſing of his bed, nay wil not work, but wyn his Suſtenance, and keep his houſe; and go to the Tavern, to the Wyne, to the Ale, to wraſtling, to ſchetyng; [i. e. Shooting] and in this maner falleth poor, and left his Cattel in his Defaut for Succour; and truſt to be holpen by the Fraternity; that man ſhal never have good, no help of Companie, neither in his lyfe, no at his dethe; but he ſhal be put off for evermore of the Companie, &c.

Theſe are ſome of the Articles of this and ſuch like Guilds: which the Citizens were very fond of entring themſelves Members of in the reign of King Edward III. But were narrowly lookt into about the middle of Richard II.

This Church rebuilt.

This Church demoliſhed by the great Fire, was rebuilt, and is now a very large and comely Building, furniſhed with a pair of Organs.

Benefactors thereunto.

Benefactors towards the finiſhing and adorning the Inſide of the Church, and building the Vicaridge Houſe, were among others, theſe:

Sir John Langham, Bart. who gave 250 l.

No Gifts.

No Gifts, Legacies, or Bequeſts, are belonging to this Church or Pariſh, as it was given in at the Parochial Viſitation, An. 1693. But there be two weekly Lectures; one preached on Tueſdays, at 30 l. per ann. Another on Thurſdays, alſo at 30 l. per ann.

Lectures.

School.

There is one Grammar School kept over the Veſtry.

Parſonage.

There was no Parſonage or Vicarage Houſe before the Fire. Since the Fire, the Pariſh took a piece of Ground of the City of London, for a certain number of Years, at the yearly Rent of 20 l. and there built an Houſe for the Vicar.

Glebe.

The Glebe does not now appear; but in the Parochial Viſitation, An. 1636. in the Preſentment, was brought in Rent for two Tenements at 8 l. per Ann.

An Award between this Pariſh and Baliol College.

The Maſter and Scholars of Baliol College in Oxford, are the Impropriators of this Church. And a Law-ſuit ariſing between them and the Pariſh, for Arrears of the ſaid impropriate Tithes in the Year 1694. both Parties referred themſelves to the final determination of Sir Nic. Letchmere, and Sir John Powel, Kts. two of the Barons of the Exchequer; and bound themſelves in the Penalty of 500 l. by Obligation, to ſtand to their Arbitrement: Which was, to pay to John Sayer, Clerk, the Leſſee, 300 l. in full Diſcharge of all Arrears. The Inhabitants or Occupiers of Houſes in the Pariſh, to pay unto the Maſter and Scholars of the ſaid College, 150 l. free of all Taxes, at the Feaſt of the Annunciation of the Bleſſed Virgin. And hereafter, the ſaid Pariſh to pay their Tiths for ever, unto the ſaid Maſter and Scholars, or their Leſſee, according to the Rate to which the Inhabitants were aſſeſſed, in a Scedule annexed: The Chancel, for ever hereafter, to be repaired by the Inhabitants, they receiving the Profits of the Burials there. The ſaid Maſter and Scholars, to pay to the Vicar of the Pariſh, within ten Days, 40 l. for two Years paſt. And 20 l. per ann. for ever, to the ſaid Vicar, and his Succeſſors. Which ſaid 20 l. had been always paid by the College to the Vicar. This Award to be confirmed by Act of Parliament, at the Charge of the College, within two Years after the Date of theſe preſents, being the 20 Jan. 6 W. III. 1694. In which Act it appears, that the Rate of the Houſes in the above mentioned Scedule, amounted to 150 l. per Ann. free of all Taxes; and to be paid by quarterly Payments: and was to be in full diſcharge of all Tiths, and Eccleſiaſtical Dues whatſoever.]

Streets, Lanes, &c. in this Ward.

Now for the preſent State of this Ward. The Streets and Lanes in this Ward, are theſe following.

Cheap Ward.

Cheap Ward, on the North ſide, begins about 54 Foot from the Eaſt corner of Milk ſtreet; and runs Eaſtward to the Weſt end of the Poultry. And on the South ſide, from about 33 Foot Weſt of Bow lane corner, runs Eaſtwards to the entrance into Bucklerſbury. Honey lane Market hath the Eaſt part of it, a little Weſtward of the Market-houſe. Old Jury, the South part on both ſides, as far as Sir Robert Clayton's Houſe, which is about 136 Foot. Bucklersbury, all the Street on both ſides, except about 80 Foot of the Eaſt end. Pancraſe lane, on both ſides, for 60 Foot, and then on the North ſide only to Kingſtreet. New Queen ſtreet, on both ſides, as far as Pancraſe lane on the Eaſt ſide, and George Tard on the Weſt. The Poultry, on the North ſide from Cheapſide, to the Eaſt corner of St. Mildreds Church: And on the South ſide, from Cheapſide to the corner by the Stocks Market.

Bucklersbury.

Pancrace lane.

New Queen ſtreet.

The Poultry.

Ironmonger lane, the whole. New Kingſtreet, the whole. St. Laurence lane, the whole. Cateaten ſtreet, on the North ſide, from the Weſt corner of St. Laurence Jury Church, to within 25 Foot of Baſſiſhaw ſtreet; and on the South ſide, from about 96 Foot Weſt of St. Laurence Church, to about 40 Foot beyond Ironmonger lane Eaſtwards.

Ironmonger lane.

New King ſtreet

St. Laurence lane.

Bow lane.

Bow lane hath not above 48 Foot on the Weſt ſide of the North end; and about 60 Foot on the Eaſt ſide of the North end: All Guildhall, and the Fore-Court, is in this Ward, but not Blackwel-hall. All which ſaid Streets and Lanes, as thus ſevered from other Wards, appear by the Girt Line in the Map: And of theſe Places in order.

Cheapſide.

Cheapſide is a very ſtately ſpacious Street, adorned with lofty Buildings; well inhabited by Goldſmiths, Linnen Drapers, Haberdaſhers, and other great Dealers. The Street, (which is throughout of an equal length) begins Weſtward at Pater noſter row, by the Conduit, not yet finiſhed; and in a ſtreight Line runs to the Poultry; and from thence to the Royal Exchange in Cornhil. But the whole Street lying in ſeveral Wards, the Courts and Alleys will be taken Notice of, as they lie in their reſpective Wards. And as this Street is yet eſteemed the principal High ſtreet in the City, ſo it was formerly graced with a great Conduit, a Standard, and a ſtately Croſs; which laſt was pulled down in the Civil Wars. In the laſt part, almoſt over againſt Mercers Chappel, ſtood a great Conduit; but this Conduit ſtanding almoſt in the middle of the Street, being incommodious for Coaches and Carts, was thought fit by the Magiſtracy, after the great Fire, to be taken down, and built no more.

Hony lane.
Hony lane Market.
Trump Alley.

Adjoining to this Street, on the North ſide, is Hony lane; being now, as it were, an Alley with a Free ſtone pavement, ſerving as a paſſage to Hony lane Market; the former Lane, and other Buildings, being, ſince the Fire of London, converted into this Market. Amongſt which Buildings, was the Pariſh Church of St. Alhallows Hony lane; and by reaſon it was thought fit not to rebuild it, the Pariſh is united to St. Mary le Bow. This Market is well ſerved every Week, on Mondays, Wedneſdays, Fridays and Saturdays, with Proviſions. The Place taken up by this Market, is ſpacious; being in length, from Eaſt to Weſt, 193 Feet; and from North to South, 97 Feet. In the middle, is a large and ſquare Market-houſe, ſtanding on Pillars, with Rooms over it, and a Bell Tower in the midſt. There is in the Market, 135 ſtanding Stalls for Butchers, with Racks, Blocks, and other Neceſſaries; all covered over, to ſhelter them from the Injury of Weather; and alſo, ſeveral Stalls for Fruiterers. The Weſt end of the Market lyeth open to Milkſtreet, where there is a Cock of Conduit Water, for the uſe of the Market. There are two other Paſſages unto it, that is, one out of St. Laurence Lane, beſides that which comes out of Cheapſide; which Paſſages are inhabited by Grocers, Fiſhmongers, Poulterers, Victuallers, and Cheeſemongers. On the Northweſt corner of this Market, is Robinhood Alley, being a paſſage into Milkſtreet. Trump Alley lieth againſt Bow Church; which, turning Eaſtward, falleth into St. Laurence Lane: This Alley is indifferent good in the middle part, but the entrances are but narrow.

Mercers Chappel.

Mercers Chappel: As to the preſent ſtate of this Chappel, it is a very fair Building, containing, beſides the Hall where the Company meets about their Affairs, ſeveral other Rooms and Appartments, running backwards, with a large pair of Gates opening into Ironmonger lane. In the Chappel, was lately preached every Sunday Morning, a Sermon in Italian, ſet up by the Italian Merchants. The Front of this Chappel is in Cheapſide, being an arched Pile of Free ſtone Building, which gives entrance into the Chappel. Over the Portico, is the Figure of a Maiden-head, crowned with a Chaplet of Roſes, and her Hair diſhevelled, being the Arms of the Company; with a Cupid on each ſide. Over this, an Iron Balcony, with two other Figures ſtanding in Nitches: And over theſe, being a Story higher, is the Figure of Charity ſitting with Children; and over this another Balcony.

Old Jury.

The Old Jury, Eaſt of this Chappel, hath but a little part in this Ward, as was ſhewed before; the reſt is in Coleman ſtreet Ward.

St. Mary Colechurch.
Dove Court.

On the South end, and Weſt ſide of this Street, ſtood the Pariſh Church of St. Mary Colechurch. In this part of the Old Jury, is Dove Court, being but ordinary; and is a paſſage into Grocers Alley.

Bird in hand Alley.
Feathers Court.
Crown Court.

Then on the South ſide of Cheapſide, and over againſt Mercers Chappel, is Bird in Hand Alley, which is but indifferent. Feathers Court, which is alſo but ordinary. Golden Leg Court, or Leg Court, over againſt St. Laurence Lane; but narrow, and none of the beſt. Crown Court, alſo oppoſite to St. Laurence Lane; a very handſome open Place, with good Houſes; neatly kept, and well inhabited.

Bucklers bury.

Bucklerſbury turneth out of Cheapſide, and runneth on the back ſide of the Poultry, unto Walbrook: A Street very well built, and inhabited by Tradeſmen, eſpecially Drugſters and Furriers.

Barge Yard.

Barge Yard, a handſome open Place, and very well inhabited, having ſome large Houſes at the upper end; in one of which, Sir Theodore Janſon, Kt. dwelleth, or lately did.

Pancraſe lane.
St. Pancraſe Soper lane.
St. Benet Sherehog.

Toward the Weſt end of this Street, and on the South ſide, is Pancraſe lane, which falleth into Queens ſtreet. The North ſide of which Lane is in this Ward; and the South in Cordwainers Ward. On this North ſide of the Lane, were two Pariſh Churches, viz. St. Pancraſe Sopar lane, and St. Benet Sherehog. That of St. Pancraſe, was conſumed in the Fire of London, and not rebuilt; but the Pariſh united to St. Mary le Bow. And the Place where the Church ſtood, is incloſed for a burial Place for the Pariſhoners. And over part of it, upon Columns, ſtands a Ciſtern to receive Water, which formerly came to the great Conduit at the Eaſt end of Cheapſide.

St Benet Sherehog Church.

The Pariſh Church of St. Benet Sherehog, is ſeated alſo on the North ſide of Pancraſe lane, and formerly called St. Sithes Church. The Prior of St. Mary Overies was Patron of this Church: It was burnt down in the great Fire, and not rebuilt. But the ſmall Pariſh is united unto St. Stephen Walbrook; and the Place where the Church ſtood, is ſevered with a Brick Wall, for a burying Place for the Inhabitants.

New Queen ſtreet.

New Queen ſtreet, ſo called, as being a new Street ſince the Fire of London, built in the Place of Sopar lane, but much broader. Which ſaid Street fronts New King ſtreet: Which was alſo made ſo ſpacious for the Grace of Guildhall, that fronteth both; and for the Conveniency of the Lord Maior, Aldermen, and City Officers in their paſſage from Guild hall, to take Barge at the Three Crane ſtairs, at the lower end of this Street, to be rowed to Weſtminſter, for the new Lord Maior to be ſworn by the Barons of the Exchequer.

Weld Court.
George Yard.
Bow Lane.

The part of the Street in this Ward, goeth no further than Pancraſe lane on the Eaſt ſide, and to Weld Court on the Weſt ſide; which is a very good large Place, with an open paſſage, and well inhabited; which falls into George Yard. This Yard hath a Paſſage into Bow Lane, and hath but a ſmall part in this Ward: the like hath George Yard, as hath alſo Weld Court, the greateſt being in Cordwainer Ward, where they are taken notice of.

Scalding Alley.

The Poultry, a good large and broad Street, and a very great Thoroughfare for Coaches, Carts, and Foot Paſſengers, being ſeated in the Heart of the City, and leading to and from the Royal Exchange; and from thence to Fleetſtreet, the Strand, Weſtminſter, and the Weſtern Parts: And therefore ſo well inhabited by great Tradeſmen. It begins on the Weſt, by the Old Jury, where Cheapſide ends, and reaches to the Stocks Market, by Cornhill. On the North ſide is Scalding Alley, a large Place, containing two or three Alleys, and a ſquare Court with good Buildings, and well inhabited; but the greateſt part is in Breadſtreet Ward, where it is mentioned.

St. Mildreds.

St. Mildreds Poultry; this Church is neatly built of Free ſtone, with a graceful Dial hanging over into the Street. The Church was deſtroyed in the great Fire of London, and rebuilt as now it is; and to this is united the Pariſh of St. Mary Colechurch.

Poultry Counter.

Somewhat Weſt to this Church is the Poultry Counter, being the Priſon belonging to one of the Sheriffs of London, for all ſuch as are Arreſted within the City and Liberties thereof, Woodſtreet Counter.

thereof. And beſides this Priſon, there is another of the ſame nature in Woodſtreet, for the other Sheriff; both being of the ſame nature, and have the like Officers for the execution of the Concerns belonging thereunto, as ſhall be here taken Notice of. So that what is ſaid here for the Poultry Counter, belongs alſo to Woodſtreet Counter.

The Charge of thoſe Priſons is committed to the Sheriffs, who always enter into their Office, on the 28th of September, which is the Eve of St. Michael the Archangel; and are accordingly ſworn to the Charge of the ſaid Office.

Officers of the Counters.

Under the Sheriffs there are divers other Officers belonging alike in both Counters; who give Security to the Sheriffs, for their true and faithful execution of their ſeveral Offices.

The Secondary.

1. The firſt and principal Officer, next to the Sheriff, is the Secondary. Whoſe Office is to return Writs, mark Warrants, impanel Juries for the Courts both above and below, and alſo for the Seſſions.

Clerk of the Papers.

2. The Clerk of the Papers. Whoſe Office is to impannel Juries for the Sheriff's Court; he enters up Judgment, and makes out all Proceſſes for the Sheriff's Courts.

Clerk Sitters.

3. Four Clerk Sitters. Who enter Actions, take Bails, receive Verdicts after Trials, &c.

Serjeants and their Yeomen.

4. Eighteen Serjeants at Mace; and every Serjeant hath his Yeoman. Their Office is to Arreſt, execute all Proceſſes, ſerve Writs and Executions upon Actions; and ſummons from above, as well as from the Courts below. And each of theſe Serjeants gives 400 l. Security to the Sheriff, for the due Execution of their Office. They wear blue coloured Cloth Gowns, which are allowed them by the Sheriffs yearly, which they always wear upon their waiting Days. Four of theſe Serjeants, and as many Yeomen out of each Counter, wait upon their reſpective Sheriff daily; and during the time of Seſſions, double the number. At which time, in the Mornings they bring the Priſoners down from Newgate to the Seſſions-Houſe, and put them in the Dock; and wait there all Day, and return the Priſoners back to the Goal at Night: And upon the Execution Days, ſee the condemned Priſoners Executed.

Maſter Keeper.

Unto each Counter alſo belongs a Maſter Keeper; and under him, two Turn-keys, and other Servitors.

Relief.

The poorer ſort of Priſoners, as well in this Counter, as in that in Woodſtreet, receive daily Relief from the Sheriff's Table, of all the broken Meat and Bread. And there are divers Gifts given by ſeveral well diſpoſed People, towards their Subſiſtance: Of which, ſuch as I could procure, (beſides thoſe taken Notice of in the ſeveral Parts of this Book) I have here inſerted. And beſides which, there are other Benevolences frequently ſent to all the Priſons in London, by charitable Perſons; many of which do conceal their Names, doing it only for charity ſake. And there are other Gifts, ſome for the Releaſement of ſuch as lie in only for Priſon Fees; and for others, for the Releaſe of ſuch, whoſe Debts amount not to above ſuch or ſuch a Sum.

Benefactors to this Counter.

| Baptiſt Lord Hicks. - - - | 10 | 0 | 0 |

Theſe Perſons gave the like Charity to Woodſtreet Counter.

Grocers Al

Grocers Alley. This Lane is but ordinary, and generally inhabited by Alehouſe-keepers, called Spunging-houſes; for that the Serjeants belonging to the Poultry Counter, bring their Priſoners to theſe Houſes, and there lock them up, until ſuch time as they can ſee to make an Agreement with their Creditors, and not be run into the Priſon; which is a great Conveniency.

Grocers Hall.

On the Weſt ſide of this Alley, is a Paſſage into the Old Jury, through Dove Court. At the upper end of the Alley, is Grocers Hall; a large Building, with a ſpatious Court before it, and a Garden behind. Of late Years, the Company of Grocers have Lett the ſaid Hall, and other Rooms (except ſome for the Company's Uſe, to keep their Courts in) to the Maior, or to the Sheriffs, to keep their Maioralties or Shrievalties in. But now it is wholly employed by the Bank of England, and the Governors and Directors thereof

Ironmonger lane.

Then Weſtward is Old Jury, before mentioned; and then Ironmonger lane. This Lane cometh out of Catteaten ſtreet, and falleth into Cheapſide. 'Tis a Place well built, and inhabited by Wholeſale Dealers. On the Eaſt ſide is Church Alley, which hath a good open Free ſtone paſſage on the South ſide of St. Olaves Church yard, into the Old Jury. And on the Weſt ſide of this Lane, is a paſſage into New Kingſtreet. In this Lane was the Pariſh Church of St. Martins Ironmonger lane, and being burnt down in the Fire of London, is not rebuilt; but the Pariſh united to St. Olave Jury.

New King-ſtreet.

More Weſt, is New Kingſtreet, built ſince the Fire of London; a very ſpacious Street, garniſhed with very good Buildings; which are well inhabited by Norwich Factors, and other Wholeſale Dealers, of Wealth and Reputation.

It comes out of Cheapſide, and falleth into Catteaten ſtreet, right againſt Guild hall. On the Weſt ſide of this Street, is an open Paſſage, or rather a ſhort Street; which goeth into St. Lawrence lane; but hath, as yet, no Name given it.

St. Laurence Lane.

Still Weſt, the next Lane is St. Laurence Lane, ſo called from St. Lawrence Church, ſeated at the lower end fronting the Lane, and ſtanding in Catteaton ſtreet. This Lane is well built, and inhabited by Wholeſale Dealers. On the Weſt ſide is an open Paſſage which leadeth to Hony lane, viz. Duke ſtreet. On the ſame ſide, is the old Inn called Bloſſom's Inn, corruptly called Boſome's Inn; and hath the Sign of St. Laurence upon a Grid-Iron, in a Border of Flowers and Bloſſoms. This Inn is very large, and much reſorted unto by Carriers and others. It hath a back Gate into Hony lane Market.

Bloſſoms Inn.

Caſtle Court.

More Weſtwards, and on the ſame ſide, is Caſtle Court, which is indifferent broad, with pretty good Houſes. It hath a paſſage into Montford's Court, which leadeth into Milkſtreet, but not in this Ward.

Montford's Court.

Catteaton Street.

Catteaton ſtreet comes from the corner of Milk ſtreet, and goes to Baſſiſhaw ſtreet. It is a Street of a good Trade, and well inhabited. On the North ſide, ſomewhat Eaſt from St. Laurence, is Blackwel hall Court, ſo called, as adjoining to Blackwel hall; into which it hath an entrance. Here is one large Houſe, the Habitation of Alderman Corniſh in his Life. Fronting Kingſtreet, but parted by Catteaton ſtreet, is a Street anſwerable to Kingſtreet for bigneſs and goodneſs of Houſes; and this openeth into the large Court before Guild-hall: having on the Weſt ſide corner, the large Church of St. Laurence Jury. It was deſtroyed by the Fire, rebuilt ſpaciouſly and beautifully; and St. Magdalen Milkſtreet Pariſh, united to it.

St. Laurence Jury Church.

This Church hath a fine Front into Guild-hall Court or Yard, which is ſpacious for the reception of Coaches. The Eaſt ſide of this Court is taken up by Blackwel hall, and the Lord Maior's Chappel. On the North ſide is the Front of Guild-hall: On the Weſt ſide are new Brick Buildings ſuſtained by Pillars; the Rooms above injoyed by the City Officers; under which it lies open, for the ſtanding of the Coaches and Horſes of the Lord Maior and Aldermen in rainy Weather. And out of this Court, is a ſmall winding Paſſage round St. Laurence Church into Catteaten ſtreet.

Guild-hall.

Guild-hall, an auguſt and ſtately Structure, the Place where the Courts for the City Affairs are kept. It hath a ſpacious Hall, adorned with the Pictures of divers of the Kings and Queens; ſome Lord Chancellors and Keepers; many of the Judges, all in their Robes, and whole lengths; drawn by the curious Pencil of Mr. Wright, a Painter of Note in thoſe Days. About the middle of the Hall, on the North ſide, you aſcend up by ſtone Steps into the ſeveral Rooms appointed for Offices, Courts, and other uſes. This Guild-hall was deſtroyed by the great Fire, except the Stone Walls of the Hall: The Maior's Court, Orphans Court, Councel Chamber, a Porch, Chappel, and ſome other Buildings, which remained in their Ruins. But the Roofs, the Floors, and what elſe was therein, were conſumed. Theſe Rooms, Courts, and Offices, are appropriated to the ſame places wherein they were kept formerly; but much more regular, and loftier, and more ſubſtantially built: The great Hall being formerly in height, as to the upright of the Walls, not above Thirty Foot, which now are raiſed Twenty Foot higher on either ſide, and at both ends; where there are fair Windows, and Eight large Windows on either ſide, of ſixteen Foot high, each Window; where there were none before. And over all, the flat Roof and Platform leaded, with Battlements about it; whereas, before, the Roof did meet at the top, as in common Buildings.

This Hall is in length, from Eaſt to Weſt, 170 Foot; and in breadth, 68 Foot.

The rebuilding of this Hall, ſince the Fire of London, 1666. with the Courts, Offices, and Chambers thereto belonging; and the Court-yard, and Chappel, did amount to above 40000 l.

I have here inſerted a Proſpect of this publick Building, with the Courtyard before it, as you come up Kingſtreet towards it.

But as to the Power, Cuſtoms, and Practices of the ſeveral Courts herein kept, they will be largely treated of in due place.

There are to Watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, One Conſtable and a Beadle, with Twenty five Watchmen.

The Jurymen returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts in Guild-hall, in the Month of February.]

And thus much for Cheap-Ward, which hath an Alderman, his Deputy, Common Councellors Eleven, Conſtables Eleven, Scavengers Nine, for the Ward Mote Inqueſt Twelve, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen at 72 l. 16 s. And in the Exchequer, at 72 l. * 11 s.

*At 72 l Firſt Edit.

The Alderman of this Ward is Sir William Humphreys, Kt. and Bar.

COLEMAN STREET WARD. The Bounds. Antiquities in this Ward. The Jews Synagogue in Lothbury. St. Olave in the Jewry. The King's Palace in Old Jewry. St. Margaret Lothbury. St. Stephen Coleman ſtreet. The preſent State of this Ward.

The Bounds.

NEXT to Cheape Ward, on the North ſide thereof, is Colemanſtreet Ward; and beginneth alſo in the Eaſt, on the Courſe of Walbrook, in Lothbury, and runneth Weſt, (on the South ſide) to the end of Ironmongers lane; and on the North ſide, to the Weſt corner of Baſings Hall ſtreet. On the South ſide of Lothbury, is the Street called the Old Jewry; the one half, and better, on both ſides towards Cheape, is of this Ward.

On the North ſide lieth Colman ſtreet, whereof the Ward taketh Name, wholly on both ſides North to London-wall; and from that North end along by the Wall, and Moorgate, Eaſt, to the Courſe of Walbrook. And again, from Coleman ſtreet, Weſt, to the Iron Grates; and theſe be the Bounds in this Ward.

The Jews Synagogue in Lothbury.

Antiquities therein to be noted, are theſe: Firſt, the Street of Lothbery, Lathbery, or Loadbery, (for by all theſe Names have I read it) took the Name (as it ſeemeth) of a Bery, or Court of old time there kept; but by whom, is grown out of memory. This Street is poſſeſſed (for the moſt part) by Founders, that caſt Candleſticks, Chafingdiſhes, Spice Morters, and ſuch like Copper or Laten Works, and do afterward turn them with the Foot, and not with the Wheel, to make them ſmooth and bright; with turning and ſcratting, (as ſome do term it) making a loathſome Noiſe to the By-paſſers, that have not been uſed to the like; and therefore by them diſdainfully called Lothbury. On the South ſide of this Street, amongſt the Founders, be ſome fair Houſes and large, for Merchants; namely, one that of old time was the Jews Synagogue. Which was defaced by the Citizens of London, after they had ſlain 700 Jews, and ſpoiled the reſidue of their Goods, in the Year 1262. the 47 of Hen. the IIId. And not long after, in the Year 1291. King Edward the firſt baniſhed the remnant of the Jews out of England, as is afore ſhewed.

Poſſeſſed afterwards by Friers.

Fratres de Sacca, or, de Pœnitentia: i. e. Friers of Repentance, or of Sackcloth

Colechurch-ſtreet, or Old Jewry.

The ſaid Synagogue being ſo ſuppreſſed, certain Friers got poſſeſſion thereof. For in the Year 1257. (ſaith Mathew Paris) there were ſeen in London, a new Order of Friers, called, De Pœnitentia Jeſu, or Fratres de Sacca, becauſe they were apparelled in Sackcloth; who had their Houſe in London, near unto Alderſgate, without the Gate; and had Licence of Henry III. in the 54th of his Reign, to remove from thence to any other Place: And in the 56th, he gave unto them this Jews Synagogue. After which time, Eleanor the Queen, Wife to Edward the Iſt, took into her protection, and warranted unto the Prior and Brethren De pœnitentia Jeſu Chriſti of London, the ſaid Land and Building in Colechurch ſtreet, in the Pariſh of St. Olave in the Jury, and St. Margaret in Lothbury; by her granted, with conſent of Stephen de Fulborn, Underwarden of the Bridge-houſe, and other Brethren of that Houſe; for Threeſcore Marks of Silver, which they had received of the ſaid Prior and Brethren of Repentance, toward the building of the ſaid Bridge.

Queen Eleanors Charter to thoſe Friers. Lib. Horn. J. S.

Queen Eleanors Charter will not be unacceptable to repeat, as it ſtands in the Records of the Chamber of London.

'Alianora, Dei gra. &c. Alianor, by the 'Grace of God Queen of England, Lady of 'Ireland, Dutches of Aquitain, and by our 'Lord King Henry; To al that ſhal ſe or hear 'this Writing, Greeting in the Lord. Know 'yee that we are bound and held for Us and 'our Heirs, to defend and warrant againſt al 'Men for ever, to the Priors and Friers of the 'Repentance of Jeſus Chriſt, abiding in London, al their Tenements, with al their Appurtinences, which the Prior and Friers have 'in the Street called Colcherchſtrate, in the 'Pariſh of St. Olaves in the Jewry, and in the 'Pariſh of S. Margaret de Lothbury, in the 'City of London; by the Grant and Confirmation which we have made to the ſaid Prior 'and Brethren by this preſent Writing; with 'the Aſſent and Wil of Frier Steven de Fulburn, under Cuſtos of the Bridge-houſe, and 'the reſt of the Friers of the ſaid Houſe; 'for Sixty Marks of Silver, which we have 'received of the ſaid Prior and Brethren of 'Repentance of Jeſus Chriſt, towards the building of the ſaid Bridge; and for the finding 'of one Chaplain, which the ſame Prior and 'Brethren perpetually find at their own Coſts; 'celebrating Service for the Soul of Richard le Ken. Which Richard bequeathed and aſſigned al the foreſaid Tenements, with al 'the Appurtinences, to the Brethren of the 'ſaid Houſe of the Bridg, for the ſuſtentation 'of one Chaplain, to celebrate Service for 'his Soul for ever at their Charges. In witneswhereof, &c.]

This Order of Friers gathered many good Scholars, and multiplied in number exceedingly; until the Council at Lyons, by the which it was decreed, that (from that time forth) there ſhould be no more Orders of Begging Friers be permitted, but only the four Orders; to wit, the Dominickes, or Preachers, the Minorites, or Grey Friers, the Carmelites, or White Friers, and the Auguſtines: And ſo from that time, the Begging Friers decreaſed and fell to nothing.

Rob. Fitzwalter his Houſe, where now is Grocers Hall.

Robert Large, Maior, his Houſe.

Now it followed, that in the Year 1305. Robert Fitzwalter requeſted and obtained of the ſaid King Edward the Iſt, that the ſame Friers of the Sacke, might aſſign to the ſaid Robert, their Chappel or Church, of old time called The Synagogue of the Jews, near adjoyning to the then Manſion Place of the ſame Robert, where now ſtandeth the Grocers Hall: And the ſaid Synagogue was at the North corner of the Old Jewry. Robert Large, Mercer, Maior, in the Year 1439. kept his Maioralty in this Houſe, and dwelled there until his dying day.

This Houſe ſtandeth, and is of two Pariſhes, as opening into Lothbury, of St. Margarets Pariſh; and opening into the Old Jewry, of St. Olaves Pariſh. The ſaid Robert Large gave liberally to both theſe Pariſhes, but was buried at St. Olaves.

The Wind-mill Tavern in the Old Jury.

Hugh Clopton, Mercer, Maior, 1492. dwelled in this Houſe, and kept his Maioralty there. It is now a Tavern, and hath to ſign a Wind-mill.

And thus much for this Houſe, ſometime the Jews Synagogue; ſince, an Houſe of Friers, then a Noble-man's Houſe, after that, a Merchant's Houſe, wherein Maioralties have been kept, and now a Wine-Tavern.

The Old Jury. The Jews brought from Roan by William Duke of Normandy.

Then is the Old Jury, a Street ſo called of Jews ſometime dwelling there, and near adjoyning, in the Pariſhes of St. Olave, St. Michael Baſſings Hall, St. Martin Ironmonger lane, St. Laurence, called the Jewry, and ſo Weſt to Woodſtreet. William Duke of Normandy, firſt brought them from Roan to inhabit here.

W. Rufus favoured them.

William Rufus favoured them ſo far, that he ſware by Luke's Face, his common Oath, if they could overcome the Chriſtians, he would be one of their Sect.

Hen the 2d puniſhed them.

Henry the II. grievouſly puniſhed them for corrupting his Coin.

Rich. the 1ſt forbade them to come to his Coronation.

Richard the I. forbade Jews and Women to be preſent at his Coronation, for fear of Inchantments. For breaking of which Commandment, many Jews were ſlain. Who being aſſembled to preſent the King with ſome Gift, one of them was ſtricken by a Chriſtian; which ſome unruly People perceiving, fell upon them, beat them to their Houſes, and brent them therein, or ſlew them at their coming out.

Alſo the Jews at Norwich, St. Edmondſbury, Lincoln, Stamford, and Lyn, were robbed and ſpoiled; and at York, to the number of 500. beſides Women and Children, entred a Tower of the Caſtle, proffered Money to be in ſurety of their Lives, but the Chriſtians would not take it: Whereupon they cut the Throats of their own Wives and Children, and caſt them over the Walls on the Chriſtians Heads; and then entring the King's Lodging, they burned both the Houſe and themſelves.

The Jews deſtroy themſelves.

King John tormented the Jews.

King John, in the 11th of his Reign, commanded all the Jews, both Men and Women, to be impriſoned and grievouſly puniſhed, becauſe he would have all their Money. Some of them gave all they had, and promiſed more, to eſcape ſo many kinds of Torments; for every one of them had one of their Eyes at the leaſt, plucked out. Amongſt whom there was one, which being tormented many ways, would not ranſom himſelf, till the King had cauſed (every day) one of his great Teeth to be plucked out, by the ſpace of ſeven Days; and then he gave the King Ten Thouſand Marks of Silver, to the end they ſhould pull out no more. The ſaid King, at that time, ſpoiled the Jews of Sixty ſix Thouſand Marks.

The Barons rifled the Jews.

The 17th of this King, the Barons brake into the Jews Houſes, rifled their Coffers, and with the Stone of their Houſes, repaired the Gates and Walls of London.

King Hen 3 eſcheted the Lands of Benomy Mittun, a Jew. Charta 11. of Hen. 3.

King Henry the Third, in the Eleventh of his Reign, granted to Semaine or Ballaſter, the Houſe of Benomye Mittun the Jew, in the Pariſh of St. Michael Baſſinghaughe, in which the ſaid Benomye dwelt; with the fourth part of all his Land in that Pariſh, which William Elie held of the Fee of Hugh Nevell; and all the Land in Coleman ſtreet, belonging to the ſaid Benomye; and the fourth part of the Land in the Pariſh of St. Lawrence, which was the Fee of Thomas Buckerell, and were eſcheted to the King, for the Murther which the ſaid Benomye committed in the City of London; to hold to the ſaid Semaine, and his Heirs, of the King, paying at Eaſter a pair of gilt Spurs, and to do the Service thereof due unto the Lords Court.

In like manner, and for like Services, the King granted to Guſo, for his homage, the other part of the Lands of the ſaid Benomye in St. Michaels Pariſh; which Law the Painter held, and was the Kings Exchete; and the Lands of the ſaid Benomye, in the ſaid Pariſh, which Walter Turner held, and fifteen Foot of Land, which Hugh Harman held, with fifteen Iron Ells of Land, and an half, in the front of Ironmonger lane, in the Pariſh of St. Martin; which were the ſaid Benomyes, of the Fee of the Hoſpital of St. Giles; and which Adam the Smith held, with two Stone Houſes, which were Moſes the Jew of Canterbury, in the Pariſh of St. Olave; and which are of the Fee of Arnold le Reus, and are the Kings Exchetes, as aforeſaid.

The Jews builded them a Synagogue in London.

The 16th of the ſaid Henry, the Jews in London builded a Synagogue; but the King commanded it ſhould be dedicated to our bleſſed Lady. And after gave it to the Brethren of St. Anthonie of Vienna; and ſo was it called St. Anthony's Hoſpital.

Hen. the 3d founded an Houſe for converted Jews.

This King Henry founded a Church and Houſe for converted Jews, in a new Street by the Temple; whereby it came to paſs, that (in ſhort time) there was gathered a great number of Converts.

Jews ſteal a Child, and circumciſed him, and minded to have crucified him.

The 20th of this King Henry, Seven Jews were brought from Norwich, which had ſtolen a chriſtned Child; had circumciſed, and minded to have crucified him at Eaſter. Wherefore their Bodies and Goods were at the King's pleaſure. The 26th, the Jews were conſtrained to pay to the King 20000 Marks, at two terms in the Year, or elſe to be kept in perpetual Priſon.

Hen. 3. exacteth Money of the Jews.

The 35th, he taketh ineſtimable Sums of all rich Men; namely, of Aaron, a Jew born at York, 14000 Marks for himſelf, and 10000 Marks for the Queen. And before, he had taken of the ſame Jew, as much, as in all amounted to 30000 Marks of Silver, and 200 Marks of Gold to the Queen.

Jews hanged for crucifying of a Child.

In the 40th Year were brought up to Weſtminſter 202 Jews, from Lincoln, for crucifying a Child, named Hugh; Eighteen of them were hanged.

The 43d, a Jew at Tewkſbury fell into a Privy on the Saturday, and would not that day be taken out, for reverence of his Sabbath: Wherefore Richard Clare, Earl of Gloceſter, kept him there till Monday, that he was dead.

700 Jews ſlain at London.

The 47th, the Barons ſlew of the Jews, at London, 700. The reſt were ſpoiled, and their Synagogue defaced, becauſe one Jew would have forced a Chriſtian to have paid more than 2 s. for the lone of 20 s. a Week.

Uſury forbidden.

The 3d of Edward the 1ſt, in a Parliament at London, Uſury was forbidden to the Jews: And that all Uſurers might be known, the King commanded that every Uſurer ſhould wear a Table on his Breaſt, the breadth of a Paveline, or elſe to avoid the Realm.

267 Jews hanged.

The 6th of the ſaid King Edward, a Reformation was made for clipping of the King's Coin; for which Offence, 267 Jews were drawn and hanged: Three were Engliſh Chriſtians, the other were Engliſh Jews.

The

Jews hanged at London, for crucifying a Child at Northampton.

The ſame Year the Jews crucified a Child at Northampton; for the which Fact, many Jews at London were drawn at Horſe tails, and hanged.

Jews Synagogues deſtroyed.

The 11th of Edward the Iſt, John Peckham, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, commanded the Biſhop of London to deſtroy all the Jews Synagogues in his Dioceſs.

All the Jews in England apprehended and redeemed for Money.

The 16th of the ſaid Edward, all the Jews in England, were (in one day) apprehended by Precept from the King; but they redeemed themſelves for 12000 Pounds of Silver: Notwithſtanding, in the 19th of his Reign, he baniſhed them all out of England; giving them only to bear their Charge till they were out of his Realm: The Number of Jews then expulſed, were 15060 Perſons. The King made a mighty maſs of Money of their Houſes, which he ſold; and yet the Commons of England had granted, and gave him a fifteenth of all their Goods, to baniſh them.

All the Jews baniſhed this Realm.

Grants of Jews Houſes in London, from King Edw I. An. 1290. and 1291. Rec. Turr. 19 Ed. I. m. 7. and 4. J. S.

The ſaid King Edward I. in the 19th and 20th of his Reign, after this baniſhment of the Jews, ſeized all their Lands and Houſes, and preſently made ſeveral Grants of them: Whereof, in London, theſe were ſome. (Where it may be obſerv'd, that their Dwellings were chiefly in the parts of the City about Woodſtreet, Ladd lane, Catte ſtreet, Colechurch ſtreet, Ironmonger lane, St. Laurence, and St. Olave Jewry.)

To Mattilda de Kellenden, thoſe Houſes, with the Appurtinences in Wodeſtrete and Ladde lane London; which were Gamaliel de Oxons, and Batamans, the Son of Creſſei, late Jews of London.

Many Grants of Jews Houſes; that were Leo de Creſſey's, Son of Maſter * Elias, the Jews of the Pariſh of S. Martins de Pomer in Irmonger lane.

* As much as Rabbi perhaps.

Benedict the Son of Mayre the Jew; his Houſe in the Pariſh of S. Laurence in the Jewry and Catte ſtrete; granted to Will. Kyng.

A void place in the corner of Colchirch ſtrete, which was Maſter Elias's, Son of Moſes, late Jew of London.

Robert de Baſinges had a Grant of the Houſes which were Myriel's, Son of Creſſy, Son of Gente; lying in the Pariſh of S. Mary Magdalene Melkſtrete.

Alayn de Cordwayner, had a Grant of Houſes which were Aaron's, Son of Slemme, in the Pariſh of S. Olaves in the Jewry, in Colchurch ſtrete.

Johan de Laufare, had Houſes which belonged to the Community of the Jews in Wodeſtrete.

More in Catte ſtrete: Houſes granted to the Friars and Convent of Chickſand; which Houſes were Elias le Eveſt the Jews; and were ſituate between the Place of the Friers of the Sack, and the King's Street, called Sporier ſtrete.

John Veſty had a Grant of Houſes which were Moſes's, Son of Maſter Elias the Jew, ſtanding in the corner of Wodeſtrete. coo Marks, Tax upon he Jews. ædera, Con-ent, &c. . 872.

Concerning a heavy yearly Tax, (called the King's Judaiſme) laid upon the Jews in general, this may be added here. That An. 1271. 55 Hen. III. Prince Edward, his eldeſt Son, going into the Holy Land, the King, his Father, gave him, to aſſiſt him in his Pilgrimage, 6000 Marks de Judaiſmo noſtro; whereof 4000 were paid him; and 2000, upon the King's deſire, the King of Almayn, his dear Brother, lent the ſaid Prince. And King Henry, pro prædict. Curialitate, granted the ſaid King of Almayn, his Executors or Aſſignes, to have Judaiſmum noſtrum. And a Grant of it to our Jews of England, from the Feaſt of S. Michael, 1271. to Michaelmas next following, for one full Year, for the ſaid 2000 Mark lent the King. That is to ſay, So that our Jews of England do pay within the ſaid Year, to our ſaid Brother, the ſaid 2000 Marks, at the Terms under-written. And for default of payment, do forfeit 500 Mark, in the Name of a Pain. And upon the payment of the 2000 Mark, the ſaid Judaiſm to return to Us and our Heirs.] And thus much for the Jews.

The Pariſh of St. OLAVES in the Jewry.

St. Olaves Old Jewry.

In this Street, called the Old Jewry, is a proper Pariſh Church of St. Olave [Upwel] ſo called in Record. And there was a Well under the Eaſt end of this Church, lately turned to a Pump, but decayed, Anno 1320.

John Brian, Parſon of St. Olave Upwell, in the Jewry, founded there a Chauntry; and gave two Meſſuages to that Pariſh, the 16th of Edward the 2d, and was by the ſaid King confirmed.

Repaired. R.

This Church was repaired in the Year 1608. and again repaired and beautified in the Year of our Lord God 1628.]

J. S.

It was one of the Churches conſumed in the great Fire, but rebuilt ſince, with a Gallery at the lower end. It is built without Pillars, and a plain Cieling.

In the Chancel, on the North Wall, is the Picture of Queen Elizabeth in her ſtately Monument, erected with Colums of Porphyry. And over againſt this, on the South Wall, the Picture of King Charles the Iſt, at his Devotions; both Pictures of the largeſt ſize.

Vicarage House.

The Vicarage Houſe burnt down in the great Fire; and the Toft and Ground adjoyning, was let out by Dr. Hibbert, then Vicar, An. 1674. for Forty Years, reſerving a Rent of 1 l.

The Dimenſions of this Houſe, and of the Ground and Yard adjoyning, are ſet out and deſcribed in the Leaſe.

Glebe.

In the Parochial Viſitation, An. 1636. the Glebe brought in by the Preſentment, was 11 l. per Ann.

Anno 1671. Dr. Hibbert did deviſe and let out to Sir John Frederic, his Executors, &c. another Houſe or piece of Ground, abutting upon the Church-yard on the Weſt, for and during the Term of Forty Years, reſerving a Rent of 4 l. per ann. The ſaid Sir John built a dwelling Houſe on the ſaid Toft.

An old Stone Building.

From this Pariſh Church of St. Olave, to the North end of the Old Jewry, and from thence Weſt to the North end of Ironmonger lane; and from the ſaid corner into Ironmonger lane, almoſt to the Pariſh Church at St. Martin, was (of old time) one large building of Stone, very ancient, made in place of Jews Houſes; but of what Antiquity, or by whom the ſame was builded, or for what uſe, I have not learned; more than that King Henry VI. in the 16th of his Reign, gave the Office of being Porter or Keeper thereof, unto John Stent, for term of his Life, by the Name of his Principal Palace in the Old Jewry. This was (in my Youth) called the Old Wardrobe: But of later time, the outward Stone Wall hath been by little and little taken down, and divers fair Houſes builded thereupon, even round about.

Sold to Sir Ant. Cope.

In Edward the VIth's Reign, it was alienated from the Crown, being called a Great Meſſuage, under the Name of The Prince's Wardrobe; to which belonged divers Houſes, Edifices, Gardens, &c. being ſold to Sir Anthony Cope, a Privy Councellour in the 3d of Edward VI. for 60 l. And in conſideration of Services, the yearly Value being reckoned 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. a good Pennyworth no queſtion.]

The Pariſh Church of St. MARGARET Lothbury.

St. Margaret Lothbury.

Now for the North ſide of this Lothbury, beginning at the Eaſt end thereof: Upon the Water-courſe of Walbrook, have ye a proper Pariſh Church, called St. Margaret. Which ſeemeth to be newly re-edified and builded, about the Year 1440. For Robert Large gave to the Quire of that Church one hundred and 20 Pounds for Ornaments. More to the Vaulting over the Water-courſe of Walbrook, by the ſaid Church, for the enlarging thereof, Two Hundred Marks.

Chappel of St. Margarets.
J. S.

And I find it called the Chappel of St. Margarets de Lothberie, in the Reign of Edward II. When in the 15th of that King's Reign, Licence was granted to found a Chauntry there.]

MONUMENTS.

Monuments of Perſons deceaſed.

There be Monuments in this Church, of Reginald Coleman, Son to Robert Coleman, buried there 1383. This ſaid Robert Coleman may be ſuppoſed the firſt Builder or Owner of Coleman ſtreet; and that St. Stephen's Church, then builded in Coleman ſtreet, was but a Chappel belonging to the Pariſh Church of S. Olave in the Jewry. For we read (as afore) that John Foreſt, Vicar of St. Olaves, and of the Chappel annexed of St. Stephen, deceaſed in the Year 1399. [This may be ſome Argument which I overpaſs.] Hugh Clopton, Mercer, Maior, deceaſed 1496. Anſelme Becket, John Julian, Willliam Ilford, had Chauntries there. Sir Brian Tuke, Kt. Treaſurer of the Chamber to King Henry VIII. 1536. and Dame Griſilde his Wife, that deceaſed after him) was there buried 1538. John Fetiplace, Draper, Eſq; 1464. and Joan his Wife; Sir Hugh Witch, Mercer, Maior, Son to Richard Witch, intombed there, 1466. He gave to his third Wife 3000 l. and to Maids Marriages Five Hundred Marks.

E. A.

John Merchaunt, Citizen of London, and Common Clerk of the City, buried in the Church of the Couvent of the Holy Trinity, gave by his Will, An. 1419. an annual Rent of five Marks, to the Rector and Pariſhioners of St. Margaret Lothbury, *ad inveniend. ſingulis annis in perpetuum Capellanum idoneum, divina in Capella Beatæ Mariæ Virginis infra dict. Cock of Water by St. Stephen's Church. Conduit at London Wall.

By the Eaſt end of this Church, is placed a Cock of ſweet Water, taken out of the main Pipe that goeth into Lothbury. Alſo, in London Wall, directly againſt the North end of Coleman ſtreet, is a Conduit of Water, made at the Charges of Thomas Exmew, Goldſmith, Maior, 1517.

Modern State.

The modern State of this Ward, briefly ſtands thus.

P.

The principal Streets and Places in this Ward, are the Old Jewry; which is all in this Ward, except 136 Foot, at the South end thereof. Lothbury, from Coleman ſtreet Eaſtward, as far as St. Margarets Lothbury Church on the North ſide; and unto about 27 Foot beyond Princes ſtreet, on the South ſide. Catteaten ſtreet, from Baſſiſhaw ſtreet to Coleman ſtreet on the North ſide, and from Ironmonger lane on the South ſide, and Coleman ſtreet wholly. In all which Streets there are divers Courts and Alleys, which ſhall be mentioned in Order.

Old Jewry.

The Old Jewry, a very good open Street, graced with good Buildings, which are inhabited by Merchants, and Perſons of Repute. The principal amongſt which are, Sir Robert Claytons, Kt. and Alderman, and one of the Repreſentatives of the City in Parliament; Sir Nathaniel Hern, and Sir Joſeph his Brother, lately deceaſed.

The Church

On the Weſt ſide of this Street, about the middle, is St. Olave Jewry Church, deſtroyed by the great Fire; new built of Free ſtone, with a Church Yard adjoyning on the South ſide: Where there is a paſſage with a Free ſtone Pavement, leading to Ironmonger lane.

Windmill Court.

In this Street is Windmill Court, a good handſome well built Place; over againſt this Court, is a large Houſe gracefully built, and ſevered from the reſt of the Court, by a fine pair of Gates. Which Houſe is now the Seat of Mr. Parole, a Merchant. Green Dragon Court, ſmall and narrow, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Betwixt theſe two Courts, is a ſmall Yard for ſtabling for Horſes.

Green Dragon Court.

The Houſe of Sir Robert Clayton, and that of Mr. Fredrick, over againſt it, (now uſed for the Exciſe Office) ſeated towards the South end of this Street, were graceful and ſpacious Buildings, entred into by great Gates, and opening into Court-yards.

Lothbury.

Lothbury, a Street well built, and inhabited by many Founders, that caſt and make Candleſticks, Mortars, ſmall Bells; and the like Ware of Braſs, Copper, and Bell-Mettals: For which this Street was, and yet is, of Note.

St. Margarets Lothbury Church.

In this Street is the Church of St. Margarets Lothbury, a good handſome Free ſtone Building. It was deſtroyed in the Fire of London, and rebuilt. And towards the ornamental part, divers well diſpoſed Perſons were Benefactors, mentioned before.

Princes Street.

On the South ſide of this Steet, is Princes Street, which, with two turning Paſſages, falleth into Threadneedle ſtreet: It is well built and inhabited. On the Weſt ſide is Drapers Court, a handſome large Place, with good Houſes well inhabited; having a Free ſtone Pavement out of this Court, is a narrow paſſage into Lothbury. Weſt of St. Margarets Church, is Founders Hall, ſeated at the upper end of Founders Court, which is indifferent good. Almoſt over againſt this Hall, is a large and well built Houſe, with an open Yard before it; incloſed from the Street by a pair of Gates, being the Seat of Sir John Fench, Kt.

Drapers Court.

Founders Hall and Court.

Catteaten Street.

Catteaten ſtreet hath no more in this Ward, than from Baſing hall ſtreet, the reſt is in Cheap Ward; a Street well inhabited by Tradeſmen. In this part of the ſtreet is Golden Croſs Court, ſmall, but well built, and inhabited by wholeſale Dealers.

Golden Croſs Court.

Coleman Street.

Coleman ſtreet. This ſtreet is large and long, and runs Northwards unto London Wall; very well inhabited by divers noted Merchants and Shopkeepers. In this ſtreet are divers Courts and Alleys, ſome of which are very good, and others as mean and ordinary. I ſhall begin at the South end, and then the firſt is Windmill Court, which is but ordinary. Packers Court is a pretty open place, with indifferent good Buildings.

Windmill Court.

Packers Court.

St. Stephen Coleman Church.

St. Stephen Coleman ſtreet Church, a very fine Free ſtone Building, with a ſquare Steeple; It hath a Church yard to it, with the Doors curiouſly carved with Figures repreſenting the Reſurrection. It was burnt in the Fire of London, and rebuilt as now it is.

Kings Arms Court.

Other Places in this Street. Kings Arms Court, or rather Street, for the largeneſs and goodneſs, being graced with very good large Houſes, inhabited by Merchants, and Perſons of Repute.

George Alley.

Bell Alley

George Alley, pretty long, and indifferently well built. White Roſe Court, but indifferent, falls into Maſons Alley; which is alſo but mean, and ſo into Baſing hall ſtreet. Bell Alley, very long, goes out of Coleman ſtreet, and runs Eaſtward to the Paſſage into Token houſe Yard; and then it turns Northward, and runs as far as London Wall. The part of this Alley, from Coleman ſtreet to Mulbery Court, is pretty broad, and indifferent well built and inhabited: But the part running Northward, is more narrow, and hath ſome good Houſes, eſpecially on the Eaſt ſide. In this Alley are ſeveral ſmall Courts, viz. Mulbery Court, goeth up ſteps very narrow and dark, but after the entrance, it is a pretty handſome Court: On the Weſt ſide it hath a Paſſage into Whites Alley. Whalebone Court, pretty handſome, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Pitchers Court, a large ſquare Place, with pretty good Buildings; hath a Paſſage into Whites Alley. Blue Hart Court, a good handſome genteel Place,

Mulbery Court.

Whites Alley. Almshouſe Yard. Pump Court. Carpenters Yard. White Hind Court.

with a Free ſtone Pavement; hath a Paſſage down Steps, into Swan Alley. Whites Alley, very long, but narrow, comes out of Coleman ſtreet, and falls into Pitchers Court; which is a good handſome place, having a Door into Bell Alley, and a paſſage thereunto upon ſufferance. On the North ſide, and about the middle of the Alley, is a place called Alms Houſe Yard, containing ſix Houſes, for ſo many poor Men and their Wives; or the Survivers of them, belonging to the Company of Leatherſellers. Pump Court, but ſmall and ordinary. Carpenters Yard, being only a large Timber Yard. White Hind Court, a pretty handſome Place, but narrow.

Swan Alley. Jones's Rents. Croſs Keys Court.

Swan Alley alſo goes out of Coleman ſtreet, and with a turning paſſage runs into Bell Alley; and with another turning paſſage, falls into another Alley, alſo called Swan Alley; which is better built, with Gardens unto the Houſes. More Northwards, this Alley runs into a Place called Jones's Rents; which is a ruinous place, the Houſes ready to fall down. Out of this place, with a little narrow turning, the way leads into Croſs Keys Court, which is indifferent good: And out of this Court, is a paſſage to London Wall. That part of Swan Alley next to Coleman ſtreet, is wide enough for Carts, and is indifferent good.

Crown Inn. White Horſe Inn. Coach and Horſes Yard. Brickenton Court. Nuns Court. White Hart Inn. Greens Court. Biſhops Court. George Inn. Chimney Alley. Bell Inn. Armourers Hall.

Crown Inn, only for Livery Horſes. White Horſe Inn, the like. Coach and Horſes Yard, pretty good for ſtabling and Coaches. Brickenton Court, indifferent; at the upper end is a Merchants Houſe. Nuns Court, a pretty handſome place, with a large Houſe at the upper end, inhabited by a Merchant. White Hart Inn, but ſmall and ordinary. Green's Court, indifferent long, but narrow and ordinary. Biſhops Court, ſmall and narrow. George Inn, but indifferent. Chimney Alley, very ordinary, with decrepid Houſes, ready to fall. Bell Inn, indifferent good, chiefly for ſtabling. Armourers Hall, a pretty handſome Brick Building.

London Wall.

London Wall, being a Street ſo called, which in the whole is very long, beginning at Cripplegate, and running to Wincheſter ſtreet, but in ſeveral Wards, as have been taken Notice of. The Part in this, and Baſinghall Ward, begins a little Eaſtward of Baſinghall ſtreet, and runneth to the Croſs Keys Court. The Houſes are on the South ſide, which commonly are but old Timber Houſes: A place of no great Account, only ſome few Curriers dwell there. Its greateſt Ornament is Sion College, already treated of; and New Bethlem, ſeated on the other ſide of London Wall, in Moorfields.

Star Court. White Lyon Court. Red Lyon Court. Black Swan Alley.

In this part of the Street, are theſe Courts and Places. Star Court, a pretty ſmall Place. White Lyon Court, indifferent good. Red Lyon Court, likewiſe pretty good, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Black Swan Alley, very ordinary, and naſtily kept.

The Ward without the Walls, in Moorfields. Swan Inn.

The part of this Ward without the City Walls, taketh in all the lower Walks, or four Quarters of Moorfields; but none of the Houſes on the Eaſt and North ſide. On the South ſide is Bedlem or Bedlam, for the Lunaticks. Which is in this Ward; as likewiſe, the new Row of good Houſes, not yet named; with part of the Street called Fore ſtreet, which runneth to Cripplegate. And adjoining to Moorfields, is the Swan Inn, well built, and indifferent for Stabling.

Bethlem, or Bedlam Hoſpital.

This Hoſpital of Bethlem, or Bedlam, is pleaſantly ſeated, with its Front regarding Moorfields. It is a very long Building, extending it ſelf almoſt the breadth of the Field. It is ſtately and graceful to behold, and tends much to the Honour of the City: The Charge of which Building coſt about 17000 l. It is incloſed with a Wall, and hath an Iron Gate for entrance, in the middle, with a fine Free ſtone Pavement, for a Walk, from one end to the other; and at each end, a large Place for thoſe that are coming to their Senſes, to walk and air themſelves in. This Hoſpital is made very convenient within, for ſuch a purpoſe, to keep Lunaticks in; having four Wards or long Rooms, as now ſevered in the middle, for the keeping apart the Men from the Women. Of theſe Wards, two are for the Men, and two for the Women, the one over the other. And on one of the ſides of the Rooms or Wards, are ſmall Rooms, in which they are kept, when not fit to walk in the Ward. But of this Hoſpital, ſee more in Book I. Chap. XXVI.

The Watch.

There are to watch at Moorgate, and at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, a Conſtable, a Beadle, and 32 Watchmen.

Jurymen.

The Jurymen returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt, for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts in Guildhall, in the Month of Auguſt.]

The Government of this Ward.

And let here be the end of this Ward; which hath an Alderman, his Deputy, Common Counſellors 4. Conſtables 4. Scavengers 4. Of the Wardmote Inqueſt, 13. and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen, 15 l. 16 s. 9 *d.

BASSINGS HALL WARD. The Bounds. Weavers Company. Baſſing's Hall. The Family of the Baſſings. Blackwel Hall, a Market for Cloth. St. Michael Baſſiſhaw. The preſent State of this Ward.

The Bounds. THE next adjoyning to Coleman ſtreet Ward, on the Weſt ſide thereof, is Baſſings Hall Ward, a ſmall Thing, and conſiſteth of one Street, called Baſſings hall Street, of Baſſings Hall, the moſt principal Houſe, whereof the Ward taketh name. It beginneth in the South, by the late ſpoken Market Houſe, called the Bay Hall, which is the laſt of Coleman ſtreet Ward. This Street runneth from thence, North, down to London Wall; and ſome little diſtance, both Eaſt Weſt, againſt the ſaid Wall. And this is the Bounds of Baſſings Hall Ward.

Monuments of Building on the Eaſt ſide thereof, amongſt divers fair Houſes for Merchants, have ye three Halls of Companies; namely, the Maſons Hall for the firſt; but of what Antiquity that Company is, I have not read. Maſons Hall. The next is the Weavers Hall: Weavers Hall. Which Company hath been of great Antiquity in this City, as appeareth by a Charter of Henry the II. in theſe Words; Rex omnibus ad quos, &c. to be engliſhed thus:

Patent of Henry II. Henry, King of England, Duke of Normandy, and of Guian, Earl of Anjou, to the Biſhop, Juſtices, Sheriffs, Barons, Miniſters, and all his true Lieges of London, ſendeth greeting. Know ye, that we have granted to the Weavers in London, their Guild, to be had in London, with all the Freedoms and Cuſtoms that they had in the time of King Henry my Grandfather. Henry I. So that none but they intromit within the City of their Craft, but he be of their Guild; neither in Southwark, or other Places pertaining to London, otherwiſe than it was done in the time of King Henry my Grandfather. Wherefore I will and ſtraightly command, that over all lawfully they may treat, and have all aforeſaid; as well in peace, free, worſhipful, and wholly, as they had it, freer, better, worſhipfullier, and whollier, than in the time of King Henry my Grandfather. So that they yield yearly to me two Marks of Gold, at the Feaſt of St. Michael. And I forbid, that any Man to them do any unright, or diſeaſe upon pain of ten Pound. Witneſs Thomas of Canterbury, Warwick fil. Gar. Chamberlaine, at Winchester.

Patent. Alſo I read, that the ſame Henry II. in the 31ſt of his Reign, made a Confirmation to the Weavers, that had a Guild or Fraternity in London. Wherein it appeareth, that the ſaid Weavers made Woolen Cloth, and that they had the Correction thereof. But amongſt other Articles in that Patent, it was decreed, That if any Man made Cloth of Spaniſh Wool, mixed with Engliſh Wool, the Portgrave, or principal Magiſtrate of London ought to burne it, &c.

Mathew Paris. Moreover, in the Year 1197. King Richard I. at the inſtance of Hubert, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and Juſticiar of England, ordained, That the Woolen Cloths, in every part of this Realm, ſhould be in breadth two Yards within the Liſts, and as good in the midſt, as in the ſides, &c. King Henry III. granted to the Citizens of London, That they ſhould not be vexed for the Burels, or Cloth-liſted, according to the Conſtitution made for breadth of Cloth the 9th of his Reign, &c. Richard II. in the 3d of his Reign, granted an Order of Agreement between the Weavers of London, Engliſhmen, and Aliens or Strangers born, brought in by Edward III.

Lower down, is the Girdlers Hall: And this is all touching the Eaſt ſide of this Ward. Girdlers Hall.

On the Weſt ſide, almoſt at the South end thereof, is Bakewel Hall, corruptly called Blackwel Hall, [antiently called Baſſings Hall.] Bakewell Hall. Baſings Hall. Concerning the Original whereof, I have heard divers Opinions, which I over-paſs as Fables, without the leaſt colour of Truth. For though the ſame ſeemed a Building of great Antiquity, yet (in mine Opinion) the Foundation thereof was firſt laid ſince the Conqueſt of William Duke of Normandy: For the ſame was builded upon Vaults of Stone, which Stone was brought from Cane in Normandy. The like of that of Pauls Church, builded by Mauritius and his Succeſſors, Biſhops of London. But that this Houſe hath been a Temple, or Jewiſh Synagogue (as ſome have fancied) I allow not; ſeeing that it had no ſuch form of roundneſs, or other likeneſs. Neither had it the form of a Church, for the Aſſembly of Chriſtians, which Fabricks are builded Eaſt and Weſt: But contrariwiſe, the ſame was builded North and South, and in form of a Noblemans Houſe. And therefore the beſt Opinion (in my judgment) is, that it was (of old time) belonging to the Family of the Baſſings. Which was in this Realm, a Name of great Antiquity and Renown; and that it bare alſo the Name of that Family, and was called therefore Baſſings Haugh, or Hall. Baſſings Hall. Arms of the Baſſings. Whereunto I am the rather induced, for that the Arms of that Family were (of old time) ſo abundantly placed in ſundry parts of that Houſe, even in the Stonework, but more eſpecially on the Walls of the Hall; which carried a continual painting of them on every ſide ſo cloſe together, as one Eſcocheon could be placed by another; which I my ſelf have often ſeen and noted, before the old Building was taken down. Theſe Arms were a Gerond of twelve points Gold and Azure. Of the Baſſings therefore, Builders of this Houſe, and Owners of the Ground near adjoyning, that Ward taketh the Name: How Baſſings Hall Ward took that Name. As Coleman ſtreet Ward of Coleman, and Faringdon Ward, of William and Nicholas Faringdon; Men that were principal Owners of thoſe Places.

Noble Perſons principal Magiſtrates in London. And of old time, the moſt Noble Perſons that inhabited this City, were appointed to be principal Magiſtrates there: As was Godfrey de Magun (or Magnaville) Portgrave or Sheriff, in the Reign of William the Conqueror, and of William Rufus. Hugh de Buch, in the Reign of Henry the I. Aubery de Vere, Earl of Oxford. After him, Gilbert Becket, in the Reign of King Stephen. After that, Godfrey de Magnaville, the Son of William, the Son of Godfrey de Magnaville, Earls of Eſſex, were Salomon Baſſing, and others of that Name.

Portgraves or Sheriffs of London and Middleſex. In the Reign of Henry II. Peter Fitzwalter; after him, John Fitznigel, &c. So likewiſe in the Reign of King John, the 16th of his Reign, a time of great Troubles, in the Year 1214. Salomon Baſſing, and Hugh Baſſing, Barons of this Realm, as may be ſuppoſed, were Sheriffs; and the ſaid Salomon Baſſing was Maior in the Year 1216 which was the 1ſt of Henry the IIId. Alſo Adam Baſſing, Son to Salomon (as it ſeemeth) was one of the Sheriffs in the Year 1243. the 28th of Henry the III.

Unto this Adam de Baſſing, King Henry III. in the 31ſt of his Reign, gave and confirmed certain Meſſuages in Aldermanbury, and in Milk ſtreet (places not far from Baſſings Hall) and the advowſon of the Church at Baſſings Hall, with ſundry Liberties and Privileges.

This Man was afterwards Maior, in the Year 1251. the 36th of Henry the IIId. Moreover, Thomas Baſſing was one of the Sheriffs, 1269.

Thomas de Baſſing overrated.

J. S.

[Of whom I read this Paſſage, that the City paying a Fine to King Henry, of 20000 Marks, the Citizens, (conſidering his great Wealth perhaps) taxed this their Fellow Citizen above his proportion. Whereupon, King Edward I. in the 2d of his Reign, commanded William de Merton, his Chancellor, and others his Juſtices, to moderate the Talliages aſſeſſed upon him.]

Baſſings of Cambridgſhire.

Baſſing Bourne.

Robert Baſſing, Sheriff, 1279. and William Baſſing was Sheriff, 1308, &c. For more of the Baſſings in this City, I need not note; only I read of a Branch of this Family of Baſſings, to have ſpread it ſelf into Cambridgſhire, near unto a Water or Bourn; and was therefore, for a difference from others of that name, called Baſſing at the Bourne, and more ſhortly, Baſſing Bourne; and gave Arms, as is aforeſhewed, and was painted about this old Hall. But this Family is worn out, and hath left the Name to the place where they dwelt. Thus much for this Baſſings Hall.

Bakewel Hall given to the City.

Now how Bakewel Hall took that Name, is another queſtion. For which I read, that Thomas Bakewel dwelled in this Houſe, in the 36th of Edward the III. and that in the 20th of Richard the II. the ſaid King, for the Sum of Fifty Pounds, which the Maior and Commonalty had paid into the Hanapar, granted Licence, ſo much as was in him, to John Froſh, William Parker, and Stephen Spilman, Citizens and Mercers, that they, the ſaid Meſſuage, called Bakewel Hall; and one Garden, with the Appurtenances, in the Pariſh of St. Michael of Baſſings Haugh, and of St. Lawrence in the Jewry of London; and one Meſſuage, two Shops, and one Garden, in the ſaid Pariſh of St. Michael, which they held of the King in Burgage; might give and aſſign to the Maior and Commonalty for ever, ad opus Communitatis.

Bakewel Hall, a Market place for Woolen Cloths.

This Bakewel Hall thus eſtabliſhed, hath been long ſince employed, as a Weekly Market Place for Woollen Cloths, broad and narrow, brought from all parts of this Realm, there to be ſold. In the 21ſt of Richard the II. Richard Whitington, Maior; and in the 22d, Drew Barringtine being Maior, it was decreed, That no Forreigner or Stranger ſhould ſell any Woolen Cloth, but in the Bakewel Hall, upon pain of forfeiture thereof.

An Act of Common Council, held Auguſt the 1ſt, in the 8th of Henry VIII. concerning Blackwell Hall.*

No Woolen Cloths to be bough, unleſs firſt brought to Blackwell Hall.

R.

‘WHEREAS by an Act of Common Council, in the 22d Year of the Reign of King Richard the II. it was ordained and eſtabliſhed, That no manner of Perſon ſhould bring or conveigh any Woolen Cloths to the ſaid City to be ſold, except they were firſt brought, harboured, and diſcharged, at the common Market of Blackwell Hall; therefore ordained and provided, and of old time accuſtomed, upon pain of forfeiture of all the ſaid Cloths ſo harboured and laid, contrary to the ſaid Ordinance. Which Act and Ordinance, was by another Act of Common Council, holden at the Guild hall aforeſaid, the Day and Year abovesaid, ratified, approved, and confirmed. And over that, it is now at this preſent ordained, eſtabliſhed, and enacted, That no manner of Perſon being Freeman of this City, after the Feaſt of the Nativity of our Lady next coming, ſuffer any manner of Perſon whatſoever, be he free or forreign, to buy or ſell any manner of Woollen Cloths, harboured or lodged contrary to the ſaid Ordinance: As broad Cloths, Carſies, Cottons, Bridgewater Frizes, Doſſeins, or any other manner of Cloth made of Wool, within his Shop, Chamber, or other place within his Houſe, unleſs the ſaid Cloths were firſt brought to Blackwell Hall aforeſaid, and there bought and ſold. Or elſe the ſaid Freeman, the ſaid Cloths lawfully brought in the Country, out of the ſaid City; upon pain to forfeit and to pay to the uſe of the Commonalty of this City, for his firſt Offence, for every Broad-Cloth ſo ſold, harboured, or lodged, contrary to the ſaid Ordinance, 6 s. 8 d. for every Carſie, 3 s. 4 d. for every Doſſeine, Bridgwaters, and other pieces of Cloth made of Wool, 20 d. And for the ſecond Offence, the ſaid Pains to be doubled. And for the third Offence, the Party ſo offending, to be disfranchiſed, and deprived clearly from the Liberties of this City for ever.]

Bakewel Hall new builded.

This Houſe (of late Years) growing ruinous, and in danger of falling, Richard May, Merchant Taylor, at his deceaſe, gave towards the new building of the outward part thereof, 300 l. upon condition that the ſame ſhould be performed within three Years after his deceaſe. Whereupon, the old Bakewell hall was taken down, and in the Month of February next following, the Foundation of a new, ſtrong, and beautiful Store-houſe being laid, the Work thereof was ſo diligently applied, that within the ſpace of ten Months after, to the Charges of 2500 Pounds, the ſame was finiſhed in the Year 1558.

Coopers Hall.

Next beyond this Houſe, are placed divers fair Houſes for Merchants, and others, till ye come to the back Gate of Guild hall; which Gate, and part of the Building within the ſame, is of this Ward. Some ſmall diſtance beyond this Gate, the Coopers have their common Hall.

Thus have you noted one Pariſh Church of St. Michael Blackwel Hall, a Market Place for Woolen Cloths; the Maſons Hall, Weavers Hall, Girdlers Hall, and Coopers Hall.

Preſent State. R. B.

Now for the preſent State of this Ward.

Baſſinghall ſtreet, of which this little Ward conſiſts, is of no great Uniformity, as not running ſtrait, nor of an equal breadth. But it is graced with good Buildings, and well inhabited by Merchants; [And namely, among others, lately deceaſed, Sir Rowland Aynſworth, Kt. who traded to the Eaſt Indies, Hamburgh, Holland, and other Parts, inhabiting a very ſpacious well built Houſe, with a Court in the middle; where Sir Chriſtopher Pack ſometime kept his Maioralty.] J. S.

Blackwel Hall.

In this Street, on the Weſt, ſtands Blackwel Hall, one of the publick Edifices of the City. It is very large, having two open ſquare Courts one within the other, with Free ſtone Buildings round. One Court is next to Baſſinghall ſtreet, and the other openeth into Guild Hall Court. In this Hall are ſeveral large Rooms or Warehouſes, as well below, as above Stairs; in which Rooms, the Cloths are expoſed to ſale by the Factors employed of the Clothiers, on the Market Days; which are on Thurſdays, Fridays, and Saturdays; but the principal is Thurſday. As to the other places of Name in this Street, I ſhall ſpeak of them in order, as they lie in the ſaid Street.

Kings Arms Tavern. Maſons Alley. Maſons Hall. Cut Throat Alley.

Kings Arms Tavern, a Houſe of a very good Trade; hath a Paſſage into Catteaten ſtreet. Maſons Alley, hath a paſſage into Coleman ſtreet, through White Roſe Alley; in which is ſeated Maſons Hall, a ſmall Building. Cut Throat Alley, hath a paſſage up Steps into Guild Hall Court, by the Chappel. At the upper end of this Court, are Buildings made uſe of by the City Officers. And here the Chamberlain of this City hath his reſidence. Weavers Hall, a good handſome large Building, with a Garden behind it. Next is Coopers Hall, a fair large Building.

Weavers Hall. Coopers Hall.

St. Michael Baſſingſhaw Church.

Then is St. Michael Baſſingſhaw Church. This Church was deſtroyed by the Fire of London, and rebuilt as now it is; being a good handſome Brick Building, with a Church yard.

On both ſides this Church, is an Alley, and both called Church Alley; which encompaſſeth it, and falleth into Three Nuns Alley; and that leads into Aldermanbury. But this is in Cripplegate Ward.

Young's Court. On each ſide of this Alley, is a Row of good Buildings, eſpecially that on the South ſide. And in that on the North, is Young's Court, which is but ſmall.

White Bear Inn. White Bear Inn, much reſorted unto by Carriers.

Potters Court. Girdlers Hall. Potters Court, but ſmall. Girdlers Hall, a very handſome Building, with an open Court-yard; and a Free ſtone Pavement, and a Garden behind it. Shooters Court. Guild hall Court. Baſſiſhaw Court. Shooters Court, but ſmall, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Guild Hall Court, pretty long, but narrow. Baſſiſhaw Court, pretty large, and indifferent good, hath a paſſage to London Wall.

This Street of Baſſinghall, is all, on both ſides, in this Ward; except 72 Foot, on the Eaſt ſide of the South end.

London Wall Street. Of London Wall Street, there is in this Ward, Fifty four Foot Weſt, and Eighty eight Foot Eaſt, on either ſide of the North end of Baſſinghall Street.

Catteaten ſtreet hath only Twenty five Foot Weſt from Baſſinghall ſtreet, on the North ſide, in this Ward.

The Watch. There are to Watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, a Conſtable, a Beadle, and Twelve Watchmen.

The Jury-men. The Jurymen returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt, for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts in Guild-hall, in the Month of March.]

Governme And thus I end this Ward. Which hath an Alderman, his Deputy, for Common Council, Four, Conſtables, Two, Scavengers, Two; For the Ward Mote Inqueſt, Seventeen, and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen in London, 7 l. And likewiſe in the Exchequer, at 7 l.

The Alderman of this Ward is Sir Charles Cook, Kt.

The Bounds.

Within the Wall.

THE next Ward is called of Cripplesgate, and conſiſteth of divers Streets and Lanes, lying as well without the Gate and Wall of the City, as within. For firſt, within the Wall, on the Eaſt part thereof, towards the North, it runneth to the Weſt ſide of Baſſings Hall Ward; and towards the South, it joineth to the Ward of Cheap. It beginneth at the Weſt end of St. Laurence Church in the Jewry, on the North ſide, and runneth Weſt to a Pump, where ſometime was a Well with two Buckets, at the South corner of Aldermanbury ſtreet. Which Street runneth down North, to Gayſpur lane, and ſo to London Wall. Which Street and Lane, are wholly (on both ſides) of this Ward; and ſo be ſome few Houſes (on both the ſides) from Gayſpur lane, by and againſt the Wall of the City, Eaſt to the Grates, made for the Water-courſe of the Channels, and Weſt to Cripleſgate.

From the Standard, to the Croſs in Cheape, on the North ſide is of Cripplegate Ward.

Now on the South ſide, from over againſt the Weſt end of St. Laurence Church, to the Pump, and then up Milkſtreet, South unto Cheape. Which Milkſtreet is wholly (on both the ſides) of Cripleſgate Ward; as alſo, without the South end of Milkſtreet, a part of Weſt Cheape; to wit, from the Standard to the Croſs, is all of Cripplegate Ward. Then down great Woodſtreet, which is wholly of this Ward on both the ſides thereof; ſo is little Woodſtreet, which runneth down to Cripplegate.

On the Eaſt ſide, Lad lane.

Love lane.

Philip lane.

Out of this Woodſtreet be divers Lanes; namely, on the Eaſt ſide is Lad lane, which runneth Eaſt to Milkſtreet corner. Down lower in Woodſtreet, is Love lane, which lyeth by the South ſide of St. Albans Church in Woodſtreet, and runneth down to the Conduit in Aldermanbury ſtreet. Lower down in Woodſtreet, is Addle ſtreet; out of the which runneth Philip lane down to London Wall. Theſe be the Lanes on the Eaſt ſide.

On the Weſt ſide.

Maiden lane.

On the Weſt ſide of Woodſtreet, is Hugen lane, by the South ſide of St. Michaels Church, and goeth through to Gutherons lane. Then lower is Maiden lane, which runneth Weſt to the North end of Gutherons lane; and up to the ſaid Lane, on the Eaſt ſide thereof, till againſt Kery lane, and back again. Then the ſaid Maiden lane, on the North ſide, goeth up to Staining lane; and up a part thereof on the Eaſt ſide, to the fartheſt North part of Haberdaſhers Hall, and back again to Woodſtreet. And there lower down is Silver ſtreet, which is of this Ward, till ye come to the Eaſt end of St. Olaves Church on the South ſide, and to Monkeſwell ſtreet on the North ſide. Then down the ſaid Monkeſwel ſtreet, on the Eaſt ſide thereof, and ſo to Cripplegate, do make the Bound of this Ward within the Walls.

Bounds without the Gate. Foreſtreet.

Without Cripplegate, Foreſtreet runneth thwart before the Gate, from againſt the North ſide of St. Giles Church, along to Moor lane end; and to a Poſtern lane end, that runneth betwixt the Town Ditch on the South, and certain Gardens on the North, almoſt to Moorgate. At the Eaſt end of which Lane, is a Pot-makers Houſe: Which Houſe, with all other the Gardens, Houſes, and Allies on that ſide the Moorfields, till ye come unto a Bridge and Cow-houſe near unto Finsbury Court, is all of Cripplegate Ward.

Moorfields. An. 1477. Rafe Joſceline then being Lord Maior.

Of theſe Moorfields you have formerly read what a mooriſh rotten Ground they were; unpaſſable, but for Cawſways purpoſely made to that intent. What they were alſo in our own nearer times of memory, even till Sir Leonard Hallyday was Lord Maior of London, I am very well aſſured many do perfectly remember. And what they are now at this inſtant, by the honourable Coſt and Care of this City, and the induſtrious Pains and Diligence of that worthy Citizen, Mr. Leate, we all (to our continual comfort) do evidently behold. Mr. John Speed, my eſpecial kind Friend, acquainted me with the draught of a Map, done after that true Shape and Model, as at the firſt (by the forenamed Gentleman) they were intended; and laboured with the then Lord Maior, and Court of Aldermen, that the ſame might have been accordingly effected. But how it was prevented, I know not; only I purpoſed to have been at ſo much Charge, as to have had that Map (in ſome apt and convenient form) printed in this Book: But that I could not attain thereto; being promiſed, that at the next Impreſſion I ſhall have it.

The Wholſomneſs of the Walks there.

For the Walks themſelves, and continual Care of the City, to have them in that comely and worthy manner maintained, I am certaily perſuaded, that (our thankfulneſs to God being firſt truly performed) they are no mean cauſe of preſerving Health, and wholeſome Air to the City; and ſuch an eternal Honour thereto, as no Iniquity of Time ſhall be able to deface.]

New Artillery.

J. S.

Here, in Moorfields, is the New Artillery Ground; ſo called, in diſtinction from another Artillery Garden, near St. Mary Spittal, where formerly the Artillery Company exerciſed. Who about the latter end of King James I. his Reign, were determined to remove thence; and to hold their Trainings and Practice of Arms here; being the third great Field from Moorgate, next to the ſix Windmills. Which Field, Mr. Leat, one of the Twenty Captains, with great pains, was divers Years a preparing to that purpoſe. The Reaſon of this their Remove, was, becauſe now their Meetings and Number, conſiſted of many more Soldiers, than the old Ground could well contain; being ſometimes 6000. Though, ſometimes, notwithſtanding, they went to the old Artillery, and continued ſo to do in my memory.]

Moor lane.

Grubſtreet.

E. A.

Then to turn back again through the ſaid Poſtern Lane to Moor lane; which Moor lane, with all the Allies and Buildings there, is of this Ward. After that is Grubſtreet, more than half thereof to the ſtreightning of the Street. Next is Whitecroſs ſtreet, up to the end of Beech lane; and then Redcroſs ſtreet wholly. [Redecrouchſtrete in proia de Crepulgate. Reg. Lon.] With a part of Golden lane, even to the Poſts there placed as a Bounder.

Then is Beech lane, before ſpoken of, on the Eaſt ſide of the Redcroſs, and the Barbican ſtreet, more than half thereof, toward Alderſgate ſtreet; and ſo have you all the Bounds of Cripplegate Ward without the Walls.

Antiquities and Ornaments in this Ward.

A Pump at the corner of Aldermanbury ſtreet.

Aldermanbury, whence ſo called.

Now for Antiquities and Ornaments in this Ward, meet to be noted. I find, firſt, at the meeting of the corners of the Old Jewry, Milkſtreet, Lad lane, and Aldermanbury; there was (of old time) a fair Well with two Buckets, of late Years converted to a Pump. How Aldermanbury ſtreet took that Name, many Fables have been bruted; all which I overpaſs, as not worthy the accounting. But to be ſhort and plain, I ſay, that this Street took the Name of Alderman bury; which is to ſay, a Court there kept in their Bery, or Court Hall, now called the Guild Hall: Which Hall (of old time) ſtood on the Eaſt ſide of the ſame Street, not far from the Weſt end of Guild Hall, now uſed.

Liber Oſney. Aldermanbury Court or Guild Hall by Aldermanbury Church.

Touching the Antiquity of this old Aldermans bury, or Court, I have not read other, than that Richard Renery, one of the Sheriffs of London, in the 1ſt of Richard I. which was in the Year of Chriſt, 1189. gave to the Church of St. Mary at Oſney, by Oxford, certain Ground and Rents in Aldermanbury of London, as appeareth by the Regiſter of that Church; as is alſo entred into the Hoiſtings of the Guild hall in London.

Guild Hall, when built.

This old Bery, Court, or Hall, continued; and the Courts of the Maior and Aldermen were continually holden there, until the new Bery, Court, or Guild hall that now is, was builded and finiſhed; which Hall was firſt begun to be founded in the Year 1411. and was not fully finiſhed in Twenty Years after. I my ſelf have ſeen the Ruins of the old Court Hall, in Aldermanbury ſtreet, which of late hath been imployed as a Carpenters Yard, &c.

In this Aldermanbury ſtreet be divers fair Houſes on both the ſides, meet for Merchants or Men of Worſhip: And in the midſt thereof, is a fair Conduit made at the Charges of William Eaſtfield, ſometime Maior; who took order, as well for Water to be conveyed from Teyborne, and for the building of this Conduit not far diſtant from his dwelling Houſe: As alſo, for a Standard of ſweet Water to be erected in Fleetſtreet; all which was done by his Executors, as in another place I have ſhewed.

The Pariſh Church of St. MARY Aldermanbury.

St. Mary Aldermanbury

Shank-bone of a Man, 28 Inches and a half long.

Reyne Wolfe, a Grave Antiquary, collected the great Chronicles, increaſed, and publiſhed by his Executors, under the Name of Ralph Holenſhead.

Then is the Pariſh Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury, a fair Church, with a Church yard and Cloiſter adjoining; in the which Cloiſter is hanged and faſtened a Shank-bone of a Man (as is ſaid) very great, and larger by three Inches and a half, than that which hangeth in St. Laurence in the Jewry: For it is in length 28 Inches and a half of aſſiſe, but not ſo hard and Steel-like as the other. For the ſame is light, and ſomewhat pory and ſpongy. This Bone is ſaid to be found amongſt the Bones of Men removed from the Charnel Houſe of Pauls; or rather, from the Cloiſter of Pauls Church. Of both which Reports I doubt; for that the late Reyne Wolfe, Stationer, (who paid for the Carriage of thoſe Bones from the Charnel to the Moorfields) told me of ſome Thouſands of Carr Loads, and more to be conveyed; (whereof he wondred) but never told me of any ſuch Bone in either place to be found: Neither would the ſame have been eaſily gotten from him, if he had heard thereof, except he had reſerved the like for himſelf; being one of the greateſt Searchers and Preſervers of Antiquities in thoſe parts, for his time.

True it is, that this Bone (from whenceſoever it came) being of a Man, as the Form ſheweth, muſt needs be monſtrous, and more than after the proportion of five Shank-bones of any Man now living amongſt us.

Repaired. R.

This Church, for the ſpace of four Years paſt, hath, in one decayed part or another, been repairing: As the Steeple, Bells, Battlements; many decayed Places of the Walls; two fair Galleries built; many of the Pews new made; the reſt being all in hand, it can be no great Offence to count them already done. Which granted, and the Church in this Year finiſhed, we may conclude, as we began with the reſt of theſe Churches, thus.

This Church was repaired richly, and very worthily beautified, at the Coſt and Charge of the Pariſhioners, in the Year of our Lord, 1633.

The Pariſh Church of St. ALPHAGE.

St. Alphage.

The principal Iſle of this Church, towards the North, was pulled down, and a frame of four Houſes ſet up in the place. The other part of this Church, (from the Steeple upward) was converted into a Pariſh Church of St. Alphage: And the Pariſh Church which ſtood near unto the Wall of the City, by Cripplegate, was pulled down, and the plot thereof made a Carpenters Yard, with Saw-pits.

This Hoſpital what it was afterwards.

The Hoſpital it ſelf, the Prior, and Canons Houſe, with other Lodgings, were made a dwelling Houſe; the Church-yard is a Garden plot, and a fair Gallery on the Cloiſter. The Lodgings for the Poor, are tranſlated into Stabling for Horſes.

Elſing Spittle burned.

In the Year 1541. Sir John Williams, Maſter of the Kings Jewels, dwelling in this Houſe, on Chriſtmas Even at Night, about Seven of the Clock, a great Fire began in the Gallery thereof; which burned ſo Sore, that the Flame firing the whole Houſe, and conſuming it, was ſeen all the City over, and was hardly quenched. Whereby many of the Kings Jewels were burned, and more imbezelled, as was ſaid.

R.

This Church of St. Alphage (the Decays in divers parts of it calling upon the Pariſhioners for it) began to be repaired in the Year of our Lord, 1624. the Repair continuing the two following Years. In which time, the Maſons Work amounted to 400 l. The Reparations went on in the Years 1627. and 1628. in which laſt it was finiſhed; ariſing to 100 l. more, at the ſole Coſt and Charge of the Pariſh.

A very fair Monument in the Chancel, on the North ſide.

Here lieth the Body of Sir William Stone, Kt. free of the Clothworkers and Turkie Companies, ſometime Alderman of this City. He was the Sonne of Reynold Stone, Citizen and Fiſhmonger of London. The ſaid Sir William departed this Life the 14 of September, 1609. aged 63 yeeres, &c.

As the Earth, the Earth doth cover,
So under this Stone
lyes another;
Sir William Stone, who long deceaſed,
Ere the Worlds love him releaſed;
So much it lov'd him.
For they ſay,
He anſwered Death before his day;
But 'tis not ſo;
for he was ſought
Of one that both him made and bought.
He remain'd
the great Lords Treaſure, Who called for him
at his pleaſure,
And receiv'd him.
Yet be'it ſaid,
Earth griev'd that Heaven
ſo ſoone was paid.

Here likewiſe lyes
inhumed in one Bed,
Dame Barbara,
the welbeloved Wife
Of this remembred Knight:

Span in brevity,
Flowers felicity,
Fire of miſery,
Winds ſtability
Is mortality.

Their Riches were like Corne lent to the fielde,
What it receiv'd,
it manifold did yeeld.
Their Bodies have a Grave,
their Vertues none,
But ſhall with time grow greene,
when they are gone.

Stone Walls, braſſe Towers,

One gone, their good is, Lo! here they ſtood.
So tranſitory is our Glory.

A comely Monument in the Eaſt end of the South Iſle.

This Stone, this Verſe, two Mountfords doe preſent,
The Corps of one,
the others Monument:
Two lovely Brethren,
by their Vertues knowne,
Whom Cambridge, and
Kings Colledge cal'd their own.
Oſbert and Richard, of which worthy paire,
The firſt imployed
by Sea in great affaire;
Made Heaven his Haven.
And at that Port, the other
(By Land) did overtake his elder Brother.
So now the Bones
of both are laid aſleepe, Theſe in this Church,
thoſe in the Eaſterne Deepe:
Till all the dead
ſhall wake from Sea and Land,
Before the Judge of quicke and dead to ſtand.
Amen.

We Sonne-leſſe Parents;
yet not Childleſſe left, Bewaile (as Men)
our Seed untimely reſt.
As Chriſtians, we hope,
and joy, and ſay;
Heaven is our home,
and thither, Death the way.
By Sea or Land,
it skils not, ſo we minde
The faithful Pilgrims narrow path to finde.

Woodſtreet, why ſo called.

Then next to this is Woodſtreet, by what Reaſon ſo called, I know not. True it is, that (of old time) according to a Decree made in the Reign of Richard I. the Houſes in London were builded of Stone, for defence of Fire. Which kind of Building was uſed for two Hundred Years or more: But of later time, for the winning of Ground, theſe Houſes have been taken down, and Houſes of Timber ſet up in place. It ſeemeth therefore, that this Street hath been of the later building, all of Timber, (for not one Houſe of Stone hath been known there) and therefore called Woodſtreet: Otherwiſe it might take the Name of ſome Builder or Owner thereof.

Stone Houſes.

Thomas Wood.

Thomas Wood, one of the Sheriffs, in the Year 1491. dwelled there: He was an eſpecial Benefactor towards the building of St. Peters Church at Woodſtreet end. He alſo builded the beautiful Front of the Houſes in Cheap, over againſt Woodſtreet end, which is called Goldſmiths Row; garniſhed with the likeneſs of Woodmen. His Predeceſſors might be the firſt Builders, Owners and Namers of this Street, after their own Name.

GoldſmithsRow.

On the Eaſt ſide of this Street is one of the Priſon Houſes, pertaining to the Sheriffs of London, and is called the Compter in Woodſtreet. Which was prepared to be a Priſon Houſe, in the Year 1555. And on the Eve of St. Michael the Archangel, the Priſoners that lay in the Compter in Breadſtreet, were removed to this Compter in Woodſtreet. Beneath this Compter is Lad lane, or Ladle Hall; for ſo I find it of Record, in the Pariſh of St. Michael in Woodſtreet; and beneath that is Love lane, ſo called of Wantons.

Compter in Woodſtreet.

Ladle lane, corruptly called Lad lane.

The Pariſh Church of St. ALBANS Woodſtreet.

St. Albans.
A. M.

By this Lane, is the antient Pariſh Church of St. Albans.

Conjectures of the Antiquity of this Church.

One Note of the great Antiquity of it, is the Name; by which it was at firſt dedicated to St. Albane, the firſt Martyr of England. Another Character of the Antiquity of it, is to be ſeen in the manner of the turning of the Arches in the Windows, and Heads of the Pillars. A third Note appears in the Roman Bricks, here and there inlaid amongſt the Stones of the Building. Very probable it is, that this Church is, at leaſt, of as antient a ſtanding, as King Adelſtane the Saxon; who, as the Tradition ſays, had his Houſe at the Eaſt end of this Church. This King's Houſe having a Door alſo into Adelſtreet, in this Pariſh, gave Name, as 'tis thought, unto the ſaid Adelſtreet: Which in all Evidences, to this Day, is written King Adelſtreet. One great ſquare Tower of this Kings Houſe, ſeems yet remaining; to be ſeen at the North corner of Love lane, as you come from Aldermanbury: Which Tower is of the very ſame Stone, and manner of Building, with St. Alban's Church. This Church, decayed with meer age, is this Year*, beginning to be taken down, and to be new builded.

* An. 1633.

In great decay.
R.

This Church, being wonderfully decayed and periſhed, was by theſe Gentlemen, Sir Henry Spiller, Enigo Jones, Eſq; Captain Leake, and Captain Williams, ſurveyed, to ſee what repair might help it. But by theſe Gentlemen, and Workmen appointed with them, it was found to be too far gone for Repair. Neither would any Workman put himſelf into hazard upon it; affirming it to be in every part of it, ſo ſpent, decayed, and enfeebled, that they muſt ſuddenly pluck it down, or it would ſuddenly prevent that labour, and fall to the Ground of it ſelf. Which the Failings every day increaſing (and more and more growing and appearing) did moſt evidently ſeem to threaten.

For this Cauſe, many of the Pariſhioners refuſed to go to it; many that went, went unwillingly, but all with much fear, where they ſate with more; their Danger, all the time, much troubling and diſturbing their Devotion.

Pulled down, An. 1632.

This great Neceſſity inforcing, it was the laſt Year, 1632. betwixt Eaſter and Midſummer, pull'd down; and yet July, 1633. (a ſad object) ſo lies in its pitiful Ruins.

Many of the ableſt ſort of this Pariſh, to ſhew they would do what they could towards the recovery of this great Loſs, have joined certain Monies (their free and voluntary Gifts) together, which they have again disburſed in Stone, and ſome other Materials.

A Collection for the rebuilding it.

But this many, being but few, to the number of thoſe that in this kind can do little or nothing; and their good Wills falling extreamly ſhort of that great Sum that muſt begin and finiſh ſo great a Work as this, they were conſtrained to petition his Highneſs for his Leters Patents, for the help of a Collection for it.

Their Petition graciouſly received, his Majeſty was pleaſed (as a cauſe of all other his Piety, eſpecially Favours) to ſend his Letter to the Lord Biſhop of London, for the forwarding and effecting their deſires.

Yet notwithſtanding this fair Degree to their wiſh, they are for a time put off, by reaſon (as I am informed) of the great Collection for the Repair of the famous Cathedral Church of St. Paul. But they hope it will not be long.

In which Hope they have many Partners, as alſo in their Prayers, for all the good means that may be, to the ſpeedy rebuilding of it: Till which time, the Church appointed unto them for the Sabbath Exerciſes, Marriage, Burying, Churching, and the Sacraments, is the Pariſh Church of St. Alphage near Cripplegate. And thus much of this Church, St. Albans.]

J. S.

This Church was burnt down in the great Fire, but built again: Which, with the Gallery, was finiſhed An. 1685.

There is a Table of Benefactors to this new Church, ſet up; beginning, Sir Thomas Fiſher gave a Velvet Pulpit Cloth and Cuſhion, &c.

Thomas Hartley, Citizen and Barber Surgeon, 1683. And Mary his Wife, 1700.

CHARITIES.

The Bequeſts and charitable Gifts to this Pariſh, amount to about 20 l. per Ann. Of which a Regiſter is kept. A Particular follows. Charitable Gifts.

Donors. Gifts.

William Feel, of St. Mary Savoy, Gent, bequeathed, An. 1623. an Annuity of 10 l. for the uſe of the Poor of the Pariſh.

Gilbert Keat, of London, Eſq; by Will dated 1657. gave, to put out two young Men Apprentices, gratis, 40 l.

And ſo from four Years to four Years, giving Security to the Pariſh.

Suſan Ibel, by Will dated 16 Jac. I. gave 40 l. being her Gift, and of her deceaſed Huſbands, Thomas Roberts, for three Chaldron and four Sacks of Seacoal, among the honeſt poor People: To each, one Sack of Seacoal, as far as the ſame will extend.

The Churchwardens, with the conſent of the Executors, paid the ſaid 40 l. into the Hands of the Myſtery of Tallow Chandlers: Who covenanted with the ſaid Pariſh, to deliver to them the ſaid Coals.

Richard Wynne, Eſq; An. 1677. gave 20 l. for ever, to be diſtributed to Eight poor People of the ſaid Pariſh, at 2 s. 6 d. apiece. And the ſaid 20 l. is put forth at Intereſt.

Thomas Savage, Citizen and Goldſmith, by Will dated 1611. gave a Meſſuage called The George in Holborn Bridge, with four other Meſſuages, for the Uſe and Benefit of the Poor. Which Premiſſes, many Years before the Reign of King Edward VI. belonged to the Pariſh; but taken away in that King's Reign, by the Statute about Superſtitious Uſes. And 8 Jac. I. the Title being in Suit between the Pariſh, and one Robert Pepper, it was awarded, that Pepper and his Son ſhould convey the ſaid Premiſes to the ſaid Pariſh in Fee. Which was done; but upon Condition, that the ſaid Pariſh, or their Truſtees, ſhould grant a Leaſe back to Pepper, for 150 Years, at 5 l. per Ann.

Rent. [And the ſaid Savage, the Donor, purchaſed the Fee of the Premiſſes.]

The Company of Embroiderers pay yearly for Bread, 1 l. 6 s. being the Gift of Mr. Londſon.

Parſonage.

There was a Parſonage Houſe belonging to this Living, before the great Fire; but burnt down then. The Ground is leaſed out at 4 l. per Ann. for 41 Years: And the Premiſes rebuilt into two Houſes.

Adle ſtreet

Then is Adle ſtreet, the Reaſon of which Name I know not; only that in old Evidences it is written King Adel ſtreet; and ſo called from King Adelſtane the Saxon. At this preſent it is repleniſhed with fair Buildings on both ſides. Amongſt which, there was ſometime the Pinners Hall; but that Company being decayed, [and not worth a Pin*,] it is now the Plaiſterers Hall.

Pinners Hall, now the Plaiſterers Hall
* Firſt Edit.

Brewers Hall.

Not far from thence is the Brewers Hall, a fair Houſe. Which Company of Brewers was incorporated by King Henry VI. in the 16th of his Reign: And confirmed by the Name of St. Mary and St. Thomas the Martyr, the 19th of Edward IV.

Curriers Hall.

From the Weſt end of this Adle ſtreet, Little Woodſtreet runneth down to Cripplegate. And ſomewhat Eaſt (from the Sun Tavern, againſt the Wall of the City) is the Curriers Hall.

Huggen lane.

Now on the Weſt ſide of Woodſtreet, have ye Huggen lane; ſo called of one Hugan, that of old time dwelled there. He was called Hugan in the Lane, as I have read in the 34th of Edward I. This Lane runneth down by the South ſide of St. Michaels Church in Woodſtreet; and ſo growing very narrow, by means of late incroachments, to Guthurons lane.

The Pariſh Church of St. MICHAEL in Woodſtreet.

St. Michael in Woodſtreet.

The Pariſh Church of St. Michael in Woodſtreet, is a proper Thing, and lately well repaired; John Jue Parſon of this Church, John Forſter, Goldſmith, and Peter Fikelden, Taylor, gave two Meſſuages and Shops, with Sollars, Cellars, and other Edifices, in the ſame Pariſh and Street, and in Ladle lane, to the Reparations of the Church, Chancel, and other Works of Charity; the 16 of Richard II.

Repaired.
R.

This Church was repaired and beautified in the Year of our Lord God, 1620. at the Charges of the Pariſhioners.

Thomas Wilſon, } Church-wardens.
Humfrey Michael, }

In the Year 1627. the Pariſhioners made a new Door to this Church, through the Head of the North Iſle, being the Chancel end, into Woodſtreet: Where, till then, it had only one Door in the middle of the South Iſle, ſtanding in Huggin lane.

Rob. Lucas, a Benefactor to this Church
J. Worthing. Regiſt. Teſtam.

Rob. Lucas, Citizen and Goldſmith of London, by his laſt Will and Teſtament, made 2 September, 1381. bequeathed to the Fabrick of this Church, 40 l. Item lego ad emend. 2 Capas - - - ad deſerviend. in dicta Eccleſia, &c. to buy two Copes to ſerve in the ſaid Church, 10 Mark. Alſo to the Monaſtery at Weſtminſter, for his Burial there, 20 l.

There

James IV. King of Scots, his Head bu-ied in St. Mi-chae's Church in Woodſtreet.

There is alſo (but without any outward Monument) the Head of James, the fourth King of Scots of that Name; ſlain at Flodden Field, and buried here by this Occaſion. After the Battle, the Body of the ſaid King being found, was cloſed in Lead, and conveyed from thence to London; and ſo to the Monaſtery of Sheyne in Surrey, where it remained for a time, in what order I am not certain. But ſince the diſſolution of that Houſe, in the Reign of Edward VI. Henry Gray, Duke of Suffolk, being lodged and keeping Houſe there; I have been ſhewed the ſame Body, ſo lapped in Lead, cloſe to the Head and Body, was thrown into a waſte Room amongſt the old Timber, Lead, and other Rubble. Since the which time, Workmen there (for their fooliſh pleaſure) hewed off his Head. And Launcelot Young, Maſter Glaſier to Queen Elizabeth, feeling a ſweet ſavour to come from thence; and ſeeing the ſame dried from moiſture, and yet the Form remaining, with the Hair of the Head and Beard red, brought it to London, to his Houſe in Woodſtreet; where (for a time) he kept it for the ſweetneſs: But in the end, cauſed the Sexton of that Church, to bury it amongſt other Bones, taken out of their Charnel, &c.

CHARITIES.

Legacies.

Legacies of Charity left to this Pariſh, and ſtill enjoyed by it, are theſe.

| Donors. | Gifts. L. | S. | D. |
|---|---|---|---|
| The Lady Read, yearly | 00 | 08 | 00 |
| Mr. Hill, yearly - - | 00 | 05 | 00 |
| Both paid by the Goldſmiths Company. | | | |
| Mr. Longworth Croſs - - | 02 | 00 | 00 |

There be alſo belonging to this Pariſh of St. Michael Woodſtreet, Ground Rents of three Houſes in Lad lane, Leaſed to Mr. Dyos, at 22 l. 4 s. yearly, for 61 Years. More Ground Rent of two Houſes in Hogin lane, leaſed to Mr. Flemming, at 14 l. yearly, for 61 Years. Theſe Ground Rents were given to the Pariſh by ſome Aldermen of London, in the Reign of King Edward III. The Deeds ſo defaced by Time, that the particular Uſes cannot be read, to which they are aſſigned. But Cuſtom hath carried it for the Maintenance of the Poor, and diſcharging other Incidents.

Parſonage.

No Parſonage Houſe before the Fire, nor Glebe, belonging to the Miniſtet of this Pariſh. Yet it is found, by the Regiſter of the Parochial Viſitation, Anno 1636. that then there was a Parſonage Houſe of 7 l. per Ann.

Black Hall in Woodſtreet, in St. Michaels Pariſh. Wodſtreat, Lond. Pet. le Neve. Nor.

I read in divers Records, of a Houſe in Woodſtreet, then called Black Hall; but no Man, at this Day, can tell thereof.

In the time of King Richard II. Sir Henry Percy, the Son and Heir of Henry Percy Earl of Northumberland, had a Houſe in Wodſtreate in London; (whether this Black Hall or no, it is hard to trace) wherein he treated King Richard, the Duke of Lancaſter, the Duke of York, the Earl Marſhal, and his Father, the Earl of Northumberland, with others, at Supper.

Ingene lane, or Maiden lane. Wax Chandlers Hall.

On the North ſide of this St. Michaels Church, is Maiden lane, now ſo called; but (of old time) Ingenelane, or Inglane. In this Lane, the Wax Chandlers have their Common Hall, on the South ſide thereof: And the Haberdaſhers have their like Hall on the North ſide, at Stayning lane end. This Company of the Haberdaſhers, or Hurrers, of old time ſo called, were incorporated a Brotherhood of St. Katharine, the 26th of Henry VI. and ſo confirmed by Henry VII. the 17th of his Reign: The Cappers and Hatmakers, or Hurrers, being one Company of Haberdaſhers.

Haberdaſhers Hall. Record in the Rolls.

Silver ſtreet.

Down lower in Woodſtreet, is Silver ſtreet, (I think, of Silver-ſmiths dwelling there) in which be divers fair Houſes.

Monks-well ſtreet.

And on the North ſide thereof, is Monkeſwell ſtreet, ſo called, of a Well at the North end thereof; where the Abbot of Garendon had an Houſe or Cell, called St. James in the Wall, by Cripplegate; and certain Monks of their Houſe, were the Chaplains there. Wherefore the Well (belonging to that Cell or Hermitage) was called Monkes Well; and the Street, of the Well, Monkes-well ſtreet.

Arth. Jackſon, Miniſter of St. James in the Wall. An. 1625. J. Bagf. Regiſtr. S. Jacob.

Upon the 8th of July, 1625. I Arthur Jackſon, Rector of St. Michael Hogen lane, Woodſtreet, was choſen by the Worſhipful Company of Clothworkers, to be Miniſter of this Church or Chapel of St. James on the Wall; commonly called Lambes Chapel. This J. Bagford tranſcribed out of the Regiſter Book of the Pariſh Church or Chapel of St. James on the Wall; with this that follows.

Marriages. 1586. 18 of Auguſt, (being the firſt Regiſter) Nicolas Beſtney, of Gray's Inn in Holborne, in the County of Middleſex, Eſq; and Bridget Mitchel, ſole Daughter and Heir of John Mitchel, of Warham, in the County of Suſſex.

The 28th of July, 1608. Henry Hudſon, of the Inner Temple, London, Gent. and Sibyll Beſtney, &c.

Thus far theſe Marriages were taken out of ſeveral Paper Regiſters, by me Arthur Jackſon. And then from this Mr. Jackſon's Regiſter Book, were entred the Marriages in that Chappel celebrated, unto the Year 1632. and no further.]

Burials entred in the ſame Regiſter.

1592. Eleonor Beſtncy, Daughter of Nicolas Beſtney, and Bridget his Wife.

1604. May 29. Katharine Beſtney, Daughter of Nicolas Beſtney, Eſq; and Bridget his Wife, Auguſt 29. Urſula Beſtney, Daughter of the ſaid Nicolas and Bridget, &c.

1632. March 22. Mrs. Bridget Beſtney, Widow, late Wife of Mr. Nicolas Beſtney, Eſq;

The Eaſt ſide of this Street, down againſt London Wall; and the South ſide thereof to Cripplegate, be of Cripplegate Ward, as is afore ſhewed.

Bowyers Hall.

In this Street, by the corner of Monks-well ſtreet, is the Bowyers Hall.

Alms houſes in Monkes-well ſtreet.

On the ſaid Eaſt ſide of Monks-well ſtreet, be proper Alms-houſes, Twelve in numbec, founded by Sir Ambroſe Nicholas, Salter, Maior, 1575. Wherein he placed Twelve poor and aged People Rent free; having each of them 7 Pence the Week, and once the Year, each of them five Sacks of Charcoals, and one quarter of an Hundred of Faggots, of his Gift for ever.

More Almſhouſes hereabouts. A. M.

On the North ſide of the way, turning towards Cripplcgate; and even upon, or cloſe to London Wall, (as it were) are certain new erected Alms-houſes, ſix in number, of the Coſt and Gift of Mr. Robert Rogers, Leatherſeller: And very good Maintenance allowed, for ever, to ſuch People as are appointed to dwell in them.]

Rogers's Alms Houſe. J. S.

They ſtand in Hart ſtreet; and are for ſix antient Couple; with a Room below, and another above, for each. The Founder, and the Qualifications of ſuch as are admitted, will appear in the Inſcription on the ſaid Houſe; Viz.

The Gift of Robert Rogers, Merchant Adventurer, and free of the Leatherſellers Company. Who, among other good Deeds, gave 600 l. to build and lay out upon theſe Almshouſes; for the Relief of ſuch ſix aged Couples, being Freemen and Free-women, as have no Charge of Children. He died in the Year 1601. Erected Anno Dom. 1612.

It is in the City Diſpoſal: Each receive 4 l. a Year.]

Alms-chambers in little Woodſtreet.

Then, in little Woodſtreet, be ſeven proper Chambers in an Alley on the Weſt ſide, founded for Seven poor People, therein to dwell Rent free; by Henry Barton, Skinner, Maior, 1416.

Thus much for the Monuments of this Ward, within the Walls.

The Pariſh Church of St. GILES Cripplegate.

St Giles without Cripplegate.

Now without the Poſtern of Cripplegate, Firſt, is the Pariſh Church of St. Giles; a very fair and large Church, lately repaired: After that the ſame was burned, in the Year 1545. the 37th of Henry VIII.

Repaired. R.

But for the later Reparations of this Church, we begin with the Year 1623. In which all the Roof over the Chancel, was on the outſide repaired, and in the inſide very curiouſly clouded.

To the further Grace and Ornament of this Chancel, there was added, in the ſame Year, the Coſt of a very fair Table of the Commandments; and with theſe, the Church (then) was throughout very worthily beautified.

In the Years of our Lord God, 1624, and 1626. the two ſide Galleries were built very fair and ſpacious.

In the Year of our Lord 1629. the Steeple very much decayed, was repaired; all the four Spires (ſtanding in four Towers at the four Corners of it) taken down, with new and very ſubſtantial Timber Work rebuilt; and with the Lead new caſt, new covered. Every one of theſe Spires inlarged ſomewhat in the compaſs, a great deal in height, but moſt, in their ſtately, eminent, and graceful Appearance.

In the midſt of theſe, where there was none before (gracing, and being graced by them) was a very fair Turret erected; the Head of it (which much overpeers thoſe Spires) covered with Lead, as alſo the props that ſupport it. This, and the Spires, having every one a Croſs, with very fair Vanes upon them.

The Charge of all this I could not certainly get, and would not uncertainly ſpeak it: But the greatneſs of the Things ſpeak the Coſt to be great; all being the ſole Charge of the Pariſhieners.]

This Church was again repaired, the Ground raiſed, new pewed, adorned and beautified; and the old Veſtry taken down, and new built, An. 1704.] J. S.

INTERRMENTS.

A comely Monument by the other.

This Busbie, willing to relieve the poore, with Fire and with Bread,
Did give the Houſe wherein he dwelt,
then called the Queenes Head.
Foure full Loads of the beſt Charcoales
he would have bought each yeere,
And forty dozen of Wheaten Bread, for poore Houſeholders here.
To ſee theſe Things diſtributed, this Buſbie put in truſt
The Vicar and Churchwardens, thinking them to be juſt.
God grant that poore Houſeholders here,
may thankfull be for ſuch;
So God will move the Minds of more,
to do for them as much:
And let this good Example move
ſuch Men as God hath bleſt,
To doe the like, before they goe, with Buſbie to their reſt.
Within this Chappel, Buſbies bones,
in Duſt a while muſt ſtay,
Till he that made them, raiſe them up, to live with Chriſt for aye.

If Langleys Life you liſt to know,
read on and take a view,
Of Faith and Hope I will not ſpeake,
his Workes ſhall ſhew them true:
Who whilſt he liv'd, with Counſell grave,
the better Sort did guide,
A Stay to Weake, a Staffe to Poore, without Backbite or Pride:
And when he dyed, he gave his Mite,
all that did him befall,
For ever (once a yeere) to cloath
St. Giles his Poore withall.
All Saints he pointed for the day,
Gownes twenty ready made,
With twenty Shirts, and twenty Smocks,
as they may beſt be had.
A Sermon eke he hath ordain'd, that God may have his praiſe,
And others might be won thereby,
to follow Langleys wayes.
On Vicar and Churchwardens then,
his truſt he hath repos'd,
As they will anſwer him one day,
when all ſhall be diſclos'd.
Thus being dead, yet ſtill he lives,

The Circuit of the Pariſh of St. Giles without Cripplegate.

A. M.

THE Pariſhioners, in their Perambulation, firſt ſtrike down the Alley (which hath ſometime been part of their Churchyard) cloſe by St. Giles his Well; and croſſing the Town ditch, keep along by the City Wall, almoſt to Alderſgate. Where they ſhould croſs the Ditch again, and take in certain Gardenhouſes, which ſtand near the Ditch; and ſo coming down a little Garden Alley, (through which ſometime hath been a way into Alderſgate ſtreet) return again by St. Giles his Well, the ſame way they went in.

Then walking up the Weſt ſide of Redcroſs ſtreet, and the South ſide of Barbican, till they come toward the farther end thereof, over againſt the Sign of the Boars head, they ſet up their Marks upon a great Poſt, (as it ſeemeth, ſet there for the ſame purpoſe) where they ſhould croſs over to the North ſide, right over againſt the ſaid Bound, thorow certain Garden-

Alleys, lying on the Weſt ſide of Willoughby Houſe. But by reaſon of ſome Contention, that Courſe is of late denied them: So that they paſs through Barbican, and turn up Goſwell ſtreet, (being part of St. Botolph Pariſh) until they come a little beyond the Bars, where they enter their own Bounds again; and ſetting up their Marks, paſs along the Right ſide of the Kings High way, leading to Iſlington. And leaving the Mount Mill upon their Right hand, they proceed on, till they come within three Rods of a little Bridge, (at the lower end of the Cloſe next unto Iſlington; over which lyeth a Foot-path toward Newington Green.) Where they dig a Way over the Ditch, and ſo keep upon the Ditch Bank, all the breadth of the lower end of the ſaid Cloſe. Where they turn again South-eaſt, and taking in all the Lay-ſtalls, and low Grounds, where Brick hath been made, ſtrike over between thoſe low Grounds and the Brickhills, that now are adjoining to the Foot path, leading from the Peſthouſe to Iſlington; which they leave on the left ſide. In the South end of which Brickhill, there is a Stone ſet, now almoſt digged down. From the which Stone, they come ſtrait South, till they come over a Bridge, which is laid purpoſely for them, and after removed. In this Street was a White croſs; and near it was built an Arch of Stone, under which ran a Courſe of Water down to the Moor, called now Moorfields. Which being too narrow for the free Courſe of the Water, and ſo an annoyance to the Inhabitants, the twelve Men preſented it at an Inquiſition of the Kings Juſtices, 3 Ed. I. And they preſented the Abbot of Ramſey, and the Prior of St. Trinity; whoſe Predeceſſors, ſix Years paſt, had built (as the Inquiſition ran) a certain Stone Arch at Whyte croyſe, in the Ward of Cripplegate; beyond the Courſe of a certain Water coming down from Smethfeld del Barbican, in that Ward, towards the Moor. Which Arch the foreſaid Abbot and Prior, and their Succeſſors, ought to maintain and repair. And which was ſo ſtrait, that the Water there could not have its full Courſe, to the Annoyance of the Inhabitants. Hereupon it was commanded the Sheriffs, to diſtrain the ſaid Abbot and Convent, to mend the ſaid Arch.]

One Alley, of divers Tenements, over againſt the North Wall of St. Giles Churchyard, was appointed to be Almſhouſes for the Poor, wherein they dwelled Rent free, and otherwiſe were relieved: But the ſaid Brotherhood was ſuppreſſed by Henry VIII. In all which ſaid Places, are ſeveral Courts and Places of Name.

Parts without the Wall.

Likewiſe the Places in this Ward, without the Wall, are Foreſtreet, and the Poſtern leading to Moorfields; Back ſtreet in the little Moorfields; Moor lane, Grub ſtreet, the South part to the Poſts and Chain; Whitecroſs ſtreet, the South ſide, ſo far as the Poſts and Chain; Redcroſs ſtreet, about 450 Foot on both ſides; Beach lane, Golden lane, the South part to the Poſts and Chain; Barbican, the Eaſt part thereof, on both ſides, for about 450 Foot from the corner of Golden lane; Jewen ſtreet, the Eaſt part thereof, and on both ſides to Redcroſs ſtreet, for about 450 Foot; Brackley ſtreet, Bridgwater ſtreet, and Letton ſtreet; all of them built in the place where Bridgwater Houſe ſtood; before let to be thus built into Tenements.

Milkſtreet, comes out of Cheapſide, and falleth into Lad lane. This Street is well built, and inhabited by Wholeſale Traders; and that part that lieth open to Hony lane Market, is the beſt.

St. Maudlins Milkſtreet Church.

Here, in this Street, toward Cheapſide, ſtood the Pariſh Church of St. Maudlins Milkſtreet.

It was deſtroyed in the dreadful Fire of London, and not rebuilt; but the Pariſh is united unto St. Laurence Jewry, and the Ground converted into the Market.

Caſtle Tavern Court. Feathers Court. Robin hood Alley. Crown Court. Caſtle Court, or Alley. Fryers Court.

The Courts and Alleys in this Street, are, Caſtle Tavern Court, ſo called from the Caſtle Tavern therein ſeated. It hath a narrow paſſage into Woodſtreet. Feathers Court, pretty long and open, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Robin Hood Alley, hath a paſſage into Honey lane Market. Crown Court, but ſmall. Mumfords Court, a good large Place, well built, with a Free ſtone Pavement. About the middle, is a paſſage into Caſtle Court, or Alley; which is likewiſe long, falling into St. Laurence lane, and well inhabited. Clement Court, a very handſome open Place, with good Houſes; and hath a Paſſage up Steps into Fryers Court, which leads into Woodſtreet.

Catteaten ſtreet.

Catteaten ſtreet, hath but a very ſmall part in this Ward; viz. from the corner of Aldermanbury unto St. Laurence Jewry Church; the reſt is in Cheap Ward, and is a Street of a good Trade.

Lad lane. Swan Inn with two Necks.

Lad lane, lyeth betwixt Woodſtreet in the Weſt, and Milkſtreet, and Aldermanbury in the Eaſt. It is likewiſe a Street of a good Trade, and well inhabited. Here is the Swan Inn with two Necks; which is large, and of a conſiderable Trade for Northern Carriers. More towards Woodſtreet, are two ſmall Courts or Alleys, but without Name.

Aldermanbury.

Aldermanbury, an open handſome Street, graced with good Buildings; which are very well inhabited by Merchants, wholeſale Dealers, &c.

Fountain Court.

In this Street are theſe Courts, viz. Fountain Court, on the Eaſt ſide, a large ſquare Place, well inhabited and built; hath a Paſſage into St. Laurence Church Alley, which leads into Catteaten ſtreet; as alſo to Guild Hall Court, or Yard. This Court was built out of a large Houſe, formerly the Seat of Sir Eraſmus de la Fountaine, Kt. deceaſed.

Dyers Court. Carpenters Court.

Dyers Court, very large, and well inhabited by Perſons of repute; having an open entrance for Coach or Cart. Carpenters Court, a very handſome fine Place, with a Free ſtone Pavement, well inhabited.

St Mary Aldermanbury Church.

St. Mary Aldermanbury Church, a large and graceful Building, with a good Front; adjoining to which, is a very neat Churchyard, adorned with Trees, within ſide of the Wall.

Hadley's Court. Church Alley. Axe Inn. George Inn. Millers Court.

Near unto this Church, on the South ſide, is a handſome Conduit, built Tower wiſe; and on the North ſide, is Hadleys Court, but ſmall, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Church Alley, hath a paſſage into Baſinghall ſtreet, by the Church. Axe Inn, of a pretty good Trade. George Inn, pretty large, chiefly for Stabling and Coaches. Millers Court, indifferent large, but with a narrow Paſſage.

Love lane. Berry Court.

Love lane, comes out of Aldermanbury, and falls into Woodſtreet, by St. Albans Woodſtreet Church; where it divides, and one part incompaſſeth the Church, except the Front in Woodſtreet. In this Lane is Berry Court, which is handſome, and well built.

Adle ſtreet. Plaiſterers Hall. Brewers Hall.

Adle ſtreet, which alſo lieth betwixt Aldermanbury and Woodſtreet; is yet much inhabited by Joiners, for the making of Bedſteds, Cheſts of Drawers, Scritores, Tables, and ſuch like Joinery Wares. Here is the Plaiſterers Hall, a pretty handſome Building. Not far from this Hall, and on the ſame ſide of the way, is Brewers Hall; which is a large and handſome Building, with a graceful Entrance into a large Court; the Pavement of Free ſtone, cloiſtered, and the Building over it, ſuſtained by handſome Pillars.

London Wall. Checker Inn. Fox and Gooſe Inn. Katharine Wheel Inn.

London Wall, is a long Street, coming out of Little Woodſtreet, by Cripplegate, and runs Eaſtward, as far as Wincheſter ſtreet; but goeth no further in this Ward, than the Checker Inn, which is a little beyond Coleman ſtreet. This Street is but of little Trade, and chiefly for Curriers, and the Buildings old and ordinary; the North ſide having only the City Wall, which gives a paſſage into Moorfields, and the parts adjacent by Moorgate; and two Poſterns, of each ſide of the Gate one. The Places of Name in that part of this Street within this Ward, are Checker Inn, Fox and Gooſe Inn, Katharine Wheel Inn, all three of ſmall Account, only for Stablings.

St. Alphage Church.

St. Alphage Church, very old, ſeated over againſt London Wall; and in the Street, at the upper end of Aldermanbury, called Giltſpur ſtreet. This Church was not burnt in the late Fire of London.

Sion College.

Near to this Church, ſomewhat more Weſtwards over againſt London Wall, is ſeated Sion College, a very handſome Building, erected for the Clergy of this City, and Liberties; where there is a conſiderable Library of excellent Books, for their uſe; and a long Library Room to keep them in, one Story high. Having underneath it, 20 Rooms or Chambers, for ſo many poor People; of which, Ten within the College are for ſo many Men; and Ten without, which have their Doors in Philip lane, for ſo many poor Women. But of this College, Notice hath been taken already.

Philip lane. Sion Court. Burges Court. Cock Court. Currier Court. Curriers Hall.

More Weſtwards of this College, is Philip lane; which goes from London Wall, and falls into Adle ſtreet, a Place indifferently built and inhabited. In this Place, are Sion Court, pretty large, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Burges Court, hath a paſſage into Woodſtreet; the middle part is pretty open, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Cock Court, but ſmall, alſo with a Free ſtone Pavement. Hand Alley, ſmall and narrow. Curriers Court, ſeated in London Wall ſtreet, Weſtwards of Sion College; a Place but ordinary. At the upper end of which, is Curriers Hall, a pretty good Building, with a handſome coming to it, with Free ſtone.

Hart Street. City Almſhouſes. Bowyers Court.

Hart ſtreet, adjoining to Cripplegate, falls into Mugwel ſtreet, a Place but of mean Account. The North ſide of this Street, as alſo the Weſt ſide of Mugwel ſtreet, belongs to Faringdon Ward within. On the North ſide of Hart ſtreet, are the City Almſhouſes, for ſix poor Women. On the South ſide is Bowyers Court, which is but ſmall; and here was, formerly, Bowyers Hall.

J. S.

This Street where Lambs Chappel, and the Barber Surgeons Hall ſtand, Stow placeth in Farrendon Ward within.

Mugwel ſtreet. Lambs Chappel Court. Lambs Alley. Gilberts Court. Dobins Court. Windſor Court. Wincheſter Court.

Mugwel ſtreet. This Street is of no Trade, but indifferently well built, and inhabited by private Houſekeepers. The Courts and Places of Name, are Lambs Chappel Court, pretty large, and well built. Adjoining to which, is Lambs Alley, which is large, narrow, and but ordinary. Gilberts Court, ſmall and mean. Dobins Court, but ordinary. Windſor Court, but ordinary. Wincheſter Court, a good large open Place, and well built.

Barber Surgeons Hall.

Barber Surgeons Hall, a very handſome Building, with a Court paved with Free ſtone; and the Hall or Room where the chief of the Surgeons aſſemble, to anatomiſe or diſſect the Bodies of dead Perſons, is worth the ſeeing; for the great Curioſity of the Skeletons, the Skins, &c.

Lambs Chappel.

At the North corner of this Street, on the ſame ſide as this Hall of the Surgeons is, ſtands Lambs Chappel, founded by one Lamb, a Clothworker.

Gifts belonging thereunto. Lyborn.

In this Chappel, the Worſhipful Company of Clothworkers have Four Sermons preached to them, upon four principal Feſtivals in the Year; viz. Upon the Feaſt of the Annunciation of the Bleſſed Virgin Mary, March 25. On the Feaſt of St. John Baptiſt, June 24. On the Feaſt of St. Michael the Archangel, September 29. And on the Feaſt of St. Thomas the Apoſtle, December 21. Upon which Days, the Maſter, Wardens, and Livery of the Company, meet at ſome convenient Church, near unto the Chappel, whence they go in their Gowns and Hoods to the Chappel, and hear a Sermon. After which, they relieve Twelve poor Men, and as many Women, with 12 d. apiece in Money; and once a Year, viz. at Michaelmas, to each of them a Frieze Gown, a Lockeram Shift, and a good pair of Winter Shoes; all ready made, fit for their wearing.

This Chappel is, now, commonly called Lambs Chappel; and the Inhabitants of the Tenements belonging to the ſaid Chappel, have, till within theſe 35 Years laſt paſt, namely, till the Year 1660. ſtood in competition with the Pariſhioners of the Pariſh of St. Olaves Silverſtreet, who would have had thoſe Inhabitants to have been of their Pariſh; which indeed they are, as may appear by this following Deed.

A very antient DEED, to prove LAMBS CHAPPEL, to have antiently been in the Pariſh of St. Olave Silverſtreet.

An antient Deed.

‘KNOW all Men preſent and to come, That I Laurence de Frowik, have granted and dimiſſed, and by this preſent Charter of mine, have confirmed unto Richard of Clerkenwell, Chaplain, all that Land of mine, with the Houſes, Buildings, and Appurtenances, which I have in London, in Muckwell ſtreet, in the Pariſh of St. Olaves; lying between that Land which William Throtegos held of me, towards the South, and the Land of the Fryers of the new Hoſtell, towards the North; and which extendeth it ſelf in length, from the King's High way, even unto the Wall of the City, towards the Weſt, &c. He paying me Twenty Shillings a Year, &c. and giving unto the Church of St. Olaves aforeſaid, one Wax Candle, of a Pound weight, at the Feaſt of St. Thomas the Apoſtle, yearly. And unto the Chappel (de incluſorio) in the Cloſe or Cloiſter within Creplegate, at the upper end of Muckwell ſtreet, towards the North, one other Wax Taper, of Three quarters Weight, upon the Feaſt of St. James, yearly, &c.

Witneſs, Nicholas Bat, then Maior of London.
John of Northampton, and
Richard Pycard, then Sheriffs, &c.
[Anno 1253.

Notes upon this DEED.

Out of this ſo antient a Deed, may we obſerve,

1. That by the bounding of the Land, between the Street and the City Wall, towards the Weſt, that this is the Ground which is now Lambs Chappel Yard.

2. By the aſſigning the latter Candle to be paid to the Chappel upon St. James his Day, that it was meant to this Lambs Chappel; which was antiently called, The Chappel of St. James in the Wall; upon whoſe Feſtival this Chappel ſeems to have been dedicated. And to honour the Solemnity of which, Frowick, the Gentleman, directed this Candle to be yearly paid.

The Original of this Deed in Latin, is in the Hands of that moſt learned Antiquary of our Days, Sir Henry Spelman, Kt.]

Fell Street. R. B. Fell Court. Black Horſe and Hare Inn.

Fell ſtreet, ſeated betwixt Mugwel ſtreet and Little Woodſtreet; a Place of no great Account, and but narrow. Here is Fell Court, pretty ſquare, and well built; but hath a narrow paſſage into it. Black Horſe and Hare Inn, only for Stabling.

Silver ſtreet.

Silver ſtreet, goes from Little Woodſtreet unto Noble ſtreet; a handſome broad Street, with well built Houſes; ſuppoſed to be ſo called, from the Silverſmiths then there dwelling; which are now removed into Foſter lane, and other Places.

Winton Court. Red Lion Court. A Presbyterian Meeting Houſe.

In this Street are theſe Places, Winton Court, pretty handſome, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Red Lyon Court, indifferent good and large; over againſt which, is a large Presbyterian Meeting Houſe; being a very good Building in a Yard.

Weſtmoreland Court.

Weſtmoreland Court, an open large Place, but ordinary built; and fronts Noble ſtreet.

Woodſtreet. Woodſtreet Cakes.

Woodſtreet, of which there is the Great and the Little; Great Woodſtreet beginning on the South, at Cheapſide, and falling into Little Woodſtreet, runs up to Cripplegate. Both Streets in this Ward, except a ſmall part next to Cheapſide, as already taken Notice of. Great Woodſtreet is a Street well built and inhabited, and noted for the good Cakes here made; which are wont to be bought here for Weddings, Chriſtnings, and Twelfthnights.

Woodſtreet Compter.

On the Eaſt ſide of Great Woodſtreet, is one of the Priſons belonging to the Sheriffs, and called Woodſtreet Compter. Near unto Woodſtreet Compter, is Lad lane, which falleth into Catteaten ſtreet, betwixt Aldermanbury, on the North ſide, and Milkſtreet on the South.

In Woodſtreet are a great many Courts, Alleys, and Places of Name; I ſhall begin next to Cheapſide.

Croſs keys Inn. Goldſmiths Streat. Pauls Alley. Caſtle Tavern.

Croſs Keys Inn, pretty large, and of a good Trade. Goldſmiths ſtreet, pretty good, falls in to Foſter lane; hath ſome part in the Ward of Faringdon within, where it is mentioned. Pauls Alley, pretty good, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Caſtle Tavern, of a conſiderable Trade; and ſo much the more, as being near the Compter: Such a Trade hath the Mitre alſo.

Fryers Alley. Clements Court Shovel Alley.

Fryers Alley, or Court, but ordinary; hath a paſſage into Clements Court, which leads into Milkſtreet. Shovel Alley, pretty good, with a Free ſtone Pavement.

St. Michael Woodſtreet Church.

St. Michael Woodſtreet Church, ſeated at the corner of Huggen lane, againſt Lad lane, a good handſome Free ſtone Building, ſince its being burnt in the Fire of London, and built again. To which Church, is now united the Pariſh of St. Mary Staining, having loſt its Church by that Fire.

Huggen lane.

Huggen lane. This Lane comes out of Woodſtreet, by the South ſide of St. Michaels Church, where it is pretty broad, well built, and inhabited. But further, where it runneth into Gutter lane, through the encroachments of Buildings, it becomes very narrow, and but ordinary.

Caſtle Inn. Coach and Horſes Inn.

Other Courts and Places in Woodſtreet. Caſtle Inn, very large, and of a great Reſort and Trade. Coach and Horſes Inn or Yard, large, but taken up for Livery Stables and Coaches.

Maiden head Court.
Paved Alley.

Maidenhead Court, a handſome ſquare open Place, with good Buildings; having a wide entrance for Cart or Coach, with a Gate to ſhut up a Nights. Nigh to this Court, is a large Yard for Livery Horſes. Paved Alley, long and ordinary, runs up into Staining ſtreet, by the Churchyard Wall of Staining Church; and thence into Lilly pot lane, which leads into Noble ſtreet.

St. Albans Woodſtreet Church.

On the Eaſt ſide of the Street, is St. Albans Woodſtreet Church, fronting the Street; but all the Body of it is in Love lane, which incompaſſeth the other three ſides; and on the North ſide is the Church Yard. It was burnt in the Fire of London, and now rebuilt very handſome of Free ſtone, and a graceful coming unto it. The Steeple was lately taken down, and built up again.

To this Church, is now united the Pariſh of St. Olaves Silverſtreet, burnt, but not rebuilt.

Frying Pan Alley.
Bell Inn.
Clerks Hall.
Livery ſtable Yard.
Birds Court.

Frying Pan Alley, but indifferent, and hath a turning Paſſage into Paved Alley. Bell Inn, large, and well reſorted unto. Clerks Hall, a pretty good Building. Livery Stable Yard, a pretty handſome Place, well built, but ſmall for that uſe. Birds, or Burges Court, pretty good, the middle being more open, with a Free ſtone Pavement, and hath a paſſage into Philip lane.

In Little Woodſtreet, in an Alley, are ſeven Rooms, for ſo many poor People to live Rent free; the Gift of Henry Barton, Skinner, and Maior, 1516.

Maiden lane
Haberdaſhers Hall.
Flying horſe Court.
Mutton Court.

Maiden lane, a Street well inhabited and built; it comes out of Woodſtreet, and falls into Foſter lane; but the part in this Ward, goeth but to Staining lane. Here is Haberdaſhers Hall, a large and well built Houſe, with a good Court before the Hall; and a Free ſtone Pavement. In this Street is Flying horſe Court, which is but ordinary; and Mutton Court, likewiſe narrow and mean.

Gutter Lane.

Gutter lane, hath ſome part in this Ward.

Cripplegate Ward without the Wall.

This is a large Tract of Ground, containing ſeveral Streets, and all crowded with Courts and Alleys. The chief are Foreſtreet, the Poſtern ſtreet, Backſtreet in little Moorfields; Moor lane, Grub ſtreet, Whitecroſs ſtreet, Redcroſs ſtreet, Beech lane, Golden lane, Barbican, and Jewen ſtreet. Of theſe in Order.

Foreſtreet.

Foreſtreet, pretty broad, and well inhabited, runneth from the North end of St. Giles Cripplegate Church, unto Moorlane, Eaſtwards; and then it falls into Poſtern ſtreet, which leadeth to Little Moorfields, againſt new Bethlem. And about the middle of this Street, is a Paſſage through Cripplegate; in which is a ſhort Street, well built and inhabited: Where is White Horſe Inn, pretty good.

In this Street are a great many Courts and Alleys, which I ſhall take notice of, beginning next to St. Giles Church.

St. Giles Cripplegate Church.

St. Giles Cripplegate Church, ſeated oppoſite to Redcroſs ſtreet, and in Foreſtreet. The Church is very large, as indeed it ought to be, as belonging to ſo large and populous a Pariſh; with a ſpacious Church yard adjoining unto it. It hath a very handſome Towred Steeple, with Spires at each corner, and a Lanthorn in the midſt; with a good Ring of Bells.

Cripplegate Conduit

Some ſmall diſtance from this Church, Eaſtwards, and oppoſite to Cripplegate, is a Water Conduit.

Little Cock Alley.
Graſhopper Alley.
White hart Inn.
Crown Tavern.
Three Dagger Court.
Black horſe Alley.
Red hart Court.
Day's Court.
Founders Court.
Aldermanbury Poſtern.

Little Cock Alley, very ordinary. Great Cock Alley or Yard, a good large Place, indifferent Building, and hath a paſſage into Whitecroſs ſtreet. Graſhopper Alley, long, narrow, and ordinary. White Hart Inn, pretty good, chiefly for Livery Stables. Adjoining to this Inn, is the Crown Tavern, of a pretty good Reſort and Trade. Three Dagger Court, both ordinary and meanly inhabited. Black Horſe Alley, long, but very mean. Unicorne Alley, long and ordinary. Betwixt this and Black Horſe Alley, is an ordinary Court, only for the Pariſh Alms People. Red Hart Court, pretty handſome, with new built Houſes, and a Free ſtone Pavement; pretty well inhabited. Days Court, indifferent good: Oppoſite to this Court, are two pretty long Carpenters, or Timber Yards. Founders Court, but ordinary. Red Bull Court, pretty good. Aldermanbury Poſtern, a pretty handſome ſhort Street, well built, and inhabited; hath a paſſage through London Wall, over againſt Aldermanbury, and therefore ſo called.

Mauls Court.
The Poſtern.
*Lorimers*Hall.
The Green Yard.
Cradle Court.
Moor's Court.

The Poſtern ſtreet begins at the corner of Moor lane, and runs into Little Moorfields; a Place pretty well built and inhabited, and of ſome Trade. Mauls Court, a pretty handſome neat Place, with Garden Plots before the Houſes. The Poſtern, a good well built and inhabited Street; hath a paſſage into London Wall ſtreet. Here is Lorimers Hall, a pretty neat Building, adjoining to London Wall. The Green Yard, which is large, and made uſe of by the City as a Pound, for ſuch Cars and Coaches, whoſe Drivers commit any Offence in the Streets, contrary to Orders or Rules to be obſerved by them. Cradle Court, indifferent good; nigh unto which is a Carpenters Yard. Moor Court, ſmall and ordinary.

Little Moorfields, or Back ſtreet.
Hind Alley.
Half Moon Alley.
Vine Court.
Angel Alley.
Harts horn Alley.
Butchers Alley.
Oyſterſhell Court.
Gun Alley.
Ropemakers Alley.

Little Moorfields, or the Back ſtreet, now ſo called, to diſtinguiſh it from the new double Row of Houſes, now finiſhed; which is called the Foreſtreet. Which ſaid new Row of Buildings is in Coleman ſtreet Ward: Which ſaid Buildings are good, and well inhabited. Out of this Back ſtreet, are ſeveral Courts and Alleys, viz. Crown Court, long, and indifferent good. Hind Alley, likewiſe long, and pretty good. Half Moon Alley, long and narrow, and but indifferently built and inhabited; as are moſt of theſe Alleys. At the upper end it divides it ſelf into two parts, one of which falls into Vine Court, and the other into Angel Alley, and thence into Moor lane. Angel Alley is long, and pretty good; and at the upper end, falls into Moor lane; and hath a paſſage into Half Moon Alley. Hartſhorn Alley, likewiſe long and mean, running into Moor lane; and lieth open, in ſome part, to Angel Alley; the partition Pale being broken down. Butlers Alley, long, and narrow, but indifferent good; alſo falls into Moor lane, where it is broadeſt. And about the upper end, on the South ſide, is Oyſterſhel Court, which is pretty good. Gun Alley, narrow, but pretty well built; at the upper end falls into Sugar loaf Court, and ſo into Moor lane. Whites Alley, a good handſome open Place, well built; ſome of the Houſes having Gardens unto them. Ropemakers Alley, pretty broad, with ſeveral Garden Houſes; which are well built and inhabited. This Alley falls into Butlers Alley, which, with ſeveral turnings, falls into Grubſtreet.

More lane.
Rams head Court.

Moor lane, for the generality, but meanly built and inhabited; eſpecially the upper end, which is narrow, and leadeth into a place called Back Alley, very mean; having a paſſage upon Sufferance into Ropemakers Alley; likewiſe another paſſage into Butlers Alley, and ſo into Grubſtreet. Rams head Court, but very ordinary, Sugarloaf Court. Seven Star Court. Sugarloaf Alley. Car Yard. Cock Alley. Vine Court. Maiden head Court.

ordinary, taken up by Carmen, for Stabling for their Horſes. Sugar loaf Court, long and ordinary; hath a paſſage into Gun Alley, and ſo into Little Moorfields. Seven Star Court, very mean. Sugar loaf Alley, ſmall and ordinary. Butlers Alley, leadeth into Moorfields, already treated of. Car Yard, a pretty large place for Stabling. Cock Alley, very ſmall and mean. Vine Court, and Maidenhead Court, both which are lately built with pretty good Houſes; having each a paſſage into Little Moorfields, through Half Moon Alley.

Grubſtreet, very long, coming out of Foreſtreet, and running, Northwards, into Chiſwel ſtreet; but ſome ſmall part, to wit, from Sun Alley to Chiſwel ſtreet, is not in the Ward, but in the Liberty of Finſbury. This Street, taking in the whole, is but indifferent, as to its Houſes and Inhabitants; and ſufficiently peſtered with Courts and Alleys, the Names of which are as followeth.

Lund's Alley. Flower de lis Court. Flying horſe Court. George Inn. Nags head Inn.

Lunds Alley, long and ordinary, falls into Moor lane. Honyſuckle Court, pretty good, with new built Houſes. Flower de lis Court, very ſmall and ordinary. Little Bell Alley, but mean. Flying Horſe Court, long, but ordinary built; and, by conſequence, the Inhabitants anſwerable. George Inn, for Livery Horſes. Nags Head Inn, lately rebuilt, and fitted up handſome; with good Stables, both for Livery Horſes, and a Horſe Courſer; being built out of a Place called Soldiers Court, which was before old and decayed.

Oakley Court. Butler's Alley. Croſs keys Court. Great Bell Alley. Haberdaſhers Square. Sun Alley.

Over againſt the Pump, is a pretty good Court, without a Name. Oakley Court large and open; the greateſt part, at preſent, unbuilt, and lying waſt. Butlers Alley, narrow and ordinary; giving a paſſage into Moor lane, where it is pretty broad. Croſs Keys Court, indifferent large, and old built; leads into Halfmoon Alley, and ſo into Whitecroſs ſtreet. Maidenhead Court, pretty handſome, and indifferent well built and inhabited. Great Bell Alley, ſmall, but indifferent good. Haberdaſhers Square, very genteel, with new well built Houſes. The Court is ſquare, and incloſed in with Paliſade Pales, except a handſome paſſage to the Houſes round about; and in the midſt is a Dial. This Court was made out of two old ones, viz. Paviers Court, and Robin Hood Court. Sun Alley, but ſmall.

White croſs ſtreet.

Whitecroſs ſtreet, a good Place, pretty well built and inhabited. It begins in Foreſtreet, and runs Northwards into Oldſtreet; which is of a very great length. But the part within the Ward, goeth but a little beyond Beech lane, where the City Poſts are ſet up; as they are in Grubſtreet, and in Golden lane, being the Circuits of the Freedom.

Croſs keys Inn. Cock Alley. Three Leg Court. Kings Arms Yard. Kings head Court. Croſs keys Court. Half Moon Alley. Horſe-ſhoe Alley. Bowling Alley. George Yard. Cradle Court. Anabaptiſt Court. Caſtle Court. Red Roſe Court. White Roſe Court. Ferns Yard.

Croſs Keys Inn*, pretty large, and of an indifferent Trade, with ſome private Houſes in it. Cock Alley, leads into Redcroſs ſtreet, as alſo into Fore ſtreet; where it is mentioned under the Name of Great Cock Alley. Three Leg Court, or Yard, being long and open, with good Houſes. Kings Arms Yard, pretty large, with ordinary old Buildings, chiefly for Car Men. Peacock Brewhouſe, a good handſome convenient Building, and of a conſiderable Trade. Kings Head Court, pretty well built, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Croſs Keys Court, pretty large, and falls into Grubſtreet, where it is ſpoken of. Half Moon Alley, but ordinary; falls into Croſs Keys Court, and thence into Grubſtreet, by a paſſage newly made by the Conſent of the Landlords. This Alley alſo falls into Horſeſhooe Alley, which is alſo very mean. Bowling Alley, a pretty good and open Place, containing ſome Courts within it; as George Yard, &c. which is but mean. And this Alley, by a paſſage newly made, falls into Cradle Court, ſeated in Redcroſs ſtreet. Anabaptiſt Court, long, but ordinary. Caſtle Court, a pretty Yard, but ſmall. Red Roſe Court, indifferently large, but mean. White Roſe Court, ſmall and ordinary. Fern's Yard, a Place only for refining of Lead.

Beech Lane.

Beech lane, comes out of Whitecroſs ſtreet, and falls into Redcroſs ſtreet, over againſt Barbican; a Place of ſlender Account as to Trade or Reſort, and but indifferent as to its Inhabitants.

Ship Yard. Glovers hall Court. Kings head Court.

Ship Yard, but ordinary; having a long paſſage into a ſmall Court. Glovers Hall Court, a pretty large Place. Kings Head Court, pretty large, and well built; hath a paſſage into Red Lyon Court, lying in the Manour of Finſbury.

Golden Lane.

Golden lane, of no great Account, either for Buildings or Inhabitants. It comes out of Redcroſs ſtreet, and runs up into Oldſtreet; but the part in this Ward, goeth no further than Angel Alley, which is by the City Poſts.

Jacobs Well Alley. Cocks head Court. Black Raven Court. Crown Court. Sun Court. Red Lion Market. Sun Brewhouſe. Three Arrows Brewhouſe. Dixon's Rents. Vine Court.

The Courts and Alleys in this Lane, are, Jacob's Well Alley, very mean. Cocks head Court, pretty large, and well built; hath a Door and Paſſage, by ſufferance, into the Redcroſs Tavern in Barbican. Black Raven Court, pretty handſome, but ſmall. Crown Court, a good open Place. Sun Court, long, and in ſome places pretty broad: It runs into Red Lion Market, which is in the Lordſhip. Near to this Place is the Sun Brewhouſe; as alſo Three Arrows Brewhouſe, both of a good Trade. Dixon's Rents, very ſmall and ordinary. Vine Court, indifferent good.

Litton ſtreet. Brackley ſtreet. Bridgwater ſtreet. Bell Alley.

Litton ſtreet, a pretty good Place, not long built; being made out of Bridgwater Houſe and Garden. Which ſaid Street runs into Brackley ſtreet, and thence into Bridgwater ſtreet; all built out of Bridgwater Houſe and Ground. Bell Alley, very ordinary.

Barbican. The Tower of Burghkenning.

Barbican, a good broad Street, well inhabited by Tradeſmen, eſpecially Saleſmen for Apparel, both new and old. It comes out of Alderſgateſtreet, againſt Long lane, and falls into Redcroſs ſtreet; but the part in this Ward, goeth but to the City Poſts. And fronting Redcroſs ſtreet, is the Watch houſe, where formerly ſtood a Watch Tower, called Burghkenning, i. e. Barbican, for the ſecurity of the City in thoſe parts.

Garter Court. Bridgwater Square. Charles ſtreet. Silver ſtreet.

In this Street are theſe Places of Name, Garter Court, pretty large, containing two Courts, and both ſo called; which are indifferent good. Bridgwater Square, a very handſome open Place, with very good Buildings, well inhabited. The middle is neatly incloſed with Paliſado Pales, and ſet round with Trees; which renders the Place very delightful. At the North Weſt corner, is a paſſage into Bridgwater ſtreet; and in the South Eaſt corner of the Square, is another paſſage into Charles ſtreet; and from thence into Brackley ſtreet: Out of which Place, is a paſſage through Litton ſtreet, into Golden lane. And on the Eaſt ſide of Charles ſtreet, is a ſhort Street, which has the Name of Silver ſtreet; being a Place of no great Account. And where this Square is, ſtood the Houſe of the Earl of Bridgwater.

Three Pigeons Court. Plow Alley. Blue Boars head Court. Fox and Crown Court. Figtree Court. Playhouſe Yard.

Three Pigeons Court, both ſmall and ordinary. Plough Alley, long and mean. Blue Boars head Court, alſo long and ordinary. Fox and Crown Court, long and mean. Figtree Court, pretty good, and well inhabited. Play Houſe Yard, long, with old Buildings; ſo called, for that here was a Play Houſe in former Days.

Redcroſs ſtreet.

Redcroſs ſtreet, wide, well built and inhabited; it comes out of Barbican, and runs up to Cripplegate Church. Beſides the Courts and Alleys hereafter named, here are ſeveral large Brewhouſes, which, by the Map, ſeem to be Courts. Three Herring Court, pretty large, but ordinary. Red Lyon and Axe Inn, but indifferent. Three Faulcon Court, very good, and well built, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Cradle Court, pretty large and good, falls into Bowling Alley in Whitecroſs ſtreet. Pauls Alley, very long, with ſome pretty handſome Houſes, fit for good Inhabitants; and runs into Alderſgate ſtreet, by the Half Moon Tavern. The Crown Brewhouſe, of a conſiderable Trade. Bear and Ragged Staff Alley, very ordinary. Frying Pan Alley, very mean. Ship Yard, but ordinary. Jewen ſtreet, comes out of Redcroſs ſtreet, and falls into Alderſgate ſtreet; a Place well built and inhabited, and of ſome Trade for Button mould Makers.

Hering Court.
Red Lyon and Axe Inn
Three Faulcon Court.
Cradle Court.
Pauls Alley.
Crown Brewhouſe.
Bear and Raged ſtaff Alley.
Frying Pan Alley.
Ship Yard.
Jewen ſtreet.

Crowders well Alley.

In this Street are theſe Places; Crowder's Well Alley, very long, running into Alderſgate ſtreet, through an Inn Yard. It hath pretty good Buildings, which are well inhabited. This Place is of ſome Note for its Well, which gives Name to the Alley, The Water of this Well is eſteemed very good for ſore Eyes, to waſh them with; and is ſaid to be alſo very good to drink, for ſeveral Diſtempers: And ſome ſay, it is very good for Men in Drink to take of this Water, for it will allay the Fumes, and bring them to be ſober.

Crowder's Well.

Bull head Court.

Bull head Court, a handſome Place, with good Buildings, and well inhabited. Redcroſs Alley, very long, but ſomewhat narrow, with pretty good Houſes; to many of which are Gardens, which occaſions the Place to be the better inhabited. Three Pigeon Court, ſquare, and pretty good. Cockpit Court, but ordinary, and leads into Horn Alley; but this is in Alderſgate ſtreet Ward. Lauderdale Court, a good large Place, well built and inhabited; being built out of the Garden belonging to Lauderdale Houſe, ſeated in Alderſgate ſtreet; but ſome of the Ground lieth yet unbuilt. And on the Eaſt ſide of the Entrance into this Court, going up Steps, is Goldſmiths Court, which is but ordinary.

Red croſs Alley.
Three Pigeon Court.
Cockpit Court.
Lauderdale Court.
Goldſmiths Court.

The Watch.

There are to watch at Cripplegate, and at ſeveral other Stands, in divers places of this Ward, every Night, a Conſtable, a Beadle, and Forty Watchmen, within the Walls; and One Conſtable, a Beadle, and Ninety Watchmen, in ſeveral places without the Walls; being for the whole Ward, 130.

The Jury.

The Jurymen returned by the Wardmote Inqueſt, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts in the Guildhall, in the Month of March.]

The Government of this Ward.

ALDERSGATE WARD. The Bounds within and without. St. Mary Staining. St. John Zachary. Goldſmiths Hall. Principal Goldſmiths. St. Olaves in Silverſtreet. St. Leonard Foſter Lane. St. Anne in the Willows. St. Martins le Grand. St. Buttolph Alderſgate. The preſent State of this Ward.

Alderſgate Ward. The Bounds thereof within.

Oate lane.

Noble ſtreet.

THE next is Alderſgate Ward, taking Name of that North Gate of the City: This Ward alſo conſiſteth of divers Streets and Lanes, lying as well within the Gate and Wall, as without: And firſt, to ſpeak of that part within the Gate, thus it is. The Eaſt part thereof joineth unto the Weſt part of Cripplegate Ward, in Engain lane or Maiden lane. It beginneth on the North ſide of that Lane, at Staining lane end; and runneth up that Lane, from the Haberdaſhers Hall, to St. Mary Staining Church: And by the Church, Eaſt, winding almoſt to Woodſtreet. And Weſt, through Oat lane; and then by the South ſide of Bacon Houſe to Noble ſtreet; and back again by Lilypot lane, (which is alſo of that Ward) to Maiden lane: And ſo on that North ſide, Weſt to St. John Zacharies Church, and to Foſter lane.

Now on the South ſide of Engain or Maiden lane, is the Weſt ſide of Gutheruns lane, to Kery lane; and Kery lane it ſelf (which is of this Ward) and back again into Engaine lane, by the North ſide of the Goldſmiths Hall, to Foſter lane. And this is the Eaſt Wing of this Ward. Then is Foſter lane, almoſt wholly in this Ward: And beginneth in the South toward Cheape, on the Eaſt ſide, by the North ſide of St. Foſters Church; and runneth down Northweſt by the Weſt end of Engain lane, by Lilypot lane, and Oat lane, to Noble ſtreet; and through that, by Shelly Houſe, (of old time ſo called, as belonging to the Shellies.) For Sir Thomas Shelley, Kt. was Owner thereof in the 1ſt of Henry IV. It is now called Bacon Houſe, becauſe the ſame was new builded by Sir Nicholas Bacon, Lord Keeper of the Great Seal. Down on that ſide, by the Lane by Serjeant Fleetwood's Houſe, Recorder of London, (who alſo new builded it) to St. Olaves Church in Silver ſtreet; which is by the North-weſt end of this Noble ſtreet.

Shelley's Houſe, now Bacon Houſe.

Recorder Fleetwood's Houſe.

Then again in Foſter lane, this Ward beginneth on the Weſt ſide thereof, over againſt the South-weſt corner of St. Foſters Church; and runneth down by St. Leonards Church, by Pope lane end, and by St. Annes lane end; which Lane is alſo of this Ward, North to the Stone Wall, by the Wall of the City, over againſt Bacon Houſe, which is alſo of this Ward. Which Stone Wall, and ſo down North to Cripplegate, on that ſide, is of Faringdon Ward.

St Martins lane.

Then have ye the main Street of this Ward, which is called St. Martins lane; which includeth St. Martin on the Eaſt ſide thereof, and ſo down on both the ſides to Alderſgate. And theſe be the Bounds of this Ward within the Wall and Gate.

The Gate it ſelf

A. M.

Now, before we ſpeak of that part of the Wall without, let us ſay ſomething of the Gate it ſelf. Alderſgate being very old, ruinous, and in danger of ſome further Decay, the Lord Maior and his Brethren, with the Advice of the Commoners, determined to have it taken down, and build it again in beautiful manner. For the more haſtening of which Intention, a worthy Citizen, Maſter William Parker, (of whoſe Chriſtian and Liberal Charities, we have in brief manner ſpoken before) out of his own bountiful Diſpoſition, gave the Sum of 3000 l. toward the furtherance of ſo good a Work, in new re-edifying and building the Gate; requiring and appointing (by his Will) that it ſhould be new builded within the ſpace of three Years after his deceaſe. And the Money to be paid (by his Executor) to the Lord Maior of London, and the Aldermen his Brethren, (for the time being) for the ſaid uſe of new building the ſame Gate, in manner and form following.

Mr. William Parker. Citizen and Merchant Taylor of London, gave 3000 l. towards the new building of Alderſgate.

The manner and form of paying the ſaid Money. The firſt Tile was taken down the laſt day of March, 1617.

That is to ſay, 200 l. thereof, at the taking down of the firſt Tile. Other 200 l. thereof, at the laying of the firſt Stone; which was laid by the Right Worſhipful Sir William Cravon, Kt. and Alderman of the City of London, on Monday the 26th day of May, 1617. Other 200 l. thereof, when the new Building ſhould be a Yard in height above the Ground. Other 200 l. thereof, when the new Building ſhould be arched over the Gate. And the other 200 l. in full payment, when the ſaid Building ſhould be fully finiſhed. Maſter Richard Foxe, Citizen and Clothworker of London, a moſt painful and induſtrious Gentleman, having the Overſight, Direction, and Ordering of the ſaid Building.]

Alderſgate Ward without.

Without the Gate, the main Street, called Alderſgate ſtreet, runneth up North, on the Eaſt ſide, to the Weſt end of Hounſditch, or Barbican ſtreet: A part of which Street is alſo of this Ward. And on the Weſt ſide to Long lane, a part whereof is likewiſe of this Ward. Beyond the which Alderſgate, is Goſewel ſtreet, up to the Bars.

Goſewell ſtreet.

Briton ſtreet

And on this Weſt ſide of Alderſgate ſtreet, by St. Buttolphs Church, is Briton ſtreet; which runneth Weſt to a Pump, and then North to the Gate, which entreth the Church-yard, ſometime pertaining to the Priory of St. Bartholomew, on the Eaſt ſide. And on the Weſt ſide, towards St Bartholomew's Spittle, to a pair of Poſts there fixed. And theſe be the Bounds of this Alderſgate Ward without.

Antiquities. Staining lane.

The Antiquities be theſe: Firſt, in Staining lane, of old time ſo called, as may be ſuppoſed, of Painterſtainers dwelling there.

Almſhouſes there.

On the Eaſt ſide thereof, adjoining to the Haberdaſhers Hall, be Ten Almſhouſes, pertaining to the Haberdaſhers; wherein be placed Ten Alms People of that Company; every of them having 8 d. the piece, every Friday, for ever. By the Gift of Thomas Huntlow, Haberdaſher; one of the Sheriffs in the Year 1539.

And Sir George Baron, [Barne] gave them ten Pounds by the Year, for ever.

The Pariſh Church of St. MARY STAINING.

St, Mary Staining.

Then is the ſmall Pariſh Church of St. Mary, called Staining, becauſe it ſtandeth at the North end of Staining lane.

Repaired. R.

This Church was repaired and beautified at the Coſt of the Pariſh, in the Year of our Lord 1630. Auguſt 23.

Charles Medows, } Churchwardens.
Thomas Francis, }

In the which, being but newly builded, there remain no Monuments worth the noting, but one lately erected, viz.

MONUMENTS.

A goodly Monument in the South Wall of the Chancel.

Here lieth the Body of George Smithes, Goldſmith, and Alderman of London. Who took to Wife, Sarah, the Daughter of Anthony Wolhouſe, Citizen and Haberdaſher of London; by whom hee had iſſue foure Sonnes and five Daughters. He departed this Life the eleventh day of July, Anno Domini, 1615. being 52 yeers of Age.

To whoſe Memory, Sarah his Wife, being ſole Executrix of his laſt Will and Teſtament, at her own proper Coſt and Charges, cauſed this Monument to be erected.

There be alſo the Armorial Atchievements of Sir Arthur Savage, Kt. and this Inſcription.

R.

In the Vault underneath lyeth the Body of the Honourable Sir ARTHUR SAVAGE, Knighted at Cadiz in Spain, 1596. General of her Majeſties Forces in the Kingdom of France, at the Siege of Amiens, the 39 of Queen Elizabeth: Collonel, Vice-treaſurer, Receiver General, and Counſellour of Eſtate in Ireland. He had iſſue by his ſecond Wife, Sarah, Daughter of Anthony Woolhouſe, of Chapwel, in the County of Darby, (Widow of George Smithes, Sheriff and Alderman of London, 1611.) one onely Daughter, named Jane. He dyed the 13 of March, 1632.

This Pariſh is now united to St. Michael Woodſtreet; and the Church burnt down in the great Fire, unbuilt.

Parſonage. J. S.

There was a Parſonage Houſe belonging to it, before the ſaid Fire. One Houſe is built on the Ground thereof, being leaſed out for Forty Years, to one Taylor, at 20 s. Ground Rent.

Glebe.

And no other Glebe appeared at the laſt Parochial Viſitation. Though in the Parochial Viſitation, Anno 1626. there was 8 l. 10 s. Glebe, per Ann.

Richard Sutton, Apprentice unto Richard Rynager, Painter, died 1571.]

A very goodly Monument in the Eaſt end in the Chancel.

This Monument is erected to the memory of Sir James Pemberton, Knight; who being Sheriffe of this City at the comming in of King JAMES, entertained neere 40. Earles and Barons in his Houſe, on the day of the King's being proclaimed. Afterwards, Ann. 1612. was elected Maior of this moſt honourable Citie of London. Hee erected a Freeſchoole in the Pariſh of Eleſton in Lancaſhire, ſixteene yeeres before his death; and gave fifty Pounds by the yeere, to the maintaining thereof for ever. Hee gave alſo five hundred Pounds to Chriſts Hoſpital, and two hundred Pounds to the Company of Goldſmiths; beſides many liberal Gifts to the poore of his Kindred, and many other moſt charitable Uſes. He died the eighth day of September, 1613. aged 68 yeeres.

Marble nor Touch, nor Alabaſter can Reveale the Worth of the long buried Man:
For oft (we ſee) Mens Goods,
  when they are gone,
Doe pious Deeds, when they themſelves did none.
Mine (while I liv'd) my Goodneſſe did expreſſe,
'Tis not Inſcriptions make them more or leſſe:
In Chriſt I hope to riſe
  amongſt the Juſt,
Man is but Graſſe, all muſt to Wormes and Duſt.

Vertue and Death being both enamoured
On worthy PEMBERTON,
  in heat of Love;
To be poſſeſt of
  that each coveted,
Thus did they dialogue,
  and thus they ſtrove.

Vertue. What Vertue challengeth, is but her Right.
Death. What Death layes claime to,
  who can contradict?
Vert. Vertue, whoſe power exceeds all other Might.
Death. Where's Vertues Power, when Death makes all ſubmit?
Vert. I gave him life;
  and therefore he is mine.
Death. That life he held no longer than I liſt.
Vert. I made him more than mortall, meere Divine.
Death. How hapt he could not then Deaths Stroke reſiſt?
Vert. Becauſe (by Nature)
  all are borne to dye.
Death. Then thine owne Tongue
  yeelds Death the Victory.
Vert. No, Death, thou art deceiv'd thy envious ſtroke Hath given him Life immortal, 'gainſt thy Will:
Death. What Life can be, but vaniſheth as Smoake?
Vert. A Life that all thy Darts can never kill.
Death. Have I not lock'd his Body in my Grave?
Vert. That was but Duſt, and that I pray thee keepe.
Death. That is as much as I deſire to have,
  His comely Shape in my eternal Sleepe.
Vert. But where's his honourable Life, Renowne, and Fame?
Death. They are but Breath, them I reſigne to thee.
Vert. Them I moſt covet.
Death. I preferre my claime, his Body mine.
Vert. Mine his Eternity.

And ſo they ceaſt,
  Death triumphs o'er his Grave,
  Vertue o'er that which
  Death can never have.

And as fair Trophees, fit to beautifie
His Hearſe, Vertue hangs up theſe Ornaments:
His Juſtice, Wiſedome, and Integritie,
His Courage, dreadleſſe of what ere events,
His upright Soole
  in that high Dignitie, Which London gives her chiefeſt Preſidents.
Free from compare with ſuch as went before,
Or ſhould ſucceed.
  It was his ſole deſire
  Truth might report thoſe
  Actions leſſe or more,
Which honeſt Thoughts
  did in his Heart inſpire.
His Care of Learning, and his liberal Minde Unto the Poore;
  Love to his Company, Kindred and Friends, to whom he was moſt kinde,
And whom he dealt with truly bounteouſly.
These Graces better doe become his Grave,
Than waſtful Words of fruitleſſe Flattery;
And their due Merit
  (doubtleſſe) he ſhall have,
Among the Bleſſed in Eternity.
Whereto fair Vertue now hath brought her Son,
Worthily honour'd,
  Sir James Pemberton.

Here under lyes interred the Body of Philip Strelley, late of London, *Goldſmith. A fair Monument in the South Iſle.
R.

In the Incloſure where the Church ſtood, againſt the Eaſt Wall, is an handſome Monument, with two half Figures, for Sir James Drax, and his Lady; but very much impaired, by being expoſed to the Weather. His ſaid Wife was named Meliora, Daughter to John Horton, of Wolverſton, in the County of Somerſet, Eſq;. Who brought him ſix Sons and four Daughters; viz. Sir James, Henry, John, Samuel, - - - - - - and Joſeph; Meliora, Mary, Elizabeth, and Pelathia. His ſecond Wife was Margaret, Daughter of Edward Campfield, of Hardington, in the ſame County, Eſq; by whom he had four Sons. He died March the 8th, 1661.

Sir James Drax's Monument.
J. S.

Here likewiſe was buried Henry Drax, his ſecond Son, Eſq; who had two Wives. The firſt, the Lady Frances Tufton, Daughter of the Earl of Thanet; who died without iſſue. His ſecond, Lady Dorothy Lovelace, Daughter to the Lord Lovelace, of Hurley, in the County of Berks; by whom he had four Children. He deceaſed An. 1682.

Colonel Henry Drax, in his laſt Will and Teſtament, gave the Poor of this Pariſh 20 l. And his ſecond Wife, the Lady Dorothy Drax, Siſter to the Lord Lovelace, in her Life time, gave 20 l. more; and 10 l. more at her death. The Intereſt of all which, to be given half yearly to the Poor. In grateful memory of which charitable Benefactors, the Pariſh have ſet up this Plate of Braſs, Decemb. 10. 1684.

Legacies.

There are ſome ſmall Legacies belonging to this Pariſh, diſpoſed by the Miniſter and Churchwardens. The Donor's Names are regiſtred.

Parſonage.

There is a Parſonage Houſe, which the Rector hath free to himſelf, without paying any Ground Rent.

Glebe.

In the Viſitation, An. 1636. was given in by Preſentment, 20 l. Glebe, per Ann,

One found ſlain in St. John Zachary's. Lib. Alb. J. S.

In this Pariſh happened, in King Henry the Third's time, a Murder, which the King's Juſtices examined into, when they came to the Tower, to ſit upon Pleas of the Crown, 25 H. III. An. 1240. One Jordan was found ſlain, in the Pariſh of St. John Zakarie, in Godironni lane, [Guttur lane] unknown who killed him. Claricia his Wife was attach'd, but cleared. She was ask'd, if ſhe ſuſpected any one of her Huſband's Death? She ſaid, ſhe ſuſpected Alan Fitz Simon Maunrel, and Laurence his Brother; who were of the County of Middleſex, and not of the City. They come, and put themſelves upon 42 Men of three Aldermanries, next the place where the ſaid Jordan was found ſlain. Who came, and were ſworn before the Juſtices to ſpeak the truth. They ſay, upon their Oaths, that the ſaid Alan and Laurence are not guilty of the ſaid Death; nor in any thing do they ſuſpect them, or any other. Becauſe they knew not how he was ſlain, nor who ſlew him. Therefore Alan and Laurence are quitted. And the Neighbours are attached for the ſaid Murther. They come, and are not ſuſpected. Hereupon they are alſo quitted.]

The Goldſmiths Hall.

On the Eaſt ſide of this Forſter lane, at Engaine lane end, is the Goldſmiths Hall; a proper Houſe, but not large. And therefore, to ſay that Bartholomew Read, Goldſmith, Maior in the Year 1502. kept ſuch a Feaſt in this Hall, as ſome have fabuled, is far incredible, and altogether unpoſſible; conſidering the ſmallneſs of the Hall, and number of the Gueſts; which, as they ſay, were more than 100 Perſons of great Eſtate. For the Meſſes and Diſhes of Meats to them ſerved, the paled Park in the ſame Hall, furniſhed with fruitful Trees, Beaſts of Venery, and other Circumſtances of that pretended Feaſt, well weighed, Weſtminſter Hall would hardly have ſufficed. And therefore I will overpaſs it, and note ſomewhat of principal Goldſmiths.

R. Grafton.

The firſt Maior of London was a Goldſmith. Principal Men of the City, Goldſmiths.

Firſt, I read, that Leofſtane, Goldſmith, was Provoſt of this City, in the Reign of Henry I. Alſo, that Henry Fitz Alewin, Fitz Leafſtane, Goldſmith, was Maior of London in the 1ſt of Richard I. and continued Maior 24 Years. Alſo, that Gregory Rockſly, chief Say-Maſter of all the King's Mints within England, (and therefore, by my conjecture, a Goldſmith) was Maior in the 3d of Edward I. and continued Maior ſeven Years together. Then William Faringdon, Goldſmith, Alderman of Faringdon Ward, one of the Sheriffs, 1281. the 9th of Edward I. Who was a Goldſmith, as appeareth on Record; as ſhall be ſhewed in Faringdon Ward. Then Nicolas Faringdon his Son, Goldſmith, Alderman of Faringdon Ward; four times Maior in the Reign of Edward II. &c. For the reſt of later time are more manifeſtly known, and therefore I leave them. The Men of this Myſtery were incorporated or confirmed in the 16th of Richard II.

St. Olave in Silver ſtreet.

Then at the North end of Noble ſtreet, is the Pariſh Church of St. Olave in Silver ſtreet, a ſmall Thing.

Repaired. R.

This Church being greatly decayed and periſhed, was in the Year of our Lord 1609. new built, and inlarged in the breadth, ſeven Foot and above. In the Year of our Lord 1619. it was again repaired and beautified. And in the Year 1632. inriched with a very fair Gallery; with this Inſcription in the ſeveral Parts or Panes thus:

Deo Patri Filio Spiritui Sancto

A Remembrance of Maſter JOHN BANESTER, Chirurgeon, and Licentiate in Phyſicke.

GReat Men that ne'er did
Good in all their Dayes,
But at the very inſtant of their death,
Finde yet no meane
Commenders of their praiſe,
Although it laſts no longer than a breath.
Shall then good Men,
though leſſer in degree,
Finde none to give them Right and Equity?

If one ſhall ſay, The great Man's life was ſuch,
So good, ſo full of Hoſpitality:
When God doth know,
he ne'er did halfe ſo much,
Though thus he muſt
be grac'd with Flattery: Shall mean Men then, who ſuch Workes truly did,
Be nothing ſpoken of?
Oh! God forbid.

Not then, as equalling with any Great,
My fatherly good Friend, John Baneſter :
No more but Truth of Thee let me repeate,
A Sonnes Love-teares,
 thy Body to interre.
That ſuch as knew thee
 better farre than I:
May ſay, Thy Vertues
 did not with thee dye.

Thy Skill and Practice, that it ſelf commends,
Some of the beſt have truly found the ſame;
Nor partially employed to wealthy Friends,
But even the pooreſt Wretch,
 the Sick and Lame Felt of the beſt. Some difference there might be:
The Rich payd ſomewhat, poore Men had it free.

Thy Care and Coſt layd out for common good,
In greater meaſure
 than came in againe :
But that Heavens Bleſſing with thy Bounty ſtood, Hardly had ſtretcht
 ſo many to ſuſtaine.
But it is true : The liberal Heart God loves,
And from him ſtill all cauſe of Lacke removes.

Thy weekly Charity given to the poore
In Bread, beſide, in Money from thy Purſe:
Even in the hardeſt Yeeres dealt at thy Doore,
When ſome repin'd that every Day did worſe;
Makes poor Men ſay :
 Our good Reliefe is gone,
Let them goe to thy
 Find-faults, and have none.

Poor maymed Souldiers ſore-ſick hearted Men,
That under Miſeries
 hard Crouch did bow,
Were freely cur'd, me thinkes they cry: Lord, When,
Where ſhall we finde
 our good Phyſician now?
I doubt not, but ſome others will as much:
Yet (in theſe dayes) we find not many ſuch.

Sleepe then, thou happy
 Soule, in endleſſe reſt,
All good Mens groanes be powred on thy Grave:
Live thou in Abraham's
 Boſome with the bleſt;
Where Faith and Workes
 due recompence ſhall have.
My Sight growes dimme, ſighing my Heart makes ſore,
Tears blot my Paper,
 I can write no more.

Then in Pope lane, ſo called of one Pope that was Owner thereof; on the North ſide, is the Pariſh Church of St. Anne in the Willowes; ſo called, I know not upon what occaſion: But ſome ſay, of Willows growing thereabouts. But now there is no ſuch void Place for Willows to grow, more than the Church yard; wherein did grow ſome high Aſh Trees, and ſtill, certain fair Trees.

St. Anne in the Willowes.

This Church, by caſualty of Fire, in the Year 1548. was burnt, ſo far as it was combuſtible; but ſince, newly repaired.

Repaired. R. It was repaired again richly, and very worthily beautified, in the Year of our Lord, 1624. In the Years 1629. and 1630. the Steeple, decayed and periſhed, with great Care, and much Coſt, was repaired; a new Turret made for the Saints Bell. Alſo the Walls of the two Church yards, (the greater and the leſs) were raiſed, two fair Arched Doors made in the middle of them, with a very fair arched Entrance to the Church, on the South ſide of it. And the Alley or Paſſage from St. Anne's Lane into Noble ſtreet, raiſed, levelled, and with Free ſtone very handſomely paved.

Sa. MARTINS le GRAND.

College of St. Martins le Graund.

Then in St. Martins lane, was (of old time) a fair and large College, of a Dean and ſecular Canons or Prieſts; which have had great Privilege, both of Sanctuary, and otherwiſe; and was called St. Martins le graund, founded by Ingelricus, and *Edwardus his Brother, in the Year of Chriſt, 1056. and confirmed by William the Conquerour; as appeareth by his Charter, dated 1068.

Endowments and Liberties thereof.

Monaſtic. Anglic. Vol. 3.

That Endowment this Houſe enjoyed, with all the Lands the Founders gave, was confirmed to it by William the Conquerour. Who, himſelf, alſo gave all the Moor Land without Cripplegate; and freed this Church, and the Canons, from all Diſturbance and Exaction of any Biſhops; Archdeacons, or their Miniſters; and from all Regal Services. And granted them Soc and Sac, Tol and Theam, with all thoſe antient Liberties, in the fulleſt manner that any Church in England had. That Charter bears date, 1068. the ſecond of his Reign. Confirmed by John and Peter, Cardinals of Rome, and Legats of Pope Alexander.

Great Men belonging to this College.

In former times, the Deans and Canons of St. Martins were great Men. One William Mulſe, in the Reign (I think) of Edward III. was Dean of St. Martins; who was chief Chamberlain of the Exchequer, Receiver and Keeper of the Kings Treaſure and Jewels. Then William Dighton, a Prebendary of St. Martins, was was Clerk of the Privy Seal. Peter de Savoy, was Dean in the Reign of Edward I.

* Giraldus Monaſtic. Anglican.

Inquiſitions to be taken at St. Martins le Grand.

Among other Franchiſes, antiently granted by the Kings of the Realm to the City of London, one was, That all Inquiſitions to be taken by Juſtices and Miniſters of the King, of the Citizens of London, ſhould be taken at St. Martins le Grand, or at the Guild Hall of the ſaid City, and not elſewhere: Except Inquiſitions of the Juſtice in Eyre, at the Tower of London. Act of Parlam. 37 H. The 22 Ed. I. 1293. when the Cuſtos and Sheriffs had removed a Cauſe from the Court Chriſtian, about a Will, to their Court of Huſtings; that King appointed Gilbert de Thornton, his Chief Juſtice, and others, to come at a certain Day, for that purpoſe appointed, unto St. Martins the Great, London; and there diligently to examine that Record and Proceſs, in the preſence of the foreſaid Cuſtos and Sheriff. And ſignifying withal, that he had likewiſe commanded the ſaid Cuſtos and Sheriffs, on a certain Day, which they, the Judges, ſhould certify them of, to bring before them that Record and Proceſs, with all Things pertaining to it, at St. Martins the Great, London.

Lib. S. Martin. Privilege of Sanctuary here.

This College claimed great privileges of Sanctuary, and otherwiſe, as appeareth in a Book written by a Notary of that Houſe, about the Year 1442. the 19th of Henry VI. Wherein, amongſt other things, is ſet down and declared; That on the 1ſt of September, in the Year aforeſaid, a Soldier, Priſoner in Newgate, as he was led by an Officer towards the Guildhall of London; there came out of Panyer Alley, five of his Fellowſhip, and took him from the Officer; brought him into Sanctuary at the Weſt Door of St. Martins Church, and took grithe of that place. But the ſame Day Philip Malpas, and Robert Marſhall, then Sheriffs of London, with many others, entred the ſaid Church, and forcibly took out with them the ſaid five Men, thither fled; led them fettered to the Compter, and from thence, chained by the Necks, to Newgate. Of which violent taking, the Dean and Chapter in large manner complained to the King; and required him, as their Patron, to defend their Privileges, like as his Predeceſſors had done, &c. All which Complaint and Suit, the Citizens by their Councel, Markam, Serjeant at the Law, John Carpenter, late Common Clark of the City, and others, learnedly anſwered; offering to prove, that the ſaid place of St. Martin had no ſuch Immunity or Liberty as was pretended: Namely, Carpenter offered to looſe his Lifelode, if that Church had more Immunity than the leaſt Church in London. Notwithſtanding, after long debating of this Controverſy, by the King's Commandment, and aſſent of his Councel in the Star Chamber, the Chancellour and Treaſurer ſent a Writ unto the Sheriffs of London, charging them to bring the ſaid five Perſons, with the cauſe of their taking and withholding, afore the King in his Chancery, on the Vigil of Allhallowes. On which Day, the ſaid Sheriffs, with the Recorder, and Council of the City, brought and delivered them accordingly, afore the ſaid Lords; whereas the Chancellour, after he had declared the King's Commandment, ſent them to St. Martins, there to abide freely, as in a place having Franchiſes, whiles them liked, &c.

Argument againſt Privilege challenged by the Dean of St. Martins.

Thus much out of that Book have I noted, concerning the Privilege of that Place, challenged in thoſe Days; ſince the which time, to wit, in the Year 1457. the 36th of the ſaid Henry VI. an Ordinance was made by the King and his Council, concerning the ſaid Sanctuary Men in St. Martins le Graund; whereof the Articles are ſet down in the Book of K. within the Chamber of the Guild hall, in the Leaf 299.

' th' eaſe and reſtful Roule of the ſame; and conſervation of the Sanctuary, Immunity, Privileges and Liberties, as appertaine to the ſaid Chappell and Place; willing, that hereafter none occaſion be yeven to the breach or hurting them: Remembring alſo, the great complaints, grudging, and diſpleaſure, that his Subjects have taken, and ſpecially the Citizens and Commonalty of the ſaid City of London; of the demeaning of miſruled Perſons comming and abiding in the ſaid Place, under umbre and colour of the Sanctuary there; the which have, at divers times, iſſued out of the Sanctuary, and committed many Ryots, Robberies, Manſlaughters, and other Miſchiefes; where-through the ſaid Sanctuary hath be greatly diſlaundered, and (over that) great inconvenience like to enſue:

Order from the King and his Councel to the Dean of the Sanctuary.

' After great deliberation and communication had, as well with Doctors of Divinity, as of Law, Civill and Canonicall; called alſo thereto the Judges of this our Land, and their Advices had in that behalfe; other Men alſo of great Wiſedome and Experience, for the weale and conſervation of the ſaid Sanctuary, and to eſchew the ſaid miſgove nance and miſchiefe, called alſo before our ſaid Soveraigne Lord and his Councell, the Maior and the Aldermen of the ſaid City, and Maſter Richard Cawdre, Dean of the ſaid place of St. Martins: Our ſaid Soveraigne Lord (by the Advice of his Councell aboveſaid) ordained, granted, and eſtabliſhed certain Articles under written, to bee kept and obſerved within the ſaid Sanctuary, from this time forth, without any interruption of them. Willing and ordaining, that the ſaid D ane that now is, promit by his Oath the obſervance of the ſame, for the time that hee ſhall bee Deane there. And that every Deane after him, in his admiſſion to the ſaid Deanary, be ſworne to keepe the ſaid Articles in ſemblable wiſe, and make them to bee kept within the ſaid Sanctuary: The which Articles beene ſuch as follow.

For Fugitives claiming benefit of the Sanctuary, and the cauſes moving them thereto.

' 1. Firſt, That every Perſon Fugitive comming unto the ſaid Sanctuary for tuition, and challenge to enjoy the Immunities and Privileges thereof; at his entrie, as ſoone as hee commodiouſly and reaſonably may, ſhall now preſent himſelfe unto the ſaid Deane, his Commiſſarie, or Depute in that behalfe; and before him declare the cauſe of the feare moving him to come to the ſaid Sanctuary; be it for Treaſon, Felony ſurmiſed upon him, or for other Cauſes. And that the ſaid Declaration and Cauſe bee regiſtred in the common Regiſter, ordained therefore in the ſaid Sanctuary, and the Name of the ſaid Fugitive.

Againſt Armour and Weapons in the Sanctuary.

' 2. Item, That hee at his firſt entree, preſent and deliver unto the ſaid Deane, Commiſſary, or Depute, all manner of Weapon and Armour that hee bringeth with him, as well invaſive as defenſive; and that he be not ſuffered to weare or uſe any ſuch Weapon or Armour, or it to have in his keeping within the Sanctuary in any wiſe, except a reaſonable Knife, to kerve withall his Meate, and that the ſaid Knife be pointleſſe.

For Thieves, Felons, Murderers, and infamous Perſons.

' 3. Item, That every Erraunt and open Theefe, Robber, Murderer, and Felon, notoriouſly noiſed by the common Fame of the People; or if the ſaid Deane, Commiſſary, or Depute, be credibly informed, or due proofe be yoven or made, that he is ſuch one, repairing to the ſaid Sanctuary, to the intent that hee ſhall not (under colour of the ſaid Sanctuary) intend to doe further Miſchiefe; finde ſufficient ſeurte to bee made unto the King, as well by his own Obligation, as by the Obligations of other, of his good bearing, for the time of his abode within the ſaid Sanctuary, and for a quarter of a yeere after his departing out of the ſame. And that hee bee kept in ward into the time hee have found and made the ſaid Seurte: And if it ſo bee, that it bee complained or ſhewed unto the Kings Highneſſe, that the ſaid Seurte bee not ſufficient, that then, at the commandment of the ſaid Councell, (if it bee thought neceſſary) the ſaid Deane, Commiſſary, or Depute, ſhall take other and better ſecurte; or elſe commit them to ward, unto the time better ſecurte bee found. Foreſeene alway, that if the ſaid Fugitive will depart out of the ſaid Sanctuary, that hee may ſo doe when hee will.

Concerning Security for good Behaviour to be given.

For cloſe keeping the Gates and Poſterns of the Sanctuary nightly.

' 4. Item, That all the out-gates, as well Poſternes, Doores, as all other iſſues outward whatſoever they be, of the ſaid Sanctuary, bee ſurely cloſed and ſhut nightly at nine of the Clocke. And ſo remaine ſhut from the ſame houre, unto ſixe of the Clocke in the Morning, from the Feaſt of Alhallowes, unto the Feaſt of Candlemaſſe. And the remanent of the yeere, nightly, from the ſaid houre of Nine, unto Foure of the Clocke in the Morning, or unto the time that the firſt Maſſe beginneth within the ſaid place. And that all thoſe that been fled to the ſaid Sanctuary, for Treaſon or Felony, be within the cloſure on Nights time.

For bringing ſtoln Goods into the Sanctuary.

' 5. Item, If any ſuch Theefe, Murderer, or Felon, reſort to the ſaid Sanctuary for tuition of the ſame, with any manner robbery, or ſtollen Goods, if the party robbed make freſh ſute therefore, and prove by open Evidence, that the ſame Felon hath brought into the ſaid Sanctuary the ſaid Goods ſo ſtolen thence, the ſaid Deane, Commiſſary, or Depute, ſhall put in true devoire, withouten any diſſimulation, fraud, or malengyne, to make full reſtitution unto the Party ſo grieved, of the ſaid ſtolen Goods, if they can bee had. And ſemblably, if any Fugitive come to the ſaid Sanctuary with other Mens Goods, Merchandize, or Things, intending there to live with the ſame; and the Owner of the ſaid Goods, Merchandize, or Things, make proofe that they bee his, and verifie that they bee brought into the ſaid Sanctuary, the ſaid Deane, Commiſſary, or Depute, ſhall put him in full devoire, to make reſtitution to the Party ſo proving that the ſame Goods, Merchandizes, or Things were his. And no Fugitive, nor none dwelling within the ſaid Sanctuary, ſhall receive, conceale, nor buy any ſuch Goods; but that they bee brought to the ſaid Deane, Commiſſary, or Depute, to the intent the Owners may have the ſooner knowlege of them. And if the ſaid Goods, ſo ſtolne and brought to the ſaid Sanctuary, be concealed from the ſaid Deane, Commiſſary, or Depute, and bought by any dwelling in the ſaid Sanctuary; that then the Buyer (abiding there) make reſtitution or ſatisfaction to the Party grieved, proving the ſaid Goods ſo ſtolne to bee his, and ſo ſold in the ſame Sanctuary.

For reſtitution or amends making to the Owners.

For Offences committed by Sanctuary Perſons.

' 6. Item, If any Perſon having tuition of the ſaid Sanctuary, from thence iſſue out by Day or by Night, and commit or doe any Robbery, Murder, Treaſon, Felony, or Battery ſo done (withoutenforth) commit the ſame miſdoer to ward, there to remaine as long as he will abide in the ſaid Sanctuary. And if ſo bee hee will depart from thence, he ſhall depart at an Houre to be aſſigned unto him by Day, betwixt Sunne and Sunne.

For Pick-locks, Counterfeiters of divers notorious Crimes.

'7. Item, That ſubtle pickers of Lockes, counterfeitours of Keyes, contrivers of Seals, forgers of falſe Evidences, workers of counterfeit Chaines, Beades, Brouches, Ouches, Rings, Cups, Spoones ſilvered, and Plates of Copper gilt, uttered for Gold, unto the common hurt of the People, be not ſuffered in the ſaid Sanctuary. And if any, being within the ſaid Sanctuary, be holden ſuſpect of the Things aboveſaid, let him be committed to Ward, till he find ſufficient Surety, as in the third Article aboveſaid.

For Strumpets, Bawds, and other foul Livers.

'8. Item, That common Putuers, Strumpets, and Bawdes, be not ſupported in the Sanctuary: And if they claime the tuition of the ſaid Sanctuary, that they bee ſet in open Ward on day times, till ſhame cauſe them to depart, or to amend their vicious living.

Againſt unlawful Games.

'9. Item, That deceitfull Games, as playes at Hazzard, the Dice, the Guek, the Kayelles, the Cloyſh, and other ſuch unleefull and reprovable Games bee not uſed, ſupported nor cheriſhed within the ſaid Sanctuary.

For Artificers dwelling in the Sanctuary.

'10. Item, That all Artificers dwelling within the ſaid Sanctuary (as well Barbours as other) keepe holy the Sundayes, and other great Feſtivall Dayes, without breach, or exerciſing of their Craft, in ſuch wiſe as done the Inhabitants of the ſaid City of London. And if they doe the contrary, to bee committed to ward, till they finde ſufficient Surety, as in the third Article aboveſaid; to uſe their Crafts in manner and forme as doe the Inhabitants of the ſaid City, and according to the Ordinances of the ſame City.

For ſuch as come to live in the Sanctuary, to take an Oath.

'11. Item, That every Perſon comming to the ſaid Sanctuary for immunity and tuition of the ſame, that hee at his admiſſion to the ſaid Sanctuary, be ſworne on a Booke, to obey, keepe, and obſerve the Articles aboveſaid, and every each of them, with their Pains and Rules appertaining to the ſame. And the King, by the Advice aboveſaid, would, granted and ordained, that this Act be exemplified under his Great Seale, and be enrolled in his Chancellary; to the intent, that the Ordinance aboveſaid remaine of Record, and that his Subjects may have knowledge thereof.

St. Martins, a Sanctuary for Wickedneſs.
J. S.

So that from theſe Regulations and Articles aforementioned, this St. Martins appears to have been a Sanctuary for great Diſorders, and a Shelter for the looſeſt Sort of People; Rogues and Ruffians, Thieves, Felons, and Murtherers. From hence uſed to ruſh violent Perſons, Committers of Riots, Robberies, and Manſlaughters: Hither they brought in their Preys and ſtolen Goods, and concealed them here, and ſhared or ſold them to thoſe that dwelt here. Here were alſo harboured Picklocks, Counterfeiters of Keys and Seals, Forgers of falſe Evidences, ſuch as made counterfeit Chains, Beads, Ouches, Plate, Copper gilt for Gold; nay, common Strumpets and Bawds, Gameſters, and Players at Hazard and Dice, and other unlawful Games. And laſtly, Prophaners of Sundays, and other Feſtival Days, exerciſing their Crafts thereon.

The Sheriff fined for violating this Sanctuary.

And again, to this Licentiouſneſs was this Sanctuary grown in theſe times, that in Henry VII. his Reign, one coming hither for ſanctuary, the Sheriffs took him thence by violence, and brought him away. But obſerve what followed: The Abbot of Weſtminſter, (to whom this College now belonged) in the year of Henry VII. exhibited a Bill to the King againſt theſe Sheriffs, for arreſting and drawing out with Force, a privileged Perſon, out of the Sanctuary of St. Martins, belonging to the ſaid Abby. Which Matter was heard in the Court of Star Chamber, before the Lords, and others of the King's Counſel, and Hody and Newton, Chief Juſtices. Which Juſtices determined, that by Law, the Party ought to enjoy the Privilege of Sanctuary: And the Sheriffs were grievouſly fined by particular Name. Which Sentence the Lord Dyer ſaw, as he reported under his own Hand. (And the Lord Coke ſaw in MS. not printed) upon a Reference to him and Juſtice Southcote, out of the Star Chamber, Trin. 11. Eliz. concerning the Sanctuary of Weſtminſter, for Hampton and Whitacres being in for Debt.

The Privilege of St. Martins le Grand.
Quo Warranto Bagg in Exch.

Concerning the Patron, Privilege and exempt Juriſdiction of this Church, we may underſtand by an Inquiſition of the King's Juſtices, at the Tower, in the Reign of King Edward II. when the Jury made this Preſentment of it. That the Church of Great St. Martins, London, was in the donation of the King; and that Richard de Ellefeld then held it, and was Dean there; they knew not by what Warrant, Therefore the Sheriff was commanded to cauſe him to appear. Who came, and ſaid, That he held the foreſaid Church of St. Martins, as a Free Chappel of the Lord King, by the Donation and Conceſſion of him, the preſent King; exempted from all ordinary Juriſdiction, and free by the Letters of the ſame King. Which he produced, in theſe Words; Edwardus, Dei gratia, &c. And by that Warrant he held that Church]

A Solar before St. Martins Church.
J. S.

Before this Church there was a Solar, that is, a large airy Room or Chamber, ſomewhat like the Galleries in ſome great Houſes; being Places of Entertainment and Pleaſure. This Solar was towards the Street, and had a jetty outwards; which was ſo low, that it annoyed the People paſſing along. It was preſented at the foreſaid Inquiſition, in theſe Words: 'That the Dean and Canons of St. Martins the Great, held a certain Solar againſt the ſaid Church, containing in length 29 Feet, and in breadth 11 Feet; Cujus Getticium eſt nimis baſſum de tribus pedibus: i. e. Whoſe Jetty was too low by 3 Feet.' The Sheriff was commanded to ſummon them. Afterwards the Dean and Canons appeared by their Attorney, and yielded to take away what was Annoyance by the view of the Jury. And therefore it was commanded the Sheriff, to throw down whatſoever was an Annoyance. But the Dean was not fined, becauſe it was not his proper Deed.

Curfeu Bell at St. Martins. J. S.

Antiently when this College flouriſhed, a Curfeu Bell was rung here; as was at Bow, St. Giles Cripplegate, and Barkin. It was ſome great Bell to be heard at a diſtance, to give the Citizens warning of the time of Night; and to keep within Doors. King Edward I. in his Reign, in Orders ſent to the City for keeping the Peace, againſt many Miſchiefs and Murders, Robberies, and beating down of People by certain Hectors, walking armed in the Streets a-Nights; commanded, that henceforth, none ſhould be ſo hardy to be found wandring in the Streets, after Coverfeu Bell ſounded at St. Martens le Graund.]

This College was ſurrendered to King Edward VI. the 2d of his Reign, in the Year of Chriſt, 1548. And the ſame Year, the College Church pulled down, many Houſes builded, highly priſed, and letten to Strangers born; and ſuch others as claimed benefit of the Privileges granted to the Canons, ſerving God Day and Night; (for ſo be the Words in the Charter of William the Conqueror) which may hardly be wreſted to Artificers, Buyers and Sellers, otherwiſe than is mentioned in the 21 of St. Matthews Goſpel.

Matth. 21.

In the Eaſt part, where the College Church ſtood, was afterwards a large Wine Tavern builded: And down to the Weſt, and ſo throughout the whole Precinct of that College, it was new builded upon.]

For a larger and more accurate Expoſition of theſe old Words, I refer the Reader to that moſt elaborate and diligent Gloſſary of Sir Henry Spelman, Kt. the learnedeſt Antiquary of our Nation; yea (and in this kind) of all Europe.

This Deanery, together with the Sanctuary and Privileges, was, after, put to the Abbey of St. Peters in Weſtminſter: As appeareth by what next followeth.

A DECLARATION of WILLIAM, Abbot of the Monaſtery of St. Peter of Weſtminſter, concerning his Title to the Privilege and Sanctuary of St. Martins le Grand, in London; with the Precincts, Circuit, and Bounds of the ſame.

The Privileges of St. Martins.

‘ FIrſt, the ſaid Abbot ſaith, That the Free Chappel of St. Martins le Grand in London, and the Precincts of St. Martins aforeſaid, is a Place privileged; and was founded and endowed long time before the Conqueſt, as well of Poſſeſſions, as of Immunities, Franchiſes, and Liberties. And corroborate and inlarged by King William the Conqueror, like as it appeareth, as well by the Charter of the ſaid King William the Conqueror, as by divers other Charters, Writings, and Records.

‘ Item, The ſaid King William the Conqueror, granted by his Charter to the ſame Place of St. Martins, divers Liberties and Franchiſes, by ſpecial and general Words, as well in the Latin Tongue, as Saxon. And over that, granted to the ſaid Place of St. Martins, all other Liberties, Immunities, and Cuſtoms, which any Church of this Realm beſt had. Which Grant importeth, and includeth in himſelf, as great Privileges, Franchiſes, and Immunities, as Weſtminſter, Beverlay, or any other Place privileged, hath within this Realm. And alſo the ſaid Words in Saxon, importeth ſuch Sentence. That the ſaid Place ſhould be franchiſed, privileged, and have tuition and immunities of all thoſe Perſons, which for Treaſon, Felonies, Treſpaſſes, or any other Cauſe, ſhould flee to the ſame, or abide therein. Which Franchiſes, Privilege, Tuition, and Immunities, the ſaid Place hath alway peaceably had and enjoyed, from the ſaid Conqueror's Days, unto this preſent time.

‘ Item, The ſaid Franchiſes, Immunities, and Privileges of St. Martins, have been corroborate, confirmed, allowed, and inlarged, by King Henry I, King Stephen, Henry II. King John, King Henry III. King Edward II. King Edward III. Richard II. Henry V. Henry VI. and in all other Kings Times ſince the Conqueſt. As by divers Charters, and Allowances before Juſtices of Oyer and Determiner, Writings and Records, more plainly at large is ſhewed, and may appear.

‘ Item, It appeareth by divers Returns made by the Sheriffs of London, as well in the King's Bench, Common Pleas, and all other the King's Courts, that the ſaid Place of St. Martins is a Place privileged, and Sanctuary. As by the ſame Returns, remaining of Record, more plainly may appear.

The Bounds of it antiently, all which was Sanctuary.

‘ Item, The ſaid Abbot ſaith, That the Precinct, Circuit, and Bounds, of the Privilege and Sanctuary aforeſaid, be and extend, as hereafter followeth.

‘ Imprimis, Beginning at a Wall lying directly againſt a Poſt that ſtandeth in the midſt of one Roger Wright's, a Grocer's Houſe, which ſtandeth of the Eaſt ſide of the South Gate of St. Martins: And from the Wall in the ſaid Grocer's Houſe, with the half deal of the Street, unto the Chanel of the ſame ſide that Houſe ſtandeth upon, Sanctuary. And ſo forth from the Eaſt, Weſtward, unto the midſt of St. Martin's Lane, next to the Chappel of St. Martins, againſt the Tenement of the Bull's Head; which Tenement lieth at the South end of the ſaid Lane, on the Weſt part.

The Bulls Head.

‘ Item, Half part of the Street of St. Martin's Lane, Sanctuary, from the South unto the North, as far forth, as the Houſes appertaining to the Bull Head do extend Northwards.

‘ Item, From the ſaid Place of the Bulls Head, then the whole Lane of St. Martins, Sanctuary on both ſides, unto a Poſt or Stoop that ſtandeth of the North ſide, or end of the two Tenements, ſtanding by the great Gate next going into the Deans Court.

‘ Item, From the ſaid St. Martins Lane, at the aforeſaid Bulls Head, turning by a Wall that divideth the ſaid Tenement of the Bulls Head, and St. Martins Ground. Which Wall turneth and extendeth from the Eaſt, Weſtwards, unto a back Wall that cloſeth in St. Martins Ground of the Weſt ſide; all within the ſaid Wall, Sanctuary.

‘ Item, Along by the ſame back Wall that cloſeth in the Weſt part of St. Martins Ground, from the South end of the ſaid Wall into the North, unto a Wall that divideth my Lord of Northumberland s Ground, and St. Martins Ground from the South end; all within the aforeſaid Walls, Sanctuary. And ſo forth, from the South ſide, into the North of my Lord of Northumberland's Ground, Sanctuary. Along by a back Wall of the Grey Fryers; which back Wall cloſeth in my Lord of Northumberland's Ground of the Weſt part, unto the North part of Angel Alley, abutting Northwards, upon the South ſide of Robert Bowman's Houſe, into the Street-wards. And ſo Sanctuary ſtill, from the ſaid back Wall of Grey Fryers, along by the Angel Alley, and by the South part of the ſaid Robert Bowman's Houſe, from the Weſt unto the Eaſt, until you come to a Poſt or Stoop ſtanding on the North part of the two Tenements next lying on the North ſide of a great Gate entring into the Dean's Court.

‘ Item, From the aforeſaid Wall, along from the North, Southward unto Hugh Payne's dwelling Houſe; and from thence, by the North ſide of the ſaid Hugh Payne's Garden, Sanctuary ſtill; from the Weſt unto the Eaſt part thereof.

‘ Item, Again from the North ſide of the above rehearſed Hugh Payne's Garden, Southward, unto the Dean's Garden, Sanctuary.

‘ Item, Along by the Wall on the North ſide of the Dean's Garden, from the Weſt into the Eaſt thereof, Sanctuary.

‘ Item, from the North unto the South, of the aforeſaid Dean's Garden, with St. Leonards Church, Sanctuary, as by a Wall it there ſheweth.

‘ Item, From the Eaſt end of St. Leonards Church, Weſtwards of the South of St. Martins, unto the Bell Alley, Sanctuary; as appeareth alſo by another Wall there.

‘ Item, From the Bell Alley, Southwards, unto the Wall ſpoken of at the beginning, which is within the Grocer's Houſe, againſt the Poſt that ſtandeth within the midſt of the ſame Houſe. And ſo forth directly again, unto the Chanel of the High Street, that lyeth before the South Gate of St. Martins; all within the Bounds rehearſed, Sanctuary.

St. Martins a privileged Place for Debt, Treaſon, and Felony.

‘ Item, By a Statute made in the Year of King Edward the 3d, it is affirmed, The ſaid Place of St. Martins to be a Place franchiſed and privileged, having tuition and immunity, in manner and form as is above rehearſed. And in ſpecial, and for them that come in thither for Debt, Treaſon, and Felony. In proof whereof, the Judge that ſitteth there for the King, as in a Place not of the City, but by Privilege ſeparate, (the Maior not called thereto, as he is to the deliverance of Newgate, and other ſuch Acts in the City) to have knowledge there in a Caſe of Treaſon or Felony, hath ever, from Time that no mind is, ſitten in the Gate of the ſaid Sanctuary. And the Perſon Appeached or Indicted of Treaſon and Felony, hath been kept by the Officers on the further ſide of the Street afore him; to the intent that he come not of the other ſide of the Channel, towards the Sanctuary there, to claim the Liberty and Franchiſes of the ſame.

‘ Item, Whereas divers Kings of this Land, for Cauſes ſuch as moved them, have ſeized into their Hands the Franchizes and Liberties that the City of London had; by reaſon whereof they were not ſuffered to uſe or enjoy the ſaid Franchiſes, for as long as it hath liked unto the ſaid Kings. Yet the ſaid Chappel of St. Martins le Grand, in the ſaid City of London, with the Precinct of the ſame, at the ſaid times of ſuch ſeazing of the aforeſaid Franchiſes, was afore and ſince always a Place privileged, without any diſturbance, diminiſhing, or taking away by the ſaid Kings, or by their Miniſters. And peaceably uſed and enjoyed their Franchiſes, Liberties, and Immunities, within the Sanctuary and Precinct of St. Martins; as in a Place excepted and privileged, and no ways pertaining unto the ſaid City; no parcel thereof, though it be within the ſaid City.

St. Martins no ways pertaining unto the City.

‘ And moreover, the ſaid Abbot ſaith, That the ſaid Church or Chappel of St. Martins, within the ſaid Sanctuary and Precinct of the ſame; were of late, by the late King of famous memory, King Henry the 7th, lawfully annexed and given to the ſaid Monaſtery of St. Peter of Weſtminſter; at which time, and times without Mind of Man before that, the ſaid Chappel and Precinct, Circuit and Bounds of the ſaid Sanctuary, comprized within the Limits above rehearſed, were uſed, allowed, and taken,; and yet be as Sanctuary.

St. Martins given to the Abby of Weſtminſter by King Henry the 7th.

Thus far the Abbot of Weſtminſter's Declaration, at which time (as it appeareth) there fell out ſo much Conteſtation concerning the Precincts of this Sanctuary, that the Matter was fain to be tried by antient ſworn Men depoſed in Court, as Witneſſes. Some of their Depoſitions are come to my Hand, which I here give you; the reſt (and the beginning) have miſcarried.

Depoſitions concerning St. Martins.

‘ Item, The ſaid Henry Williamſon depoſeth for the claimed Bounds, and alſo for the priviledge of Sanctuary-Men, in the half Street and Lane next to St. Martins; and for the ſetting up of the Gallows on Evil May Day; and for the removing thereof, as others therein before have depoſed.

‘ Item, Ralfe Twyn depoſeth, all wholly the claimed Bounds to be Sanctuary; and alſo the ſetting up of the Gallows, and removing of the ſame; and the Pavement to be done by the Abbot. And that he knew one Bland privileged both for Treaſon and Murder, ever uſed to walk in the Street claimed as Sanctuary, without any diſturbance.

‘ Item, William Bayley depoſeth all the claimed Bounds, and alſo the ſitting of the Juſtices in the South Gate: And that he heard the Juſtices ſay, that half the Street againſt the ſaid Gate was Sanctuary. And that there were Perſons therein arraigned, and others therein depoſed. And that he knew the ſaid Bland, privileged for Treaſon and Felony, to dwell in Angel Alley. And that the Abbot ought to make the Pavement, as others have depoſed there.

‘ Item, John Smith, Clerk, depoſeth for all the claimed Bounds: And further ſaith, that he knew Dr. Morton, and alſo the Cardinal Morton, to lie there; one in Roger Wright's Houſe, and the other in Angel Alley, they both being privileged for Treaſon. And alſo he ſuppoſeth both Angel Alley and Bland Alley to be holden of St. Martins by certain Rent, as parcel of the Earl of Northumberland's Tenements. And alſo for the Pavement, as others before have depoſed.

At this time (I ſuppoſe) was there a Survey or Plat of the Precinct, exhibited into the Court of Chancery, where it appeareth theſe Witneſſes to have been depoſed. The Figure of which Plat we here exhibit unto you.

The Cauſe between the City and St. Martins in 27 Hen VIII. J. S.

There was a memorable Cauſe tried about the Liberties, between this Collegiate Church of St. Martins, and the City of London, in the 27th of Henry VIII. which probably the former Declaration of the Abbot of Weſtminſter refers to. The City then, by her Recorder and Council, penned and exhibited theſe enſuing Articles againſt the Sanctuary of St. Martins.

Journ. Seym. fol 407. 27 Hen. VIII. St. Martins le Grand Rights and Privileges, p. 6.

ARTICLES declaring for the Maior and Commonalty of London; That the Encloſure and Chyrch of Seynt Martines le Grande, the Meſſuages, Houſes, and Lane of Seint Martines aforeſayd, be of, and in the Liberty and Juriſdiction of the ſaid City; and that there be, nor by any lawful meane have been, any ſuch Privileges and Immunity, the which may or ought to defend al manner of enorm Enemies of God, the Chyrch, the King, and the Realm, unpuniſhed, as it hath been of long wrongfully accuſtomed. And eſpecially to diſherit our moſt dread Sovereign Lord, and his ſaid City and Chamber of London, of ſuch Rights, Juriſdictions, Liberties, and free Cuſtoms, as of long time before the Foundation, and at the Foundation of the ſaid Chyrch, and ever after, peaceably and quietly had uſed; and approved by divers Records, by Authority of Parliament, Letters Patents, and otherwiſe; as followeth.

‘Firſt, they ſeyen, that the City of London is, and ſince the tyme of Remembrance of Man, hath been the chief City of this Realm; aud above al other Cities and Towns of the ſame, as wel in Honours, Liberties, and free Cuſtoms highly endowed And the which famous City, in the time of Seint EDWARD, King, and Confeſſor, and long time before, always hath been of it ſelf one hoole County, and one hoole Juriſdiction and Liberty, by the ſaid Citizens and their Predeceſſors, of the King and his Progenitors holden at Farm.

‘And the ſame Citizens then, and by al the time aforeſeid, by reaſon of their ſeid Juriſdiction and Liberties, among others, have had Liberties and free Cuſtoms, to elect and make of themſelves, yerely, certain principal Officers in the ſaid City, which faithfully ſhudde anſwer the King's Terme: And immediately under him, the People of the ſaid City, and others repairing to the ſame in Peace, Unity, and Juſtice, ſhudde govern after their old Laws and Cuſtoms. And alſo, to ſubſtitute under them other under-Oficers and Miniſters, to help for the ſuſtentation and execution of the Premiſſes, &c.

The Cauſe again in diſpute in the time of Hen. VI. Collections relating to the Privilege of the City.

And before this, in the Reign of Henry VI. was this great Cauſe in diſpute, between the City and St. Martins, before ſeveral Commiſſioners appointed to hear it. Then the Citizens pleaded, that William the Conqueror, before the Foundation of the foreſaid Church, by Authority of his Parliament, and by two Charters, which the Maior and Citizens then produced, he demiſed to the Citizens of London, all the ſaid City and Sheriffwick of London, with all Appendages, &c. And ſo pleading inter alia, concluded thus; All and ſingular which the ſame Maior and Citizens are ready to make good, as well for the ſaid Lord the King, as for themſelves.

It ſeems that there hath been ſome later differences about a new Door into the Liberties of the Freedom; whereupon a Court being called December 20, 1625. this Order was given out, to be enquired upon and certified.

Inqueſt about a new Door into the Liberty of St. Martins.

It is ordered by the Court, that the Foreman of the Inqueſt, with others of the ſame Inqueſt, ſhall view the South Gate and Entry leading from Bladder ſtreet into this Liberty: And alſo a Door made by Thomas Rodes in the Eaſt ſide of the ſame Entrey; and make their Reports under their Hands in Writing, on Monday next after the Epiphany.

‘According to the direction of the Order aboveſaid, we whoſe Names are under written, being all of the Enqueſt ſworne for this Yeere, having viewed the Gate and Entry, doe find, and accordingly certifie, that Thomas Rodes, a Linnen Draper, dwelling in a Houſe next adjoyning to the ſaid Entry, on the Eaſt ſide thereof, (in part of which Houſe Roger Wright did dwell) hath of late, without the privity or knowledge of the Inhabitants of this Liberty, taken downe, or cauſed to be taken downe and carried away, a paire of ſtrong, ſufficient, and ſerviceable Gates, in the Night time; which were, and time out of mind have bin, the common South Gate of this Liberty. And in ſtead thereof, hath ſet up a new Gate of Deale, opening all one way, viz. towards the Weſt ſide; whereas the former paire of Gates or Leaves did fall open, the one towards the Eaſt ſide, and the other towards the Weſt ſide of the ſaid Entry. Alſo the ſaid Thomas Rodes hath broken down the partition Wall on the Eaſt ſide of the ſaid Entry; againſt which, one Leafe of the ſaid old Gate did fall open, as aforeſaid: And hath there made a new Doore (where never any was before, in the memory of Man) of almoſt an Ell in breadth, out of the ſaid Shop, into the ſaid Entry or common Paſſage into this Liberty. Whereby a free and open paſſage is made out of the City of London, thorow the Shop of the ſaid Rodes, into this Liberty; to the great prejudice of the Lords of the ſame Liberty, and to the great hinderance and damage of the Tenants and Inhabitants within the ſame. In witneſſe whereof wee have hereunto ſubſcribed our Names; dated the 9th Day of January, Anno Domini 1625.

The State of St. Martins in Queen Elizabeth's time. J. S.

The Liberties of this Place, after the Diſſolution of the College, remained, and were preſerved very cautiouſly from time to time. And to know how the Government, Privileges, and State of it ſtood in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, theſe Matters following may explain in ſome meaſure.

Strangers and Aliens in St. Martins.

Becauſe of the Liberty enjoyed by ſuch as lived within theſe Bounds, many Foreigners, Engliſh and others, Tradeſmen and Artificers, planted themſelves here. An. 1585. A Survey was taken of all the Strangers, being French, Germains, Dutch, and Scots, inhabiting here, and their Occupations. Many of them were Cordwainers, that is Shoemakers, (which Trade ſtill continues there) Taylors, (hence the Tallymen who ſold Shreds of Cloth; and Button-makers, and Button-mold-makers, that remained there even until the great Fire, in my remembrance.) Here inhabited alſo Strangers, Goldſmiths, Purſemakers, Linen-Drapers, ſome Stationers, ſome Merchants, Silk Weavers. Here lived alſo two Silk-twiſters, who I ſuppoſe were the firſt Silk-throwers in London, and brought the Trade into England. And for remembrance ſake, I ſhall ſet down their Names; the one was John James, born under the Dominion of King Philip, and made Denizen the 19th of December, the 10th of the Queen. The other was Anthony Emerick, born alſo under the Obedience of King Philip, and made Denizon the 1ſt of January, An. 17 Regin. Elizabethæ. There were upon that Survey aboveſaid, found to be of Houſeholders, (Denizons, as well as others) their Wives, Children, and Servants, one Hundred ſixty one in number. Which nevertheleſs was leſs by half than was ſome Years before; for in 1569. their Number was 269.

Diſorders in this Liberty.

There was a Conſtable and a Headborough for this Liberty. But divers Things here wanted providing for; in reſpect whereof, they that lived out of the Liberty, were in better condition. Sundry of the Inhabitants refuſed to watch and ward, when upon Occaſion they were required, as good Subjects and honeſt Neighbours, ſo to do. They refuſed to contribute to ſuch Taxes and Payments as were ſet upon them for her Majeſty's Service, with the reſt of their Neighbours. Several viſited with the Sickneſs, would not obey the Orders appointed in that behalf; that is, they would not keep their Doors and Windows ſhut, nor keep themſelves within their Houſes; but walked forth, and ſtruck out the Red Croſs ſet upon their Doors, and threatned to miſchief ſuch as ſhould come to ſet any ſuch Croſſes there. And ſome repaired to the Court with their Wares, a Thing dangerous to the Queen and Nobility. There was no Priſon in the ſaid Liberty to commit ſuch as ſhould be troubleſome and offenſive, but the Gatehouſe in Weſtminſter; which was in another Shire, and out of the Liberty. And ſo they that were thus committed, commonly brought their Actions againſt thoſe that committed them, and put them to great Trouble.

The Liberty petition the Treaſurer for remedy of Diſorders.

Hence in the Year 1593. the Officers and Inhabitants petitioned the Lord Treaſurer to grant them ſuch good Ordinances for the redreſs of the ſaid Diſorders, and ſufficient Authority for execution of the ſame, for the good Government of the ſaid Liberty, and Conſervation of the People in Peace; as to his Lordſhip's diſcrete Wiſdom ſhould be thought meet. And that they might have a Priſon and Execution of Juſtice within the Precinct of the Liberty. And that he would ſend his Letters to the Conſtable and Headborough, to find out a convenient Place for ſuch purpoſe; and to aſſeſs all the Inhabitants of the Liberty to the Charge thereof. The Lord Treaſurer recommended this Matter to Sergeant Owen, and Mr. Lewis, Lawyers; who gave their Judgments, that for all Matters for the Service of the Queen, the Inhabitants were compelled to perform the ſame. But for other Matters, they muſt make ſome By-Laws and Orders among themſelves, to bind themſelves to performance. And that ſuch diſordered Perſons, whoſe Houſes were limited within the College, might be puniſhed by Impriſonment; and in that contagious Time very convenient to be executed.

The Treaſurer refers this Matter to Lawyers.

The Maiors Officers infringe their Liberties.

The Inhabitants alſo complained at this time, that the Maior's Officers entred into their Liberty at their pleaſure, and ſearched and viewed all the Wares of the Shoemakers, according to a Statute lately made; not calling the Officer of the Liberty, or making him privy thereto. To this the Judgment of the foreſaid Lawyers was, That the Searcher might enter into the Liberty, and ſearch alone. But, for that the Benefit of the Forfeitures was given to the Liberty, they thought it convenient that the Lord Maior's Officer ſhould be with them. Which they thought might be obtained, if it pleaſed the Treaſurer to write to the Lord Maior in that behalf.]

Northumberland Houſe, or Queen Jane's Wardrobe.

Lower down, on the Weſt ſide of St. Martins Lane, in the Pariſh of St. Anne, almoſt by Alderſgate, is one great Houſe, commonly called Northumberland Houſe; it belonged to Henry Percy. King Henry IV. in the 7th of his Reign, gave this Houſe, with the Tenements thereunto appertaining, to Queen Jane his Wife, and then it was called her Wardrobe. It was afterward a Printing-houſe, but now a Tavern.

The part without Alderſgate.
Cooks Hall.

Now without Alderſgate, on the Eaſt ſide of Alderſgate ſtreet, is the Cooks Hall: Which Cooks (or Paſtelars) were admitted to be a Company, and to have a Maſter and Wardens, in the 22d of Edward IV. From thence, along unto Hounſditch or Barbican ſtreet, be many fair Houſes. On the Weſt ſide alſo be the like fair Buildings, till ye come to Long lane, and ſo to Goſwell ſtreet.

The Pariſh Church of St. BOTOLPH Alderſgate.

Britten ſtreet.
St. Botolph.
A Brotherhood founded in this Church.

In Britten ſtreete, now called Little Britain, which took that Name of the Dukes of Britten lodging there, is one proper Pariſh Church of St. Buttolph. In which Church was ſometime a Brotherhood of St. Fabian and Sebaſtian, founded in the Year 1377. the 51ſt of Edward III. and confirmed by Henry IV. in the 6th of his Reign. Then Henry VI. in the 24th of his Reign, to the Honour of the Trinity, gave Licence to Dame Joan Aſtley, ſometime his Nurſe, to Richard Cawood, and Thomas Smith, to found the ſame a Fraternity, perpetually to have a Maſter and two Cuſtos, with Brethren and Siſters, &c. This Brotherhood was indowed with Lands, more than 30 l. by the Year; and was ſuppreſſed by Edward VI.

Guild of the Trinity diſſolved.

This Brotherhood conſiſted of a Meſſuage, Houſe and Tenement, called Trinity Hall, otherwiſe The common Hall of the Fraternity or Guild of the Holy Trinity, founded in the Church of St. Botolph Alderſgate, and alſo Eight Meſſuages and Tenements, commonly called The Trinity, alſo ſituate beneath Trinity Hall. They were in the tenure of Alexander Chapman, and coming into King Edward's Hands by an Act of Parliament, he granted them to William Harris, alias Somers, in his ſecond Year.

Repaired.
R.

The Steeple of this Church of St. Botolph, being very much decayed and periſhed, was, ſo far as they found it needful, pulled down, and rebuilded with Portland Stone, beautified with new Battlements and a Turret. Some part of the Church repaired, and many of the Pews new made. As alſo, a new Clock and Dial (at the Coſt and Charge of the Pariſhioners) in the Year 1627. The Charge of all this amounting to 415 l.

John Wotton,
Anthony Germain, } Churchwardens.

And but three Years before, viz. Anno 1624. was a fair new Pulpit ſet up, the Coſt whereof was 35 l.]

In this Church, in a Vault erected for the Interrment of his Family by his Relict, the Lady Elizabeth Wray, lies buried the Body of Sir Daniel Wray, Kt. who was High Sheriff of Eſſex, A. D. 1708. He gave yearly, while he liv'd in the Pariſh, Five Pounds to poor Houſekeepers thereof, beſides many private Acts of Beneficence he induſtriouſly concealed; and left 50 l. to the Charity Schools. He was a Gentleman of unaffected Piety, invincible Integrity, and extenſive Charity. He died July the 2d, 1719. in the 73d year of his Age.

Three Guilds in this Church.
J. S.
H. Trinity.

There were three Fraternities founded in this Church of St. Botolph Alderſgate. One of the Holy Trinity, founded 48 Ed. III. 1373. in Honour of the Body of Chriſt, and to maintain 13 Wax Lights burning about the Sepulchre in the time of Eaſter, in the ſaid Church; and to find a Chaplain. Their chief Day of Solemnity was on Trinity Day, to hear Maſs in honour of the Body of Chriſt, and of the Holy Trinity, and to make their Offerings.

S. Fabian.

Another Fraternity founded in this Church, was of St. Fabian and Sebaſtian. Theſe Brothers and Siſters were to find ſeven round Tapers, of one and twenty Pounds of Wax, to be light all Seven on high Feaſt Days, at all Hours of the Day, in the Worſhip of God and his Mother; and St. Fabian and Sebaſtian, and of Alhallows, and on Sundays; and on other ſimple Feaſts two, to be light at the High Maſs.

S. Katharine.

The third Brotherhood was of St. Katharine. Theſe Brethren were to aſſemble together in this Church, on the Day of St. Katharine, and there to hear a Maſs, and offer in the Worſhip of her: and in the Afternoon, or next Sunday following, to chuſe their Maſters for the next Year. They were to find five round Tapers, of twenty pound weight, of Wax, to be light on High Feaſt Days, all five, in all Hours of the Day, in the Worſhip of God, and of his Mother, Maiden Mary, and St. Katharine, the glorious Virgin and Martyr, and of All Halwen, and on Sundays; and on other ſimple Feaſts, two to be light of the Five, at high Maſs.

Now for the Modern State of this Ward. To begin with the Places within the Wall.

Foſter lane. Adam's Court. Prieſt's Alley or Court. Roſe and Crown Court. St. Leonard Foſter lane Church.

Foſter lane, a Place of a good reſort for Silver Smiths, who forge and work Plate for the Goldſmiths, who ſell it. The South end next unto Cheapſide, that is, two Houſes Northwards from St. Vedaſt, or St. Foſters Church, is in the Ward of Faringdon within; and all the reſt of the Weſt ſide, is in the Liberty of St. Martins le Grand, as far as Bell Court: So that only part of the Eaſt ſide is in this Ward. In this Lane are theſe Places; Adam's Court, but ſmall, ſeated over againſt the Church. Prieſt's Court, or Alley, very long and ordinary, with a paſſage into Gutter lane, through the Half Moon Tavern. Roſe and Crown Court, pretty good, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Dark Entry, very ordinary, gives a paſſage into St. Martins le Grand. On the North ſide of this Entry, was ſeated the Pariſh Church of St. Leonard Foſter lane; which being conſumed in the Fire of London, is not rebuilt, but the Pariſh united to Chriſt Church; and the Place where it ſtood, is incloſed within a Wall, and ſerveth as a Burial Place for the Inhabitants of the Pariſh.

Three Tenements for the Poor of St. Martins.

Sir John Trott, of Laverſtock in Flintſhire, Baronet, gave 200 l. towards the rebuilding of three Tenements for the uſe of the Poor of St. Martins le Grand, in this Pariſh.

Carey lane. Bell Court. Three Crown Court. Goldſmiths Hall.

Carey lane, falls into Gutter lane, a Place of ſome Trade for Silver Smiths. Bell Court, a large open place, with good Houſes, well inhabited; hath a paſſage with a Free ſtone Pavement into St. Martins le Grand. Three Crown Court, both ſmall and ordinary, ſeated near unto Bell Court. Goldſmiths Hall, ſeated at the corner of this Lane, turning into Maiden lane, the back part being in Gutter lane; a very handſome new Brick Building, with an open ſquare Court within. Before its rebuilding it was not ſo large. Over againſt this Hall is a fair large Houſe, now made uſe of for refining of Silver.

Maiden lane. St. John Zacharys Church.

Maiden lane, formerly Engain lane, a good handſome well built and inhabited Street; the Eaſt end falleth into Woodſtreet, but hath no more in this Ward, than unto Staining lane. At the North Weſt Corner, over againſt Goldſmiths Hall, ſtood the Pariſh Church of St. John Zachary, which ſince the dreadful Fire is not rebuilt, but the Pariſh united unto St. Anns Alderſgate; and the Ground on which it ſtood, incloſ'd within a Wall, ſerving as a burial Place for the Pariſh.

Near unto this Churchyard, is a curious ſpatious Houſe, with a large Court Yard, handſomely paved with Free ſtone, formerly the Seat of Sir Thomas Bludworth, Kt. Lord Maior 1666. and now the Seat of Richard Levet, Eſq; one of the Deputies of the Ward; Son of Sir Richard Levet, Kt. Lord Maior in the Year 1700. in which Houſe, being large enough, he kept his Maioralty. On the ſame ſide, but beyond Staining lane, is ſeated Haberdaſhers Hall, a large Building; which is in part of this Lane, but in Cripplegate Ward.

Staining lane.
St. Mary Staining Church.

Staining lane, the Eaſt ſide, which joineth unto Haberdaſhers Hall, is in Cripplegate Ward. At the upper end of the Lane, was the Church of St. Mary Staining, which Church is not rebuilt ſince the Fire of London; but the Pariſh united unto St. Michael Woodſtreet, and the Ground incloſed within a Wall, for the burial of the Dead for the Pariſh.

Gutter lane.

Gutter lane hath the Weſt ſide, from the corner of Maiden lane, unto Carey lane, in this Ward; and the Eaſt in Cripplegate Ward.

Noble ſtreet.
Lillypot lane.
Oate lane.
White Horſe Court.
DolphinCourt.
Coachmakers Hall.
Fitches Court.
Hides Court.

Noble ſtreet, pretty long, and indifferently well inhabited; the end next to Foſter lane being eſteemed the beſt. In this Street are theſe Places of Name. Lilly pot lane, but ordinary; falls into Staining lane, as doth Oat lane, alſo but ſmall. Betwixt theſe two Lanes is White Horſe Court, pretty open, but ordinary. Dolphin Court, very ſmall, ſeated oppoſite to Oat lane. A little more Northwards, is Coachmakers Hall, a handſome Building. Fitches Court, a good handſome broad place, with a Free ſtone Pavement; hath pretty good Houſes, with Inhabitants anſwerable. At the upper end is an old Timber Houſe, where formerly Titchborn, ſometime Alderman and Lord Maior, dwelt. This Houſe ſtrangely eſcaped burning in the dreadful Fire of London, when all the Houſes round about it were quite conſumed. Hides Court, but ſmall.

St. Olaves Silverſtreet Church.

St. Olaves Silverſtreet Church, was ſeated on the North Weſt Corner of this Street; not rebuilt ſince its burning in the great Fire of London; and the Pariſh is united to St. Albans Woodſtreet.

St. Anns lane.
St. Anns Alley.
St. Anns Church.

St. Anns lane, a place of ſome Trade, lieth betwixt Foſter lane and St. Martins le Grand, near Alderſgate. About the middle of this Lane, on the North ſide, is St. Anns Alley, having a Free ſtone Pavement, which leadeth to St. Anns Church, and from thence into Noble ſtreet, ſevering the Church from the Churchyard. Since the Fire of London, in which it was conſumed, it is rebuilt very handſome and neat, the Front facing Southward, all of rubbed Brick: To which is united the Pariſh of St. John Zachary.

St. Martins le Grand.

St. Martins le Grand lies Weſt out of St. Anns Lane; now much inhabited by Shoemakers.

It is a Place which yet claimeth Privileges, and belonging to the City of Weſtminſter, at the Election of Burgeſſes of Parliament for that City, the Inhabitants of St. Martins have their Voices; and although within the City of London, and Ward of Alderſgate, yet it is exempt from their Juriſdiction. In this Liberty they ſtill have a Priſon, and a Bailiff, and keep Courts for mean Actions. Its Bounds and extent appear by the prick'd Lines in the Map, ſevered from the Ward of Alderſgate. It contains but one principal Street, and that is called St. Martins le Grand; which cometh out of Blowbladder ſtreet, by the Weſt end of Cheapſide, and runneth to Alderſgate. But this Liberty runneth but to Bell Court, near unto St. Anns lane. And all from Bell Court unto Alderſgate, is in Alderſgate Ward, and out of this Liberty. This Street is a Place of a conſiderable Trade, it is a great Thoroughfare, and its Houſes well built.

Round Court.
Dark Entry.
Mould makers Rents.
New Rents.
Great Deans Court.
Little Deans Court.
George ſtreet.
St. Johns Alley.
Chriſtophers Alley.
Four Dove Court.
Kings Head Court.
Angel ſtreet.

In this Liberty are theſe Courts and Places of Name: Round Court, pretty large, with a handſome Free ſtone Pavement, the part towards St. Martins being a handſome ſquare Court. It hath a paſſage into Blow-bladder ſtreet, which is taken up by Milleners, Sempſtreſſes, and ſuch as ſell a ſort of Copper Lace, called St. Martins Lace, for which it is of Note. Out of this Court is an Alley which leadeth into the New Rents, which alſo cometh into St. Martins Street; and at the upper end are two Paſſages into Foſter lane, one of which goeth into a place called the Dark Entry, by St. Leonard Foſter lane Churchyard. Mouldmakers Rents, an indifferent open Place; out of which are ſeveral paſſages, as into New Rents, Deans Court, and George ſtreet. New Rents, a pretty handſome Street, which comes out of St. Martins Street; and at the upper end is the Swan Tavern. Great Deans Court, a good open Place, pretty well built and inhabited; hath a paſſage into Mouldmakers Rents or Row, and another into George ſtreet. In this Court is another ſmall one, called Little Deans Court, which is but very ordinary. George ſtreet, of which there are two; the one leading into Foſter lane, and the other into Round Court. St. John's Alley, very ordinary. Cock Alley, hath a narrow Entrance which leads into an open Place with a Free ſtone Pavement, indifferent good. Chriſtophers Alley, hath a Free ſtone Pavement, pretty good; which at the upper end hath a Door into the Bagnio. Four Dove Court, an indifferent open Place, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Kings Head Court, a good handſome Place, well built and inhabited, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Angel Alley, pretty good; the upper end falls into Butcher Hall Lane. Of this Street, that part within this Liberty, goeth no farther than Kings Head Court; the reſt of this Street is in the Ward of Faringdon within.

Bull and Mouth ſtreet
Bull and Mouth Inn.

Bull and Mouth Street goeth out of St. Martins le Grand, and runneth up to Butcher Hall Lane; but it hath no more in this Ward, than a little Weſtwards of the Bull and Mouth Inn, which is large, and well built, and of a good Reſort by thoſe that bring Bone Lace, where the Shopkeepers and others come to buy it. The Fountain Tavern, which hath a back Door into St. Anns Lane, is ſeated near unto Alderſgate. And in this part of St. Martins, is a noted Meeting Houſe of the Quakers, called the Bull and Mouth; and where they met long before the Fire.

Alderſgate ſtreet.
Dorcheſter Houſe.
London Houſe.
Thanet Houſe.

Alderſgate ſtreet, very ſpacious and long; and although the Buildings are old, and not uniform, yet many of them are very good, and well inhabited; and of the principal of them, two are very large, the one formerly called Dorcheſter Houſe, as being the Seat of the late Marqueſs of Dorcheſter; and Peter Houſe, as belonging once to the Lord Peters; Now called London Houſe, being at preſent the Seat of the Biſhop of London. The other Thanet Houſe, as belonging to the Earl of Thanet, the greateſt part of which is now converted into Tenements; amongſt which is a very handſome built Inn. This Street runneth Northwards unto the end of Barbican on the Eaſt ſide, and Long lane on the Weſt; where Goſwel ſtreet begins. In this Street are a great many Alleys and Courts, and for the deſcribing them, I ſhall begin at Alderſgate. Caſtle Inn, very large, and of a conſiderable reſort. In the Yard are ſeveral good Houſes for private Families: and out of this Yard, is a paſſage into Jewen ſtreet. Harrow Court, very ſmall and indifferent. Cooks Hall, ſeated over againſt Little Britain. Grey Hound Court, very mean and ordinary. Cock and Bottle Court, poor and ordinary. Ball Alley, long, narrow, and ordinary. Golden Lion Court, very well built and inhabited on the North ſide, the Eaſt ſide being open and airy, with Gardens. Deputies Court, or Roſe and Rainbow Court, but ordinary. Nettleton Court, pretty large, but ordinary Buildings. Maidenhead Court, large, but indifferent built, with a paſſage into Crowders Well Alley; from whence one may go into Jewin ſtreet, in Cripplegate Ward. George Inn, formerly the White Hart Inn, very large, and convenient for the reception of Coaches, Waggons, and Travellers. It hath Galleries that lead to the Chambers, as cuſtomary in many great Inns. There is in Thanet Houſe, which adjoineth to this Inn, a Lace Chamber of very good reſort for Buyers and Sellers; and the Inn has moſt of the Trade which formerly did belong to the George in Little Britain. Trinity Court, pretty open, but indifferently built. Weſtmoreland Alley, or the Paved Alley, as paved with Free ſtone; the paſſage leading through Weſtmoreland Court into St. Bartholomew's Cloſe. Angel Alley, large, and ſomething narrow towards the upper end; where it hath a paſſage into Horn Alley, an open place, very long, with low Buildings. About the middle it hath a paſſage into Cockpit Yard, pretty well built, which gives an Entrance into Jewen ſtreet; and that falleth into Redcroſs ſtreet, near unto St. Giles Cripplegate Church; and this is a Street very well built and inhabited: But of this Street there is no more in this Ward than Cockpit Yard, the reſt and greateſt part being in Cripplegate Ward. Cradle Court, a good handſome open Place, well built, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Black Horſe Alley, but ſmall, and ordinary. Black Horſe Court, alſo ſmall. Half Moon Court, a little open, but mean. Half Moon Alley, but narrow, hath a paſſage through the Half Moon Tavern into St. Bartholomew's Cloſe. Tongue's Court, very ſmall, with old Buildings. Lauderdale Houſe, or Court, a good large old Building, with a Free ſtone Court before it. Hare Court, open for Carts, at the upper end it falls into Pauls Alley, and ſo into Redcroſs ſtreet. Bell Inn, of a pretty good reſort for Waggons with Meal, &c. The Sun Tavern, very large, and of a good Trade.

Goſwel ſtreet.
Cock Inn.
Devonſhire Court.
Red Lion Inn.
Beggers Lane.
Three Cups Inn.
White Horſe Yard.
Vine Yard.
Bridgwater ſtreet.

Goſwell ſtreet, begins at Barbican, where Alderſgate ſtreet ends, and runs up to the Bars, in this Ward, and much further Northwards beyond Old ſtreet. The Street is broad, but meanly built and inhabited, eſpecially beyond the Bars. In this Street within the Bars, are theſe Courts and Places of Name: Cock Inn, hath a good Trade, and reſorted unto by Waggons that bring Meal, and other Goods. Devonſhire Court, contains two Courts, one within another, and both but ſmall and ordinary. Red Lion Inn, of a pretty good Trade, and hath a large Yard for Coach Houſes and Stabling. Through this Yard, is a paſſage into Charter Houſe Yard, and another into Long Lane. Beggers Lane, ſo called, as being the uſual Place for Beggers to ply at; this Place being an open paſſage into the Charter Houſe Yard, and ſo unto Smithfield Bars, and St. John ſtreet; and a great Thoroughfare. Three Cups Inn, of no great Trade. White Horſe Yard, a large open Place for Stabling and Coach Houſes; and hath in it ſome Dwelling Houſes. Vine Yard, pretty large, but of ſmall Account, having old Houſes, and ſome part not built. Fanns Alley, juſt without the Bars, as to the Entrance, which is broad enough for Carts, and but indifferently built and inhabited, the South ſide being in this Ward, and the other in the Liberty of St. Giles Cripplegate. This Alley hath a paſſage into Bridgwater Street, which leads into Brackley ſtreet, and ſo into Litton ſtreet, and thence into Golden Lane; all Places pretty well built with new Brick Houſes, and built on the Ground belonging to the Houſe of the Earl of Bridgwater, who reſided there before it was all built into Tenements. But all theſe Streets are in Cripplegate Ward.

Barbican.
White Lion Court.
Fox and Crown Court.

Barbican, a good large Street, cometh out of the upper end of Alderſgate ſtreet, and runneth up to Redcroſs ſtreet; a Place of a good Trade for the Saleſmen and Brokers for Apparel, both old and new. The part of this Street within the Ward is but little, viz. from the Corner next to Alderſgate ſtreet, unto White Lion Court on the North ſide; which is but mean, with decrepid Houſes ready to fall: And Fox and Crown Court on the South ſide, which is alſo but ordinary.

Long Lane.

Long Lane, ſo called for its length, coming out of Alderſgate ſtreet againſt Barbican, and falleth into Weſt Smithfield. A Place alſo of Note for the ſale of Apparel, Linnen, and Upholſters Goods, both Second-hand and New, but chiefly for Old, for which it is of note. This Lane hath but little in this Ward, eſpecially the South ſide; and the North ſide takes in the Red Lion Inn, already ſpoken of.

Little Britain.

Little Britain, comes out of Alderſgate ſtreet, by St. Buttolphs Alderſgate Church, and runs up to the Pump; where it openeth into a broad Street, and turning Northwards, runneth up to Duck Lane; having another turning paſſage to the Lame Hoſpital, or St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital. This Street is well built, and much inhabited by Bookſellers, eſpecially from the Pump to Duck Lane, which is alſo taken up by Bookſellers for old Books.

St Buttolphs Alderſgate Church.

The Pariſh Church of St. Buttolphs Alderſgate, ſeated at the end of this Street, next to Alderſgate ſtreet, an old Building. This Church was not burnt in the Fire of London, 1666.

George Inn.

In this Street of Little Britain, are theſe Courts and Places of Name. The George Inn, which hath alſo a Paſſage into Alderſgate ſtreet. It hath for many Years had a very good Trade, and a handſome Lace Chamber; whither Lacemen from Buckinghamſhire, and other parts, have brought their Goods to ſell. Several Stage Coaches from Cheſter, Lichfield, and Shrewsbury, us'd to Inn there; as alſo Waggons. But the Innholder being lately removed to the George in Alderſgate ſtreet, next to that which was formerly Thanet Houſe, hath carried moſt of the Trade along with him thither.

Faringdon Ward within.

ON the South ſide of Alderſgate Ward, lyeth Faringdon Ward, called Infra, or Within, for a difference from another Ward of that Name, which lieth without the Walls of the City, and is therefore called Faringdon extra. Theſe two Wards (of old time) were but one, and had alſo but one Alderman; till the 17th of Richard II. At which time, the ſaid Ward (for the greatneſs thereof) was divided into twain, and by Parliament ordered to have two Aldermen; and ſo it continueth till this Day. The whole great Ward of Faringdon, both infra and extra, took Name of William Farendon, Goldſmith, Alderman of that Ward, and one of the Sheriffs of London, in the Year 1281. the 9th of Edward I. He purchaſed the Aldermanry of this Ward, as by this Abſtract of Deeds which I have read thereof, may appear.

Faringdon extra, and Faringdon infra, all one Ward, and then divided into two by Parliament.

Faringdon Ward took that Name of W. Farendon.

Thomas de Ardene, Sonne and Heire to Sir Ralph Ardene, Knight, granted to Ralph le Feure, Citizen of London, one of the Sheriffs in the Year 1277. all the Aldermanrie, with the Appurtenances, within the City of London, and Suburbs of the ſame, between Ludgate and Newgate, and alſo without the ſame Gates. Which Aldermanrie, Ankerinus de Averne* held during his Life, by the Grant of the ſaid Thomas de Ardena. To have and to hold unto the ſaid Ralph, and to his Heires, freely without all challenge; yeelding therefore yeerely to the ſaid Thomas and his Heires, one Clove (or Slip) of Gilliflowers, at the Feaſt of Eaſter, for all ſecular Service and Cuſtomes, with warrantie unto the ſaid Ralph le Feure, and his Heires, againſt all People, Chriſtians and Jewes, in conſideration of twenty Markes, which the ſaid Ralp de Feure did give before hand, in Name of a Gerſum or Fine, to the ſaid Thomas, &c. Dated the 5th of Edward I.

Sir Ralph Ardene, Kt. Alderman of that Ward, now called Faringdon, in the Reign of Hen. III.

After this, John le Feure, Son and Heir to the ſaid Ralph le Feure, granted to William Farendon, Citizen and Goldſmith of London, and to his Heirs, the ſaid Aldermanry, with the Appurtenances; for the Service thereunto belonging, in the 7th of Edward I. in the Year of Chriſt 1279. This Aldermanry deſcended to Nicolas Farendon, Son to the ſaid William, and to his Heirs. Which Nicolas Farendon, alſo a Goldſmith, was four times Maior, and lived many Years after. For I have read divers Deeds, whereunto he was a Witneſs, dated the Year 1360. He made his Teſtament, 1361. which was 53 Years after his firſt being Maior; and was buried in St. Peters Church in Cheape. So this Ward continued under the Government of William Farendon, the Father, and Nicolas his Son, by the ſpace of Four ſcore and two Years, and retaineth their Name until this preſent Day.

John le Feure, Alderman. W. Farendon, Alderman, and one of the Sheriffs of London. Nicolas Farendon, Alderman and Maior.

Nicolas Farendon lived 53 Years after he had been once Maior.

Whereas Maſter Stowe ſaith, That Thomas de Ardene, Son and Heir to Sir Ralph Ardene, Kt. granted to Ralph le Feure, Citizen of London, and one of the Sheriffs of the ſame City, in the Year 1277. all the Aldermanry, with the Appurtenances within the City of London, and Suburbs of the ſame, between Ludgate and Newgate; and alſo without the ſame Gates, &c.

Either Mr. Stowe was much wronged in information, or elſe it was no true Deed which he ſaw at that time. A. M.

I find (to the contrary) by an eſpecial Deed (yet to be ſeen) delivered me by that worthy Favourer of Antiquity, Maſter John Williams, Goldſmith, all the former Deed, verbatim, to be granted by William de Farendon, Citizen and Alderman of London; (of whom the Ward, both within and without the Gates forenamed, being then but one, and governed by one Alderman only, took Name) to Nicolas, the Son of Ralph de Feure, Citizen of London, in the very ſame manner and form as hath been recited, for a Clove or Slip of Gilliflowers, Twenty Pounds, and not Marks, given for a Gerſum, or Fine; and the very ſame Warranty or Defence againſt all People for ever.

Mr. John Speed can teſtify this to be true; for I brought the ſealed Deed to him, and to divers other beſide, who can bear me Witneſs, that herein I do no way deprave Mr. Stowe, but ſet down the Truth, as I received it. A. M.

To which Deed, ſealed with his own Seal, as he calleth it, being the very ſame of the Goldſmiths Arms, yet ingraved about in this manner: Sigilli Will. de Farndon; he nameth as Witneſſes, Domino Joh. le Bretonn, Milite, tunc Cuſtode London, Elia Ruſſel, and Henry le Bole, tunc Vicecom. London; Steph. Aſſewy, Joh. de Bachkewelle, Roberto de Baſing, Will. de Bettune, Rad. le Blund, Walt. de Finchingfeld, Joh. de Blund, Thoma de Eſtanes, Richardo Aſſewy, & multis aliis.

Since A. M. hath inſerted a Paragraph or two, to charge Mr. Stow as impoſing upon himſelf, and upon his Readers, a falſe Deed; I muſt ſubjoin a Word or two, by the way, in his Vindication. For if it appears that the Deed that Stow produced, and the Deed that A. M. produceth againſt him, were two ſeveral and diſtinct Deeds of the Conveyance of the ſame Aldermanry, then Stow's Credit ſtands fair. That they were two ſeveral and diſtinct, is evident from the different Conveyers, and the different Perſons to whom it was convey'd; Viz. Thomas le Ardene to Ralph le Feure, in Stow's Deed; Will. Farendon, to Nicolas, Son of Ralph le Feure, in A. M's. Deed. Beſides, the different different Sums of Money paid, in the one 20 Marks, in the other 20 l. The different Dates, in the one it is the 5 of Edw. in the other, the 21 of Edward. And laſtly, the Witneſſes to theſe Deeds are all different.]

The Bounds.

This Ward of Faringdon within the Walls, is bounded thus: Beginning in the Eaſt, at the great Croſs in Weſt Cheap; from whence it runneth Weſt, on the North ſide, from the Pariſh Church of St. Peter, which is at the South-weſt Corner of Woodſtreet, unto Gutherons lane; and down that Lane, to Hugon lane on the Eaſt ſide, and to Kery lane on the Weſt.

Then again into Cheape and to Fauſter lane; and down that Lane on the Eaſt ſide, to the North ſide of St. Fauſters Church; and on the Weſt, till over againſt the South Weſt Corner of the ſaid Church; from whence, down Fauſter lane, and Noble ſtreet, is all of Alderſgate ſtreet Ward, till ye come to the Stone Wall in the Weſt ſide of Noble ſtreet. Then by the ſaid Wall, down to Windſor Houſe, or Nevils Inn; and down Monks Well ſtreet, on that Weſt ſide; and then by London Wall, to Cripplegate, and the Weſt ſide of that ſame Gate, is all of Faringdon Ward.

Then back again into Cheape; and from Fauſter lane end, to St. Martins lane end; and from thence through St. Nicolas Shambles, by Pentecoſt lane, and Butchers Alley; and by Stinking lane, through Newgate Market to Newgate. All which is the North ſide of Faringdon Ward.

Then on the South, from againſt the ſaid great Croſs in Cheape, Weſt from Friday ſtreet; and down that Street on the Eaſt ſide, till over againſt the North-eaſt Corner of St. Matthews Church; and on the Weſt ſide, till the South Corner of the ſaid Church.

Then again along Cheape to the Old Exchange; and down that Lane, on the Eaſt ſide, to the Pariſh Church of St. Auguſtine. Which Church, and one Houſe next adjoining in Watheling ſtreet, be of this Ward. And on the Weſt ſide of this Lane, to the Eaſt Arch or Gate by St. Auguſtines Church, which entreth the South Church yard of St. Pauls; (which Arch or Gate was builded by Nicolas Farendon, about the Year 1361.) And within that Gate on the North ſide, to the Gate that entreth the North Church yard; and all the North Church yard is of this Farendon Ward.

St. Auguſtines Gate.

Then again into Cheap, and from the North end of the Old Exchange, Weſt by the North Gate of Pauls Church yard, up Pater noſter Row, by the two Lanes out of Pauls Church yard; and to a Sign of the Golden Lyon, which is ſome twelve Houſes ſhort of Ave Mary lane; the Weſt ſide of which Lane is of this Ward.

Then at the South end of Ave Mary Lane, is Creed Lane, the Weſt ſide whereof is alſo of this Ward.

Now betwixt the South end of Ave Mary lane, and the North end of Creed lane, is the coming out of Pauls Church yard, on the Eaſt, and the High ſtreet called Bowyer Row, to Ludgate, on the Weſt ſide; which Way to Ludgate is of this Ward. On the North ſide thereof is St. Martins Church; and on the South ſide, the Turning into the Black Friers.

Now to turn up again to the North end of Ave Mary lane, there is a ſhort Lane, which runneth Weſt ſome ſmall diſtance, and is there cloſed up with a Gate into a great Houſe; and this is called Amen Lane.

Amen Lane.

Then on the North ſide of Pater noſter Row, beginning at the Conduit, over againſt the Old Exchange lane end, and going Weſt by St. Michaels Church; at the Weſt end of which Church, is a ſmall paſſage through toward the North. And beyond this Church ſome ſmall diſtance, is another Paſſage, which is called Panier Alley, and cometh out againſt St. Martins Lane end.

Panier Alley

Then further Weſt in Pater noſter Row, is Ivy lane, which runneth North, to the Weſt end of S. Nicolas Shambles; and then Weſt Pater noſter Row, till over againſt the Golden Lion, where this Ward endeth for that Street.

Ivy Lane.

Then about ſome dozen Houſes (which is of Baynards Caſtle Ward) to Warwick lane end; which Warwick lane ſtretcheth North to the High ſtreet of Newgate Market. And the Weſt ſide of Warwick lane is of this Ward: For the Eaſt ſide of Warwick lane, of Ave Mary lane, and of Creed lane, with the Weſt end of Pater noſter Row, are all of Baynards Caſtle Ward.

Warwick-Lane.

Yet, to begin again at the ſaid Conduit by the Old Exchange, on the North ſide thereof is a large Street that runneth up to Newgate, as is aforeſaid. The firſt part, or South ſide thereof, from the Conduit to the Shambles, is called Bladder ſtreet. Then on the back ſide of the Shambles be divers Slaughter-houſes, and ſuch like, pertaining to the Shambles; and this is called Mount Godard ſtreet. Then is the Shambles it ſelf, and then Newgate Market. And ſo the whole Street, on both ſides, up to Newgate, is of this Ward: And thus it is wholly bounded.

Mount Godard ſtreet.

Monuments in this Ward be theſe: Firſt, the great Croſs in Weſt Cheap ſtreet, but in the Ward of Faringdon; the which Croſs was firſt erected in that Place by Edward I. as before is ſhewed in Weſt Cheap ſtreet.

Monuments in this Ward. The great Croſs in Cheap.

The Pariſh Church of St. PETER in Cheap.

At the South-Weſt Corner of Woodſtreet, is the Pariſh Church of St. Peter the Apoſtle, by the ſaid Croſs; a proper Church, lately new builded. John Sha, Goldſmith, Maior, deceaſed 1503. appointed by his Teſtament, the ſaid Church and Steeple to be new builded of his Goods, with a flat Roof. Notwithſtanding, Thomas Wood, Goldſmith, one of the Sheriffs, 1491. is accounted a principal Benefactor, becauſe the Roof of the middle Ile is ſupported by Images of Woodmen.

S. Peter in Cheape.

This Church was repaired and beautified at the Charge of the Pariſhoners, in the Years of our Lord 1616, and 1617.

Reader, ſtay,
and thou ſhalt know
What he was that here doth ſleepe;
Lodg'd amidſt
the Stones below, Stones that oft are ſeen to weep.
Gentile was his Birth and Breed,
His Carriage gentle, much contenting;
His Word accorded with his Deed,
Sweet his Nature,
ſoone relenting.
From above
he ſeem'd protected,
Father dead
before his Birth,
An Orphane, onely
but neglected,
Yet his Branches
ſpread on Earth:
Earth, that muſt
his Bones contain,
Sleeping till Chriſt's
Trumpe ſhall wake them,
Joyning them to Soule againe,
And to bliſſe
eternall take them.
It is not this rude and little heape of Stones,
Can hold the Fame,
although't containes the Bones.
Light be the Earth,
and hallowed for thy ſake,
Reſting in Peace,
Peace that ſo oft didſt make.

Thus much for the Barons of London their common Seal at that time.

At the North end of this Garden plot, is one great Houſe, builded of Stone and Timber, now called the Lord Windſor's Houſe; but I have read it by the Name of Nevels Inn in Silverſtreet, and at the end of Monkſwell ſtreet: Of old time belonging to the Nevels, as in the 19th of Richard II. it was found by Inquiſition of a Jury, that Elizabeth Nevel died, ſeized of a great Meſſuage in the Pariſh of St. Olave in Monkſwell ſtreet in London, holden of the King in free Burgage; which ſhe held of the Gift of John Nevel of Raby, her Husband; and that John Latimer was next Son and Heir to the ſaid Elizabeth.

Barbers Chirurgeons, their Hall.

In this Street, on the Weſt ſide thereof, is the Barbers Chirurgeons Hall; who obtained their Incorporation in the Year 1464. the 2d of Edw. IV. ſince the which time they builded their Hall. This Company was incorporated by means of Thomas Moreſtede, Eſq; one of the Sheriffs of London, 1436. Chirurgeon to the Kings of England, Henry the 4th, 5th, and 6th. He deceaſed 1450. Then Jacques Fries, Phyſitian to Edward IV. And William Hobbs, Phyſitian and Chirurgeon to the ſame King's Body, continuing the Suit the full time of 20 Years, Edw. IV. in the beginning of his Reign, and Richard Duke of Glouceſter, became Founders of the ſame Corporation, in the Name of St. Coſme and Damiane. Hermitage of St James in the Wall.

At the North Corner of this Street, on the ſame ſide, was ſometime an Hermitage or Chappel of St. James, called In the Wall, near Cripplegate. It belonged to the Abbey and Covent of Garadon, as appeareth by a Record, the Seven and twentieth of Edward I. And alſo by a Record the 16 of Edward III. William de Lions was Hermit there; and the Abbot and Covent of Geredon found two Chaplains, Ceſtercian Monks of their Houſe, in this Hermitage: one of them for Aymor de Valence, Earl of Pembrook; and Mary de Saint Paul, his Counteſs.

Of theſe Monks, and of a Well pertaining to them, the Street took that Name, and is called Monks Well ſtreet. This Hermitage, with the Appurtenances, was in the Reign of Edward VI. purchaſed from the ſaid King, by William Lambe, one of the Gentlemen of the King's Chappel, Citizen and Clothworker of London. He deceaſed in the Year 1577. and then gave it to the Clothworkers of London; with other Tenements, to the value of Fifty Pounds the Year; to the intent they ſhall hire a Miniſter to ſay divine Service there.

Butchers.

In the 3d of Richard II. motion was made, that no Butcher ſhould kill any Fleſh within London; but at Knightsbridge, or ſuch like diſtant place from the Walls of the City.

No Beaſts to e ſlain nea- er than Bow r Knightſ- ridge.

J. S.

This was but the renewing of a Command ſtrictly given by King Edward III. in the 35th of his Reign, to the Maior and Sheriffs, upon a great Contagion in the City; which was thought to have been occaſioned by the ſtink of ſlain Beaſts within or near the City. The King's Letter will explain this Matter more at large; and that confirmed, as it ſeems, in Parliament.

CHRIST's CHURCH.

Gray Friers Church.

And then the late diſſolved Church of Grey Friers; (called alſo Friers minors within Newgate) the Original whereof was thus.

The GRAY FRIERS.

The Foundation of the Grey Friars; and their Benefactors.

The firſt of this Order of Friers in England, Nine in number, arrived at Dover, out of Italy, in the Year 1224, the 8th year of the Reign of King Henry III. being of the Order of the Franciſcans, or Frier Minors. Five of them, being Prieſts, remained at Canterbury; the other Four, being Laymen, came to London; and were lodged at the Preaching Friers in Oldboorn, for the ſpace of fifteen days. And then they hired a Houſe in Cornhil, of John Trevers, one of the Sheriffs of London. They builded there little Cells, wherein they inhabited. But ſhortly after, the Devotion of the Citizens towards them, and the number of the Friers ſo increaſed, that they were by the Citizens removed to a place in St. Nicolas Shambles; which John Ewin, Mercer, purchaſing a void piece of Ground, appropriated unto the Communalty, to the uſe of theſe ſaid Friers: And himſelf became a Lay-brother amongſt them, about the year 1225.

Divers Citizens ſeemed herein to join with the ſaid John Ewin, and erected there very beautiful Buildings.

The building of the Quire.

William Joyner, Lord Maior of London, in the year 1239. builded the Quire, which coſt him 200 l. Sterling. Which Quire made part of the Chancel, as it now ſtandeth.

The Body of the Church.

Henry Walleis, who was likewiſe Lord Maior of London, builded the Body of the Church; which afterward was pulled down, and made as now it is.

The Chapter Houſe.

Mr. *Walter Potter, Alderman, the Chapter Houſe; and gave divers Veſſels of Braſs for the Kitchin Service. Building Places alſo for ſick Perſons, and other Offices beſide.

The Veſtry Houſe.

Thomas Felcham builded the Veſtry Houſe.

The Dorters and Chambers.

Gregory Rokeſley, Lord Maior of London, builded their Dorters and Chambers, and gave Beds to them.

The Refectory.

Bartholomew of the Caſtel, made the Refectory.

The Infirmary.

Peter de Helyland builded the Infirmitory, and divers places for diſeaſed Perſons.

The Study.

Bevis Bond, King of Heraults, the Study.

New Church of the Grey Friers.

Margaret, Queen, ſecond Wife to Edward I. began the Quire of their new Church, in the Year 1306. to the building whereof, in her life time, ſhe gave 2000 Marks, and 100 Marks by her Teſtament.

John Britaine, Earl of Richmond, builded the Body of the Church, to the Charges of 300 l. and gave many rich Jewels and Ornaments to be uſed in the ſame.

Mary, Counteſs of Pembrook, 70 l.

Gilbart de Clare, Earl of Glouceſter, beſtowed Twenty great Beams out of his Forreſt of Tunbridge, and 20 l. ſterling.

Lady Helianor le Spencer, Lady Elizabeth de Brugh, Siſter to Gilbert de Clare, gave Sums of Money; and ſo did divers Citizens, as Arnold de Tolinca; 100 l.

Robert Baron Liſle, who became a Frier there, 300 l.

Iſabel, Queen, Mother to Edward III. gave Threeſcore and ten Pounds. And ſo the Work was done within the ſpace of 21 Years, 1327.

Chriſt's Hoſpital.

In the Year 1552. began the preparing of the Grey Friars Houſe, for the poor Fatherleſs Children. And in the Month of November, the Children were taken into the ſame, to the Number of almoſt Four hundred. On Chriſtmas day in the Afternoon, while the Lord Maior and Aldermen rode to Pauls, the Children of Chriſts Hoſpital ſtood from St. Laurence lane end in Cheap, towards Pauls, all in one Livery of Ruſſet Cotton, Three Hundred and Forty in number: And at Eaſter next they were in Blue, and ſo have continued ever ſince.

Ex R. Grafton

What further I have read and underſtood, concerning the firſt beginning and erection of this famous Hoſpital, followeth, according to the original Copy, ſet down by Mr. Richard Grafton.

Dr. Ridley preached before King Edward VI. Mercy and Charity. A. M.

Mr. Doctor Ridley, then Biſhop of London, came and preached before the King's Majeſty at Weſtminſter In which Sermon, he made a fruitful and godly Exhortation to the Rich, to be merciful unto the Poor; and alſo to move ſuch as were in Authority, to travail by ſome charitable way and means, to comfort and relieve them. Whereupon, the King's Majeſty, (being a Prince of ſuch Towardneſs and Vertue for his years, as England before never brought forth; and being alſo ſo well retained and brought up in all godly Knowledge, as well by his dear Uncle the late * Protector, as alſo by his vertuous Schoolmaſters) was ſo careful of the good Government of the Realm, and chiefly to do and prefer ſuch Things as moſt eſpecially touched the Honour of Almighty God; and underſtanding, that a great number of poor People did ſwarm in this Realm, and chiefly in the City of London, and that no good Order was taken for them; did ſuddenly, and of himſelf, ſend to the ſaid Biſhop, as ſoon as his Sermon was ended, willing him not to depart, until that he had ſpoken with him. And this that I now write, was the very Report of the ſaid Biſhop Ridley; Who (according to the King's Command) gave his Attendance. And ſo ſoon as the King's Majeſty was at leiſure, he called for him, and cauſed him to come unto him in a great Gallery at Weſtminſter; where (to his knowledge, and the King likewiſe told him ſo) there was preſent no more Perſons than they two; and therefore made him ſit down in one Chair, and he himſelf in another, which (as it ſeemed) were, before the coming of the Biſhop, there purpoſely ſet; and cauſed the Biſhop, maugre his Teeth, to be covered; and then entred Communication with him in this manner.

* Edward Seimer, Duke of Somerſet.

King Edward's Diſcourſe with Biſhop Ridley.

Firſt, giving him hearty Thanks for his Sermon and good Exhortation; He therein rehearſed ſuch ſpecial Things as he had noted, and that ſo many, that the Biſhop ſaid:

Truly, truly, (for that commonly was his Oath) I could never have thought that Excellency to have been in his Grace, but that I beheld and heard it in him.

At the laſt, the King's Majeſty much commended him for his Exhortation for the Relief of the Poor.

A moſt Vertuous and Noble Saying of King Edward, to Biſhop Ridley.

But my Lord (quoth he) you willed ſuch as are in Authority to be careful thereof, and to deviſe ſome good Order for their Relief. Wherein, I think you mean me, for I am in higheſt Place; and therefore am the firſt that muſt make anſwer unto God for my negligence, if I ſhould not be careful therein; knowing it to be the expreſs Commandment of Almighty God, to have compaſſion of his poor and needy Members, for whom we muſt make an Account unto him. And truly, my Lord, I am (before all things elſe) moſt willing to travail that way; and I doubting nothing of your long and approved Wiſdom and Learning, who having ſuch good Zeal, as wiſheth Help unto them; but alſo that you have had ſome Conference with others, what ways are beſt to be taken therein, the which I am deſirous to underſtand; and therefore I pray you to ſay your mind.

The Citizens of London moved to be Aſſiſtants in this charitable Action.

The Biſhop thinking leaſt of that Matter, and being amazed to hear the Wiſdom and earneſt Zeal of the King, was (as he ſaid himſelf) ſo aſtoniſhed, that he could not tell what to ſay. But after ſome pauſe, ſaid, That he thought (at this preſent) for ſome entrance to be had, it were good to practice with the City of London. Becauſe the number of the Poor there are very great, and the Citizens alſo are many and wiſe; and he doubted not, but that they were alſo both pitiful and merciful; as the Maior and his Brethren, and other the Worſhipful of the ſaid City. And that if it would pleaſe the King's Majeſty to direct his gracious Letters unto the Maior of London, willing him to call in ſuch Aſſiſtants as he ſhould think meet, to conſult of this Matter, for ſome Order to be taken therein; he doubted not but good would follow thereon. And he himſelf promiſed the King to be one himſelf, that ſhould earneſtly travail therein.

The King's Letter ſent by the Biſhop to the Lord Maior of London.

The King, forthwith, not only granted his Letter, but made the Biſhop tarry until the ſame was written, and his Hand and Signet ſet thereto. And commanded the Biſhop, not only to deliver the ſaid Letter himſelf, but alſo to ſignify unto the Maior, that it was the King's eſpecial Requeſt and expreſs Commandment, that the Maior ſhould therein travel; and ſo ſoon as he might conveniently, give him knowledge, how far he had proceeded therein. The Biſhop was ſo joyous of the having of this Letter, and that now he had an Occaſion to travel in ſo good a Matter, wherein he was marvellous zealous, that nothing could have more pleaſed and delighted him. Wherefore the ſame Night he came to the Maior of London, who was then Sir Richard Dobbs, Kt. and delivered the King's Letter; and ſhewed his Meſſage with effect.

The readineſs of the Lord Maior to prefer this good Deed.

The Lord Maior not only joyouſly received this Letter, but with all ſpeed agreed to ſet forward the matter; for he alſo favoured it very much. And the next Day, being Monday, he deſired the Biſhop of London to dine with him; and againſt that time, the Maior promiſed to ſend for ſuch Men, as he thought meeteſt to talk of this Matter; and ſo he did. He ſent firſt for two Aldermen, and ſix Commoners; and afterward more were appointed, to the number of Twenty four. In the end, after ſundry meetings, (for by the means and good diligence of the Biſhop, it was well followed) they agreed upon a Book they had deviſed; wherein, firſt they conſidered on Nine ſpecial Kinds and Sorts of poor People; and thoſe they brought into theſe three Degrees.

Nine Sorts of poor People, diſtinguiſhed into three Degrees.

Three Degrees of Poor.

1. The Poor by Impotency.
2. Poor by Caſualty.
3. Thriftleſs Poor.

1. The Poor by Impotency are alſo divided into three kinds; that is to ſay:

1. The fatherleſs poor Mans Child.
2. The Aged, Blind, and Lame.
3. The diſeaſed perſon by Leproſie, Dropſy&c.

2. The Poore by Caſualty are likewiſe of three Kinds; that is to ſay:

1. The wounded Soldier.
2. The decayed Houſeholder.
3. The viſited with any grievous Diſeaſe.

3. The Thriftleſs Poor are three Kinds in like manner; that is to ſay:

1. The Rioter, that conſumeth all.
2. The Vagabond, that will abide in no Place.
3. The idle Perſon, as Strumpets, and others.

The firſt beginning of Chriſt's Hoſpital.

For theſe Sorts of Poor, three ſeveral Houſes were provided: Firſt, for the Innocent and Fatherleſs, which is the Beggars Child, and is indeed the Seed and Breeder of Beggary, they provided the Houſe that was the late Grey Friers in London; and called it by the Name of Chriſt's Hoſpital; where poor Children are trained up in the Knowledge of God, and ſome Vertuous Exerciſes, to the overthrow of Beggary.

The firſt beginning of St. Thomas and St. Bartholomew's Hoſpitals.

For the ſecond Degree, was provided the Hoſpitals of St. Thomas in Southwark, and St. Bartholomew in Weſt Smithfield. Where are continually, at leaſt, Two hundred diſeaſed Perſons; which are not only there Lodged and Cured, but alſo Fed and Nouriſhed.

The firſt beginning of Bridewell.

For the third Degree, they provided Bridewell, where the Vagabond and idle Strumpet is chaſtiſed, and compelled to labour; to the overthrow of the vicious Life of Idleneſs.

Relief for decayed Houſeholders and Lazers.

They provided alſo for the honeſt decayed Houſeholder, that he ſhould be relieved at Home, at his Houſe, and in the Pariſh where he dwelled, by a Weekly Relief and Penſion. And in like manner they provided for the Lazer, to keep him out of the City, from clapping of Diſhes and ringing of Bell, to the great trouble of the Citizens, and alſo to the dangerous Infection of many; that they ſhould be relieved at Home, at their Houſes, by ſeveral Penſions.

The King acquainted with the Cities furtherance.

Now after this good Order taken, and the Citizens, (by ſuch Means as were deviſed) willing to further the ſame, the Report thereof was made to the King's Majeſty; and his Grace (for the Advancement thereof) was not only willing to grant ſuch as ſhould be Overſeers and Governours of the ſaid Houſes, a Corporation, and Authority for the Government of them; but alſo required, that He might be accounted as the Chief Founder and Patron thereof.

King Edward VI. Founder of the Hoſpitals in London.

And for the furtherance of the ſaid Work, and continual Maintenance of the ſame; He, of his meer Mercy and Goodneſs granted, that whereas, before, certain Lands were given to the maintaining of the Houſe of the Savoy, founded by King Henry VII. for the lodging of Pilgrims and Strangers; and that the ſame was now made but a Lodging for Loiterers, Vagabonds, and Strumpets, that lay all Day in the Fields, and at Night were harboured there; the which was rather the Maintenance of Beggary, than any Relief to the Poor; Gave the ſame Lands, being firſt ſurrendered by the Maſter and Fellows there, (which Lands were of the yearly Value of 600 Pounds) unto the City of London, for the Maintenance of the Foundation aforeſaid.

The Savoy Lands ſurrendered to the King, and given to the City of London.

And for a further Relief, a Petition being made to the King's Majeſty, for a Licence to take in Mortmaine, or otherwiſe, without Licence, Lands to a certain yearly Value; and a Space left in the Patent, for his Grace to put in what Sum it would pleaſe him. He looking on the void Place, called for Pen and Ink, and with his own Hand wrote this Sum, 4000 Marks by the year; and then ſaid, in the hearing of his Council, Lord, I yield thee moſt hearty Thanks, that thou haſt given me Life thus long, to finiſh this Work to the Glory of thy Name. After which Foundation eſtabliſhed, he lived not above two Days: Whoſe Life would have been wiſhed equal to the Patriarchs, if it had pleaſed GOD ſo to have prolonged it.

The Words of a bleſſed King.

Sir William Cheſter, and John Calthrop, Draper, Benefactors.

By Example of the charitable Act of this Virtuous young King, Sir William Cheſter, Kt. and Alderman of London, and John Calthrop, Citizen and Draper of the ſame City, at their own proper Coſts and Charges, made the Brick Walls, and Way on the back ſide, which leadeth from the ſaid new Hoſpital, unto the Hoſpital of St. Bartholomew; and alſo covered and vaulted the Town-ditch, from Alderſgate to Newgate; which before was very noiſome, and contagious to the ſaid Hoſpital.

Rich. Caſtel, Shoemaker, The Cock of Weſtminſter, a Benefactor.

This Hoſpital being thus erected, and put into good Order, there was one Richard Caſtell, alias Caſteller, Shoemaker, dwelling in Weſtminſter, a Man of great Travail and Labour in his Faculty, with his own Hands; and ſuch an one as was named, The Cock of Weſtminſter, becauſe both Winter and Summer he was at his Work before Four of the Clock in the Morning; This Man, thus truly and painfully labouring for his Living, God bleſſed and increaſed his Labours ſo abundantly, that he purchaſed Lands and Tenements in Weſtminſter, to the yearly Value of Forty and four Pounds. And having no Child, with the Conſent of his Wife (who ſurvived him, and was a vertuous good Woman) gave the ſame Lands wholly to Chriſt's Hoſpital aforeſaid, to the Relief of the Innocent and Fatherleſs Children; and for the ſuccour of the Miſerable, Sore and Sick, harboured in the other Hoſpitals about London.

The Incorporation of St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital in Weſt Smithfield.

St. Bartholomew's is Incorporated by the Name Of the Maior, Communalty, and Citizens of London, Governors of the Hoſpital for the Poor, called Little Saint Bartholomews, near to Weſt Smithfield, of the Foundation of King Henry VIII.

The Incorporation of the Hoſpitals of King Edward VI.

Chriſt's Hoſpital, Bridewell, and St. Thomas the Apoſtle, in Southwark, are Incorporated by the Name Of the Maior, Communalty, and Citizens of the City of London, Governors of the Poſſeſſions, Revenues, and Goods, of the Hoſpitals of Edward VI. King of England, of Chriſt, Bridewell, and of St. Thomas the Apoſtle, &c.

CHRIST's CHURCH.

Chriſt Church repaired, and many others about this Time. Edm. Howe's Chron. J. S.

This Church was Repaired and Beautified, Anno 1605. and ſo were divers Churches in London. And within few Years, moſt of the Churches in Loudon were likewiſe Repaired and Trimmed. And then the Country, by degrees alſo (as one writes that lived in thoſe Times) began to make their Churches handſome and cleanly. And that not without good Cauſe; for there was not any Church Work done in Fifty Years before, if you will believe that Author.]

Repaired. R.

This Church, within ſome few Years paſt, had many Repairs and Charges. But we eſpecially here remember, the fair and ſpacious Gallery, that (at the Coſt of the Pariſhioners) was erected in the North Ile, in the Year of Lord God 1628. the Charge of it amounting to 149*l.* 10*s.* a Work very worthily ſupplying a Neceſſity, and adding to this Church a great deal of Grace and Beauty.

Matthew Nelſon, } Churchwardens.]
Samuel Savin, }

Rebuilt. J. S.

This Church was demoliſhed by the Fire, but rebuilt; and a very lofty beautiful Sreeple lately, viz. in the Year 1704. finiſhed. The Church is adorned with a pair of Organs. This new Church ſtands but upon half the Ground of the Antient Monaſtical Church. The full half lying on the Weſt, is an open Yard, and uſed by Stone-cutters, and for burying the Dead.

TIME's Triumph on the Death of Maſter Robert Rogers, who deceaſed Anno 1601. in the manner of a Dialogue between Time, Death, and Rogers.

Death.

A fair Monument cloſe by, in the ſame Wall.

STand fairely encountred both,
Grave, Soveraigne Time;
Borne of Eternity,
Ages Father:
Prince of all Power; all
Powers on Earth are thine,
That doeſt my Ruines trueſt Records gather;
Lend thy Conſent, thy helping Hand to mine;
And Death will make Time's
Soveraignty as great
As the three Siſters,
Ladies of ſterne Fate.

Time.

Impartiall Death, Honours
reſpectleſſe Foe,
Grim, meager Caytiſe,
wherefore doeſt thou come?
Muſt Vertues Children to the Slaughter goe,
In thy bloud-yawning
Cell to fill a Roome?
Can none but they, quench thy bloody Thirſt? Death. No;
Rogers I come for: Time,
Thou canſt not ſave him;
This Dart muſt ſtrike him,
and grim Death will have him.

Rogers.

Death, Welcome; all by thee
I know muſt end;
Nor doe I care for longer Life than this;
I thank thee, thou haſt ſtaid
ſo long, (kind Friend.)
Sweet Time, be patient,
pardon mine amiſſe;
If I have Time miſ-ſpent;
alas! we all offend.
If, ſaid I? yes, 'tis certaine, ſure I have;
For which Offence (deare
Time) I pardon crave.

Time.

Death, grant me this (ſweet)
doe not kill him
Till I returne but from the Deſtinies.
Dea. I cannot ſtay a Moment.
Rog. Oh will him
(Grave Time) to ſtrike me then,
I Death deſpiſe.
Dea. There lye thou dead.
Time. Thou canſt not ſpill him:
Time ſhall erect a Trophee of ſuch Fame,
That while Time lives,
dye ſhall not Roger's Name.

TIME's Epitaph.

Give me an Adamantine Pen and Leafe of Braſſe,
To character his Name,
whoſe like ne'er was.
A ſingle Life he led,
loving to all,
The poore Man's Succour,
the reliefe of Thrall:
Vertues Example, Guide to eternal Life;
In Carriage courteous,
all devoid of Strife.
Here lyeth he interred,
Rogers his Name,
Time's only Sonne, eternized by Fame.
Ougly Detraction, flye,
and blacke Oblivion, hence;
Whilſt Roger's Duſt lyes here,
Time will his Fame commence.

And as ſhe learn'd his holy Will,
ſo liv'd and dy'd therein.
A Friend to ſuch as Vertue ſought,
a Foe unto no wight;
A Helpe to thoſe that feared God, with all her power and might.
The Poore ſhall oft bewaile her want,
by whom they found Reliefe;
Whoſe Minde with earneſt Care was bent, to eaſe them of their Griefe.
Thus happy She, that now is gone from hence, Reward to finde;
Unhappy yet for ſuch her Friends,
as ſhe hath left behinde:
But thrice unhappy for his Loſſe, that doth her Praiſe rehearſe;
A woful Praiſe unto her Sonne, who wrote this doleful Verſe.

By ſtealing ſteps of Time,
From Day, to Month and Year,
My earthly Race is run,
My Body buried here.
John Martin was my Name,
Of Haberdaſhers free,
Two Wives, and Children four
The Lord hath lent to me.
My Soul is now with God,
To whom my Corps ſhall come;
And both ſhall Sentence have
From Chriſt, in day of Doom.
When by his bloody Death,
Who is my Saviour juſt,
I ſhall have Life for ay,
Among the Saints, I truſt.
Now of my Earthly end,
If thou the Day wilt know,
The Month and Year, are all

Here lye buried the Bodies of Alice and Elizabeth, Wives of John Povey, Citizen and Embroiderer of London. By which Alice he had iſſue ſix Daughters, and dyed the 17. day of October, 1553. And by the ſaid Elizabeth, had iſſue fourteen Sons and four Daughters; and dyed the 20. of June, 1594.

Here you may ſee John Jackſon hee,
By Death layd in his Bower;
He dy'd in June Twenty and one
Five thouſand eighty four.
Whom God in Health endu'd with Wealth,
And Treaſure: He hath been
To Infants poor, to ſave them ſtore,
That kept are here within.
When he did dye, then Deputy Unto the Alderman,
To end the Brawl of great and ſmall,
As teſtify we can.
His Will can tell he lived well,
To feed the Poor with Meat:
His Gifts therein ſo large hath been,
And Legacies ſo great.
His zealous Heart did never ſtart
from preaching of the Word,
Till from this Bell he went to dwell
In Glory with the Lord.
Where he in Bliſs, undoubted is,
A juſt Reward of Faith,
To all that grieve, and do believe,
As Holy Scripture ſaith.

Round about the Stone, on the ſide of it, is writ:

Here lyeth buried the Body of John Jackſon, Citizen and Founder of London; who departed this Life the 21. June, in the Year of our Lord 1584. Unto whom the Lord give a joyful Reſurrection. Amen.

Johana Parey, 1683. Aged 108.

Adam Wood, 1681. Son of Robert and Katharine Wood.

Two Sons and four Daughters of Jarvis and Mary Plumb; as alſo Anne their eldeſt Daughter, 1703.

Add to the reſt, the Monument of Mr. Firming, in his time, a Man moſt remarkable for Charity, and a great Friend to this Hoſpital, againſt the South Wall of the Cloiſters, with this Inſcription.

To the Memory

Of Mr. Thomas Firmin, late Citizen of London, and one of the Governors of this and St. Thomas's Hoſpital. He was to the Orphans of this a moſt tender Father; and for the Sick and Wounded of the other, a careful Provider. He conſtantly expended the greateſt Profits of his Trade, Portions of his Time, and Labour of his Thoughts, in Works of Charity: In providing Work for Thouſands of poor People; in Viſiting and Relieving neceſſitous Families, and in Redeeming Debtors out of Priſon. [He alſo gave away, among vaſt Numbers of Poor, pious Books, writ by Divines of the Church of England.] He took indefatigable Pains in ſuccouring the diſtreſſed Refugees of France and Ireland. He was a moſt eminent Example of improving all Opportunities of doing Good, of ſucceſsfully provoking others to good Works, and of an unfeigned Charity, both as to Places and Parties. He was very faithful and wiſe in diſpoſing of publick and private Charities, and zealous for promoting of a Reformation of Manners. Yet after all he aſcribed nothing to himſelf, acknowledging on his Death-bed, that he had been an unprofitable Servant. And he profeſſed, that he hoped for Salvation only from the Mercy of God, through the Mediation of Jeſus Chriſt.

He departed this Life December the 20th, 1697. in the 66th Year of his Age.

This Monument was erected by his ſorrowful Widow.

He that ſoweth bountifully, ſhall reap boununtifully. 2 Cor. ix. 6.

This Inſcription, I have been credibly informed, was compoſed by Dr. Fowler, ſometime the good Biſhop of Glouceſter, who knew him well; and added the laſt Clauſe, which he uttered to him on his Death-bed, becauſe he had been eſteemed to hold ſome Heterodox Opinions.

BENEFACTORS.

Benefactors.

Benefactors to this new built Church of St. Matthew Friday ſtreet, and that contributed to the Ornaments, and other Things neceſſary or convenient to it, were theſe.

James Smith, Eſq; gave the Altar-piece, Table, and Rails.

Edward Clark, and Thomas Sandford, gave the Front of the Gallery, and the King's Arms.

Miles Martin, and John Shipton, gave the two Branches and Irons.

John Prat laid out liberally towards the Charges of Adorning the Church.

This Pariſh was to have 240 l. out of the Chamber of London, or Cole-money, for the Uſe of the Pariſh or Poor: As a Recompenſe of a Piece of Ground belonging to the ſaid Pariſh or Poor thereof, added to the Scite of the late Church, for the inlarging of the Church new built; and whereby the ſame is inlarged, and made more uniform.

Mrs. Cole left a Legacy of 5 l. a Year to the Poor.

Parſonage.

There was a Parſonage Houſe before the Fire, but conſumed. The Ground was leaſed out for Forty Years, at the Rent of 5 l. 10 s. per Ann.

Three Tenements in Friday ſtreet, belonging to Religious Houſes. J. S.

In this Pariſh of Friday ſtreet, were three Houſes ſtanding together, all pertaining to Religious Houſes. The middlemoſt was a Tenement inhabited by Robert Harding, Citizen and Goldſmith of London, and ſometime Sheriff; let to him for Thirty Years, by the Prioreſs and Convent of St. Helens, London, for Five Marks Rent yearly, in the 9th Year of King Edward IV. Dame Alice Aſhfield then Prioreſs. Another Houſe on the Eaſt of it, belonged to the Houſe of St. Mary Overies in Southwark: That on the Weſt, to the Dean and Chapter of St. Pauls.

This Church was finiſhed Anno 1685. and opened November the 29th, the ſame Year.]

Old Change.

Former Kings Exchange there.

From this Friday ſtreet, Weſt to the Old Exchange, a Street ſo called, of the King's Exchange there kept, which was for the receipt of Bullion, to be coined. For Henry III. in the 6th Year of his Reign, wrote to the Scabines, and Men of Ipre, that He and his Council had given prohibition, that none, Engliſhmen, or other, ſhould make change of Plate, or other Maſs of Silver, but only in his Exchange at London, or at Canterbury. Andrew Bokerell then had to farm the Exchange of England, and was Maior of London in the Reign of Henry III. John Somercote had the keeping of the King's Exchange over all England. In the 8th of Edward I. Gregory Rokeſley was Keeper of the ſaid Exchange for the King. In the 5th of Edward II. William Hauſted was Keeper thereof. And in the 18th, Roger de Frowicke, &c.

Theſe received the old Stamps, or Coining-Irons, from time to time, as the ſame were worn; and delivered new to all the Mints in England, as more at large, in another Place, I have noted.

This Street beginneth by Weſt Cheap in the North, and runneth down South to Knight Rider ſtreet, that part thereof which is called Old Fiſh ſtreet. But the very Houſing and Office of the Exchange and Coinage, was about the midſt thereof, South from the Eaſt Gate that entreth Pauls Church-yard; and on the Weſt ſide, in Baynards Caſtle Ward.

On the Eaſt ſide of this Lane, betwixt Weſt Cheap, and the Church of St. Auguſtine, Henry Walleis, Maior, (by Licence of Edward I.) builded one Row of Houſes; the Profits riſing of them, to be employed on London Bridge.

The Pariſh Church of St. AUGUSTINES.

St. Auguſtines.

The Pariſh Church of St. Auguſtine, and one Houſe next adjoining, in Watheling ſtreet, is of this Ward called Faringdon. This is a fair Church, and lately well Repaired.

Repaired. R.

And again in part Rebuilded, Leaded, and in every part of it richly and very worthily Beautified, at the proper Coſt and Charges of the Pariſhioners, in the Years of our Lord 1630, and 1631.

Ralph Tonſtel,
Daniel Hallingworth, } Churchwardens.
Samuel Langham,

The Charge of this great and coſtly Repair, amounted to the Sum of 1200 l.]

Rebuilt. J. S.

This Church was deſtroyed by the great Fire, but Rebuilt 1682. finiſhed and opened September the 23d, 1683. and the Steeple finiſhed 1695. There is a fine Altar-piece with Columns, and curious graving in Wood, that coſt, they ſay, 200 l.

A Fraternity of St. Auſtins.

Here was a Fraternity founded An. 1387. called, The Fraternity of St. Auſtins in Watlingſtreet, and other good People dwelling in the City. They were, on the Eve of St. Auſtins, to meet at the ſaid Church; and in the Morning, at High Maſs, and every Brother to offer a Peny. And after that, to be ready al mangier ou al revele; i. e. to Eat, or to Revel, according to the Ordinance of the Maſter and Wardens of the ſaid Fraternity. They ſet up in the Honour of God, and St. Auſtin, one Branch of ſixe Tapers, in the ſaid Church, before the Image of St. Auſtin; and alſo two Torches: With the which, if any of the ſaid Fraternity were commended to God, he might be carried to the Earth. They were to meet at the Vault at Pauls, [perhaps St. Faiths,] and to go thence to the Church of St. Auſtins: And the Prieſts and the Clerks ſaid Placebo and Dilige; and in Matins, a Maſs of Requiem, at the High Altar.]

Horns of Stags, Boars Tusks, Sacrificing Veſſels found here. J. S.

As well the Tusks of Boars, Horns of Stags and of Oxen, as the Repreſentation of Deer, and even of Diana herſelf, upon the Sacrificing Veſſels digged up near St. Pauls Church, import, that there was thereabouts, antiently, a Temple of that Goddeſs ; as hath been indeed the common Tradition and Opinion. Nor aſſuredly would that very Learned Writer, Biſhop Stillingfleet, (in his Diſcourſe of the Antiquities of London) who lately called this into Queſtion, ever have ſo done, had he known of theſe Things ; that there was ſuch Evidence there of Stags ſacrificed ; which he allowed to be the proper Sacrifice to Diana. This is the Argumentation of the learned Dr. Woodward, Profeſſor of Phyſick in Greſham College. The ſame exact and learned Writer, ſhewing with ſatisfactory Evidence, that from the Places where Pateræ, Simpula, Præfericula, and other Veſſels of Sacrifice have been turned forth of the Earth and Rubbiſh, judgment may be made of the Scite of the Temples of the City. And by the Figures and Inſignia exhibited upon ſome of theſe Veſſels, of the Deities that they were uſed in the Worſhip of, and thoſe Temples dedicated to.]

This Charter is beſt underſtood by Doomſday Book (writes Biſhop Stillingfleet, ſometime Dean of this Church) wherein a particular Account is given of the Lands then held by the Canons of St. Pauls; which for the moſt Part, are the ſame they enjoy to this day. See there the particular Lands given by Saxon Kings to Pauls.

That all might underſtand the full Proportions of this famous Church, upon a fair Table, which did heretofore hang up on the North part of the Quire, was written in fair Characters, as followeth.

The Dimenſions of this ſtately Church, as they were taken in the Year 1314.

The length of the Church, from Eaſt to Weſt, 690 Feet.

The breadth, 130 Feet.

The height of the Roof of the Weſt Part, from the Floor, 102 Feet.

The height of the Roof of the new Fabrick, (viz. Eaſt from the Steeple) from the Pavement, 88 Feet.

The height of the Body of the Church, 150 Feet.

The height of the Tower Steeple, from the level Ground, 260 Feet.

The height of the Spire of Wood covered with Lead, 274 Feet.

And yet the whole, viz. Tower and Spire, exceeded not 520 Feet; the Reaſon is, for that the height of the Stone Work of the Tower, from the Ground, to the Timber upon which the Spire was raiſed, was not 260 Feet, but 240 Feet; the other 14 Feet being the Wall and Battlements above the Timbers on which the Spire was raiſed, and ſo the height of both together, will be but 520 Feet.

The Ball above the head of the Spire was ſo large, that it would contain within it ten Buſhels of Corn; wherefore the Diameter of it muſt be at leaſt - - - - - -

The length of the Croſs, above the ſaid Ball, was 15 Feet.

The Traverſe of the ſaid Croſs, 6 Feet.

The quantity of Ground on which the Church ſtood, contained 3 Acres, 3 Roods, and 26 Poles or Perches, without the Body of the Church, But within the Verge or Precinct of the Church-yard, which Richard Beaumor intended to incompaſs with a Wall; there were ſeveral other Places which related to the Church, as namely theſe following.

1. The College of Petty Canons.
2. Pardon Churchyard.
3. The Library.
4. Sherington's Chappel.
5. Holme s College.
6. Jeſus Chappel.
7. The Charnel Houſe.
8. The Cloiſters, or Bell Tower.
9. The Croſs.

Of all which Places Notice ſhall be taken in due Place.]

In the Year 1087. this Church of St. Paul was burnt with Fire, and therewith the more part of the City. Which Fire began at the entry of the Weſt Gate, and conſumed to the Eaſt Gate. Mauricius, then Biſhop, began therefore the Foundation of a new Church of St. Paul; a Work, that Men of that time judged would never have been finiſhed, it was to them ſo wonderful for length and breadth; and alſo the ſame was built upon Arches, or Vaults of Stone, for defence of Fire: Which was a manner of Work, before that time, unknown to the People of this Nation, and then brought in by the French; and the Stone was fetched from Cane in Normandy. This Mauricius deceaſed in the Year 1107.

*Richard Beamor, ſucceeded him in the Biſhoprick, who did wonderfully increaſe the ſaid Church; purchaſing (of his own Coſt) the large Streets and Lanes about it, wherein were wont to dwell many Lay-people: Which Ground he began to compaſs about with a ſtrong Wall of Stone, and Gates. King Henry I. gave to the ſaid Richard, ſo much of the Mote, or Wall, of the Caſtle on the Thames ſide, to the South, as ſhould be needful to make the ſaid Wall of; and ſo much as ſhould ſuffice to make a Wall without the way, on the North ſide, &c.

Some of the Ditch of Bainard's Caſtle, granted to the Church of St. Paul.

'Wall of the ſaid Church; and ſo much of the ſame Ditch as may ſuffice to make a Way without the Wall. And on the other part of the Church, Northward, as the ſame Biſhop hath deſtroyed of the ſame Ditch.' Witneſſes, Roger, Biſhop of Salisbury, and Roman Chancellor, and Giſlebert de Aquila, at Pordeſmund, on the Birth-day of St. Hippolitus, Martyr. This Letter the Dean and Chapter produced to King Edward I. his Juſtices, upon a Preſentment againſt them, for appropriating to themſelves certain Ground thereabouts. But to this the Commonalty ſaid, 'That the King's Father granted as much as in him was, to the ſaid Dean and Chapter, that they might incloſe their Churchyard, as is aforeſaid. But this ought not to prejudice the ſaid Commonalty in this behalf. And that becauſe there was not an Inquiſition upon this made, as the Cuſtom is, whether this Grant would not be prejudicial and damageable to the whole City. For they ſaid, that the whole Soil, between the Gate called St. Auguſtin's Gate, near the ſaid Church, and the Gate on the Weſt part of the ſaid Church, towards Ludgate, is High-ſtreet, and the King's Highway of the foreſaid City. Whereof a great Part, by the raiſing of the Wall of the Eaſt, and the building of Houſes by the ſaid Dean and Chapter, is now incloſed, and the King's High-ſtreet much ſtreightned, to the great Damage of the whole City.

Antient Conteſt between Bainard Caſtle, and Pauls Church, about Bounds.

To this let me add, that it is true there was long before, Conteſt between the Church of St. Pauls, and the Lords of Bainards Caſtle, about their Bounds here. There was one Euſtathius Earl of Boloign, who became Poſſeſſor of Bainard Caſtle. Which Earl (as the Dean and Chapter ſhewed) Anno 1106. permitted and granted omnes Calumpnias, i. e. all Claims which he had upon the Lands, which one Maurice, Biſhop of London, aſſerted to be of the Churchyard of St. Pauls, London; and upon all other Lands which were within the Walls of the ſaid Churchyard, to be quit to God and St. Paul, from the ſaid Earl and his Heirs for ever. And this by a certain Charter, which they produced under the Name of the ſaid Earl.]

Murthers and Robberies in St. Paul's Churchyard.

It ſhould ſeem, that this Richard incloſed but two Sides of the ſaid Church or Cemitery of St. Paul, to wit, the South and North Side: For King Edward II. in the 10th of his Reign, granted that the ſaid Churchyard ſhould be incloſed with a Wall, where it wanted, for the Murthers and Robberies that were there committed.

The common Bell in Pauls Churchyard, rung for the calling together of the Citizens to their Folke-motes.

But the Citizens then claimed the Eaſt Part of the Churchyard, to be the Place of Aſſembly to their Folk-motes; and that the great Steeple, there ſituate, was to that Uſe, their common Bell; which being there rung, all the Inhabitants of the City might hear, and come together. They alſo claimed the Weſt Side, that they might there aſſemble themſelves together, with the Lord of Baynards Caſtle, for view of their Armour, in defence of the City. This Matter was, in the Tower of London, referred to Harvius de Stanton, and other Juſtices Itinerantes; but I find not the deciſion or judgment of that Controverſy.

Walling Paul's Churchyard round.

J. S.
Baga, Quo Warranto In the Excheq.

Concerning the Walling of this Churchyard round, King Henry the Third, granted by his Letters Patents, for the King and his Heirs, that the Dean and Chapter might incloſe the Churchyard of the ſaid Cathedral Church, and the Precinct, with a Stone Wall round about. And ſo incloſed, might hold it to them and their Heirs for ever. Which Grant, the ſaid King's Son, King Edward, confirmed by his Charter, among other Liberties of the ſaid Church.]

True it is, that Edward III. in the 17th of his Reign, gave commandment for the finiſhing of that Wall; which was then performed. And to this day it continueth; although now on both the Sides, (to wit, within and without) it be hidden with dwelling Houſes.

Richard Beaumor deceaſed in the Year 1127. and his Succeſſors, (in proceſs of time) performed the Work begun.

Paul's Steeple.

The Steeple of this Church was builded and finiſhed in the Year 1222. The Croſs on the ſaid Steeple fell down, and a new one was ſet up in the Year 1314.

A new Croſs ſet on the Steeple.

J. S.

And a great part of the Spire of Timber covered with Lead, being weak and in danger of falling, was taken down; and a new Croſs, with a Pomel well gilt, ſet on the top thereof. In which Croſs, the Reliques of divers Saints were put, by Gilbert de Segrave, then Biſhop of London, with great Care, and ſolemn Proceſſion, in the 4th of the Nones of October. To the intent, that God Almighty, by the glorious Merits of his Saints, (whoſe Reliques were there contained) would vouchſafe to preſerve the ſaid Steeple from danger of Tempeſt.]

The new Work of Paul's in the Eaſt.

Henry Lacy.

Biſhop Baldocke.

The new Work of Pauls (ſo called) at the Eaſt end above the Quire, was begun in the Year 1251. Henry Lacy, Earl of Lincoln, Conſtable of Cheſter, and Cuſtos of England, in his time, was a great Benefactor to this Work; and was there buried, in the Year 1310. Alſo Ralph Baldocke, Biſhop of London, in his Life-time gave 200 Marks to the building of the ſaid new Work; and left much by his Teſtament, towards the finiſhing thereof. He deceaſed in the Year 1313. and was buried in the Lady Chappel. Alſo the new Work of Pauls, to wit, the croſs Iles, were begun to be new builded in the Year 1256.

Paul's Steeple fired by Lightning.

The 1ſt of February, in the Year 1444. about Two of the Clock in the Afternoon, the Steeple of Pauls was fired by Lightning, in the midſt of the Shaft or Spire, both on the Weſt ſide, and on the South; but by labour of many well diſpoſed People, the ſame (to appearance) quenched with Vinegar. So that all Men withdrew themſelves to their Houſes, praiſing God. But between eight and nine of the Clock in the ſame Night, the Fire burſt out again, more fervently than before, and did much hurt to the Lead and Timber; till by the great Labour of the Maior and People that came thither, it was throughly quenched.

Quenched.

Paul's Steeple repaired.

Weather-cock of Paul's Steeple; the Steeple and the Church; the Dimenſions thereof.

This Steeple was Repaired in the Year 1462. and the Weather-cock again erected. But one Robert Godwin winding it up, the Rope brake, and he was deſtroyed on the Pinacles, and the Cock was ſore bruiſed. But Burchwood (the King's Plummer) ſet it up again. Since the which time, needing Reparation, it was both taken down, and ſet up in the Year 1553. it then weighed 40 Pound. At which time it was found to be of Copper, gilt over; and the length, from the Tail to the Bill, being four Feet, and the breadth over the Wings, three Feet and a half. The Croſs, from the Bole, to the Eagle (Cock) was 15 Feet and 6 Inches of aſſiſe; the length thereof, overthwart, was 5 Feet and 10 Inches; and the compaſs of the Bole was 9 Feet and 1 Inch. The inner Body of this Croſs was Oak, the next Cover was Lead, and the outermoſt was of Copper, red varniſhed. The Bole, and Eagle or Cock, were of Copper, and gilt alſo.

[Somewhat above the Stone-work of the Steeple, was a fair Dial; for which there was Order taken, in the 18th of Edward III. that it ſhould be made with all Splendor imaginable. Which was accordingly done; having the Image of an Angel pointing to the Hour both of the Day and Night.]

Height of the Steeple. Length of Paul's Church.

The height of the Steeple was 520 Feet, whereof the Stone-work was 260 Feet, and the Spire was likewiſe 260 Feet. The length of the whole Church was 240 Taylors Yards, which made 720 Feet. The breadth thereof was 130 Feet: And the height of the Body of that Church, was 150 Feet.

S'r Wil. Cecyl, in a MS. of his own.
J. S.

Concerning theſe Dimenſions of the Steeple and Church, let me add what a former very accurate Obſerver hath noted of the ſame, in theſe Words. Hoc tempore, (ſcil. 7 Edw. II.) Campanile Eccleſiæ S. Pauli London, reparatur. Hæc Eccleſia continet infra limites 626 virgas quadratas, quæ faciunt tres Acras & dimid. unum ped. & dimid. Altitudo fabricæ lapideæ Campanilis à plana terra 260 pedes; fabricæ Ligneæ Campanilis 274. Et tamen in toto non excedit 500 pedes. That is, ‘About this time, (to wit, the 7th of Edw. II.) the Steeple of St. Paul's Church, London, was repaired. This Church contains within the Limits, 626 Yards ſquare, which make three Acres and an half, one Foot and an half. In length 690 Feet, which make 42 Yards. The height of the Body of the Church is 150 Feet. The height of the Stone-work of the Steeple, from the Ground, is 260 Feet; and of the Wood-work of the Steeple, 274 Feet. And yet in the whole it doth not exceed 500 Feet.]

Anthems ſung in the Steeple.
J. S.

In this Steeple, were ſolemn Anthems ſung in former times. When on ſome Saints Days, and ſome ſpecial Times of the Year, the Quire went up into the Steeple; and at a great height chaunted forth their Oraiſons. Which Practice, a Writer in thoſe Times thus ſharply animadverted upon. ‘For their climbing up to the top of the Steeple, to ſing their Anthems, I demand of them to ſhew a Reaſon, if there be any, why it is done there, rather than on the Ground? And why on ſuch Saints Days, rather than on others? And why that Time of the Year, rather than others? When Baals Prieſts began to call on their Gods, and he would not hear them; Elias ſaid, Cry louder, Peradventure your God is buſy. He is chaſing his Enemy, from home, or aſleep. So until ye find a better Argument, I am content freely to lend you this. That ye may frankly ſay, ye go up to the top of the Steeple, to call on your God, that he may the more eaſily hear you, ſtanding ſo high, &c.]

Governors of this Church.

This Church hath a Biſhop, a Dean, a Precentor, Chancellor, Treaſurer, and five Archdeacons; to wit, London, Middleſex, Eſſex, Colcheſter, and St. Albans: It hath Prebendaries Thirty, Canons Twelve, Vicars Choral Six, &c.

Petty Canons of Pauls.

The College of Petty Canons there, was founded by King Richard II. in honour of Queen Anne his Wife, and of her Progenitors, in the 17th of his Reign. Their Hall and Lands were then given unto them, as appeareth by the Patent; Maſter Robert Dokeſworth then being Maſter thereof.

In the Year 1408. the Petty Canons then building their College, the Maior and Communalty granted them their Water-courſes, and other Eaſements.]

Great Cloiſtry of Pauls.

There was alſo one great Cloiſter, on the North ſide of this Church, invironing a Plot of Ground, of old time called Pardon Churchyard; whereof Thomas More, Dean of Pauls, was either the firſt Builder, or a moſt eſpecial Benefactor; and was buried there.

Dance of Pauls.

About this Cloiſter, was artificially and richly painted the Dance of Machabray, or Dance of Death, commonly called the Dance of Pauls; the like whereof was painted about St. Innocent's at Paris in France. The Metres or Poeſy of this Dance, were tranſlated out of French into Engliſh, by John Lidgate, Monk of Bury; and with the Picture of Death leading all Eſtates, painted about the Cloiſter, at the ſpecial requeſt and diſpence of Jenken Carpenter, in the Reign of Henry VI. In this Cloiſter were buried many Perſons, ſome of Worſhip, and others of Honour: The Monuments of whom, in number and curious Workmanſhip, paſſed all others that were in that Church.

Library of Pauls.

Over the Eaſt Quadrant of this Cloiſter, was a fair Library, builded at the Coſts and Charges of Walter Sherington, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaſter, in the Reign of Henry VI. which hath been well furniſhed with fair written Books in Vellum; but few of them now do remain there.

Chappel in Pardon Churchyard.

In the midſt of this Pardon Churchyard, was alſo a fair Chappel, firſt founded by Gilbert Becket, Portgrave, and principal Magiſtrate of this City, in the Reign of King Steven; who was there buried. Thomas More, Dean of Pauls, before-named, re-edified this Chappel, and founded three Chaplains there, in the Reign of Henry V.

Pardon Church hawe in Pauls. Regiſt. Lond.

Walter Caketon, Citizen and Sector, London, by his Will, dated Decemb. 1. 1429. gives to John Croxton, Chaplain, Richard Pepyn, Chaplain, and John Lombe, Chaplain of the Chauntry in the Chapel in the Churchyard of St. Pauls, called Pardon Church hawe, in Honour of St. Anne and St. Thomas the Martyr, lately built by Thomas More, Clerk, thoſe his three Tenements, with Shops, &c. in the Pariſh of St. Martins Ludgate, &c. to have the three ſaid Tenements, to the three ſaid Chaplains of the foreſaid Chauntry, and their Succeſſors for ever, to maintain one other fit Chaplain, viz. a fourth Chaplain, to celebrate Divine Offices in the ſaid Chappel.]

This Chappel, with the Monuments, deſtroyed by the Duke of Somerſet.

In the Year 1549. on the 10th of April, the ſaid Chappel, by Commandment of the Duke of Somerſet, was begun to be pulled down, with the whole Cloiſter, the Dance of Death, the Tombs and Monuments: So that nothing thereof was left, but the bare Plot of Ground, which is ſince converted into a Garden for the Petty Canons.

Chappel at the North Door of Pauls.

There was alſo a Chappel at the North Door of Pauls, founded by the ſame Walter Sherington, by Licence of Henry VI. for two, three, or four Chaplains; endowed with 40 l. by the Year. This Chappel alſo was pulled down in the Reign of Edward VI. and in place thereof, a fair Houſe builded.

J. S. Record Turr. Chappel of our Lady.

Within this Church of St. Pauls, were many Chappels dedicated to Saints, both Male and Female; which are ſet down by thoſe that have purpoſely writ the Hiſtory of this Cathedral. I find here a Chappel of the bleſſed Virgin St. Mary, and another of St. Katharine; and Guilds founded in them.

A Guild here.

William Perſival, and William Kyrton, miniſtring Keepers of the Guild of the Annuntiation of the Bleſſed Mary, in her Chappel here, came before the Council of their Lord the King, in his Chancery at Weſtminſter, Febr. the 1ſt, 12 Rich. II. 1389. according to the Form of a certain Proclamation made in the City of London; viz. for all the Guilds to bring into the Chancery, before the King, an Account of their Foundation and Conſtitution.

St. Catharine's Chappel.

Robert de Lynne, and John Selbery, Citizens of London, & Cuſtodes Servitii ac Fraternitatis S. Katharinæ in Capella ejuſdem infra Eccleſiam S. Pauli, London. Virtute, &c. i. e. And Keepers of the Service and Guild of St. Katharine, in her Chappel within the Church of St. Paul: By Vertue of certain Letters of their Lord the King, directed to the Maior and Sheriffs of London, and proclaimed in the City, &c. they gave in Writing this Account of the ſame; viz. That it was begun An. 1352. to keep up one burning Wax Light in the ſaid Chappel, to the Honour of St. Mary the Virgin, St. Katharine, and all Saints. And ſo that Devotion was continued to the 36th Year of King Edward III. at which time, the Devotion of the ſaid Brothers and Siſters, and others flowing to it, ſo increaſed and multiplied, that they ordered among themſelves, to have one Chaplain, to celebrate Divine Offices for the State, and the Souls aforeſaid, and of all Faithful deceaſed, &c.]

Holmes's College.

There was furthermore a fair Chappel of the Holy Ghoſt in Paul's Church, on the North ſide, founded in the Year 1400. by Roger Holmes, Chancellor and Prebendary of Pauls, for Adam Bery, Alderman, and Maior of London, 1364. John Wingham, and others, for ſeven Chaplains; and called Holmes's College. Their common Hall was in Paul's Churchyard, on the South ſide, near unto a Carpenter's Yard. This College was, with others, ſuppreſſed in the Reign of Edward VI.

Jeſus Chappel.

Then Under the Quire of Pauls, is a large Chappel, firſt dedicated to the Name of Jeſu; founded, or rather confirmed, the 27th of Henry VI. as appeareth by his Patent thereof, dated at Crowdowne, to this Effect.

Many Liege Men, and Chriſtian People, having begun a Fraternity and Guild to the Honour and moſt glorious Name of Jeſu Chriſt, our Saviour, in a Place called the Crowds of the Cathedral Church of Pauls, in London; which hath continued long time peaceably, till now of late. Whereupon they have made Requeſt, and We have taken upon Us the Name and Charge of the Foundation, to the Laud of Almighty God, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghoſt; and eſpecially to the Honour of Jeſu, in whoſe Honour the Fraternity was begun, &c.

The King ordained William Say, then Dean of Pauls, to be the Rector; and Richard Ford, (a Remembrancer in the Exchequer) and Henry Bennis, (Clerk of his Privy Seal) the Guardians of theſe Brothers and Siſters. They, and their Succeſſors, to have a common Seal, Licence to purchaſe Lands or Tenements, to the Value of 40 l. by the Year, &c.

This Foundation was confirmed by Henry VII. the 22d of his Reign, to Dr. Collet, then Dean of Pauls, Rector there, &c. And by Henry VIII. the 27th of his Reign, to Richard Pace, then Dean of Pauls, &c.

The Pariſh Church of St. FAITH.

The Pariſh Church of St. Faith.

At the Weſt end of this Jeſus Chappel, under the Quire of Pauls, alſo was, and is, a Pariſh Church of St. Faith, commonly called St. Faith under Pauls. Which ſerved for the Stationers, and others, dwelling in Paul's Churchyard, Pater noſter Row, and the Places near adjoining.

The ſaid Chappel of Jeſus being ſuppreſſed in the Reign of Edward VI. the Pariſhioners of St. Faith's Church were removed into the ſame Jeſus Chappel, as to a Place more ſufficient for largeneſs and lightſomneſs, than their former Church was, (in the Year 1551.) and ſo it ſtill remaineth to that Uſe.

Repaired and Furniſhed. R.

We cannot in this Place keep our ordinary Courſe in ſpeaking of Decays, and Repairing, for, as it is antiently ſaid of this Church,

This Church needs no Repair at all;
For FAITH's defended by St. PAUL.

And for the Beauty it hath ſufficient, being ſtill ſupplied and furniſhed with whatſoever the Vertuous and Religious Guardians of it know fit, either for Uſe or Ornament. Which while we ſpeak of, we cannot forget that eſpecial addition of Beauty, Light; that Light, that by pulling down thoſe Houſes that ſtood before it, is plenteouſly deſcended into it. Nor forbearing to mention the Coſt of the Pariſhioners (having gained ſuch a long wanted Benefit) in trimming and new glazing their Windows.

Charges about a Veſtry.

At that Time alſo, viz. 1632. they purchaſed, at the lower end of the South Ile, going up thorow the Entry into Pauls, a convenient Place for a Veſtry; upon which they have beſtowed a great deal of Coſt and Beauty.

Charnel Houſe with a Chappel.

Then was there on the North ſide of this Churchyard, a large Charnel Houſe for the Bones of the Dead; and over it a Chappel of an old Foundation, ſuch as followeth.

In the year 1282. the 10th of Edward I. it was agreed, that Henry Walleis, Maior, and the Citizens, for the cauſe of Shops by them builded, without the Wall of the Churchyard, ſhould aſſign to God, and to the Church of St. Paul, ten Marks of Rent by the year, for ever, towards the new building of a Chappel of the bleſſed Virgin Mary; and alſo to aſſign five Marks of yearly Rent to a Chaplain, to celebrate there.

There was alſo in this Chappel two Brotherhoods.

Guild of All Souls here.

J. S.

Certificates of Fraternities, inter Recor. Turr.

One of them was called The Fraternity of All Souls, in the Chappel upon the Charnel, founded 1379. This Chappel, in the Reign of Richard II. was gone into great Decay; and from the Time of the Foundation of it, ſo little had been done in keeping it up, that it became very ruinous; the Windows broken to pieces, and the Altar full of Filth and Cobwebs. ‘So that none of the Chaplains of divers Chauntries, ordained in the ſame Chappel by Nobles, and Perſons of Quality of the City, could ſing there for their Souls for whom they were appointed, and had Charge, to the great ſhame of all the City.’ Whereupon the moſt Excellent and moſt Benign Lord, the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, in a Sermon made by him at St. Paul's Croſs, declared the Ruin and Decay of the ſaid Chappel: And at the Honour of God, and his Mother, and of all Saints of Heaven, and of all Chriſtian Souls, together with a great Pardon to all the Aiders thereof, he occaſioned a Fraternity of All Souls, in relief of the ſaid Chappel. For certain good People of the ſaid City, having Conſideration of the ſaid Chappel to the Honour of God, &c. ordained a Chaplain to ſing for the Souls of all Chriſtians; and repaired the Chappel well and honeſtly, furniſhing it with divers Ornaments, Veſtments, Chalices, and other Neceſſaries; to the Honour of God and Holy Church. And that the Chaplains which had Chauntries in the ſaid Chappel, ſhould return to the ſaid Chappel, and there perform their Service, each one for the Souls for which they were bound: So that three or four Maſſes might be ſung from Day to Day in the ſaid Chappel. And at their Coſt the ſame Chappel was amended and repaired. On theſe Conſiderations, this Brotherhood of All Souls petitioned the Lord Chancellor, in Richard the Second, his Days, ‘That it would pleaſe his moſt Noble and moſt Sage Reverence, upon the Points before ſaid, and becauſe that for the Sermon made by their moſt Excellent Father in God the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, the ſaid Fraternity had been founded, and ſo to this Day had been continued, and not otherwiſe, to have Conſideration to the Foundation of the ſaid Fraternity; that it might not be aboliſhed, for God, and for the Souls of their moſt Noble Progenitors, and in the Work of Charity.’ The Reaſon of this Supplication was, becauſe 12. Rich. II. an Account of all the Guilds in London, (and England too, if I miſtake not) were required to be brought in before the King, at the Chancery.

The Proceſſion of this Fraternity.

This Fraternity, on the Eve of All Souls, met together in the Chappel over the Charnel Houſe, and there Placebo and Dirige was ſaid, with the other Oriſons, for the Souls of all Faithful departed. On the Day of All Souls, at Morning Prayer, when the Bell rung at 7 a Clock, they came together to the Church of Holy Trinity, near Algate; and ſo from that Place, with a grave Pace, they walk to the foreſaid Chappel; numbring their Prayers as they went along, and their ſecret Criſons; pouring them out vultu cordiali, with a ſerious Countenance, for the Living and the Dead. And when they had finiſhed that Journey, they attended one Maſs for the Dead, moſt devoutly. At which Maſs, the Brothers and Siſters honourably performed Oblations; and ſo returned Home.]

Moreover, in the Year 1430. the 8th of Henry VI. Licence was granted to Jenkin Carpenter, (Executor to Richard Whittington) to eſtabliſh upon the ſaid Charnel, a Chaplain, to have eight Marks by the Year.

The Charnel.

In this Chappel were buried Robert Barton, and Henry Barton, Maior, and Thomas Mirſin, Maior, all Skinners; and were intombed with their Images of Alabaſter over them, grated or coped about with Iron, before the ſaid Chappel; all which was pulled down in the Year 1549. The Bones of the Dead, couched up in a Charnel, under the Chappel, were conveyed from thence into Finſbury Field, (by report of him who paid for the Carriage) amounting to more than One thouſand Cart-loads; and there laid on a Mooriſh Ground, in ſhort ſpace after raiſed by Soilage of the City, upon them, to bear three Wind-Mills. The Chappel and Charnel were converted into Dwelling-houſes, Ware-houſes, and Sheds for Stationers, builded before it, in place of the Tombs.

Paul's School.

In the Eaſt part of this Churchyard, ſtandeth Paul's School, lately new builded, and endowed in the Year 1512, by John Collet, Doctor of Divinity, and Dean of Pauls, for 153 poor Mens Children, to be taught free in the ſame School. For which he appointed a Maſter, a Surmaſter or Uſher, and a Chaplain, with large Stipends for ever: Committing the Care and Overſight thereof, to the Maſters, Wardens, and Aſſiſtants of the Mercers in London; becauſe he was born in London, and was Son to Henry Collet, Mercer, ſometime Maior. He left to theſe Mercers, Lands, to the yearly Value of 120 l. or better.

Clochier in Paul's Churchyard, with four great Bells.

Near unto this School, on the North ſide thereof, was (of old time) a Clochier, or Bell-houſe, four ſquare, builded of Stone; and in the ſame, a moſt ſtrong Frame of Timber, with four Bells, the greateſt that I have heard. Theſe were called Jeſus Bells, and belonged to Jeſus Chappel, but I know not by whoſe Gift. The ſame had a great Spire of Timber, covered with Lead, with the Image of St. Paul on the top; but was pulled down by Sir Miles Partridge, Kt. in the Reign of Henry VIII. The common ſpeech then was, that he did ſet 100 l. upon a Caſt at Dice againſt it, and ſo won the ſaid Clochier and Bells of the King. And then cauſing the Bells to be broken as they hung, the reſt was pulled down, and broken alſo. This Man was afterwards Executed on Tower-hill, for Matters concerning the Duke of Somerſet, in the Year 1551. the 5th of Edward VI.

Sir Miles Partridge gains both.

Common Bell of the City.

In place of this Clochier, of old time, the common Bell of the City was uſed to be rung, for the aſſembly of the Citizens to their Folkmotes, as I have before ſhewed.

Pulpit croſs in Paul's Churchyard.

About the midſt of this Churchyard, is a Pulpit-croſs of Timber, mounted upon ſteps of Stone, and covered with Lead; in which are Sermons preached by learned Divines, every Sunday in the Forenoon. The very Antiquity thereof is to me unknown.

Things done at the Croſs

But I read, that in the Year 1259. King Henry III. commanded a general Aſſembly to be made at the Croſs; where he, in proper Perſon, commanded the Maior, that on the next day following, he ſhould cauſe to be ſworn before the Aldermen, every Stripling of Twelve Years of Age, or upward, to be true to the King and his Heirs, Kings of England.

Alſo in the Year 1262. the ſame King cauſed to be read at Paul's Croſs, a Bull, obtained from Pope Urban IV. as an Abſolution for him, and for all that were ſworn to maintain the Articles made in Parliament at Oxford.

Alſo in the Year 1299. the Dean of Pauls accurſed, at Paul's Croſs, all thoſe which had ſearched in the Church of St. Martin in the Field, for an hoord of Gold, &c.

This Pulpit-croſs was, by Tempeſt of Lightning and Thunder, defaced. Thomas Kempe, Biſhop of London, new builded this Pulpit and Croſs, in form as it now ſtandeth.

Paul's Croſs Sermons. J. S.

In foul and rainy Weather, theſe ſolemn Sermons were preached in a Place called The Shrowds. Which was, as it ſeems, by the ſide of the Cathedral Church, where was Covering and Shelter. Now, long ſince, both the Croſs and Shrouds are diſuſed, and neither of them extant. But the Sermons are Preached in the Cathedral it ſelf, though they be ſtill called Paul's Croſs Sermons.

Proviſion for Paul's Croſs Preachers. E. Howes Chron.

For the better Maintenance of theſe Paul's Croſs Sermons, whither the Court, as well as the Maior and Aldermen, and chief Citizens uſed to reſort, many were liberal Benefactors; as Aylmer, Biſhop of London, Counteſs Dowager of Shrewsbury, Thomas Ruſſel, George Biſhop, who gave 10 l. a Year, &c. And for further Incouragement of thoſe Preachers, in the Year 1607. the Lord Maior and Court of Aldermen, then ordered, that every one that ſhould Preach there, (conſidering the Journies ſome of them might take, from the Univerſities, or elſewhere) ſhould at his pleaſure be freely entertained for five Days ſpace, with ſweet and convenient Lodging, Fire, Candle, and all other Neceſſaries; viz. from Thurſday before their Day of Preaching, to Thurſday Morning following. This Proviſion took good Effect; and this good Cuſtom continued, till of late Times it hath been taken away, or diſuſed. And the Biſhop of London, or his Chaplain, when he ſent to any one to Preach, did uſually ſignify the Place whither he might repair at his coming up, and be entertained freely. Towards this Charge of the City, George Palin, a Merchant of London, gave 200 l. that is, towards the bearing of the Charges of ſuch as ſhould from Time to Time, come to preach at the Croſs.]

Paul's Steeple and Church newly burnt.

In the Year 1561. the 4th of June, betwixt the Hours of 3 and 4 of the Clock in the Afternoon, the great Spire of the Steeple of St. Paul's Church was fired by Lightning. Which brake forth (as it ſeemed) two or three Yards beneath the Foot of the Croſs: and from thence it burnt downward the Spire, to the Battlements, Stone Work, and Bells, ſo furiouſly, that within the ſpace of four Hours, the ſame Steeple, with all the Roofs of the Church, were conſumed; to the great Sorrow, and perpetual Remembrance of all the Beholders.

Sir Thomas Chaloner, Kt. an excellent Scholar and Stateſman, made a Copy of elegant Latin Verſes upon this deplorable Accident; beginning Urbs Antiqua ſitu, &c. and by and by,

Dean of Pauls, preaches at Paul's Croſs.

Soon after this diſmal Caſualty, the Dean of St. Pauls preached at the Croſs: Where he ſeemed to glance at ſome of the Papiſts in thoſe Days, who muttered it about, that this was a Judgment for ſetting up a new Religion at Pauls. But theſe Fires were no more than were in former days under Popery. He ſhewed out of the Records of their Church (of Pauls) and the City, that in the Year 1382, May 21. with a great Earthquake through the Realm, the Croſs in Paul's Churchyard was overthrown, in the 6th Year of King Richard II. He added, (to ſhew the Deceits of thoſe Times, and the Guides of the Church then) that to the building of the Croſs again, William, then Biſhop of Canterbury, gathered great Sums of Money, and enriched himſelf. But at length, it ſeems, (as if they miſtruſted) the Peoples Charity grew cooler. For, becauſe Men ſhould be more liberal and willing to give, he, and the reſt of the Biſhops, granted many days of Pardon to them that would freely give Money to the building of that Croſs again. Canterbury granted 40 Days; London, Ely, Bath, Chicheſter, Carlile, Landaff, Bangor, every one 40 Days; the number in all 320 Days. But not one Dodkin of Money (ſaith the Dean) came out of their Purſes.]

The Queens Letters for ſpeedy repairing of Paul's Church.

The Queens Gift. Coop. Chron.

After this Miſchance, the Queens Majeſty directed her Letters to the Maior, willing him to take Order for ſpeedy repairing the ſame. And ſhe, of her gracious diſpoſition, for the furtherance thereof, did preſently give and deliver in Gold, one Thouſand Marks; with a Warrant for a Thouſand Loads of Timber, to be taken out of her Woods, or elſewhere.

Benevolence.

The Citizens alſo gave firſt a great Benevolence, and after that, three Fifteens to be ſpeedily paid.

The Clergy of England likewiſe, within the Province of Canterbury, granted the Fortieth Part of the Value of their Benefices, charged with Firſt Fruits; the Thirtieth Part of ſuch as were not ſo charged. But the Clergy of London Dioces, granted the Thirtieth Part of all that were in payment of their Firſt Fruits, and the Twentieth Part of ſuch as had paid their Fruits.

Six Citizens of London, and two Petty Canons of Paul's Church, (by Order of the Privy Council) had charge to further and overſee the Work; wherein ſuch Expedition was uſed, that within one Month next following the burning thereof, the Church was covered with Boards and Lead, in manner of a falſe Roof, againſt the Weather; and before the end of the ſame Year, all the ſaid Iles of the Church were framed out of new Timber, covered with Lead, and fully finiſhed.

The ſame Year alſo, the great Roofs of the Weſt and Eaſt Ends were framed out of great Timber, in Yorkſhire, brought thence to London by Sea, and ſet up, and covered with Lead; the North and South Ends were framed of Timber, and covered with Lead, before April, 1566.

But concerning the Steeple, divers Models were deviſed and made, but little was done, through whoſe Default God knoweth. It was ſaid, that the Money appointed for the new building of the Steeple, was collected, * and brought to the Hands of Edmond Grindal, then Biſhop of London.

Order from the Queen for prevention of Fire. Cooper Chron. J. S.

In this Time alſo, by Reaſon of the Queens Majeſties Letters, directed to the Lord Maior and his Brethren, about the burning of Pauls, there were certain Aldermen and Commoners of the City, named and called together, by the Authority of the ſaid Lord Maior, to deviſe ſome good Order, and ſpeedy Remedy, for the Relief and Comfort of the ſaid City, wheneſoever any Chance of Fire hereafter ſhould happen, within the ſaid City or Liberties thereof. The Perſons ſo called, after ſundry Meetings, and with good Adviſement and Deliberation, agreed, and penned a certain Order for the ſpeedy Remedy thereof; as well for the ready knowledge of the Place, whereſoever the ſame Fire ſhould happen to be, and for the ſudden extinguiſhing and ſuppreſſing of the ſame; as alſo for the ſafe keeping of the Goods of ſuch Perſons, in whoſe Houſes any ſuch Fire ſhould chance. Which Orders and Rules were ſo proper and good for the ſaid Purpoſes, that they were judged to tend to the great Comfort and Safety of the City and Citizens; had they been publiſhed and made known in Time, and executed accordingly. But theſe, as many other ſuch painful and profitable Labours, taken for the good Government of the City, were ſoon laid aſide. And when the talking thereof was done, and the Books framed and delivered, it ſoon paſt into Oblivion; and nothing at all thought upon, until an Hour after the Miſchief be paſt; as a Writer in thoſe Times complained. But to return to this dreadful Damage by Fire done to Pauls, and the Cares for the getting Supplie for the Reparation thereof.]

King James I. rides to Pauls.

But however, with theſe Monies the Church was repaired, the Steeple was neglected, and left in its Ruins, during the Life of Queen Elizabeth, until the 18th Year of King James I. in which Year, upon the 26th of March, being Sunday, the King, attended by ſeveral Noblemen, rode to St. Pauls in great State, on Horſeback; where he was met by the Lord Maior and Aldermen, in their Formalities, at the Weſt Biſhop of London preaches at Paul's Croſs.

Weſt Door of St. Pauls. Here the King alighting, went to the Brazen Pillar, where he kneeled down, and prayed for good Succeſs to his pious Intention. Afterwards he went to the Quire, and there heard an Anthem; and from thence went to the Croſs, where the Biſhop of London, Dr. John King, preached a Sermon upon a Text given him by the King, which was Pſalm cii. ver. 13, 14. Thou ſhalt ariſe and have mercy upon Zion, for the time to favour her, yea, the ſet time is come. For thy Servants take pleaſure in her ſtones, &c. And when Sermon was ended, he repaired to the Biſhop's Palace, where Conſultations were taken what was moſt fit to be done, in order to the beginning and carrying on of ſo pious a Work. At length the King iſſued out his Royal Commiſſion, dated the 16th of November following, directed to the Nobility and Citizens of London, &c. And the Commiſſioners, at ſeveral Meetings inquiring into the Matter, at length, upon a ſerious Deliberation, they concluded; that, as antiently it had been, ſo now a general Benevolence throughout the whole Kingdom ſhould be attempted. Whereupon, the King, to give Example, began the Subſcription; and others of the Nobility followed.

A general Benevolence to be throughout the Kingdom.

The then Biſhop of London gave 100 l. and ſubſcribed for ſo much annually, as long as he ſhould continue in the See.

But the Collection of Monies went ſo ſlowly forward, as, that though a good proportion of Stone was brought in by the Biſhop, yet the proſecution of the Work became quite neglected.

Neither was there any thing more done, until Dr. Laud became Biſhop of this See, which was in the Year 1628.

This Biſhop being of a publick Spirit, cordially undertook the promoting of this good Work; and within few Years after, procured another Commiſſion, from King Charles I. for that purpoſe.

Another Commiſſion for a Benevolence.

Which Commiſſion bearing date April the 10th, 1631. was directed to Sir Rob. Ducie, Bart. then Lord Maior of London, to George Archbiſhop of Canterbury, to the Lord Keeper, to the Lord Treaſurer, &c.

By which Commiſſion, the King taking notice of this Cathedral, as the goodlieſt Monument, and moſt eminent Church in his whole Dominions; as alſo, that it was the principal Ornament of this City, the Imperial Seat of his Realm. And moreover, taking notice of the Proceedings in a Commiſſion iſſued out by his Royal Father, to the ſame Purpoſe, reſolved to go on therewith effectually; declaring as followeth.

The Contents thereof.

'Firſt, That all Money brought in for the Repair thereof, ſhould be paid into the Chamber of London.

'Secondly, That Laud, then Biſhop of London, offered to allow 100 l. per Ann. out of the Revenue of his Biſhoprick, during his continuance therein.

A Regiſter Book.

'Thirdly, That a Regiſter Book of all Subſcriptions for Contributions thereunto, ſhould be made, as in King James his time.

'Fourthly, That the Judges of the Prerogative Court, and all Officials throughout the ſeveral Biſhopricks and Wales, upon the Deceaſe of any Perſon inteſtate, ſhould be excited to remember this Church, out of what was proper to be given to pious Uſes.

'Laſtly, That there ſhould be Letters Patents iſſued out for the receiving of Publick Contributions from all People throughout the Kingdom.

Monies plentifully brought in.

After which it was not long, but that Monies were brought into the Chamber of London accordingly.

The Biſhop of Norwich, (at that Time Almoner to the King) giving 400 l. the 17th of May next following. Multitudes of others, for eleven Years following, brought in their Monies very plentifully.

On the 16th of December, 1632. the Commiſſioners began their Meetings, and concluded of certain Orders for regulation of all Things touching the ſaid Repair. And in April next enſuing, the Work was begun; there being in ready Money, then brought in, 5416 l. 13 s. 6 d. And on the 26th of June, was iſſued out 2000 l. of the ſaid Money, unto Michael Grigg, Eſq; Paymaſter of the ſaid Work. And ſoon after, the ſaid Biſhop Laud laid the firſt Stone, at the Eaſt end thereof. The ſecond Stone was laid by Sir Francis Windebank, one of his Majeſty's Secretaries of State. The third by Sir Henry Martin, Judge of the Prerogative Court. And the fourth by Inigo Jones, Surveyor General of this Work. Neither did this worthy Biſhop ceaſe from the carrying on of this Work, after he was tranſlated to Canterbury, which was in September following; but in all things ſhewed himſelf a pious and powerful Furtherer thereof.

Firſt Stone laid, and by whom.

Nor was the King himſelf without an high Senſe of the Honour done unto the Chriſtian Religion, and the Fame which would redound to this Nation, by thus reſtoring ſo ſignal a Monument of his renowned Anceſtors Piety, (King Æthelbert, and the other Saxon Kings.)

The Portico at the Weſt end of the Church.

A magnificent and ſtately Portico, with Corinthian Pillars, he erected at his own Charge at the Weſt end of this Church; where he placed the Statues of his Royal Father, K. James, and himſelf, for a laſting Memorial of their ready Diſpoſition and Endeavour to advance ſo glorious a Work. And in this manner it was carried on, for the ſpace of above nine Years, many Perſons contributing very largely unto it. Amongſt which, Sir Paul Pinder, Kt. King James I. his Ambaſſador, Reſident at Conſtantinople many Years, is in an eſpecial manner to be remembred; who having at his own Charge, firſt repaired the decays in the Stone Work of that goodly Partition made at the Weſt end of the Quire, adorning the Front thereof, outward, with fair poliſhed Pillars of black Marble; and the curious carved Statues of the Saxon Kings and Biſhops, which had been the firſt Founders and Benefactors to the Church. Graced the inſide thereof with Figures of Angels, and other Ornaments: Likewiſe mended and repaired all the decays and defects of the Wainſcot Work of the Quire; and beautified the ſame with a fair Rail of Wainſcot, and a great number of Cherubims artificially carved. All which were ſumptuouſly gilded, and painted with rich Colours, in Oil. He magnificently clothed the whole Quire, and the upper part of the Presbytery, with fair Tapeſtry Hangings.] And afterwards beſtowed 4000 l. in the Repairing of the South Croſs.

Sir Paul Pinder's Benevolence.

R.

The Steeple.

The Steeple was intended wholly to be taken down, and by ſtronger Pillars to be ſupported and built, in proportion to the Church; with a Spire of Stone ſuitable thereunto, being ready ſcaffolded to that end. And the reſt of the Repairs was finiſhed, as to the Walls and Cover of Lead.

And that Poſterity may ſee what open Hearts and Hands our Engliſh Nation then had, for the recovery of this ruinous Building to its priſtine Splendor, here is added a Brief of the Receiver's Account, as it was caſt up the 25th of October, 1639. in the 15th of King Charles I. together with a Scheme of the ſeveral Sums of Money, as they were brought into the Chamber of London, for each particular Year.

But more than the Sum of 35551 l. 2 s. 4 dob. doth not appear by the Books to have been laid out upon this Repair, ſince the 25th of October, 1639. that the Accounts were ſo Audited. For in October, 1642. the Flames of our Civil Diſſenſions broke violently out; ſo that there was not only an unhappy period put to this good and praiſe-worthy Work, but by the Votes of Parliament, made September the 10th, Anno 1642. for the aboliſhing of Biſhops, Deans and Chapters, (which Votes were confirmed by an Ordinance of that ſame Parliament, in January following;) the very Foundation of this famous Cathedral was utterly ſhaken in pieces. Which conſiſted of the Biſhop, the Dean, Chanter, Chancellor, Treaſurer, the five Archdeacons, the thirty Prebendaries, and the ſix Vicars Choral. So that the next following Year (Iſaac Pennington being Lord Maior) the famous Croſs in the Churchyard, which had been for many Ages the moſt ſolemn Place in this Nation for the greateſt Divines, and moſt eminent Scholars to Preach at, was (with the reſt of the Croſſes about London and Weſtminſter) by further Order of the ſaid Parliament, pulled down to the Ground. And in the Month of March enſuing, the Houſes and Revenues belonging to the Dean and Chapter of this Cathedral, were ſeized on by Order likewiſe of the ſaid Parliament; together with all Money, Goods, or Materials, bought, or given, for repairing or finiſhing of this Church, in whoſe Hands ſoever they were, were ſeized on, and diſpoſed of, by Order of the ſaid Parliament. One Part of it went for Soldiers Pay; 400 l. per Ann. to Cornelius Burges, one of the Aſſembly of Divines, (who afterwards ſtiled himſelf Miniſter of London) to preach a Weekly Lecture in part of the Quire. In other parts of the Church, Sawpits were digged, for the ſawing out of the Scaffolding Timber, by them ſold and given. Several Places, (even where ſome Reverend Biſhops, and other Perſons of Quality lay interred) and afterwards the Body of the Church was converted to a Horſe Guard for Troopers to quarter in.

The Condition of this Church in the Civil War time, and after.

And in this deplorable Condition did this near finiſhed ſumptuous Structure continue, until the Year 1660. which was the Year of his Majeſty, King Charles II. moſt happy Reſtauration. Who had a pious Intent to ſet upon the Repairs thereof again; but before ſuch a Work could be brought to Form and Order for Reparation, it was all ruined by the dreadful dreadful Conflagration in London, Anno 1666. Which yet did not diſcourage his Majeſty, who by an Act of Parliament, appointed a certain Duty upon every Chaldron of Coals, for the carrying on and perfecting the Work of St. Pauls. And in the Year 1673. the thick Walls, with vaſt Charges being pulled down, that were ſo ſhaken by the Fire, and the Foundations cleared, a new Foundation was begun to be laid, of ſuch a Fabrick, as for Amplitude, Splendor, Solidity, Figure, and curious Architecture, the World hath ſcarce ſeen the like. The Model whereof was deſigned by Sir Chriſtopher Wren, Kt. an approved Architect; according to which Model, with ſome Alterations, it hath been ſince erecting.

The Condition of St. Pauls, now rebuilding. *J. S.

In the Year 1678. King Charles gave out his Letters Patents, in favour of the great and expenſive Work. This was backed by Henry, the careful Lord Biſhop of London. Who by cauſing an Addreſs to be printed, excited all Perſons throughout the Kingdom, to extend their Liberality towards the Building; endeavouring to take off certain Objections that might ſtick in ſome Mens Minds againſt it. And then ſhewing how far they had proceeded, and what Receipts and Diſburſements had hitherto been made. It was to this Tenor.

The Biſhop of London's Letter, recommending a Contribution.

'YOU perceive by his Majeſty's Letters Patents for rebuilding the Cathedral Church of St. Pauls, how zealouſly his Majeſty is concerned to have this ſo pious and charitable a Work effectually carried on. And to that end, how earneſtly, both by his Royal Grant and Example, he recommends it to all Cities, Towns, and Pariſhes, throughout his Kingdom of England, and Dominion of Wales.

'In purſuance of this his Majeſty's pious Intention, and that it may have its deſired Effect, it will be requiſite not only to vindicate the Piety of this Deſign, but alſo the Neceſſity and Reaſonableneſs of ſo general a Contribution toward the accompliſhing of it. For beſides the Objections againſt ſo good a Work, proceeding from diſaffection to Religion in ſome, and from a covetous and ſordid diſpoſition of Mind in others, there are likewiſe theſe two great Prejudices againſt it, which have too far poſſeſſed the Minds even of better diſpoſed Perſons.

'1. That the Sumptuouſneſs and Magnificence of Churches, is not at all ſuitable to the times of the Goſpel, nor according to the ſimplicity of the primitive Chriſtian Worſhip.

'2. That the Church of St. Pauls, belonging only to the City and Dioceſs of London, ought to be rebuilt ſolely at their Charge, without having recourſe to ſo extraordinary a way of Supply and Contribution, from others who are no way concerned in it.

1. 'Firſt, It is objected againſt the Work it ſelf, That the Sumptuouſneſs and Magnificence of Temples, and ſo much Splendor in the outward Circumſtances of God's Worſhip, is Jewiſh and Ceremonial, and not ſo ſuitable to the ſpiritual Nature and Deſign of the Goſpel, and the Worſhip thereby required; which conſiſts in the inward Purity of our Hearts, and the Devotion of our Minds and Spirits. Nor ſo agreeable to the Simplicity of the primitive Chriſtianity, which in Things of this nature, contained it ſelf within the Bounds of Neceſſity and Convenience; and therefore whatever is beyond theſe, may juſtly be deemed ſuperfluous, and might much better be imployed in Alms and Works of Charity.

'For the removal of this Prejudice, we may pleaſe to conſider,

'1. That the publick Worſhip of God, is a moral Duty, founded in the light of Nature, and the common Reaſon of Mankind.

'2. That the publick Worſhip of God, tho' it doth ſuppoſe and require inward and ſpiritual Devotion, yet as publick is neceſſarily external; and as ſuch, ought to expreſs, in the beſt manner we are able, that inward Honour and Reverence which we pay to the Divine Majeſty. And therefore, that the Circumſtances of it ſhould not only be decent, but very ſolemn and magnificent, the Light of Nature ſeems plainly to require, and the Goſpel doth no where gainſay. And the Reſolution of David, that he would not offer to the Lord his God of that which coſt him nothing; and the Declaration which he afterwards made concerning the building of the Temple, that the Houſe which is to be built to the Lord, muſt be exceeding magnifical, was not a piece of ceremonial Piety, but grounded upon a moral and eternal Reaſon, of equal force in all Ages and Times, namely, that which Solomon his Son gave to King Hiram, why he deſigned ſo magnificent a Temple, that it might be in ſome meaſure ſuitable to the Greatneſs and Majeſty of that God who was to be worſhipped in it: The Houſe (ſays he) which I build is great, for GREAT is our God above all Gods. Chriſtians indeed are not tied to one Place of Worſhip, as the Jews were; but they are obliged to honour God as much as they; and to declare their high Regard and Eſteem of ſo glorious a Majeſty, by all outward fitting Teſtimonies of Reſpect and Reverence.

'3. That the mean Eſtate and Circumſtances of God's publick Worſhip in the beginnings of Chriſtianity, was not the effect of Choice, but of Neceſſity; and enforced upon Chriſtians by their Poverty and Perſecution. By reaſon whereof, their Worſhip was not only without Splendor and Magnificence, but without ordinary Decency, and the common Conveniences of Time and Place; being uſually performed in the Night, in Chambers, and Grotts, and ſecret Places; not becauſe they thought this beſt, but becauſe they could then do no better. As they ſufficiently teſtified ſo ſoon as they were free from Perſecution; when every where, with great zeal, they raiſed ſtately Structures for the publick Worſhip of God, and ſpared no Coſt to that purpoſe; believing it to be highly for the Honour of Chriſt and his Religion, that Men ſhould declare their Regard to Almighty God, and the ſolemnity of his Worſhip in this way. And ſurely they, who from the obſcurity and meanneſs of the Places of publick Worſhip in the primitive Times, would draw a Pattern for Churches in ſucceeding Ages, may do well to conſider, whether they would be willing that the Poverty of the firſt Chriſtians, ſhould be made the meaſure and ſtandard of Mens Eſtates in all Ages. Becauſe the force of the Argument from bare primitive Example, is the very ſame in both Caſes. God is pleaſed to accept of that in Caſe of Neceſſity, which he will diſdain where Men have the Ability and Opportunity to ſerve him after a better manner. While the People of Iſrael were in a perſecuted and unſettled Condition, God was content that the Ark ſhould be placed in a Ta‘bernacle; but when he had given them reſt on every ſide, then David, from the natural reaſon and congruity of the Thing, concluded it fit to build a Houſe of Reſt for the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord, and that exceeding magnificent. And God approved of his Intention, telling him that he did well that it was in his heart to build ſuch an Houſe to the name of the Lord,

‘4. To warn us for ever againſt grudging at any extraordinary Expence for the Honour of Religion, as needleſs and ſuperfluous; and eſpecially from cloaking our Covetouſneſs, with a pretence of Charity to the Poor; we may do well to conſider how ſeverely our Saviour reprehends his own Diſciples for murmuring at that Coſt which the devout Woman beſtowed upon the Temple of his Body, in pouring upon it an Ointment of ſo great Price. To what purpoſe (ſaid they) is this waſte? This Ointment might have been ſold for much, and given to the poor. But our Saviour ſharply reproves this ſordid diſpoſition of theirs; and what they called Waſte, he calls a good Work, ſuch as in its proper Seaſon, is no leſs pleaſing to God, than Charity to the Poor. And to teſtify his high Eſteem and Acceptance of it, he took particular Care to have it recorded in the Hiſtory of his own Life; that together with his Doctrine and Miracles, the Memorial of it might be celebrated in all Ages, to the end of the World. Hereby teaching us, that we ought, under the Goſpel, to honour God with our Subſtance, as well as to relieve the Poor; and that magnificent Acts of Piety have their place no leſs in the Chriſtian Religion than the moſt liberal Deeds of Charity.

2. ‘Secondly, It is objected againſt the general extent of this Contribution, That the Church of St. Pauls, belonging only to the City and Dioceſs of London, ought to be rebuilt ſolely at their Charge, without having recourſe to ſo extraordinary a way of ſupply from others, who are no ways concerned in it.

‘In anſwer to this Objection, be pleaſed to conſider,

‘1. That the Inhabitants of London were not only exceeding great Sufferers by the late dreadful Fire, but have ſince been at a vaſt and incredible Charge in rebuilding of their own Houſes and Pariſh Churches, their Hoſpitals, Halls, and Royal Exchange; and in ſeveral other publick Works, to the great Honour and Advantage of the City, and to the Wonder and Aſtoniſhment of the World, that in ſo ſhort a ſpace, ſo great a City ſhould riſe ſo beautiful, and out of ſuch vaſt and diſmal Ruins.

‘2. That the City of London, and Counties adjoining, have done for ſeveral Years, and ſtill do, towards this Work, pay a particular Tax upon all the Coals brought into the Port of London. Beſides which, it is not doubted but they will be very exemplary in their voluntary Contributions thereto.

‘3. That the City of London hath ever been found very charitable and bountiful, upon all Occaſions, towards the rebuilding of Churches and Towns in the Country, and the repairing of the Fortunes of particular Perſons, that have been ruined by the like Calamity of Fire. For which Cauſe, they hope it will not be thought unreaſonable in them, for once, to crave and expect the Aſſiſtance of the Country, upon ſo preſſing and extraordinary an Occaſion; when they are utterly unable, alone, to ſupport the Burden, and to defray the mighty Charge of ſo great a Work.

‘4. That the rebuilding of this Church is of very publick Concernment, and the whole Nation, in ſome ſort, intereſted in it. Our Kings have uſed upon extraordinary Occaſions to reſort to it, there to pay their ſolemn Acknowledgments to Almighty God, for publick Bleſſings and Deliverances granted to this Nation. And the Preachers there have always been particularly appointed and choſen from both the Univerſities of this Realm, and from all parts of the Kingdom. And the Glory of the Work will alſo redound to the whole Nation; to which it will not only be a ſingular Ornament, but likewiſe a ſtanding Monument of the publick Affection and Zeal of this Proteſtant Kingdom to Piety and good Works.

‘Which laſt Conſideration ought to have the greater Force with us, becauſe at this time, as much as ever, the Proteſtant Religion ſtands upon its Reputation, and ſtands in need of it too. And therefore every one ought, with more than ordinary Zeal, to be concerned for the carrying on of this Work; not only for the Honour of our Nation, and the Credit of our common Chriſtianity, but alſo of our Reformed Religion. That there may be no pretence to upbraid us, that Error and Superſtition could make Men more zealous of good Works, than the Doctrine of the true Religion; and that our Adverſaries of Rome may be convinced, that our Piety is as generous and charitable as theirs, but would not be ſo arrogant and preſumptuous; and that whilſt we diſclaim the Merit, yet we do moſt ſtedfaſtly believe the Obligation and Neceſſity of good Works.

The Old Church being taken down, the Firſt Stone of the New one was laid, by Mr. Strong a Maſon, the ſecond by Mr. Longland, June 21. 1675. towards the Building whereof the following Duties on Coals imported at London, were appropriated by ſeveral Acts of Parliament.

nother Fire re.

Feb. 27. 1698-9. a Fire broke out at the W. end of the North Iſle of the Choir, in a little Room prepar'd for the Organ Builder to work in when the Choir was newly finiſh'd, but the Communication between the ſaid Work-room and Organ Gallery being broke down, and all imaginable means uſed, the Fire was happily got under, doing no other damage but to 2 Pillars and an Arch, with Enrichments, which are very artificially repaired: And the Church has no ſign left of damage by that Fire, except that the Luſtre of the Gilding is thereby a little abated.

he Outſide eſcribed.

The Church abateing the two Towers, Morning Prayer Chapel, and Conſiſtory at the W. end, which makes it broader there, and the Sweep at the E. end) is in Form a Long Croſs (a very proper) Figure of a Chriſtian Church.

The Walls very well built of fine Portland Stone, Ruſtic Work; There are two Ranges of Pilaſters that adorn the Outſide one above the other, the lower conſiſts of about 120 Pilaſters with their Entablatures of the Corinthian Order, and the Upper of as many, with Entablament of the Compoſit Order, beſides Twenty Columns at the W. and Four at the E. End, and thoſe of the Portico's; and ſpaces between the Arches of the Windows, and the Architrave of the lower Order, &c. are filled with great variety of curious Enrichments, Cherubims, Feſtoons, &c. and (at the E. end) the Cypher of W. R. within a Garter, on which are the Words, Hony ſoit qui mal y penſe; and this within a fine Compartment of Palm-Branches, and placed under an Imperial Crown, &c. all finely carved in Stone.

The Intercolumns of the lower Range of Pilaſters, are 33 ornamental Windows, and 6 Niches; and of the upper Range 37 Windows, and about 30 Niches, many whereof are adorned with Columns, Entablature, and Pediments. And at the E. end is a Sweep, or Circular Space, adorned with Columns and Pilaſters, and enrich'd with Feſtoons, &c. and at the upper part, is a Window between 4 Pieddroits, and a ſingle Corniſh, and theſe between two large Cartouches.

Of the Porticos, Portals and Pediments.

1. The Aſcent to the N. Portico is by 12 Steps of black Marble; the Dome of the Portico is ſupported and adorned with Six very ſpacious Columns (48 Inches Diameter) of the Corinthian Order; above the Door-caſe is a large Urn with Feſtoons, &c. Over this (belonging to the upper Range of Pilaſters,) is a ſpacious Pediment, where are the Queen's Arms, with the Regalia, ſupported by 2 Angels, with each a Palm Branch in their Hands; under whoſe Feet appear the Figures of the Lyon and Unicorn.

2. You aſcend to the S. Portico (the Ground here being lower) by 25 Steps. It is in moſt other Reſpects like the N. and above this a Pediment (as the other) belonging to the upper Order, where is a Phœnix with her Wings expanded in Flames, under which is the Word RESURGAM.

3. The W. Portico is adorned and ſupported with 12 Columns below, and 8 above, fluted of the reſpective Orders as the 2 Ranges; the 12 lower adorned with Architrave, Marble Frieſe, and a Corniſh; and the 8 upper with an Entablature, and a ſpacious Triangular Pediment, where the Hiſtory of St. Paul's Converſion is carved in Relievo, by the ingenious Hand of Mr. Bird: The Door-Caſe is white Marble, and over the Entrance is cut in Relievo, the Hiſtory of St. Paul's Preaching to the Berreans. It conſiſts of a Gruppa of 9 Figures (beſides that of St. Paul) with Books, &c. by the ſame Hand as the Converſion.

4. On the S. ſide of the Church, near the W. end, is a Forum or Portal, the Door-Caſe being enrich'd with Cartouches, Volutas, and Fruit very exquiſitly carved, under a Pediment; and oppoſite to this on the N. ſide, is the like Door-Caſe. At the W. end, is an Acroteria of the Figures of the Apoſtles, each about 11 Foot high, with that of St. Paul on the Angle of the Pediment; and thoſe of the Four Evangeliſts, alſo an Entablature and Circles of Enrichment, where Twelve Stones compoſe the Aperture anſwering the Twelve Hours.

The two Towers each adorned with Circular Ranges of Columns, of the Corinthian Order with Domes on the upper part, and at the Vertex of each a gilded Pine Appel.

The Inſide of the Church.

The Choir has its Roof ſupported with 6 ſpacious Pillars, and the Church with 6 more; beſides which, there are 8 that ſupport the Cupulo, and 2 very ſpacious ones at the W. end, all which Pillars are adorned with Pilaſters of the Corinthian and Compoſit Orders; and alſo with Columns fronting the croſs Ile or Ambulatory, between the ſaid Conſiſtory and Morning-Prayer-Chapel, which have each a very beautiful Screen of curious Wainſcot, and adorned each with 12 Columns, their Entablatutes, arched Pediments, and the Queens Arms enrich'd with Cherubims, and each Pediment between 4 Vaſes, all curiouſly carved; and theſe Screens are fenced with Iron Work; as is alſo the Corniſh at the W. end of the Church, and ſo Ed beyond the firſt Arch.

The Pillars of the Church that ſupport the Roof, are 2 Ranges, with their Entablature and beautiful Arches, whereby the Body of the Church and Choir are divided into 3 Parts or Iles; the Roof of each is adorned with Arches, and ſpacious Peripheries of Enrichments; as Shields, Leaves, Chaplets, &c. (the Spaces included being ſomewhat Concave) admirably carved in Stone; and there is a large croſs Ile between the N. and S. Porticos, and 2 Ambulatories, the one a little Eaſtward, the other Weſtward from the ſaid croſs Ile, and running parallel therewith: The Floor of the Choir and Church is paved with Marble, but within the Rail of the Altar, with fine Porphyry poliſh'd, and laid in ſeveral Geometrical Figures; the Arabathrum whereon the Communion-Table is placed, is 5 Steps higher than that of the Choirs Iles.

The Altar-Piece is adorned with 4 noble fluted Pilaſters, finely painted and vein'd with Gold, in Imitation of Lapis Lazuli, with their Entablature, where the Enrichments, and alſo the Capitals of the Pilaſters are double gilt with Gold; theſe Intercolumns are 21 Pannels of figured Crimſon Velvet, and above them 6 Windows, viz. in each Intercolumniation 7 Pannels, and 2 Windows, one above the other; at the greateſt Altitude above all which, is a Glory finely done. The Apperture Nd and Sd into the Choir, 'are (aſcending up 3 Steps of black Marble) by 2 Iron Folding-Doors, being (as that under the Organ Gallery, &c.) exquiſitly wrought into divers Figures, Spiral Branches, and other Flouriſhes; and there are 2 others at the W. end of the Choir, the one opening into the S. Iſle, the other into the N. done by the celebrated Artiſt in this way, Monſieur Tijau.

In this Choir, are the Galleries, the Biſhops Throne, Lord Mayors Seat, with the Stalls, all which being contiguous, compoſe one vaſt Body of curious carved Work of the fineſt Wainſcot, conſtituting 3 ſides of a Quadrangle.

The Organ Galley (with 4 Stalls, 2 Nd, and 2 Sd therefrom) compoſe the W. end. The Organ-Caſe is magnificent and very ornamental, enrich'd with the carved Figures of Cupids (under mantling) Terms, and 8 Fames ſtanding at the top of this Caſe, 4 looking Ed, and as many Wd. each appearing near 6 Foot high: It is alſo enrich'd with Cherubims, Fruit, Leaves, &c. very lively repreſented, by that excellent Artiſt, Mr. Gibon, all which is elevated on 8 beautiful fluted Columns of the Corinthian Order, of poliſh'd Marble, White vein'd with Blue, and the Organ Pipes are very ſpacious and gilt with Gold, preſerved from Duſt, &c. with fine Saſhes. The N. and S. ſides of this Choir have each 30 Stalls, beſides the Biſhops Throne and Seat on the S. ſide, and the Lord Mayors on the N.

The Dimenſions taken from the beſt and largeſt Draughts, as the Le. and Latitude from the Ichnography, and the Altitudes from the Orthography thereof, are.

500 Foot from E. to the W. Wall within.

162 —— Breadth (of the W. end for 103 Foot of the Length)

117 ——Breadth of the reſt (except between the Porticos)

249 ——Breadth between the N. and S. Portico's with the Walls.

Statutes an Cuſtoms of J. S.

The Statutes and Cuſtoms of this Church of St. Paul, having laid ſcatteringly in many old Books and Muniments, in the Archives of the ſaid Church, and contained in them confuſedly, without any certain Order; Radulph de Baldock, ſometime Dean of the Church, with the Chapter, did reduce them methodically into a Regiſter; together with certain Injunctions and Declarations, afterwards following.

Lib. Statu rum.

After that, Thomas Lyſeaux, Dean of the ſaid Church Anno Dom. 1450. in the ninth of his Deanery, and in the firſt of the Conſecration of Biſhop Kemp, cauſed a Book of Statutes, (called Liber Statutorum) of the Cathedral Church of London, to be written. Wherein was contained, among other Things, the aboveſaid Regiſter of the Statutes by Dean Baldock.

Alſo in that Book was tranſcribed the Carta Libertatum, i. e. the Charter of the Liberties of that Church; being the Confirmation of them by King Henry VI. An. regn. 20. It conſiſts of ſeveral Inſpeximus's, and mentions the Gifts to the Church by ſeveral Kings.

This Book ſets down alſo the Order and Prayers for a new Biſhop; which was after this manner. They received him at the Weſt Door, and there ſprinkled him with Holy Water; and being incenſed, he was brought with Proceſſion to the great Altar; and being there proſtrate, the Major of the Church ſaid, Salvum fac Servum tuum Epiſcopum noſtrum, &c. i. e. Save thy Servant our Biſhop. Send him help from the holy Place. Lord, hear my Prayer. The Lord be with you. Let us pray.

Grant, we pray thee, O Lord, to thy Servant M. our Biſhop, that by preaching and exerciſing thoſe things which are right, by the Example of good Works, he may ſave the Souls of thoſe that are ſet under him; and that he may receive the Reward of eternal Recompence by, &c. as it is in the Manual of the Church.

There is alſo ſet down in the ſaid Book of Statutes, the Churches antiently belonging to the Patronage of the Dean and Chapter, with this Title; viz.

St. Paul's Almoner.

There was an Eleemoſynarius Sti Pauli London; [i. e. an Almoner of St. Pauls,] tum ad ſuſtentationem puerorum, cum ad Eleemoſynam faciend. [i. e. both for the maintaining of Children, and doing of Alms.] This Almoner had particular Rents appropriated for theſe Uſes.

There were alſo many Payments from divers Churches and Perſons, to pray for the Souls of ſeveral. All theſe Rents and Payments are particularly ſet down in the aforeſaid Book of Statutes.

The Temporalities of the Biſhoprick, during the Vacaney, belonged to the Church.

The Dean and Chapter had an antient Privilege granted them by King Edward II. which was to enjoy the Temporalities of the Biſhoprick of London; paying after the rate of 1000 l. a year, while it remains thus vacant in their Hands. In the Year 1594. Biſhop Elmer dying, Noel the Dean, and the reſt of the Chapter, made ſuit to the Lord Treaſurer Burghley, That they might have and enjoy the Temporalities according to the Charter made to their Predeceſſors in that behalf, as aforeſaid. The Treaſurer, upon this, ordered Sir T*homas Fanſhaw*, Clark of the Crown, to ſee the Grant, and what Allowance it had received in Times paſt, and thereof to make a Certificate. Which accordingly he did, and gave this Account thereof.

‘I have ſeen the Charter, and find it to be of the Effect aboveſaid. And I have ſeen among the Records of the Exchequer, by the Inrollment of Letters Patents of K. Hen. VIII. made in the 24th year of his Reign, entered upon Record in the Treaſurer's Remembrancer's Office, Term. Paſcha Anno predict. Regis xxiiii. and of a Writ of Allocate thereupon made, and enrolled in the King's Remembrancer's Office, inter Bria. direct. Baronibus de Term. Michis, Anno xxv*to*. By which the King did recite not only the Grant above mentioned, but alſo that the Dean and Chapter then had in their Hands, by the ſaid Charter, the Cuſtody of the ſaid Biſhoprick, and the Temporalities of the ſame; being void by the Tranſlation of Cutbart, late Biſhop. And thereupon, the King did grant unto his Counſellor, John Stokeſley, Clark, the Biſhop elect, all the Right and Intereſt which he then had in the ſaid Temporalities and Rents, to be had and taken, as well by the Hands of the Dean and Chapter, as of the Farmers, Bailiffs, &c. and did diſcharge the Dean and Chapter, &c.

‘Wherefore in my Opinion, the Dean and Chapter ought to have the Cuſtody of the ſaid Biſhoprick, during the preſent Vacation, by Vertue of their Charter; unleſs ſome Alteration hath been made ſithence viceſſimo quinto Reg. Henrici Octavi.

Dated the 7th of June, 1594.

Tho. Fanſhaw.

Accordingly I find the Dean and Chapter did enjoy the Temporalities, till Fletcher, the next Biſhop, was placed; which was from June the 5th, to January the 24th following; which was 134 Days. And paid into the Treaſury, for the Time, after the Rate of 1000 l. per An. 320 l. 11 s.]

MONUMENTS.

Monuments in Pauls.

Firſt, as I read, of Erkenwalde, Biſhop of London, buried in the old Church, about the Year of Chriſt 700. Whoſe Body was tranſlated into the new Work, in the Year 1140. being richly ſhrined above the Quire, behind the high Altar.

Sebba or Seba, King of the Eaſt Saxons, was firſt buried in the old Church, and after that removed into the new, and laid in a Coffin of Stone, or grey Marble, on the North ſide without the Quire, having this Inſcription hanging by it.

At the entrance of the North ſide or Ile of the Quire.

A. M.

Hic jacet Sebba, Rex orientalium Saxonii, qui converſus fuit ad fidem per S. Erkenwaldum, Londinenſ. Epiſcopum Anno Chriſti, 677. *Vir multum Deo devotus, actibus religioſis, crebris precibus, & piis Eleemoſynarum fructibus plurimum intentus, vitam privatam & Monaſticam cunctis Regni divitiis & honoribus præferens. The ſame Epitaph and Verſes in Engliſh. A. M.

To William, a Man famous in Wiſedome and Holineſſe of Life; who firſt with S. Edward the King and Confeſſor being familiar, of late preferred to be Biſhop of London, and not long after (for his prudencie and ſincere fidelity) admitted to be of Councell with the moſt victorious Prince, William, King of England, of that Name the firſt. Who obtained of the ſame, great and large Privileges to this famous Citie. The Senate and Citizens of London, to him, having well deſerved, have made this. Hee continued Biſhop twenty yeeres, and dyed in the yeere after Chriſt's Nativity, 1070.

Theſe Marble Monuments to Thee
 Thy Citizens aſſigne,
Rewards (O Father) far unfit
 To thoſe Deſerts of thine.
Thee unto them a faithfull Friend
 Thy London People found;
And to this Towne, of no ſmall weight,
 A Stay both ſure and ſound.
Their Liberties reſtor'd to them,
 by meanes of Thee have beene,
Their Publike Weale by meanes of Thee,
 Large Gifts have felt and found.
Thy Riches, Stocke, and Beauty brave,
 One Houre hath them ſuppreſt:
Yet theſe thy Vertues and good Deeds, with us (for ever) reſt.

This Man is termed by ſome, Richard de Gravesend.

The Lord Maior of London, and the Aldermen his Brethren, upon thoſe ſolemn Days of their reſort to Pauls, have long time uſed to walk to the Grave ſtone, where this Biſhop lieth buried; in remembrance of their former Privileges by him obtained.

[But ignorantly, Graveſend being Biſhop almoſt 200 Years after. J. S.]

Right againſt the little South Door in the lower Church.

And now of late Years, there is an Inſcription faſtened to that Pillar which is next his Grave, termed, The Revival of a moſt worthy Prelates Remembrance. There erected at the ſole Coſt and Charges of the right honourable and worthily affected, Sir Edward Barkham, Kt. Lord Maior of the City of London, Anno 1622. ſpeaking thus to the Walkers in Pauls.

Set up at the Lord Maiors Coſt and Charges.

Walkers, whoſoere ye be,
If it prove you chance to ſee
Upon a ſolemn Scarlet Day,
The Citie Senate paſſe this way,
Their gratefull Memory for to ſhow
Which they the Reverend Aſhes owe
Of Biſhop Norman, here inhum'd,
By whom this Citie hath aſſum'd
Large Privileges : Thoſe obtain'd
By him, when Conquerour William raign'd.
This being by thankfull Barkham's Mind renu'd,
Call it The Monument of Gratitude.]

In the new Works of St. Dunſtan's Chappel.

Michael Norborow, Biſhop of London, 1361.
Robert Brewer, Dean of Pauls, 1366.
Robert Breybrooke, Canon of Lichfield, Biſhop of London, and made Lord Chancellour in the 6th Year of King Richard II. He ſate Biſhop twenty Years, and deceaſed An. 1404.

Chappel on the South Ile of Pauls builded. Scalps of Oxen found in digging the Foundation.

Some have noted, that in digging the Foundation of this new Work of Pauls, [namely, of a Chappel on the South ſide of Paul's Church,] there were fouud more than an hundred Scalps of Oxen or Kine, [in the Year 1316.]

N. B. About this new Work of Pauls, A. M. makes a double Miſtake; for neither was it of a Chappel only, but rather of the whole Church. Neither were theſe Scalps found in the Year 1316. Since (as Stow here aſſerts) they were found in digging the Foundation of this new Work, which was 200 Years before. For Erkenwald's Body was removed into the new Work, 1140. J. S.]

Which thing, (ſay they) confirmeth greatly the Opinion of thoſe which have reported, that (of old time) there had been a Temple of Jupiter, and that there was daily Sacrifice of Beaſts.

A Temple of Jupiter. Diſc. Antiq. Lond J. S.

And of this Judgment was Biſhop Stillingfleet, ſometime Dean of this Church, who ſuppoſed that here ſtood a Capitol, rather than Diana's Temple. Becauſe moſt of the Colonies had Capitols erected in them, in imitation of Rome. And that the ſituation of the Place made it probable, being the higheſt Place in the City. And Vitruvius's Rule was, Capitols were to be erected in the higheſt and moſt conſpicuous Place of the City. And the Sacrifice of Oxen was moſt proper for the Worſhip performed in the Capitol, being accounted the moſt Noble Sacrifices. And Servius obſerved, thoſe that went up to the Capitol in Triumph, ſacrificed white Oxen: So that it ſeem'd to him, rather to have been a Temple to Jupiter.]

Other ſome, both Wiſe and Learned, have thought the Bucks Head, born before the Proceſſion of Pauls, on St. Paul's Day, to ſignify the like. But true it is, that I have read an antient Deed to this effect: Viz.

Sir William Baud, Kt. the 3d of Edward I. in the Year 1274. on Candlemas-day, granted to Harvy de Borham, Dean of Pauls, and to the Chapter there, that in conſideration of twenty two Acres of Ground or Land, by them granted, within their Manor of Weſtley in Eſſex, to be incloſed into his Park at Curingham; he would (for ever) upon the Feaſt day of the Converſion of Paul, in Winter, give unto them a good Doe, ſeaſonable and ſweet: And upon the Feaſt of the Commemoration of St. Paul, in Summer, a good Buck, and offer the ſame at the high Altar; the ſame to be ſpent amongſt the Canons Reſidents. The Doe to be brought by one Man, at the Hour of Proceſſion, and through the Proceſſion to the high Altar; and the Bringer to have nothing. The Buck to be brought by all his Meyney in like manner; aud they to have paid unto them by the Church, 12 Pence only, and no more to be required.

A Buck's Head born before the Proceſſion at Pauls.

This Grant he made, and for performance, bound the Lands of him and his Heirs to be diſtrained on: And if the Lands ſhould be evicted, that yet he and his Heirs ſhould accompliſh the Gift. Witneſſes, Richard Tilbery, William de Wockendon, Richard de Harlowe, Knights, Peter of Stanford, Thomas of Waldon, and ſome others.

Sir Walter Bando, Son to William, confirmed this Gift in the 30th of the ſaid King; and the Witneſſes thereunto, were Nicolas de Wockendon, Rich. de Rokeley, Thomas de Mandevile, John de Rochford, Knights; Richard de Broniford, William de Markes, William de Fulham, and others. Thus much for the Grant.

Now, what I have heard by report, and have partly ſeen, it followeth.

On the Feaſt day of the Commemoration of St. Paul, the Buck being brought up to the Steps of the High Altar in Paul's Church, at the Hour of Proceſſion, the Dean and Chapter apparelled in Coaps and Veſtments, with Garlands of Roſes on their Heads, they ſent the Body of the Buck to baking, and had the Head fixed on a Pole, born before the Croſs in their Proceſſion, until they iſſued out at the Weſt Door; where the Keeper that brought it, blowed the death of the Buck, and then the Horners that were about the City, preſently anſwered him in like manner. For the which pains, they had each Man of the Dean and Chapter, 4 Pence in Money, and their Dinner. And the Keeper that brought it, during his abode there (for that Service) Meat, Drink, and Lodging, at the Dean and Chapters Charges, and 5 Shillings in Money at his going away; together with a Loaf of Bread, having the Picture of St. Paul upon it, &c.

There was belonging to the Church of St. Paul, for both the Days, two ſpecial Suits of Veſtments, the one imbroidered with Bucks, the other with Does, both given by the ſaid Bauds (as I have heard.) Thus much for that Matter.

The Heathen Saxons ſacrificed Oxen. J. S.

The finding of Scalps of Oxen and Kine near this Church of St. Paul, mentioned before, may move a Queſtion, Whether it denoted not a Religious Place of the Heathen Saxons? Since they at their Feſtivals ſacrificed Oxen, and perhaps, after they became Chriſtians too. Which appears from the direction that Pope Gregory gave to St. Auſtin the Monk, for propagating Chriſtian Religion among them. Where he ſpeaks of their ſacrificing abundance of Oxen to Devils. But he [Auſtin] ſhould not aboliſh that Cuſtom, but appoint new Feſtivals, either in Honour of the Saints, to whom their Churches were dedicated, or whoſe Relicks were depoſited therein. And that making Arbours with Branches of Trees, round their Churches, (according as thoſe Pagan Saxons uſed in their Religious Worſhip) they ſhould be allowed to kill their Oxen, and feaſt and enjoy themſelves as they did before in their former Pagan State; only they ſhould offer their Thanks and Praiſes unto God.

Vid. Dr. In net's Origin. Anglican. p. 23.

Conjectures that Pauls was not a Temple of Diana. J. S.

But the late very Learned Prelate, Biſhop Stillingfleet, (in a Tract he wrote Of the true Antiquity of London, and its State in the Roman Times) confutes the Aſſertion that any Temple of Diana ſtood here, from the Conſideration by whom ſhe ſhould be worſhipped: Since neither Britains, Romans, nor Saxons did; or if either of them did, Would they have worſhipped her in that manner? Britains and Saxons had no ſuch Deity. Cæſar mentioning the Gods that were worſhipped both by the Gauls and the Germans, made no mention of Diana. Or if they had worſhipped her, how came a Temple to be built her, when the Druids, their Prieſts, performed all their Superſtitious Worſhip in Groves; which were all the Temples in uſe among them? That it is true, among the Romans Diana was in great requeſt. But Stags were proper Sacrifices to her, or Sheep were allowed; but not Oxen. And whereas Camden ſaid Tauropolia were kept in honour to Diana, theſe had no relation to Oxen, (as the Word ſeems to ſignify) but to the Worſhip of Diana, who was called Taurica, as Mr. Selden hath learnedly obſerved: And that ſhe was a Scythian Deity, and worſhipped with human Sacrifices. So that learned Man. Yet others ſay, it is very certain ſhe was worſhipped in Britain; as appears by an Image of her, digged out of the Ground in Monmouthſhire, An. 1602. girt about, and ſhort truſſed, bearing a Quiver.]

Now to the reſidue of the Monuments, which are beneath the Stairs, in the Sides and Body of the Church.

Henry Guilford, Lord Marſhal, was buried in the Apoſtles Chappel, 1313.

Richard Newport, Biſhop, 1318.

In a comely Chappel in the Body of the Church, on the South ſide.

Sir John Beauchamp, Conſtable of Dover, Warden of the Ports, Knight of the Garter, the Son of Sir Guy Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, and Brother to Thomas Earl of Warwick, lieth buried in the Body of the Church, on the South ſide, 1358. within a proper Chappel purpoſely made for him, where a fair Monument remaineth of him.

Divers fond Peoples Opinion concerning Duke Humfrey buried in Pauls Church.

He is by ignorant People miſnamed, to be Humphrey Duke of Glouceſter, who lieth honourably buried at St. Albans, twenty Miles from London. And therefore ſuch as merrily profeſs themſelves to ſerve Duke Humphrey in Pauls, are to be puniſhed here, and ſent to St. Albans to be puniſh'd again, for their Abſence from their Maſter, as they call him.

A. M.

In idle and frivolous Opinion of whom, ſome Men, of late times, have made a ſolemn meeting at his Tomb, upon St. Andrew's Day in the Morning (before Chriſtmas) and concluded on a Breakfaſt or Dinner; as aſſuring themſelves to be Servants, and to hold diverſity of Offices under the good Duke Humfrey.

Likewiſe on May-day, Tankard-bearers, Watermen, and ſome other of like quality beſide, would uſe to come to the ſame Tomb early in the Morning, and (according as the other) have delivered ſerviceable preſentation at the ſame Monument, by ſtrewing Herbs, and ſprinkling fair Water on it; as in the duty of Servants, and according to their degrees and charges in Office. But as Maſter Stowe hath diſcreetly adviſed ſuch as are ſo merrily diſpoſed, or ſimply profeſs themſelves to ſerve Duke Humfrey in Pauls; if puniſhment of loſing their Dinners daily there, be not ſufficient for them, they ſhould be ſent to St. Albans, to anſwer there for their diſobedience, and long abſence from their ſo highly well deſerving Lord and Maſter, becauſe in their merry Diſpoſition they pleaſe ſo to call him.]

A due and fit Penance for fond Duke Humfrey's idle Servants.

Amen.

Wenlocke, by his laſt Will, dated 1477. appointed, that there ſhould be diſpended upon a Monument, over the Lady of Shrewsbury, where ſhe is buried, afore Jeſus, 100 l. He left Sir Humphrey Talbot his Superviſor. This Sir Humfrey Talbot, Knight, Lord Marſhal of the Town of Callis, made his Will the Year 1492. He was the younger Son of John Earl of Shrewsbury, and Margaret his Wife. He appointed a Stone to be put in a Pillar, before the Grave of his Lady Mother in Pauls, of his Portraiture and Arms, according to the Will of John Wenlock. But for want of room and lightſomneſs in that Place, it was concluded, that the Image of Jeſus ſhould be curiouſly painted on the Wall in Paul's Church, over the Door that entreth into the ſaid Chappel of Jeſus; and the Portraiture alſo of the ſaid Lady Margaret, Counteſs of Shrewsbury, kneeling in her mantle of Arms, with other of her Progeny: All which was ſo performed, and remaineth till this Day.

In the Chappel of Jeſus, Thomas Dowroy, William Lambe, 1578. and many other have been interred.

Statues and Images ſet up in this Church of St. Pauls
J. S.

In this Cathedral Church, beſides theſe Monuments erected to eminent Men, deceaſed, were, in former Times, Sculptures, Statues, and Images of worthy Men, ſet up in Tables. Among ſuch, was that of Thomas Earl of Lancaſter, a Plantagenet, Grandſon of K. Henry III. He was one of the chief of the Barons and Nobility that oppoſed King Edward II. in his Miſgovernment, by reaſon of Gaveſton, and the Spencers. But afterwards he was overthrown by the King's Party, and Beheaded at Pomfret. But ſo beloved he was of the Citizens, that they had his Effigies ſet up in St. Pauls; which they offered Prayers and Oblations to, and ſuppoſed that he did Miracles: And this notwithſtanding the King's hatred of him. Who hearing of this, was exceeding angry, and wrote a Letter from York, to Stephen Biſhop of London, declaring his Reſentment of it, and commanding him to reſtrain the People from doing this any more; conſidering, not only that he was his Rebel, but that it was done without Authority of the Church of Rome. The King's Letter has ſeveral Things in it, that it may deſerve to be exemplified; as communicated to me out of the Tower Records.

Geo. Holmes.

Rex venerabili patri Stephano, &c. The King, &c. to the venerable Father Stephen, by the ſame Grace Biſhop of London, greeting. ‘ It ‘ hath come to our Ears, which we learn hea‘vily, that very many of the People commit‘ted to your Charge, by a diabolical Fraud ‘ deceived, fooliſhly repairing to a certain Ta‘ble being in the Church of St. Paul, London, ‘ in which are painted the Statues, Sculptures, ‘ or Reſemblances of divers Perſons, and ‘ among the reſt, the Effigies of Thomas ſome‘time Earl of Lancaſter, our Enemy and Re‘bel; and do worſhip and adore it as ſome ‘ ſanctified Thing, without the Authority of ‘ the Church of Rome, aſſerting Miracles to be ‘ done there; to the Diſgrace of the whole ‘ Church, the Diſhonour of Us and You, and ‘ the manifeſt Danger of the Souls of the People ‘ beforeſaid, and the pernicious Example of others. Which you knowing ſuch Abuſes to prevail in the People to you committed, by winking at them, have permitted to be done; or rather for Profit and filthy Lucre ſake, have diſſembled. About which we are not a little troubled.

'Therefore We command you, firmly enjoining, that the Premiſſes, with a provident Deliberation weighed; and conſidering that the ſaid Church is of our Patronage, and that you, on account of the Fealty to us given, are bound to conſult for the preſerving Our Honour, and to decline our Diſgrace, by all means reſtrain the ſaid People, that they do not preſume to come to the ſaid Table, and there to make Prayers, Offerings, or other Things tending to Divine Worſhip, without the Authority of the Church of Rome; as ye know, by Vertue of your Duty, belongeth to you according to Canonical Sanctions. And that ye ſo carry your Self in this behalf, that ye may avoid God's and Our Indignation. And that the People beforeſaid, being by the Prudence of your Doctrine wholſomely inſtructed, may wholly deſiſt from the ſaid Abuſes: And that the ſetting forth of your Praiſe may ſpread among the ſame People; and that we may deſervedly continue our Benevolence conceived towards you, and the Church aforeſaid. And what ye reſolve to do upon theſe Things, write back to Us by your Letter, without loſs of Time. Witneſs, the King at York, the 28th day of June.

After the ſame manner was writ to the Dean and Chapter of St. Pauls, mutatis mutandis.

Five hundred Pounds give, by Mr. William Parker, towards the glazing of Paul's Windows.

Now to cloſe up all theſe Memories, concerning this Cathedral Church of St. Pauls, London, we may not be unmindful of a very bountiful Benevolence given thereto, by Mr. William Parker; whoſe worthy Gifts deſerve Volumes of Remembrance. By his laſt Will and Teſtament, he hath given the Sum of 500 l. to be imployed in the repairing of the Windows of Paul's Church, from the upper end of the Stairs, from the firſt entring of the Quire, unto the upper end of the Church: By the Order and Direction of the Right Honourable the Lord Maior of the City of London, and the Right Worſhipful the Aldermen, his Brethren, for the time being. So are the expreſs Words, ſet down in the Codicil annexed to his Will.]

For the preventing of Prophanation and Abuſes offered to Pauls.

This Act of Common Council was made Auguſt the 1ſt, Anno 1 and 2 of Philip and Mary.

Common Carriages, and leading of Cattle thorow Pauls, reſtrained. R.

'Foraſmuch as the material Temples of God, were firſt ordained for the lawful and devout Aſſembly of People, there to lift up their Hearts, and to laud and praiſe Almighty God; and to hear his Divine Service, and moſt Holy Word and Goſpel, ſincerely ſaid, ſung, and taught; and not to be uſed as Markets, or other prophane Places or Thorowfares, with carriage of Things: And for that (now of late Years) many of the Inhabitants of the City of London, and other People repairing thither, have (and yet do) commonly uſe and accuſtom themſelves very unſeemly and unreverently (the more the pity) to make their common Carriage of great Veſſels full of Ale and Beer, great Baskets full of Bread, Fiſh, Fleſh, and Fruit, and ſuch other Things; Fardels of Stuff, and other groſs Wares and Things, thorow the Cathedral Church of St. Pauls. And ſome, in leading Moyles, Horſes, and other Beaſts through the ſame unreverently; to the great Diſhonour and Diſpleaſure of Almighty God, and the great Grief alſo, and Offence, of all good People: Be it therefore, for remedy and reformation thereof, Ordained, Enacted, and Eſtabliſhed, &c. That no Perſon, either Free or Foreign, of what Eſtate or Condition ſoever, do at any time, from henceforth, carry or convey, or cauſe to be carried through the ſaid Cathedral, any manner of great Veſſel or Basket with Bread, Ale, Beer, Fiſh, Fleſh, &c. or any other like Thing or Things, upon pain of forfeiture or loſing for every ſuch his or their firſt Offence, 3 s. 4 d. for the ſecond 6 s. 8 d. for the third 10 s. and for every other Offence, after ſuch third time, to forfeit 10 s. and to ſuffer two Days and two Nights Impriſonment, without Bail or Mainpriſe. The one moiety of all which Pains and Penalties, ſhall be to Chriſt's Hoſpital within Newgate, and the other half to him that will ſue for the ſame in any Court of Record within the City; by Bill, original Plaint, or Information, to be commenced or ſued in the Name of the Chamberlain of the ſaid City, for the time being; wherein none Eſſoine or Wager of Law for the Defendant, ſhall be admitted or allowed.

The Queens proceeding to St Pauls, Nov 18. 1588. J. S.

Upon great Feſtivals and ſolemn Occaſions, to this Cathedral Church repaired in great Grandeur, not only the Maior and Aldermen, and Companies of the City, but alſo the Kings and Princes, attended with their Nobility and Court. In the remarkable Year 1588. Nov. 18. when Queen Elizabeth had got the Victory of the great threatning Armada of Spain, and had now began the 30th Year of her Reign, ſhe repaired hither to thank God, with her Officers and Court attending, in a moſt goodly Equipage; as this enſuing Scrole will demonſtrate.

Queen Anne's triumphant coming to St. Paul's, Anno 1704.

Upon a like Occaſion of ſolemn Thankſgiving, did Queen Anne lately come triumphantly to St. Pauls, Sept. 7. 1704, Namely, upon the mighty Victory obtained againſt the French and Bavarians in Germany, under the Conduct of the Duke of Marlborough. Then this was the Order of the Cavalcade.

All the Lords and Privy Councellors that were in and about the Town, met about Eight in the Morning in the Council Chamber at St. James's; the Knights of the moſt Noble Order of the Garter, wearing the Collars of the ſaid Order. And having been marſhalled by the Officers of Arms, proceeded about 10 a Clock, in their Coaches with ſix Horſes each, towards St. Paul's Church.

Her Majeſty came afterwards, attended in the following manner.

Firſt, the Knight Marſhal, with his Men on Horſeback.

Then the Equeries, and Gentlemen Uſhers to his Royal Highneſs, in his Leading Coach.

One Equery, two Pages of Honour, and the Gentlemen Uſhers in waiting, in Her Majeſty's Leading Coach.

Then the Women of the Bedchamber to Her Majeſty, in another of Her Majeſty's Coaches.

The Maids of Honour in another.

The Lords of his Royal Highneſſes Bedchamber, in his Body-Coach.

Four Ladies of Her Majeſty's Bedchamber, viz. the Dutcheſs of Somerſet, the Marchioneſs of Hartington, the Lady Henrietta Godolphin, and the Counteſs of Abingdon, in the travailing Body-Coach.

The Duke of Somerſet, Maſter of the Horſe, with the Duke of Ormond, the Captain of the Guards in waiting, in Her Majeſty's Body-Chariot; each drawn by ſix Horſes.

A Detachment of the Horſe Grenadiers.

Her Majeſty's Footmen.

After them the Yeomen of the Guard, on Foot; ſome before, and ſome on each ſide of Her Majeſty's Coach.

Then Her MAJESTY with his Royal Highneſs, the Dutcheſs of Marlborough, Groom of the Stole, and the Lady Fretcheville, being the Lady of the Bedchamber in waiting, in the Coach of State, drawn by eight Horſes.

Her Majeſty's Firſt Troop of Horſe Guards cloſed the Proceſſion.

The Streets through which Her Majeſty paſſed, were lined from St. James's as far as Temple Bar, by the Militia of Weſtminſter. From thence to St. Pauls, they were railed and hung with blue Cloth; the City Trained-Bands lining both ſides. And upon Scaffolds erected for that purpoſe, were placed the ſeveral Companies in their Gowns, with their reſpective Flags, Streamers, and Muſick. A Batallion of each of Her Majeſty's Regiments of Foot Guards made a Lane from the Weſt Entrance into the Church, to the Door of the Choir. The Balconies and the Windows of the Houſes were hung with Carpets, and rich Tapiſtry, and crowded with great numbers of Spectators.

At Temple Bar Her Majeſty was met by the Lord Maior, in a Gown of Crimſon Velvet; and the Aldermen and Sheriffs in their Scarlet Gowns, being all on Horſe-back. The Lord Maior alighted, made a ſhort Speech to Her Majeſty, and ſurrendred to Her the City Sword. Which ſhe was pleaſed to return to him again. And he carried it before Her Majeſty to the Church, the Aldermen and Sheriffs riding before him.

Her Majeſty being come to St. Pauls, was met at the Weſt Door, at her alighting out of the Coach, by the great Officers of State, the Nobility and Privy Councellors: Who from thence proceeded to the Choir in the following Order.

Firſt, two Officers of Arms.

Then the Privy Councellors who were not Peers; Two and two.

Five Officers of Arms.

The Peers Temporal and Spiritual; Two and Two.

Norroy King of Arms.

The great Officers of State; viz. the Lord Privy Seal, Lord Preſident, Lord Treaſurer, Lord Keeper, and Lord Archbiſhop of Canterbury.

The Serjeants of Arms, with their Maces, and Garter King of Arms.

The Duke of Richmond with the Sword of State.

Her MAJESTY, led by his Royal Highneſs; and followed by the Dutcheſs of Marlborough and the Lady Fretcheville.

The Earl of Kent, Lord Chamberlain of Her Majeſty's Houſehold; and the Right Honourable the Vice-Chamberlain, attending near Her Majeſty's Perſon.

The Duke of Ormond, Captain of the Guard, and the Duke of St. Albans, at the Head of the Band of Gentlemen Penſioners, cloſed the Proceſſion.

Her MAJESTY and his Royal Highneſs being entred into the Choir, ſeated themſelves in two armed Chairs, on a Throne, without a Canopy, erected at the Weſt end thereof, oppoſite to the Altar.

Behind Her Majeſty, were Stools for two of the Ladies of the Bedchamber, and the great Officers in waiting, attending Her Majeſty and his Royal Highneſs.

The Peers and Privy-Councellors were placed on the North ſide of the Choir.

The Ladies of the Bedchamber, in the Stalls on the South ſide.

The Maids of Honour, and Her Majeſty's Bedchamber Women, below them.

The Peereſſes were placed at the Weſt end of the middle Gallery.

The Foreign Miniſters, with their Ladies, filled the Places prepared for them in the middle Gallery, on the ſame ſide with the Peers.

The Lord Maior, Aldermen, and Sheriffs Ladies, were ſeated at the Eaſt end of that Gallery.

The Lord Maior and Aldermen, at the Eaſt end of the South ſide.

The Members of the Honourable Houſe of Commons that were in Town, filled the upper Gallery on the North ſide.

The Ladies, and other Perſons of Quality that attended at this Solemnity, filled the reſt of the Galleries.

The Dean and Prebendaries ſat within the Rails of the Altar, except ſuch as officiated in reading of Prayers.

The Reverend Dr. Sherlock, Dean of the Church, preached.

The Lord Maior and Aldermen, underſtanding ſome Days before, that they were not to ſit in the Places where they were accuſtomed to ſit, were diſguſted; till they were informed that whatſoever Church the Queen reſorted to, it was her Chappel: And her great Officers were firſt to be provided of convenient Places, proper to their Quality and Dignity, before all others.

On

Queen Anne goes to St. Paul's at a publick Thankſgiving, 1705.

On the 23d of Auguſt, the enſuing Year, viz. 1705. being a Day of publick Thankſgiving for the Succeſs of Her Majeſty's Arms, under the Duke of Marlborough; in forcing the French Lines in Flanders, and afterwards fighting and beating them within thoſe Lines; She, with his Royal Highneſs, came to St. Paul's in great State; viz.

Her MAJESTY came attended in the following manner. Firſt, the Knight Marſhal with his Men, on Horſe-back. Then the Equeries and Gentlemen Uſhers to his Royal Highneſs, in his Leading Coach. One Equery, the Pages of Honour, and the Gentleman Uſher in waiting, in Her Majeſty's Leading Coach. In another of Her Majeſty's Coaches, the Women of the Bedchamber to Her Majeſty. In another, the Maids of Honour. His Royal Highneſs's Body Coach, with the Lord LaWar, Groom of the Stole to his Royal Highneſs; and the Lords of his Bedchamber. Three Ladies of Her Majeſty's Bedchamber; viz. the Dutcheſſes of Somerſet and Ormond, and the Marchioneſs of Hartington, in the travailing Body Coach. The Duke of Somerſet, Maſter of the Horſe, with the Earl of Arran, the Captain of the Guards in waiting, in one of Her Majeſty's Chariots; each drawn by ſix Horſes. A Detatchment of the Horſe Grenadiers. Her Majeſty's and his Royal Highneſs's Footmen. After them the Yeomen of the Guard, on Foot, ſome before, and ſome on each ſide of Her Majeſty's Coach. Then Her MAJESTY, with his Royal Highneſs, the Dutcheſs of Marlborough, Groom of the Stole, and the Counteſs of Sunderland, being the Lady of the Bedchamber in waiting, in the Coach of State drawn by eight Horſes. Her Majeſty's ſecond Troop of Horſe Guards cloſed the Proceſſion.

The Streets through which Her Majeſty paſſed were lined from St. James's as far as Temple Bar, by the Militia of Weſtminſter; from thence to St. Pauls, they were railed and hung with blue Cloth. The City Trained Bands lining both ſides; and upon Scaffolds erected for that purpoſe, were placed the ſeveral Companies in their Gowns, with their reſpective Flags, Streamers, and Muſick. A Battalion of each of Her Majeſty's Regiments of Foot Guards, made a Lane from the Weſt Entrance into the Church, to the Door of the Choir. The Balconies and the Windows of the Houſes were hung with Carpets and rich Tapeſtry, and crowded with great numbers of Spectators.

At Temple-Bar Her Majeſty was met by the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Sheriffs, in their Scarlet Gowns, being all on Horſeback. The Lord Mayor alighted, made a ſhort Speech to Her Majeſty, and ſurrendered to Her the City Sword; which ſhe was pleaſed to return to him: And he on Foot carried it before Her Majeſty to the Church, the Aldermen and Sheriffs riding before him.

Her MAJESTY being come to St. Pauls, was met at the Weſt Door, at Her alighting out of the Coach, by the great Officers of State, the Nobility and Privy Councellors. Who from thence proceeded to the Choir, in the following Order. Firſt, the Officers of Arms; then the Privy Councellors who are not Peers, two and two. The Peers Temporal and Spiritual, two and two. Norroy and Clarenceux, Kings of Arms. The great Officers of State; and Lord Archbiſhop of Canterbury. The Serjeants at Arms, with their Maces; and Garter King of Arms, and a Gentleman Uſher. The Duke of Ormond with the Sword of State. Her Majeſty was led by his Royal Highneſs, and was followed by the Dutcheſs of Marlborough, and the Counteſs of Sunderland. The Earl of Kent, Lord Chamberlain of Her Majeſty's Houſhold, and the Right Honourable the Vice-Chamberlain, attending near Her Majeſty's Perſon. The Earl of Arran, Captain of the Guard, and the Duke of St. Albans, at the Head of the Band of the Gentlemen Penſioners, cloſed the Proceſſion.

The Nobility and others, where placed.

The Queen and his Royal Highneſs being entred into the Choir, ſeated themſelves in two armed Chairs, on a Throne erected at the Weſt End thereof, oppoſite to the Altar. Behind Her Majeſty were Stools for two of the Ladies of the Bedchamber, and the great Officers in waiting, attending Her Majeſty and his Royal Highneſs. The Peers and Privy-Councellors were placed on the North ſide of the Choir. The Ladies of the Bedchamber, in the Stalls on the South ſide; and the Maids of Honour, and Her Majeſty's Bedchamber Women, below them. The Peereſſes were placed at the Weſt end of the middle Gallery: And the Foreign Miniſters, with their Ladies, filled the Places prepared for them in the middle Gallery, on the ſame ſide with the Peers. At the Eaſt end of that Gallery, were ſeated the Lord Maior, Aldermen, and Sheriffs Ladies. And at the Eaſt end of the South ſide, the Lord Maior and Aldermen. The reſt of the Galleries were filled by the Ladies, and other Perſons of Quality, that attended this Solemnity. The Dean and Prebendaries ſat within the Rails of the Altar, except ſuch as officiated in reading the Prayers. The Reverend Dr. Willis, Dean of Lincoln, preached. The Hymn Te Deum, with other Anthems, were performed by Her Majeſty's Choir and Muſick.

On the 26th of June, 1706. the ſaid Queen Anne came in the like State to St. Paul's, on the publick Thankſgiving for a Third great Victory obtained againſt the French King at Ramellies in Brabant, and the Succeſſes in Spain: Dr. Stanhope, Dean of Canterbury, preaching before her.

Again, Decemb. 31. 1706. being a General Thankſgiving for the Succeſſes of the laſt Campaign, under Her Majeſty's great General the Prince and Duke of Marlborough; the Queen went to St. Paul's Cathedral, attended by both Houſes of Parliament, the great Officers of State, the Judges, and other publick Officers. She came in Her Coach of State, drawn by Eight Horſes; in which were alſo the Dutcheſs of Marlborough, Groom of the Stole, and the Lady Fretcheville, the Lady of the Bedchamber in waiting. The Lord Biſhop of Salisbury preached. Her Majeſty was received at Her entrance into the Church, by the Peers. The Sword of State was carried before Her Majeſty by the Duke of Marlborough. The great Guns of the Tower, and thoſe of St. James's Park, were thrice diſcharged, the firſt time, when Her Majeſty parted from St. James's; the ſecond at the ſinging of Te Deum; and the third, when Her Majeſty came back to Her Palace.

The Queen comes to St. Pauls on the Thankſgiving for the Union.

Again, on Thurſday, May the 1ſt, 1707. being a Day of publick Thankſgiving appointed for the UNION of both Kingdoms, the Queen came to St. Paul's, attended by a great number of Engliſh and Scotch Nobility. She was led up to the Choir by the Earl of Kent, Lord Chamberlain of the Houſhold; and the Earl of Seafield carried the Sword before Her. The Lord Biſhop of Oxford preached. And the Foreign Miniſters were invited to the Solemnity.

In the Year 1708. Two publick Mercies brought the Queen again to this Place on the 19th of Auguſt, ſolemnly to thank God for the Deliverance from the French King's intended Invaſion of the North Part of Great Britain; aud for the Victory obtained againſt him near Audenard in Flanders. Dr. Fleetwood, Biſhop of St. Aſaph, then preaching before Her.

Commiſſions for building St. Pauls.

In the Times of Uſurpation St. Pauls was prophaned, and left in a miſerable ruinous Condition. But when Monarchy and the antient Government in the Church, as well as State, was reſtored, King Charles II. iſſued out a Commiſſion April the 18th, 1663. in the 15th of his Reign, for the Repair of this Church, and for the reſtoring of the ſame unto the antient Beauty and Glory of it; which had ſo much ſuffered by the Iniquity of the late Times, that the Repair thereof was become a Work of Neceſſity to be undertaken. St. Paul's, in this Commiſſion, is called, 'The goodlieſt Monument, and moſt eminent Church of the King's whole Dominions, and a principal Ornament of our Royal City, the Imperial Seat and Chamber of this our Kingdom: Whither, by reaſon of the near Reſidence of Our Self, and the chief and principal Officers of our State, and Courts of Juſtice, there is continual Confluence both of our own Subjects, and Ambaſſadors from Forein Parts, and other Strangers.'

Another Commiſſion from King Charles II. after the great Fire, for the rebuilding of it, was dated November the 12th, 1673.

Another Commiſſion for the ſaid Purpoſe, was iſſued from King James II. dated Jan. 22. the 1ſt of his Reign.

Another Commiſſion iſſued for the rebuilding of this Cathedral, after the ruin of it by the ſaid Fire, from King William and Queen Mary; bore date the 3d of June, the 4th of their Reign.]

Pater noſter Row.

Without the North Gate of Paul's Church, from the end of the Old Exchange, Weſt up Pater noſter Row, by the two Lanes out of Paul's Church, the firſt out of the Croſs Ile of Pauls, the other out of the Body of the Church, about the midſt thereof, and ſo Weſt to the Golden Lion, be all of this Ward, as is aforeſaid. The Houſes in this Street, from the firſt North Gate of Paul's Churchyard, unto the next Gate, were firſt builded without the Wall of the Churchyard, by Henry Walleis, Maior, in the Year 1282. The Rents of thoſe Houſes go to the maintenance of London Bridge.

Rents of London Bridge.

This Street is now called Pater noſter Row, becauſe of Stationers or Text-writers, that dwelled there; who wrote and ſold all ſorts of Books then in uſe, namely, A, B C, or Abſies, with the Pater noſter, Ave, Creed, Graces, &c.

Pater-noſter-makers.

There dwelled alſo Turners of Beads, and they were called Pater-noſter-makers; as I read in a Record, of one Robert Nikke, Pater-noſter-maker, and Citizen, in the Reign of Henry IV. and ſo of others.

Ave Mary lane.

At the end of this Pater noſter Row, is Ave Mary Lane, ſo called upon the like occaſion of Text-writers and Bead-makers then dwelling there.

Creed lane.

Amen lane.

And at the end of that Lane is likewiſe Creed Lane, late ſo called; but ſometime Spurrier Row, of Spurriers dwelling there. And Amen Lane is added thereunto, betwixt the South end of Warwick Lane, and the North end of Ave Mary Lane.

Duke of Britain's Houſe, ſince Pembrook's Inn; then Burgaveny Houſe, and now Stationers Hall.

At the North end of Ave Mary lane, is one great Houſe, builded of Stone and Timber, of old time pertaining to John Duke of Britain, Earl of Richmond, as appeareth by the Records of Edward II. Since that, it was called Pembrook's Inn, near unto Ludgate; as belonging to the Earls of Pembrook, in the time of Richard II. the 18th Year; and of Henry VI. in the 14th Year. It was after called Burgaveny Houſe, and belonged to Henry late Lord of Burgaveny.

But the Worſhipful Company of Stationers, have, (ſince then) purchaſed it, and made it the Hall for the meeting of their Society; converting the Stone-work into a new fair Frame of Timber: and applying it to ſuch ſerviceable Uſe, as themſelves have thought convenient.

Bowyer Row.

Betwixt the South end of Ave Mary lane, and the North end of Creed lane, is the coming out of Paul's Churchyard, on the Eaſt, and the High ſtreet on the Weſt, towards Ludgate; and this was called Bowyer Row, of Bowyers dwelling there in old time; now worn out by Mercers, and others.

Where the Folkmote Court was held; and the Bell-houſe. J. S.

This Weſt part adjoining to St. Paul's Church, as alſo the Eaſt part oppoſite to it, belonged to the City for publick Uſes. But the Church had afterwards appropriated and incloſed them both, either as Churchyard, or Sanctuary. The Soil of the Eaſt part, was the Place of the Folkmote, and the Bell-houſe; where a Bell was rung, when they were to be called together to the ſaid antient Court of Folkmote. On this Weſt part of the Church, the Citizens had occaſionally other Aſſemblies, to ſhew their Arms. Hence we find Complaints made to the King's Juſtices, in the Reign of Edward I. of theſe Purpreſtures; viz.

Purpreſtures. In Bag. Quo Warranto in the Excheq.

'The Ward of Caſtle Baynard preſent, That the Dean and Chapter of the Church of Pauls, now for ten Years paſt, have appropriated to themſelves, and the Church, a certain Place of Land of the King's Soil. In which Place, the Maior and Commonalty of the City, ought, and are wont to hold their Court, which is called Folkmote. And alſo another Place, where, for keeping the Peace of our Lord the King, they ought to make ſhew of their Arms. Which ſaid Place, the ſaid Dean and Chapter have incloſed to themſelves, by a Mud Wall: And alſo have been the Cauſes of building Houſes in the ſame Place. And contain in length 30 Foot, and in breadth 20 Foot, in ſome Place, and in ſome other Place 15 Foot; and where it is leaſt, 8 Foot. And Maſter William de Bray, now holdeth that Houſe.

And again, Hamon de Chigwel, Maior of the City of London, and Commonalty of the ſame, come and ſay, 'That the foreſaid Places in which it is preſented, that the foreſaid Purpreſtures are made, are the King's Soil, belonging to the City; and not Sanctuary, nor of the Precinct of the Sanctuary, nor of the ‘ Churchyard of the foreſaid Church of St. Paul. For they ſay, that the whole Place of the Land, on the Eaſt part of the ſaid Church, where now of new they are buried, and where the great Campanile (Bell-houſe or Steeple) of the ſaid Church is ſituated, is the Soil and Lay Fee of the King. And that the Citizens of the City have accuſtomed to hold there, from antient time, their Court called Folkmote; and to enter the ſaid Bell-houſe, to ring the great Bell. By the ringing and ſound of which, the ſaid City ought, or are wont to be ſummoned; and to meet together at the Court aforeſaid of Folkmote.

‘ And they ſay, that all the other Place of Ground on the Weſt part of the Church, in like manner is the Soil and Lay-Fee of our Lord the King, belonging to the City aforeſaid. And that in the ſame, the Citizens ought, and are accuſtomed to make their Aſſembly, together with the Lord of Bainard Caſtle, to make a view of their Armours, for the defence of the ſaid City, as often as the Citizens ſhall ſee expedient.]

The Pariſh Church of St. MARTIN Ludgate.

St. Martins by Ludgate.

In this Street, on the North ſide, is the Pariſh Church of St. Martin, a proper Church, and lately new builded. For in the Year 1437. John Michael, Maior, and the Communalty granted to William Downes, Parſon of St. Martins at Ludgate, a parcel of Ground, containing in length 28 Foot, and in breadth 24 Foot, to ſet and build their Steeple upon, &c.

Repaired. R.

This Church was repaired and beautified at the Coſt and Charge of the Pariſh, in the Year of our Lord God 1623.

Rebuilt. J. S.

This Church was rebuilt after the great Fire, which conſumed it. It is furniſhed with an Organ.

Ludgate Priſon to pay Tithes. R.

In this Pariſh ſtandeth the Priſon of Ludgate. Between which Priſon, and the Miniſter of St. Martins, formerly happened a Conteſt concerning payment of Tiths. Which was adjudged by the Common Counſel, March the 21ſt, in the 2d Year of Queen Elizabeth; namely, that Ludgate Priſon ſhould pay Tithes, Clerks Wages, and Church Duties, to St. Martin's Church within Ludgate. Whether the Contention were concerning Tithing to that Pariſh, or Exemption from paying Tithes to any, I know not.] Priſoners of Ludgate. J. S.

Formerly Debtors that were not able to ſatisfy their Debts, put themſelves into this Priſon of Ludgate, for ſhelter from their Creditors. And theſe were Merchants and Tradeſmen, that had been driven to want by Loſſes at Sea. When King Philip, in the Month of Auguſt, 1554. came firſt through London, theſe Priſoners were Thirty in number; and owed 10000 l. but compounded for 2000 l. Who preſented a well penned Latin Speech to that Prince, to redreſs their Miſeries, and by his Royal Generoſity to free them. ‘ And the rather, for that that Place was not Sceleratorum Carcer, ſed miſerorum Cuſtodia: i. e. a Goal for Villains, but a Place of Reſtraint for poor unfortunate Men. And that they were put in there, not by others, but themſelves fled thither; and that not out of fear of Puniſhment, but in hope of better Fortune.’ The whole Letter was drawn by the curious Pen of Roger Aſcham, and is extant among his Epiſtles, Lib. 3.

No Irons for the Priſoners here.

If a Freeman or Freewoman of London be committed to Ludgate, they are to be excuſed from the Ignominy of Irons, if they can find Sureties to be true Priſoners, and if the Sum be not above 100 l. There is another Cuſtom for the liberal and mild Impriſonment of the Citizens in Ludgate; whereby they have Indulgence and Favour to go abroad into any Place, by Baſton, as we term it, under the guard and ſuperintendency of their Keeper; with whom they muſt return again to the Priſon, at Night.

Brief Diſcourſe of the Cuſtom of Lond. Anno 652.

This Cuſtom is not to hinder and delay Juſtice, nor to defraud Men of their Debts and Executions, (as it is quarrelled againſt by ſome) but ſerves for a mitigation of their Puniſhment; and tends rather for the expedition of their Diſcharge, and ſpeedy ſatisfaction of their Creditors. While they may go and inform themſelves, upon their mutual Reckonings, both what they owe, and what is due unto them.] Here follows

Chapter Houſe. J. S. Convocation.

On the North ſide of Pauls Churchyard, is a fair Houſe, called The Chapter Houſe, belonging to St. Pauls. And here the Convocation of the Province of Canterbury uſeth to ſit, to conſult about Eccleſiaſtical Matters, and to frame Canons, for the better and more orderly Government and Peace of the Church. The Clergy whereof conſiſting of an Upper and Lower Houſe, are called by the King's Writ, whenſoever the Parliament ſits; and are prorogued and diſmiſſed by his Authority. Thus Anno 1718. after a Prorogation of this Synod, by Authority of the King's Writ and Licence, 'Full, free and lawful Power, was given to the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and the reſt of the Biſhops of the Province, or the greater number of them; and the reſt of the Clergy of this preſent Convocation, (that is the Lower Houſe) or the greater number of them, from time to time, during this preſent Parliament, to propoſe, confer, treat, debate, conſult, and agree of, and upon ſuch Canons, &c. as they ſhall think neceſſary, fit and convenient, for the Honour and Service of God, the Good and Quiet of the Church, and the Government thereof, as by Law eſtabliſhed. And farther, they are authorized, to ſet down in Writing, and exhibit to the King, all ſuch Canons and Things, ſo by them, from time to time, agreed upon. Provided always, that they be not contrary, nor tend to make any Alteration in the Doctrine, Diſcipline, or Government of the Church of England, as eſtabliſhed, by any Act of Parliament now in Force.]

The Pariſh of St. ANNE, Black Friers.

The Black Friers.

On the South ſide of Ludgate Street, is the turning into the Black Friers. Which Order (ſometime) had their Houſe in Old-borne, where they remained for the ſpace of Fifty five Years. And then, in the Year 1276. Gregory Rockſley, Maior, and the Barons of this City, granted and gave to Robert Kilwarby, Archbiſhop of Canterbury, two Lanes or Ways next the Street of Baynards Caſtle; and alſo the Tower of Mountfichit, to be deſtroyed: In place of which, the ſaid Robert builded the late new Church of the Black Friers, and placed them therein. King Edward I. and Eleanor his Wife, were great Benefactors thereunto*. This was a large Church, and richly furniſhed with Ornaments; wherein divers Parliaments, and other great Meetings, have been holden. Namely, in the Year 1450. the 28th of Henry VI. a Parliament was begun at Weſtminſter, and adjourned to the Black Friers in London, and from thence to Leiceſter.

Maior and Barons of this City.

* Nay the reputed Founders.

In the Year 1522. the Emperor Charles V. was lodged there.

In the Year 1524. the 15th of April, a Parliament was begun at the Black Friers, wherein was demanded a Subſidy of 800000 l. to be raiſed of Goods and Lands, 4*s.* in every Pound; and in the end was granted 2 s. of the Pound, of their Goods and Lands, that were worth 20 Pounds, or might diſpend 20 Pound by the Year; and ſo upward, to be paid in two Years

This Parliament was adjourned to Weſtminſter, amongſt the black Monks, and ended in the King's Palace there, the 14th of Auguſt, at Nine of the Clock in the Night; and was therefore called the Black Parliament.

Parliament at the Black Friers, called the Black Parliament.

In the Year 1529. Cardinal Campeius, the Legate, with Cardinal Woolſey, ſate at the ſaid Black Friers; where, before them, as Legates and Judges, was brought in queſtion the King's Marriage with Queen Katharine, as to be unlawful; before whom the King and Queen were cited and ſummoned to appear, &c. whereof more at large in my Annals I have touched.

Campeius and Wolſey, Cardinals, ſit here.

The ſame Year, in the Month of October, began a Parliament in the Black Friers; in the which, Cardinal Woolſey was condemned in the Premunire.

This Houſe, valued at 104 l. 15 s. 5 d. was ſurrendered the 12th of November, the 30th of Henry VIII.

King Edward VI. in the 4th of his Reign, of his ſpecial Favour, granted to Sir Thomas Cawarden, Kt. the whole Houſe, Scite or Circuit, Compaſs and Precinct, of the late Friar Preachers within the City of London; and divers other Lands and Tenements in London. The Patent dated March the 12th; the yearly Value being reckoned at 19 l. But the Hall and the Scite of the Priors Lodgings, within the Precinct of Black Friars, was ſold in the 1ſt of King Edward VI. to Sir Francis Brian, Kt. being valued at 40 s. per Ann.

The Scite and Houſe of Black Friers, granted to Cawarden. Book of Sales. J. S.

In this Houſe of the Friar Preachers of London, the antient Kings of this Land had their Records and Charters kept, as well as at the Tower of London, and other Caſtles in England; as appears by this Patent following, of the 16th of Edward II.

The Records kept here.

In Queen Elizabeth's Time, this Black Friars was much inhabited by Noblemen and Gentlemen, as before: For the ſpaciouſneſs of it, Parliaments often ſat there, and Noble Perſonages were there harboured.

Black Friers inhabited by Perſons of Quality.

In the Year 1586. the City and the Owners of Black and White Friars in London, had a great Conteſt. The Cauſe was tried before the Lords Chief Juſtices. The City claimed the Liberties of both theſe Friers, upon ſuch Arguments as theſe, which their Counſil urged. That the Precinct of the ſaid Friers were in London; and therefore claimed the like Liberty in them, as in the reſt of the City. And that divers Felons, for Felonies within the two Precincts, were in the Friers times Indicted, Arraigned and Tried in London. They claimed now to have from her Majeſty all Waifes, Strays, Felons Goods, Amerciaments, Eſcheats, &c. the Execution of all Proceſſes, the Expulſion of all Foreigners; the Aſſize of Bread, Beer, Ale and Wine; the Wardmote Queſt, and ſuch other Juriſdictions as they had within the reſt of the City. But the Counſil againſt the City, anſwered theſe Allegations; and produced ſome other Proofs for the better Confirmation of the ſaid Liberties. They denied not the Friers to be in London, but they affirmed them to be not of London; no more than St. Martins le Grand, Creechurch, St. Bartholomews, &c.

An Abſtract of the Pretences on both Sides.

But to underſtand the Pretences on both Sides, as they were pleaded by the Counſil of each, take this authentick Abſtract, drawn by the Council, on the behalf of the Liberties of the Friers.

An ABSTRACT of the Matters ſhewed before the Lord Chief Juſtices, by the Counſel of the City; whereby they claim the Liberties of the Black and White Friers. With the Anſwer of our Counſel to their Allegations, and ſome other Proofs found ſince, for the better Confirmation of the ſaid Liberties.

‘SOme Preſidents they ſhewed, that the Precincts of the ſaid Black and White Friers were in London; and therefore they claimed the like Liberties in them, as in the reſt of the City.

‘Wee denie not the Friers to be in London; but we do affirme they be not of London; no more than St. Martins le Grand, Cree Church, St. Bartholomews, St. Ellens, Paul's Church-yard, where the Preaching Place ys, Saliſburie Court, the Great Wardrobe, Sir Thomas Heneage's Houſe in Bevis Marks, and divers other Places in London. In all which Places, the Citizens of London, while the Houſes of Religion were in being, nor ſince, had not, nor uſed, any ſuch Liberties or Juriſdiction, as they do in the reſt of the Citie.

‘It was alſo ſhewed by ſome of their Precedents, that divers Felons, for Felonies within the ſaid two Precincts, were, in the Friers Time, Indyted, Arrayned, and Tryed in London.

‘It myght be, that they were apprehended in London, with the Things ſtolen abowte theim; (the contrarie whereof was not ſhewed) and then ought they to be Arraigned within the Citie. Beſides, the ſame Felons were Arreigned by the King's ſpecial Commiſſion, Ad inquirendum, &c. tam infra Libertates, quàm extra, infra Civitat. London. & Com. Middleſex. And ſo the Immunitie of the ſaid Precincts thereby not impeached.

‘The Citizens claim now to have from Her Majeſtie, all Waifes, Strayes, Felons Goods, Amerciaments, Eſcheats, &c. The Execution of all Proceſſes, the Expulſion of all Foreiners, the Aſſize of Bread, Beere, Ale and Wyne, the Wardmote Queſt, and ſuch other Juriſdictions, as they have within the reſt of the Citie.

‘For theſe Matters there were no Precedents ſhewed, nor no ſufficient Proof made. Wherefore we are humbly to beſeech your Honours, that the Citizens of London may be enjoyned to ſhew auntient Precedents, to prove, that in the Friers Time they did execute the ſaid pretenzed Juriſdiction, for the Execution of Proceſſes; and had Waifes, Straies, Felons, Fugitives, and Out-lawed Mens Goods; and other Things claimed by them in generalitie. And that they may deliver unto your Honours, true Copies of the ſaid Precedents. And that the Learned Counſell of the ſaid Inhabitantes, may have a ſight of the Records and the ſaid Precedentes, with the Matters Precedent, and ſubſequent. Whereto they will aunſwer ſufficientlie in Writing, for preſervation of Her Majeſty's Title in, and to the Premiſſes; enjoyed by her Highneſs, and Her Majeſty's Progenitors, by the ſpace of Forty Years, and more, againſt the Citizens of London; by force of the Act of Parliament, made An. 31. H. VIII. Which gave to his Grace the ſame Precincts, in the ſame Plight, Manner and Forme, and as amplie and largelie, as the Friers enjoyed the ſame. Which then were exempt from the Juriſdiction of London. And being now inveſted in her Royal Majeſty, cannot be taken away without Graunt from her Self. But allowing their chief Objection, which hath not been proved, that the Precincts aforeſaid, were parcel of the Citie, before the Foundation of the ſame; yet after, and at the tyme of the ſtanding of the ſame Howſes, the ſaid Precincts were exempt Places, from the Juriſdictions of the Citizens. And moſt of the Tenants within the Precincts, were at that tyme inhabited by Foreigners, that kept open Shops in the ſame. And the ſaid Precincts were, and be ſtill nightelie ſhut with Gates from the Citie: So that the Watch of the City could not enter into the ſame. Which would not have been ſuffered, yf the Citizens of London had any ſuch Juriſdiction, as they now pretend. Her Majeſty may looſe 10000 l. in a Day, by Lands within the ſaid Precincts, which may eſcheat to her. Which yf the Citie will have, it is Reaſon the Citie ſhould give her Majeſty a good Fyne for it. Beſide, yf London ſhould at any tyme rebell, her Majeſty ſhould looſe two Places of Strength, to beſtow her Force in their own Boſome, to annoy theim: which now by Walls ys ſhut from theim; and ſhe hath, by keeping the Liberties. They pretend to wyn Favour to their Cawſe, that they ſeek the Liberties onelie for Reformation of Diſorders, where Gaine ys the Mark they ſhoot at.

‘But the Black Friers, for good Order of Government, may be a Lanthorne to al the Citie, as ſhall be plainlie proved. And is now inhabited by Noblemen and Gentlemen.

‘The Burthen ys great alreadie of the Government of the Citie, born by ſuch as for the moſt part are unlearned; as their late hard dealing with Bedlam, and many other Examples, may declare. And therefore we pray moſt humblie your Lordſhips, that they may not be further troubled with us. Submitting our ſelves moſt willinglie to be reformed and ordered by your Honours Diſcretion, as moſt upright Judges, free from Affection and Partialitie. And in reſpect, that when the Howſes were diſſolved, the Records of them were loſt and imbeſiled; which ‘ſhould give light to our Intereſt. If yt ſhall pleaſe your Honours to appoint ſome of your Counſell to ſee their Records, we dowbt not to fynd Matter out of their own Graunts, to preſerve our Title, and overthrow their injurious Claime.

‘1. Robert Kilwerbie, Cardinal, ſurrendered unto King Edward I. the Scite of Baynards Caſtle in London. Whereupon the ſaid Edward, did graunt the Graunt of the ſame to the Friers Preachers, to build the Church there, &c. and alſo graunted it in liberam & puram Eleemoſynam.

‘2. The Black Friers founded the 7th of Edward I.

‘3. Thomas de Buſtings, of London, ſurrendered unto King Edward I. a Meſſuage next to Baynards Caſtle; the which the ſaid King Edward graunted to the Prior, to the enlargeing of the ſaid Baynards Caſtle; to hold of the ſaid King Edward and his Heirs.

‘4. King Edward I. did graunt to the Friers Preachers, that they might bring their Conduit Water thorowe Smythefield, unto their Howſe at Baynards Caſtle.

‘5. King Edward I. did graunt unto the Prior, all the Tenements, &c. with Howſes theron built, that came unto him by the Surrendour of Will. Dale, to the enlarging of their Howſes.

‘6. King Edward I. did graunt unto the Prior, that he ſhould hold all the Tenements within the Precincts, bounding to the ſame, to him and to his Succeſſors.

‘7. King Edward II. did graunt unto the Prior, a Meſſuage, called Okeborne, in the Ward of Baynards Caſtle, to the enlarging of their Howſe; with a Confirmation of all the former Grants unto them. And further graunting unto the Prior and Covent, that they and their Succeſſors, ſhould be diſcharged of Tenths, Fifteenths, Subſidies, Quota's, Tallages, or other Burthens whatſoever, graunted, or to be graunted to the Clergie, or Commons, &c.

‘8. An Exemplification of an Indenture made in French, between the Maior of London, and the Prior, in Henry III. his time.

‘9. The ſame incorporated by Parliament, in the 5th of Henry VI.

‘10. In 1484. Jhon Alford, of the Black Friers, was Executed for Felonie. Whoſe Goods the Sheriff of London would have had. But the Prior anſwered the ſame to the Lord of S. Jones, of whom the Scite was holden; and who did make the Bridge at the Thames.

‘11. In the 22d of Hen. VIII. ten Sergeants would have ſerved a Writ on ſix Prieſts in the Black Friers, and were reſiſted.

‘12. The Prior was by Law conſtrained to pave the Streets without the Wall, joyning to the Precinct. Whereupon a Cage being ſet up by the Citie, he pulled it down: Saying, That ſince the Citie forced me to pave the Place, they ſhall ſet no Cage there, on his Ground.

‘13. Sir John Portynarie, reported in his Life, that immediatlie after the Diſſolution, the Maior pretended a Title to the Liberties. But King Henry VIII. informed thereof, ſent to him to deſiſt from meddling with the Liberties: Saying, He was as well hable to keep the Liberties, as the Friers were. And ſo the Maior no further meddled; and Sir John Portynarie had the Keyes of the Gates delivered to him, and a Fee for keeping the ſame.

‘14. The Maior's Officers arreſted no Perſon within the Precinct, in the Friers Tyme.

‘15. The fowre Gates, encloſing the Precinct with Walls, were in the Friers Tyme, and ſithence, to this preſent, kept ſhut from the Citie by a Porter.

‘16. Malefactors found within the Friers, were examyned by Sir Will. Kingſton, and others of the Precinct, and not otherwiſe.

‘17. The Precinct never entred by the Citie, nor Watch there kept.

‘18. Rogues, and ſuch like, puniſhed in the Prior's Stocks, at his Commaundment.

‘19. The Precinct inhabited by Artificers not free, uſing their Arts without Controlment.

‘20. Carpenters, Maſons, &c. have been fetched out of the Countrie, and worked there without Impeachment.

‘21. The Inhabitants never charged with any Impoſition to the Citie.

‘22. If any be ſlaine there, the Coroner of the Verge inquiered the Deodands: Which the Lord of S. Jhones have.

‘23. In King Edward VI. his Tyme, five Citizens committing a Riott within the Verge, within the Friers; were Indicted before Sir Nicolas Hare, then Juſtice of the ſame. And the Maior then calling a Seſſions, to inquire thereof in the Citie, was by two ſeveral Letters from the Council, inhibited to deal therein, to the infringing of the King's Liberties. Whereupon he deſiſted.

‘24. In Queen Maries Tyme, the Maior ſought the Liberties by Act of Parliament; but was rejected upon Argument, and not brought to the Queſtion.

‘25. The Felons Goods, Waifes, Bloodſheds, Fynes, Forfeitures, Amerciaments, and Eſchets, are ſtill due to Her Majeſty. Which ſhe ſhould looſe, yf the Citie enjoy the Liberties.

‘26. All Friers, and other Spiritual Precincts, were privileged from temporal Juriſdiction through the Realm, by divers Statutes of this Realme.

‘27. All Caſtles, privileged: And the Black Friers, was the Scite of Baynards Caſtle.

‘28. Divers Statutes, confirming the Liberties of Religious Howſes, eſpeciallie in the 28 Hen. VIII. ca. 16.

‘29. All Liberties of ſuppreſſed Howſes, veſted in the King, by the Statutes of 31 H. VIII. ca. 13. H. VIII. ca. 20.

‘30. Larger Liberties then is now claimed, allowed in King Edward II. his Tyme, to Robert Fitz-Waters, for the Black and White Friers. Which was ſince the Liberties graunted to the City.

‘31. The Black Friers were of the Fee of S. Jhones; and thereby greatlie privileged.

An antient Record at large, of their Liberties, will follow afterwards.

An Order made for Black Friers. An. 1497. Purchaſe Maior.

But yet it is certain the Citizens ſtruggled long with Black Friers, moved by the many Inconveniences they ſuffered by the pretended Freedom of the Place. Injuring ſuch as had ſerved their times to Trades, by being underſold by theſe Tradeſmen that here inhabited, and injuring Buyers by ſelling bad Commodities; whereof there was no remedy, no City Searchers, whether the Commodities made and ſold here were good, being admitted within the Liberties of the Friers. Here alſo, oftentimes, Harbour was given to Felons; and Malefactors took ſhelter here. So that an Order was moved and begun, Purchaſe Maior, about the Year 1497. for remedy of this. And no good coming of it, the Commons in a Common mon Council petitioned the Maior, Sir John Percival, the next Year, for incouraging the ſaid Order, and calling into queſtion ſuch as oppoſed it.

Which Petition ran in theſe Words:

Common Petition againſt Black Friers. Book of old Cuſt. F. 1. b.

Alſo, for the Reformacyon of the Myſchef growyng to the Cyte, by going to Fryars, pleaſe that my Lord Mayr, Aldirmen, and Common Counſayle to provyde, that the Ordre moved and begonne before M. Purchaſe, late Mayr, and other of his Predeceſſours, may be put in effecte. That ſuch Perſones which were dyffyculte agaynſt the ſaid Ordere, be callyd afore my Lorde Mayr and Aldyrmen, to be reformed by theyr wyſe Exhortacyons; under ſuche Fourme, as ſuch obſtynate Perſones be not noted above al other, as Brokers and Deſtroyers of the Common Wele. And yf the ſayd Perſones wyl not be conformable in thys partye to leve the Fryers, that then yt may pleaſe my Lorde Mayr and Aldyrmen to cal a Common Counſayle; and by theyr Autorite, to appoynte certayne Perſones, with the Counſayle, to ſue to the the Kyngys Grace for a Dyſpenſacyon of the Act of Parlament, late made to the contrarye.

Black Friers will not pay to the Muſters.

Among other Privileges Black Friers, and the other exempt Places claimed, one, among the reſt was, That they would not contribute to the Muſters, when the Militia was raiſed in the City; as it was in the Year 1585. Sir Tho. Pulliſon, Maior. Who was therefore fain to make a Complaint to the Court thereof: Praying, that by their Authority, Black Friers, and the other privileged Places, might alſo bear their Burthen in Muſters, as well as other Inhabitants of the City. Advertiſing the Lord Treaſurer, ‘That where the Black Friers, St. Martins, White Friers, and other exempt Places, were appointed to be contributory to this Charge, they refuſed to be taxed, and would not yield to pay any Thing; unleſs they had direction from the Lord Treaſurer, or other the Lords of Her Majeſty's Privy-Council, for the doing thereof. Wherefore, and for that the Service fell out to be of far greater Charge than was expected, he humbly beſought his Lordſhip's Order and Commandment to thoſe exempt Places, for Contribution.]

Black Friers one of the ſpacioueſt Churches. R.

The antient Church belonging to the Black Friers, London, was (before the diſſolution of Religious Houſes by King Henry VIII.) one of the moſt ſpacious and fair Churches in London. But the Friers being put out, the Church (together with other fair Buildings) was utterly demoliſhed. Therefore the Inhabitants of the ſaid Black Friers, London, fitted an upper Room, of fifty Foot in length, and thirty Foot in breadth, for a publick Place of Divine Worſhip. The Charges of purchaſing and fitting the ſaid Room for a Church, appeareth not in any Record that we can find.

Lands purchaſed of Sir George Moore, for the Church.

Anno 1597. when the Church was empty, and no Body in it, a great part of the Roof thereof fell down; whereupon, the then Inhabitants being about to repair their ſaid Church, obtained of Sir George Moore, Kt. ſo much Ground as inlarged their Church with an Ile on the Weſt, fifty Foot in length, and fifteen Foot in breadth. For which Ground, they built at their own Coſt, a fair Warehouſe under the ſaid Ile, for the uſe of Sir Jerome Bows, Kt. who then had the ſaid Ground in leaſe; and alſo gave him 133 l. The new building of their ſaid Church and Ile (beſide the foreſaid 133 l. given to Sir Jerom Bows) coſt 300 l. 18 s.

In June, 1607. the Inhabitants of the ſaid Black Friers paid 120 l. to Sir George Moore, for the Purchaſe of their Preachers Houſe, their Churchyard, their Church, and the Porch appertaining thereunto; together with the right of Patronage of, in, and to the ſaid Church.

Anno 1613. the Inhabitants of the ſaid Black Friers, purchaſed on the South of their Church, ſo much Houſing, as inlarged their Church aforeſaid Thirty ſix Foot in length, and Fifty four in breadth. The purchaſe whereof, together with the Vault for burying, and other Rooms under that part of the Church, and the new building of all, and making new Pews and Pulpit, coſt 1546 l. 6 s.

Anno 1632. the Inhabitants of the ſaid Black Friers, purchaſed the Rooms directly under the above mentioned upper Room converted to a Church; which ſaid under-Rooms, they purchaſed to repair the Foundation and Walls whereon the Church ſtood; which Walls were very much decayed. The Purchaſe whereof, and the Repair of Decays, coſt 500 l.

The Sum of all beſtowed upon Black Friers Church, ſince the Reformation of Religion in England, amounted to 2600 l. 4 s.]

Sir Thomas Par ſeems alſo to be buried here, according to his Will dated Novem. 9. the 9th of Henry VIII. bequeathing his Body to lie in Black Friers, London, if he chanced to die within twenty Miles thereof. He willed, that all his Lands that deſcended to him, as Heir to Sir William Par, his Father, ſhould remain to Maud his Wife, for her Jointure. He willed his Daughters, Katharine and Anne, to have 800 l. between them; except they proved to be his Heirs, or his Son's Heirs; and then they ſhould not. But willed the ſaid Monies to be laid out for Copes and Veſtments, to be given to the Houſe of Clervaux, &c. and 100 l. to be beſtowed upon the Chauntry of Kendal. He willed his Son William to have his great Chain, worth 140 l. which the King's Grace gave him. He made Maud his Wife, and Dr. Tunſtal, Maſter of the Rolls, his Executors. This Will was proved in the Year 1517. This Man was Father to Katharine Par, King Henry's laſt Wife. Sir Tho. Par.

Dame Maud Par, Widow to the abovenamed Sir Thomas, and Mother to Queen Katharine, by her Will bearing date May 20. the 21ſt of Hen. VIII. bequeathed her Body to be buried in this Church. In this Will ſhe mentioned her Son and Heir William Par; for whoſe Preferment, ſhe had indebted her ſelf, as ſhe ſaid, both to the King for his Marriage; and to the Earl of Eſſex, for the matching with the Lady Bourcher, Daughter and Heir apparent to the ſaid Earl. She mentioned alſo Anne her Daughter, and Katharine Borough her Daughter, and Sir William Par her Brother, and Thomas Pickring, Eſq; her Couſin, Steward of her Houſe. This Will was proved 1531. Decemb. 14.

Rog. de Swillington, Kt. willed (whoſe Will was proved 1417.) that the Friers Preachers at Ludgate, London, ſhould have 40 l. pro anniverſariis diebus annuatim tenend. of him the ſaid Roger, and Joan his Wife, for one time, when it happened, to pray for their Souls, and for *Rob. A Charity School in Black Friers.

Some few Years ago, an antient worthy Citizen and Merchant, yet living, founded a Free-School in Black Friers, in Gratitude to that Place where he was born, and out of a compaſſionate Senſe of the Numbers of poor People inhabiting there; for Forty Boys, and Thirty Girls, to be taught to read and write; and the Girls ſome uſeful Work beſides: All to be clothed once a Year, and two of them to be put out Apprentices yearly. He likewiſe endowed the ſaid School with 150 l. a Year, of Fee-Farm, and other Ground Rents; with ſufficient Salaries for the Teachers. And confiding in the Integrity of the City Clergy, ordained the Members of Sion College, in London, to be Truſtees of his ſaid Charity School. And in this Foundation, there being divers of the Occupation of Taylors inhabiting in Black Friers, he hath appointed the Children of ſuch to have the preference in their Admiſſion there. This brief Account of the ſaid School, I had from the Gentleman's own Mouth, but ſuffered me by no means to reveal his Name.

The Image of St. Eraſmus in this Church.

In this Church was an Image of St. Eraſmus, before which one Rich. Billeſden thought it, perhaps, ſome Benefit to his Soul to be buried. In whoſe laſt Will, made Febr. 16. 1492. he willed to be buried in the Body of the Chirch of the Freris Prechours of Lond. before the Image of St. Eraſmus, that on the North ſide of the Chirch, as nigh unto the Wall there as may be, &c.

And Thomas Aquinus.

Here was alſo the Image of St. Thomas Aquinus. Before which, Elizabeth Denton, Widow, willed (her Will bearing date April 26. 1518.) to be buried. And ſhe bequeathed (for this Privilege) to the Prior 20 s. to the Sub-prior 10 s. to Frier Simond 20 s. to Frier De la Hay, 10 s. to every other Frier of the ſaid Place, that is a Prieſt, and ſhall be within the ſaid Place at the time of my burying, 2 s. To every of the Novices of the ſame Place 12 d. To the intent that the ſame Prior, &c. ſhall pray for the Soul of my late Husband, my Soul, and all Chriſten Souls.

Pariſh Church of St. Anne new builded in the Black Friers.

This Pariſh Church of St. Anne, within the Precinct of the Black Friers, was pulled down with the Friers Church, by Sir Thomas Cardin, alias Carden. But in the Reign of Queen Mary, he being forced to find a Church to the Inhabitants, allowed them a lodging Chamber above a Stair; which ſince that time, to wit, in the Year 1597. fell down, (as was ſhewn before;) and was again (by collection thereof made) new builded and enlarged in the ſame Year; and was dedicated on the 11th of December.

A. M.

Here I thought good to inſert the Copy of an antient Record, concerning the Privileges and Liberties (in elder times) granted to the ſaid Black Friers; which happened to my Hands by friendly Information, and the Original thereof brought me, as here Verbatim it followeth.

Notes and Articles for maintenance of the antient Liberties and Privileges of the late diſſolved Black Friers, near Ludgate, in London.

John Alforde executed at Tyburne.

‘ 1. FIrſt, It appeareth, that on the 25th Day of Novem. 1484. John Alforde, Shoemaker, dwelling within the Black Friers in London, was apprehended and put to death at Tyborn, for Felony; Thomas Newland, alias Norland, and William Martin, then being Sheriffs of London; who ſought to have had the Goods of the ſaid Felon. But the Prior of the ſaid Black Friers withſtood them, and poſſeſſed the ſame Goods to the uſe of the Lord of St. Johns, of whom the ſame Friers was then holden.

The Bridge at the Black Friers.

‘ 2. Item, The Lord of St. Johns hath uſually made the Bridge at the Thames, adjoining to the ſaid Friers, and not the City of London, &c.

Incorporating of the Prior and Covent.

‘ 3. Item, the Prior and Covent were incorporated by Act of Parliament, in the Time of King Henry VI. whereby they might preſcribe, and did always uſe and keep the Liberty inviolately, and cleerly exempted from the Citizens.

No Arreſt within the Friers Precinct.

‘ 4. Item, The Precinct hath always been of ſuch Liberties, as that no Man hath been Arreſted within the ſame, by any of the Sheriffs Officers. And if at any time, any Officer of the City hath taken upon him to execute within the four Gates, he was reſcued by the Friers and Inhabitants of Antiquity.

Forreigners traded in the Precinct freely.

‘ 5. Item, At all times there hath dwelt within the Precinct, divers and many Perſons, not free; and yet they have uſed their Occupations there, without controlment of the City and Citizens.

Craftſmen come out of the Countries.

‘ 6. Item, always at ſundry times (of long continuance) divers and many Carpenters, Maſons, and ſuch like, have been ſent out of the Country, and have wrought within the Precinct aforeſaid: Which is not ſufferable within the Liberties of the City, by their own Cuſtoms and Ordinances.

The inquiry after the Death of any one ſlain, by the Coroner of the Verge.

‘ 7. Item, Upon the view of any Perſon ſlain, the Coroner of the Verge did always make enquiry thereof. And the Deodand is due to the Lord of St. Johns, and not to the City. But now to the Queen's Highneſs due by Law, Equity, and good Conſcience; whoſe Right and lawful Title, the Owners and Inhabitants of the ſaid exempted Place and Precinct, do ſeek with their Bodies and Goods to defend and maintain, againſt all pretended Title and Claim of the Citizens. Notwithſtanding divers of the ſaid Precinct and Liberty, have been greatly vexed and troubled with often Impriſonments within the Compters of the City.

Freedom from watching, warding, &c.

‘ 8. Item, The Inhabitants within the ſaid Precinct, were never charged to watch or ward, or to be within the compaſs of any Impoſition; ſuch as the Citizens are uſed and accuſtomed unto by their Laws.

A Riot committed in the Black Friers.

‘ 9. Item, In the Time of King Edward VI. Sir Andrew Jude then being Maior, there was a Riot committed in the Black Friers, in the Houſe of one Maſter Lucas; by one Crouchman of the City, and other Perſons with him. The force whereof was ſoon overſwayed by Sir Thomas Saunders, and Sir Henry Jerningham, Knights, Mr. William Moore, Eſq; with other Gentlemen inhabiting in the ſaid Friers, and the Parties by purſuit, were twice Indighted in the Marſhalſea Court holden in Southwark. Sir Nicolas Hare then being Steward, and ſitting at the doing thereof. After which time, the ſaid Crouchman (with other Confederates with him) ſought to indight the ſaid Gentleman, by an eſpecial Seſſions in the ſaid City. For ſtay whereof, the Lords of the King's Privy Council, underſtanding the lewd Practices of the ſaid Crouchman, and others, and that the Lord Maior had nothing to do within the Precinct; wrote their Letters unto the ſaid Sir Andrew Jude, then Maior, willing him not to diſturb the ſaid Gentleman for the ſaid Fact, to the infringing of the Liberties of the ſaid Friers. The ſaid Sir Thomas Saunders, and Maſter William Moore, being Bearers of the ſaid Letters to the ſaid Lord Maior. Who upon deliberation, made Anſwer to the ſaid Bearers by Word of Mouth, That foraſmuch as there was a Complaint made to him, of a Riot committed within the City, he muſt needs, (within one Month after) inquire by Seſſions of the ſame; which, he ſaid, could not be prejudicial to them, being out of the Juriſdiction of the City: For that the ſame ſhould be Non coram Judice, and yet they diſcharged of the peril of the Statute. And ſo they proceeded with the ſaid Letters. Whereupon, the ſaid Sir Thomas, and Maſter William Moore, making report of their Succeſs with the Maior, to the Lords of the Council; they wrote eftſoones other Letters to the ſaid Maior, but of ſuch force touching the Premiſſes, which were alſo carried by the ſaid Sir Thomas, and Mr. Moore. Whereupon, the ſaid Maior ſtayed from any further proceeding therein, or any other, &c.

Letters from the Council to the Lord Maior.

A Bill put into the Parliament Houſe.

‘ 10. Item, In Queen Mary her Time, the Counſel of the City put a Bill into the Parliament Houſe, ſeeking by the ſame to have the Liberties of the ſaid Friers: Which Bill, with all their Surmiſes, were ſo utterly rejected, that their Bill never came to the Queſtion; but was ſo ſuppreſſed, by Argument openly in the ſame Houſe.

Cawarden's Letters Patents.

‘ 11. Item, The Liberties granted to Maſter Cawarden, by Letters Patents of K. Edw. VI. the Goods of Felons therein not granted, and ſo due to the Queen's Majeſty. Whoſe Right and Title the City hath not had, nor can be ſuffered to enjoy, according to their ſeeking; by the only reſiſtance of the ſaid Owners and Inhabitants within the Liberty and Precinct, clearly exempted from the City, by Metes and Bounds on every ſide.

‘ 12. Item,

Walls and Gates belonging to the Precinct.

‘ 12. Item, The ſaid Precinct hath always been ſhut up and kept by Walls and Gates. So as there was no egreſſe that way, but by licence of the Porters, who were maintained and placed by the Owners of the ſaid Friers, and Liberties of the ſame; by eſpecial and general Words, granted by Letters Patents under the great Seal of England; to divers Owners and Freeholders there of the Queen's Majeſty. And in eſpecial, above all other, to Sir Thomas Cawarden, Kt. deceaſed, in his Letters Patents dated the 12th day of May, in the 4th Year of King Edward VI. in as large, ample and full manner, and with as many pithy and effectual Words, as ever was read or ſeen in any Patent, made for grant of Liberties of any Place exempted, as by the ſame Patent more largely appeareth. The true Copy whereof is annexed to theſe Articles, by the delivery of Maſter Moore, true Owner of the moſt part of the ſaid Liberties.

The Curate of St. Peters in Cornhil, his Affirmation.

‘ 13. Item, That James Norrice, Curate of St. Peters in Cornhill, being ſometime one of the Friers, and Brethren of the Black Friers aforeſaid, near Ludgate, in London, ſaith and affirmeth, That one Robert Struddell, late Prior of the ſaid Friers, was by order of Law, conſtrained to pave the high Street adjoining round about the Channel Walls, from the Flower de Lize, towards the Hill at Creed lane end. And a Cage at that time ſtanding on that ſide the Street, adjoining to the foreſaid Wall, within the Pariſh of St. Andrew; which Cage was plucked down by the ſaid Prior, and not ſince ſet up again; the Prior aforeſaid ſaying: Seeing they of the City cauſe me to pave all this ſide of the Street next my Wall; they ſhall have no Cage of others ſtanding on my Ground, againſt mine own Wall. And ſo the City never builded Cage on that ſide after.

The Liberties of the Precinct in the Prior's Days.

‘ 14. Item, Moreover, the ſaid Maſter Norrice ſaith, That the Liberties of the Black Friers in the ſaid Prior's Days, were ſuch, that the Lord Maior of the City of London, nor the Sheriffs, did Arreſt any Man within the ſaid Liberty for any Thing, as free, as he well remembreth, in all his time.

Four Gates belonging to the Friers and Porters.

‘ 15. Item, He remembreth, that four Gates were ſhut in, during the Friers time, by the Commandment of the Prior. And one Father Seagar being then Porter, appointed by the ſaid late Prior, Robert Struddell, with others after him, at the appointment of other Priors then ſucceeding. And not by the Maior of London, nor any other.

The Saying of Thomas Ulverſton, alias Wolverſton, of Garlick Hithe, Officer to the Vintners of London, and ſometime a Frier of the Black Friers. Taken before me Sir Thomas Saunders, Kt. the 30*th day of* May, Anno Domini 1562:

Of other Mens Doors into the Black Friers.

‘ 16. I*Tem*, He ſaith, he hath heard ſay many times among the Friers and others, that Maſter Peacocke of London, and his Predeceſſors, had never Door into the Black Friars out of his Houſe; but by Fine and Agreement made for the ſame, long before his time of remembrance.

How the Porters of the Friers kept their four Gates.

‘ 17. Item, He ſaith, That the Porters of the Friers always kept their four Gates, time out of mind, by the appointment of the Prior and Covent, cleer exempted from the City. And when the Porters perceived any ſuſpected Perſons or Malefactors, within the limits of the Friers; they declared it to the Prior, who forthwith commanded them to take the Aid of the honeſt Inhabitants within the Friers, to make ſearch and watch for the apprehenſion of ſuch lewd Perſons. Which ſo found, were always examined by Sir William Kingſton, Kt. and other good Men there inhabiting within the Friers, at the Porter's deſire, and not otherwiſe.

No ſearch or watch within the Precinct, &c.

‘ 18. Item, He never heard, nor did know in all his time, any ſearch or watch to be made within the Precinct of the Friers, by any Watchman or Conſtable of the City; who could never come within any of the Friers Gates, but by the Porter's licence of the ſame Friers.

Paving the Street by the Prior and Covent.

‘ 19. Item, He ſaith, That the Prior and Covent did once pave the Streets (by his time) from the Friers Turngate, unto the Flower de Liz, along by the Wall, to the Channel of the ſame Street. But as for pulling down of any Cage, he doth not well remember.

For puniſhing diſordered Perſons.

‘ 20. Item, He ſaith, If any Vagabond, or any Drunkard, or miſordered Perſon, were taken culpable within the Precinct of the Friers, they were always puniſhed in the Friers Stocks againſt the Church Door, by the Prior's Commandment; and not by the Lord Maior's, or Sheriffs of London.

Againſt claiming the Liberties of Black Friers.

‘ 21. Item, Sir John Portenary, Kt. inhabiting within the late Black Friers, near Ludgate in London, about Thirty Years paſt, doth well remember, that after the Suppreſſion of the ſaid Black Friers, the Lord Maior of London would have entred into the ſaid Black Friers, and claimed the Liberties of the ſame. For the which, the Lord Cobham, the Lord Zanche, Sir Thomas Cheiney, Sir William Kingſton, Sir Francis Brian, Knights, with many other Worſhipful Gentlemen, then being Inhabitants within the Liberties and Precinct of the ſaid late Black Friers, denied the Lord Maior and Citizens entrance; and would not permit nor ſuffer them, or any of them, to enter within the ſame. And ſhortly after, Sir Francis Brian, and Sir Thomas Cheyney, moved the King's Majeſty, then being King Henry VIII. how the ſaid Maior and Citizens would have entred into the ſaid Friers. And then the King's Majeſty ſaid unto them theſe Words following. Are not We as able to keep our Privileges and Liberties, as the Friers did keep their Privileges always before time, free from the City? Whereupon, they all (by one Conſent and Agreement) ſent the ſaid Lord Maior Word of the King's Majeſty's Anſwer and Pleaſure therein. Whereupon the Lord Maior and Aldermen were ſatisfied, and would no further proceed upon the King's Right and Title of Liberties; as then they promiſed and affirmed by the Mouth of the Recorder, being ſent by the Maior to the Worſhipful of the ſaid Friers. And the ſaid Sir John Portenary further ſaith, That after the ſaid Friers were ſuppreſt, the Lord Cromwell, Vicar General, cauſed to be delivered unto the ſaid Sir John Portenary, the Keys of all the ſaid Friers, ſafely to keep them from the ſaid City; and to provide, that all within the ſaid Liberty, ſhould be in Safety and Safeguard. The which Keys were afterward delivered by the ſaid Sir John Portenary, to the Hands of Dr. Layton, and Dr. Wendie, they being Viſitors there. For the which, the ſaid Sir John Portenary had a certain Reward paid unto him by the Lord North, then being Chancellour of the Augmentation Court. All which Matter, the ſaid Sir John Portenary will depoſe to

to be moſt certain and true, as he will anſwer at the dreadful Day of Judgment upon his Soul.

Two Aldermen enter into the Liberties of the Black Friers.

'22. Be it in remembrance perpetual, for infallible Truth, that one Alexander Avenon, being Sheriff of London, and one other, being Alderman of the Ward of Faringdon infra, came and entred very ſtoutly into the Liberty of the Black Friers near Ludgate, the 15th day of May, 1562. to carry away all the Hoſiers and Taylors, to come to the Guild-Hall in London, according to the Queen's new Proclamation. Which Hoſiers and Taylors denied to go with the ſaid Sheriff, affirming and ſaying, That they had put in Bonds (before their coming) to the Lord Cobham, and to Sir Thomas Saunders, Kt. two of the Queen's Juſtices of the Peace within the ſaid Liberty (being within the Verge, and exempted from the City of London) according to the Queen's Proclamation. And thereupon, one John Bradford, being Conſtable of the ſame exempted Place, and within the Liberty of the ſaid Queen's Verge, cauſed the four Porters of the ſaid Friers to ſhut all the Gates; which being perceived by the ſaid Sheriff and Alderman, the ſaid Sheriff commanded the Gates to be opened; whereunto the ſaid Conſtable of the Friers ſaid, That they ſhould not be opened, before the Juſtices Pleaſure of the Friers were known. And then the Sheriff of London ſaid, That he was of greater Authority than the Juſtices were. The Conſtable affirming him ſo to be within the City of London, but not within the Precinct of the Liberty of the Black Friers. For the Conſtable ſaid, that he had greater Power and Authority there than the Sheriff had. Which being heard, and ſcant well digeſted by them; fearing further Inconvenience to ariſe thereupon (as by ſudden changing of their grieved Countenance was plainly declared) the ſaid Sheriff and Alderman (with gentle Language) deſired the Conſtable to open the Gates quietly, and ſuffer them to paſs thence. Which he did at their gentle Requeſt and Intreaty. And ſo they departed out of the Liberty of the Black Friers, by the Porters Commandment, and gave to the Porters for opening the Gates, Money.

What enſued upon this Buſineſs in the Black Friers.

'People of St. Martins, as well Strangers as others, (in the open high Street) marvelling and wondring at the ſaid Sheriff's and Alderman's incloſure within the ſaid Friers Gates: On the Morrow after, being the 16th day of May, 1562. one Hardford being Conſtable of St. Martin's Pariſh within Ludgate, in the high Street there, took one [Gilbert] Trethern, a Hoſier and Taylor, dwelling in the ſaid Friers, and carried him to the Lord Maior of London. Who by and by (without delay, or any further Speech) commanded the ſaid Gilbert to the Counter in London. Whereupon, the ſaid Sir Thomas Saunders, as one of the Juſtices of the ſaid Liberty, went to the Earl of Arundel, Lord Steward to the Queen's moſt Honourable Houſhold, declaring the whole Circumſtance of the ſaid Sheriff and Alderman's enterprize. And obtained a Token to the Lord Maior, no further to enter the ſaid Liberty within the Verge; until by Law, or the Privy Councils Judgment, the Queſtion moved were determined, concerning the infringing of the ſaid antient Liberty. All this was ſpoken in the preſence of Peter Baugh, Lewes Rawbone, and divers other Strangers. In witneſs and probation whereof, the ſaid Sir Thomas hath ſubſcribed his Name, with divers others hereunder written, which were preſent.

A further Teſtimony concerning one Robert Flower, Taylor and Hoſier in the ſame Precinct of Black Friers.

'23. Be it had in perpetual memory, for a continual perfect declaration of the Truth, whereunto all Matters of Variance and Controverſy ſhould be referred and advanced; and not the Sparks of Truth to be hidden (as a Candle bearing perfect light, under a Buſhel) and ſo waſhed away in the flowing Waters of unmindful Oblivion; which (amongſt all good Chriſtian Men) is at all Times, and in all Ages, to be rejected, and not to be imbraced; but rather to be buried in the bottom of the Earth, never to riſe again.

'In conſideration whereof, by theſe Preſents, it is for an infallible Truth, to be holden with all Men, which ſhall hear or ſee this preſent Writing, That Robert Flower, Taylor and Hoſier, dwelling within the Precinct and Liberties of the late Black Friers, near Ludgate in London; was by Commandment of the whole Bench of Aldermen, committed into one of the Compters of London, the 20th day of May, 1582. For that the ſame Robert Flower refuſed to be bound (according to Order taken) from the making of monſtrous great Hoſen, according to the Queen's Proclamation in that behalf. Becauſe the ſaid Robert Flower had (amongſt other Perſons) put in Bonds before the Honourable Warden of the five Ports, and Sir Thomas Saunders, Kt. Juſtices within the Liberty of the Queen's Verge. After which revealed and known to the Honourable Earl of Arundel, Lord Steward of the Queens moſt Honourable Houſhold; who cauſed the Knight Marſhal to go to the ſaid Lord Maior, requiring the deliverance of the ſaid Priſoner. The Lord Maior (being ſickly) made anſwer, that he knew nothing thereof; but deſired him to ſpeak with Mr. Recorder. Who made Anſwer, that the ſaid Impriſonment was done by the whole Bench of Aldermen, and he (as one particular Perſon) could not deliver the Priſoner until the next Court Day, which could not be till two Days after; to the great Charges and Hindrance of the ſaid Priſoner.

'Whereupon the Lord Steward ſent for Maſter Cholmeley, he being then Recorder of London, and commanded him to deliver the Priſoner; or elſe he would impriſon the Maior of London, and the ſaid Recorder, and the fatteſt Alderman in the City, which he could get within the Verge. And declared, that the Queen's Liberties and Franchiſes ſhould not be overcome by the Lord Maior and Bench of Aldermen, ſo long as he was Officer; with many other Words againſt the Citizens, which were too long to write. Adding further, that the Maior did not meddle with St. Martins, being within the City, and a parcel of Weſtminſter Deanery: Much leſs ſhould he meddle with the ſaid Liberty of the Friers, bounded out by Walls and Gates from the City; being in the County of Middleſex, and not within the City. And ſo commanded the Recorder to ſend home the Priſoner into the Liberty preſently; which was ſo done accordingly. Promiſing, that if the Lord Maior could declare or ſhew any good Title, whereby to break the Liberty, the Queen's learned Counſel ſhould anſwer him and them therein. And then the Recorder ſaid, he never heard before that time, that the Lord Steward did claim the Precinct of the ſaid Black Friers, to be within the Liberty of the Queen's Verge. Out of which Juriſdiction the City ‘ of London is exempted by the Statute of 32 Hen. 8. cap. 2. Under Colour of which Statute, the Maior would bring the ſaid Friers to be in London; which in all the Friers Time was freely exempted.

A Man ſlain in the Liberty of the Black Friers.

‘ 24. Item, That in Queen Mary's Time, or King Edward's Time, her Brother, there was a Man ſlain within the ſaid Precinct of the Black Friers. And the Goods of him that was ſuppoſed to do the Deed, were ſtayed within the ſaid Friers, and an Inventory taken by the next Juſtice of Peace within the Verge, Roger Cholmeley, Kt. by the Commandment of Sir Thomas Cheyney, Kt. And afterward one Maſter Garrard, and the Recorder of London, came unto the ſaid Sir Thomas Cheyney's Houſe, within the ſame Precinct, and would have made an Inventory of the Goods of the Party Offender aforeſaid, now deceaſed. But the ſaid Sir Thomas Cheyney would not permit nor ſuffer them ſo to do; for that he had made Stay of the ſame Goods for the Queen before, if it were lawfully found that the ſaid Party had ſlain the Man dead. Which afterward was otherwiſe found by a Queſt of Twelve Men, ſitting ſuper viſum corporis of the Dead, by the Coroner of the Verge, within the ſaid Liberty; where the Maior of London and Bench of Aldermen have not to do, nor intermit with the Inhabitants thereof. Becauſe the whole Friers Liberties, and Franchiſes of the ſame, were freely given unto King Henry VIII. by Act of Parliament. Whereby the Lord Maior of London, and Bench of Aldermen, are clearly barred and ſecluded from the Friers Liberties, and the Inhabitants thereof franchiſed, and clean exempted from all the Citizens, and their Impoſitions or other Taxations.

Add to the reſt, this Teſtimony following.

The true Copy of the Vicar of Bromley's LETTER, in Kent, ſent to Maſter Thomas Walſingham of Scadborough in the ſaid County, Eſq. Who ſent the ſame Letter to Sir Tho. Saunders, Kt. he being alſo one of the Queen's Juſtices of the Peace in the ſaid County; to examine the ſeveral Particulars therein, concerning the Liberties of the ſaid Friers, &c.

This Vicar of Bromley dwelt formerly in the Black Friers.

RIght Worſhipful, you ſhall underſtand that I have received your kind Letter; according whereunto, theſe are to ſatisfy your Mind, that I was dwelling in the Black Friers four or five Years; and came thither from Oxford, where I had been a Student of Divinity. I was alſo Curate of the Pariſh within the Black Friers, called St. Agnes. We had within us a Porter, who did ſhut all the Gates every Night; at Nine of the Clock in the Winter, and at Ten of the Clock in the Summer. No Sheriff, Bailiff, or Conſtable, nor yet the Maior of London, took Intereſt there at any time; nor foreign Porters had to do within our Privilege. And the Friers did pave both within the Turn-gate and without, unto St. Andrew's Church, down by the great Garden Wall. And without the Turn-gate there was a Cage, pulled down by my time, which was ſet up by the Lord Maior of London. The Inhabitants within the Friers never watched; neither the Conſtable of St. Martin's Pariſh warned any Watch there, neither came within the Gates after the Hour appointed, at any time. The Sheriffs of London had no Felons Goods there, neither did Arreſt any Perſon within the Precinct of the Houſe. As for Bakers and Brewers that belonged to the Houſe, they be dead.

The ſame Man ſpoken of before.

There is one James Norrice, Curate, alive; who was brought up in the Houſe, and dwelling at St. Michaels in Cornhill, he can give you further Inſtructions. Whether there be any more living, I know not.

The Relation of a ſad Accident here.

The fatal VESPER, or diſmal EVENSONG, happening at the Black Friers on Sunday in the Afternoon, it being the 26th day of October, 1623.

THere were upon that Day, being dedicated to the Service of God, aſſembled in the Black Friers, near the French Embaſſadors Houſe in Ordinary, above Three hundred Perſons of ſundry Nations; as Engliſh, Scottiſh, Welſh, and Iriſh, to hear a Sermon, and after that to celebrate Evenſong, according to the Rites and Ceremonies of the Romiſh Church. He that was to ſupply that Exerciſe for the preſent, was Father Drury, a Jeſuit by Profeſſion, and by Birth a Gentleman; being extracted out of the Houſe of the Norfolcian Druries, and Son unto Dr. Drury, late Profeſſor of the Civil Law, and Practiſer thereof in the Court of the Arches here in London. He was by thoſe of the Romiſh Religion, reputed to be a Man of great Learning; as having ſtudied many Years beyond the Sea, with much approbation and allowance of his Superiors. And although he were oppoſite in point of Faith and Belief, unto the Religion now profeſſed in England, yet was he held by the generality of our Nation, both Proteſtants and Papiſts, who knew him, and could make a true eſtimate of his Vertues and Vices by the outward circumſtance and appearance of his Actions, to be a Man of a good moral Life, and of a plauſible and laudable Converſation. So that in reſpect of theſe Indowments, there could nothing have been deſired more by us of the Reformed Church, than that he had not been a Papiſt; but a Member of our Church, Religion, and Profeſſion. All the Day before, which was the laſt that ever his Eyes beheld, he was obſerved to be wondrous ſad and penſive, contrary unto his wonted Humour and Diſpoſition; he being a Man of a free, merry and affable Converſation; as though that ſome Spirit of Prediction had foretold him of that fatal Diſaſter which was at hand. Thus we read of Cæſar, that he was poſſeſſed with a ſtrange and unwonted Sadneſs that Morning when he entred into the Senate-houſe, where he was ſtabbed to Death by the Senators. And ſo was that Aſſaſſine Caſſius much perplexed and troubled in Mind, before that mortal and bloody Battle of Pharſalia. By means of which Affection, Father Drury finding an Indiſpoſition in himſelf, he would (if with his Reputation he could) have made a retraction of his Promiſe, and a demur of the intended Exerciſe. But being preſt on by divers of his Friends, who told him that the Audience was great, and their Expectation far greater; he did, then again reſolve to go forward with the Enterprize.

The Place wherein this Congregation was aſſembled, was not the French Embaſſador's Chappel, according as the firſt Report went currant; for that was reſerved for the Uſe of himſelf and his Family, to celebrate their Evenſong, after their own Manner and Cuſtom: But it was a Chamber near unto the Gate, ſome three Stories high; being ſome threeſcore Foot long, and twenty Foot broad, or thereabouts. The Walls were not made of Lome, compoſed of Laths and Rafters, and covered over with Clay and Lime, as ſome at firſt reported; but were of Brick and Stone, which are held by the Architects to be the ſtrongeſt and the ſureſt Building. But howſoever, a Gentlewoman of a Noble Houſe, and of a quick and judicious Spirit, who was then preſent, and had taken a curious view of the preſſing Multitude of the People, which was at length their own Oppreſſion, and of the unfitneſs and uncapacity of the Place beſide, told him, That ſhe thought it would prove an Action full of Danger, if he ſhould offer to preach in that Place reſpectively, in reſpect of the Premiſſes. But he, being led on by a divine and fatal Neceſſity, which blinds the Judgment of the wiſe Men of this World; told her, that he did mean as then to preach, and to go forward with the greateſt expedition he could, with his intended Sermon. For the accompliſhment of which Deſign, the Father Predicant being clad in thoſe Robes and Ornaments which are uſed by thoſe of his Order, being a Jeſuit, having a Surplice girt about his Middle with a Linnen Girdle, a red Cap, with a white one underneath, turned up about the brims of his Cap, and his other Accoutrements belonging, which the Ignatian Orders have impoſed upon them. And being placed in a Chair about the midſt of the Room, which Chair was raiſed up ſomething higher than the ordinary level of the Floor; he croſſing himſelf with the Sign of the Croſs, and having ended ſome private Prayers, accommodated himſelf to his Text, between three and four of the Clock in the Afternoon of the foreſaid Sunday. The Words of the Text were part of the Goſpel appointed for the preſent Day, according to the Order and Inſtruction of the Church of Rome, being their 5th of November; which Account is thought to be the trueſt by the Roman Catholicks, and begins ten Days before that of England. The Goſpel was written in the 18th Chapter of St. Matthew's Goſpel, and delivered unto us by the holy Spirit in theſe Words. Therefore is the Kingdom of Heaven likened unto a certain man that was a King, which would take account of his ſervants. And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him which ought him ten thouſand Talents. But foraſmuch as he was not able to pay, his Lord commanded him to be ſold, and his wife and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made. The ſervant fell down and beſought him, ſaying: Sir, have patience with me and I will pay thee all. Then had the Lord pity of that ſervant, and looſed him, and forgave him the debt. So the ſame ſervant went out, and found one of his fellows which ought him an hundred pence: And he laid hands on him, and took him by the throat, ſaying; Pay that thou oweſt. And his fellow fell down and beſought him, ſaying: Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all. And he would not, but he went out and caſt him into Priſon, till he ſhould pay the debt. So when his fellows went and ſaw what was done, they were very ſorry, and came and told their Maſter all that happened. Then his Lord called him and ſaid unto him: O! thou ungracious ſervant, I forgave thee all that debt thou deſiredſt me, ſhouldeſt not thou alſo have had compaſſion on thy fellow, even as I had pity on thee? &c.

The Words which he inſiſted eſpecially upon, were theſe: * O! thou ungracious ſervant, I forgave thee all the debt thou oughteſt me, ſhouldeſt not thou alſo have had compaſſion on thy fellow, even as I had pity on thee? Upon which Subject diſcourſing with much vehemency, and implying out of it the infinite Mercy and Goodneſs of God; whereby he doth not only give us all that we have, but forgives us all our Treſpaſſes and Offences, be they never ſo deeply ſtained with the ſcarlet dye and tincture of our Guiltineſs. Which merciful Act of God is paraboliz'd unto us by a certain Man that was a King, who took account of his Servants; and after much intreaty and ſubmiſſion, forgave one ten thouſand Talents, which he ought him. And alſo dilating by way of blame and reprehenſion of the ungrateful and unrelenting Heart of Man, who doth not forgive Treſpaſſes as God doth forgive him. But out of his ſwelling and malignant Humour, writes Benefits in the Sand, and Injuries in Marble; which Uncharitableneſs of theirs is intimated in the Parable by the ungracious Servant, who would not forgive his Fellow a ſmall Debt, although his Maſter had forgiven him one of a far greater Value. Moreover, upon the Application of theſe Words, he did inveigh with much bitterneſs, as ſome give out, (but I know not how truly) againſt the Manners and Doctrin of the Proteſtants.

* Note that this Text was divided into three Parts; whereof the firſt treated of God's Mercy, the ſecond of Man's Ingratitude, the third of the Remedies which Man might uſe for the procuring of God's Mercy, and cure himſelf from this contagious Diſeaſe of his Ingratitude. Which firſt part only in part he handled.

But having proceeded thus far, loe! what a ſudden and unexpected Accident fell out. The Sermon inclining towards the midſt, and the Day declining towards an end, it being almoſt four of the Clock in the Afternoon, the Multitude and Crowd of the Aſſembly, breaking down with their overbearing weight, the Beams and Side-timbers wherewith this Room was ſupported, they fell down into the next Chamber; the Floor whereof being broken down alſo with the deſcending weight of them, and the Ruins, they fell at laſt upon the loweſt Chamber of the Edifice; where ſome of them periſhed, ſome were hurted and maimed, other ſome were free from all hurt and danger, except of that which the preſent Fright and Terror did impoſe upon them; and thoſe were they eſpecially who fell not at all, but remained in one Angle or Corner of the Chamber, which was free from falling. Which Perſons being thought to be between twenty and thirty in number, as I heard by one who was one of them, perplexed and frighted thus as they were, by conſideration of that moſt fearful Danger whereinto they had ſeen their Fellows and Brethren to fall; who did lift up their Hands for help, and beat their Breaſts for life, whereof they then were Spectators; and being doubtful that they ſhould be Actors with them preſently in that Scene of Calamity, the Place being weak, tottering and unaſſured; for this Cauſe fear and neceſſity giving motion and ſtrength to their Arms, they opened with their Knives a Lome Wall, which parted that Room, and a Chamber belonging to the Embaſſador's Lodging. By which means, after much difficulty and labour, they got their paſſage, and live as yet to glorify God for their deliverance.

Preſently, upon the report of the fall and cry, divers Perſons of all Sorts reſorted unto the Place; ſome out of Charity to help thoſe that were thus diſtreſſed, for which cauſe they brought Spades, Pickaxes, and other Inſtruments fit for that purpoſe. Others out of a meer Curioſity came thither to ſee this wonderful event, and this Object ſo full of admiration. Where, after the Guards were ſet upon all the Advenues and Paſſages leading into the Black Friers, and from thence into the Embaſſador's Houſe, by the direction and command of Serjeant Finch, Recorder of the City; who was exceeding careful that my Lord Embaſſador, and his Servants, ſhould not ſuffer any detriment in their Goods or Perſons; being jealous in this point, of the King's, his own, and the City's Honour. And Matters being thus diſpoſed for the Safety and Aſſurance of the Strangers, after they had broken down a Wall, and opened ſome Doors, they fell to work upon the Ruins it ſelf, with all poſſible diligence and dexterity. Where at the opening of every Board, Plank, and piece of Timber, there were Objects which preſented themſelves full of Horror and Confuſion.

Here you might have ſeen a Man ſhaking of his Legs, and ſtriving for life. There you might have ſeen another putting forth his bloody Hands, and crying for help. Here you might have ſeen one, like ſome Spectre, thruſting out his Head out of the Grave. There you might have ſeen his Fellow half dead and half living, intomb'd in that Grave which he was not long to keep. Here you might have ſeen the Living thus preſſed, as they were mourning for the Dead; and the Dead ſenſeleſs, as they were imbracing of the Living. So that ſince the Sicilian Veſpers, there was never an Even-ſong more dolorous unto the French, nor more lamentable unto the Scots and Engliſh. The Count of Tillier, who was Embaſſador here in ordinary for the moſt Chriſtian King, which Place he hath executed with great Dignity and Authority for many Years together, to the general liking and applauſe of both Nations, although he was fortunate in this, that not one of his Retinue periſhed, was much agrieved at this unlucky Accident; with whom the Spaniſh Delegates did condole, as by mutual reference feeling that Grief, which fellow-feeling had made their own.

Moreover, it was reported by one who had good Intelligence in Ely Houſe, that Don Carlos Colomo's Steward ſhould ſay, that his Maſter would not for a Million of Gold, this Accident ſhould have fallen out in his, or Exeter Houſe. A Report like enough to be believed of thoſe, who know how ſtrangely zealous this Nation is in their Religion; and how jealous they are of their own, their King's, and of their Country's Honour.

Neither were the Sorrows meaner amongſt the Naturals of this Kingdom, and the Inhabitants of the City of London. So that here ſome Men loſt their Wives, Women their Children, Children their Parents, Maſters their Servants, and one Friend lamented the loſs of another. So that Rachel was weeping for her Children, becauſe they were not. Job was lamenting for his Sons and Daughters, becauſe they were ſlain together by the downfal of an Houſe, whilſt they were eating of their laſt Banquet. Inſomuch that the Streets did eccho with their dolorous Moans, the Walls and Houſes did reſound with their Cries, and Lamentations. The ſubſequent Night was ſo full of Horror unto many, that it may be truly ſaid of it, as was ſaid of another diſmal Night in the like kind:

Quis cladem illius noctis,
quis funera fando
Æxplicit? aut potis eſt
lachrymis æquare dolorem?

When the Bodies were drawn forth of thoſe heaps of Earth and Timber, which taſk of Charity they were accompliſhing all that Night, and part of the next Day following, they were found to be Ninety five Perſons, or thereabout, of divers Conditions, beſides thoſe who were bruiſed, maimed or wounded. Amongſt whom were divers Perſons of Worth and Quality: As Father Drurie, who was the Preacher; Father Redyate, in whoſe Lodging this Calamity befel; the Lady Webbe, deſcended of the Family of the Treſhams; and Siſter unto my Lady Morley, and my Lady Sturton, and many more beſides of that weaker Sex, who then and there were aſſembled at their accuſtomed Devotions. Yet were there many who were in that unfortunate downfal, which eſcaped the Danger ſtrangely and wonderfully. Amongſt whom was Mrs Lucy Penruddock, extracted from a worthy and noble Family; who fell between the Lady Webbe, and her own Maid-Servant, both of which periſhed; yet ſhe was preſerved alive, by means of a Chair which fell hollow upon her, and ſheltered her from further danger. So was young Mrs. Webbe, Daughter to my Lady Webbe, who fell near unto her Mother; and Elenor Sanders, who was covered, with many others; whoſe Lives were ſaved within the Heaps of theſe Blood-guilty Ruins.

There was alſo a Miniſter, whoſe Name I cannot learn; and therefore, although he ſurvive this Misfortune, it muſt be buried as yet in ſilence; who being preſent at the Sermon, as being invited by ſome Romiſh Catholick to that Exerciſe, who alſo gave him the Conduct unto the Place, he fell with the reſt of the Multitude aſſembled there together; and being covered with the Rubbiſh, Boards, and other Timbers, which fell upon him from the higher Rooms; and preſt with the weight of divers Perſons beſides, whereof ſome were dead and ſome were living. Being in this Agony, which his preſent pain, and the fear of Death, in his own judgment even hanging over his Head, did impoſe (and that not without juſt cauſe) upon him; being, I ſay, thus diſtreſſed, and ſtriving under thoſe Heaps and Ruins for Life, the hope whereof, in reſpect of the premiſed impediments, had almoſt forſaken him; One of the French Embaſſador's Gentlemen, hearing the Noiſe and Report of this great and diſmal Fall, ſuddenly as he could, opened a Door, which gave entrance into that Chamber, upon the Floor whereof, the Heaps and Ruins, together with the oppreſſed Multitude, as then lay: Who perceiving light by the Door then opened, the Place before being covered over with darkneſs, he ſtrove with all the ſtrength and agility he could, which in him was not mean, he being a Man of a very ſtrong and able Body; and at laſt, after the loſs of his Cloak, and renting of his Cloaths, he recovered himſelf, without any further hurt. Which the Gentleman perceiving, came and demanded of him, whether or no he were hurt, or that he ſtood in need of any Thing that might do him Service, or procure him Comfort? But he being almoſt exanimated and aſtoniſhed, could not at firſt apprehend thoſe courteous Proffers which were tendred unto him by this Stranger, who preſently went and brought him into a Chamber; where after he had ſat a while, and refreſhed himſelf with Wine, which was brought unto him, and having thus recovered his Strength and Spirits, he returned to the foreſaid Place again; and uſed his beſt endeavours for the relieving of others from that Calamity, whereof but even now he was a Fellow-ſufferer. His Man who attended him, was recovered among the reſt, he being ſomething bruiſed and hurt in the Arm.

Moreover, there was a young Girl, about the Age of ten Years, as is ſuppoſed, (when this Miniſter, out of his charitable and commiſerating Diſpoſition, was labouring for the Safety and Preſervation of them, whoſe Neceſſities did then require it) came crying unto him, and ſaid, O my Mother! O my Siſter! which are down under the Timber and Rubbiſh. But he wiſht her to be patient for a time, and by God's Grace they ſhould get forth quickly. Upon which Speech, the Child replied preſently, that howſoever, this Accident would prove a great Scandal to their Religion. A Speech which is worth Admiration in all Men, as this Relator did truly admire; that a Child of ſo tender Years, wherein amongſt the moſt towardlieſt, there is ſcarce ability to diſcern between Good and Evil, ſhould next unto that Grief, which the danger of her Mother and Siſter did inflict upon her, lament for nothing more, than for the Scandal which their Cauſe was like to ſuffer by the Diſaſter.

It was reported alſo that many more were drawn out alive the next Morning. But I will not ſtand too much upon the juſtification of this Report, leſt I ſhould ſeem to be too credulous of thoſe Things which are contrary to the Rules of Reaſon and Nature.

The Day following, which was Monday, and the Eve of Simon and Jude, there was great Care had for viewing of the Place, and for burial of the Dead. For this Cauſe, the Recorder and Sheriffs, about One of the Clock in the Afternoon, met at the French Embaſſador's Houſe, having firſt ſhut up Ludgate, to prevent the throng and reſort of the People, which was exceeding great and turbulent in thoſe Places. And then having doubled their Guards upon every Port and Paſſage, and given expreſs Charge unto the Warders, upon pain of their Diſpleaſure and Puniſhment, that no Man ſhould enter in, without theirs, or the Coroner's Warrant, they fell at length to conſult about the Buſineſs; and after mature Conſideration, concluded, That this doleful Accident fell out, not by any indirect Practice or Conſpiracy (as was by ſome maliciouſly reported) but that thoſe Fourſcore and odd Perſons fell by means of their own weight, and the weakneſs of thoſe Timbers which did ſupport the Chamber.

The Juries Verdict.

The Jury having thus brought in their Verdict, they diſpoſed preſently for the burial of the Dead; ſome of whom were carried by their Friends to Churches, far remote, there to receive their due obſequies. Others were buried in the ſame Place, and thoſe were of the meaneſt Rank; whereof ſome Twenty, or thereabout, were laid in one Sepulchre, having a common Grave, as they had a common Death and Downfall.

Conjecture.

The Conjectures concerning this Event were divers: For ſome gave out, that it was the juſt Puniſhment and Vengeance of God inflicted upon them for their Idolatry. Moreover, there were divers doubting Spirits amongſt the Roman Catholicks, who thought that this was ſome Conſpiracy of the Proteſtants. But if the Building had been demoliſhed and overthrown by their indirect and treacherous Means, it muſt have been done either by blowing it up with Gunpowder, by ſapping away the Earth from the Foundation, by undermining it; or by cutting off, or taking away thoſe Supporters and Pillars upon which the Frame and Machine of the Building was grounded. All which were found to be falſe, upon moſt diligent ſearch and inquiry made in that behalf. But that which carried apparent appearance of Truth, and that which the Proteſtant and Papiſts did allow, who were of the more milder, temperate, and ſounder Judgment, was this: That this Diſaſter hapned not by means of any divine Miracle, or human Malice; but by the defect and weakneſs of the Place, into which ſuch a Multitude were crowded and aſſembled together; the Judgment of God concurring therewithal.

The Society of the Jeſuits did ſuffer much, in loſing the Perſons of Father Drurie, and Father Redyate. And divers Perſons of both Religions, but eſpecially the Prieſts, who are Men of as great Care and Vigilancy, but of a far greater Moderation, did tax and blame them, for that they brought their Flock into a Place of no greater Safety or Aſſurance; and beſides, becauſe their Conventicle and Meeting was ſo publick, there being divers Proteſtants aſſembled at it, ſome of whom were reported to have a ſhare in this Calamity; and the Times as yet not ſerving, the King's Pardon being not yet publiſhed, which was granted, as they ſay, to all the Roman Catholicks of theſe Kingdoms. But whatſoever thou be, Proteſtant or Papiſt, that doth ſee this mournful Object, judge not, leſt thou be judged. Neither think thou, that thoſe eighteen Men upon whom the Tower of Siloam fell, or thoſe Perſons whoſe Blood Pilate mingled with their Sacrifice, were more grievous Sinners than all the reſt of the Children of Iſrael; or that theſe who periſhed thus together, were more notorious Offenders than all the reſt of their Brethren and Religion. For aſſure thy ſelf, that except thou repent, thou alſo ſhalt periſh. And this Repentance of thine muſt not be propter ſcandalum mundi, i.e. for the ſcandal and offence of the World. For ſo did Saul repent, when out of a fooliſh and State-ſpoiling pity, he had ſpared Agag, the curſed Tyrant of Amalecke; and but of a fair, yet foul pretence, had ſpared the faireſt of the Cattle for Sacrifice: For being rebuked by the Prophet Samuel, he doth repent, and deſires him to honour him in the ſight of the Elders, and to turn unto him, and he would turn unto the Lord his God. Neither muſt it be propter pœnam peccati, i.e. for their puniſhment, that is due unto Sin. For ſo did Ahab repent, when he was reproved by Elias for killing of Naboth, and detaining of his Vineyard; he rent his cloths, and girded himſelf in ſackcloth, as the Text hath it. But after that the fright and terror of God's moſt terrible Sentence was worn out of his Mind, and the Cuſtom of Sin began to prevail again, he ſold himſelf to commit ſuch abominations, the like whereof were never committed in Iſrael. But our Repentance muſt be propter reatum peccati, i.e. for the guilt of Sin; as Sin is the breach of the Law, and a tranſgreſſion of God's Commandment. Quæ ſic dolet commiſſa, ut non doleat committenda. Which Repentance doth grieve for Sins committed, as though it meant to commit no more; and mourn for Offences paſt, as though it did mean to paſs over no more.

We muſt take Repentance as Job did, in Duſt and Aſhes. Being Duſt, we muſt take it in Duſt; and being Aſhes, we muſt take it in Aſhes. Our Tranſgreſſions in this Kingdom, and in this City, have been moſt grievous; therefore our Contrition ſhould be eminent and exemplar. Our Pride hath made us, with Lucifer, to ſuperbire & ſuperire, look over our ſelves, not into our ſelves; and to eſteem our ſelves like unto God, when we are ſcarce Men.

Neither is this Pride ſimplex peccatum, a ſingle and ſimple Sin, but it draws after it Exceſs and Riot, as it were with a Cart-rope: Unto which Luxury of ours, neither Perſian nor Roman were equal. After which follow Fornications and Adulteries, which are ſo frequent in this Place, that in vain may we ſpeak of the Bordellas of Rome, or the Stews of Venice, ſince the Suburbs of this ſinful City, are as bad as the Suburraes of Rome or Venice.

Moreover, our Drunkenneſs is ſuch, that although our Eyes look red, and our Hearts are as fat as Brawn with drinking of Wine, yet, we riſe up early to drink ſtrong Drink. Which when it hath inflamed our Blood and Spirits, we are ready, with Lot, to fall into all Pollution and Uncleanneſs.

And laſt of all, we are ſo uncharitable, ſo ſtony-hearted and cloſe-fiſted, that we may be fitly compared unto lumps of Clay, tempered with Blood; although we are Statues of Flint, without the Blood or Life of Charity.

For this Cauſe, repent, O England, repent, O London! repent Proteſtants, repent Papiſts, for your Tranſgreſſions and Offences! Repent, repent; for by theſe wonderful Signs and Tokens, it doth appear moſt clearly, that the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand.

A Note of John Gee, that eſcape in this Ru J. S.

One that was ſaved in this dreadful downfal of the Houſe at Black Friers, was John Gee, M. A. who when all about him were ſlain, and he involved and covered with heaps of Rubbiſh, and dead Carcaſſes, by wonderful Providence eſcaped without Hurt. This Man went thither, not ſo much out of Zeal to the Popiſh Religion (which he had now left) as out of Curioſity to hear Father Drury preach. Upon this his ſingular Deliverance, he wrote a Book, entituled, The Foot out of the Snare: Wherein he detected ſundry late Practices and Impoſtures of the Prieſts and Jeſuits then in London, and other Places in England. And ſaid he penned the ſaid Writing, as a Monument of his Thankfulneſs.

And othe

Yet ſome others that eſcaped, were ſo zealous, that they repined at their Deliverance, and pretended to be ſorry they had not been among the Slain. And the Reaſon they gave was, becauſe ſince that Accident, after every Maſs, (whereof there were great Numbers then ſaid) the Prieſt or Clerk ſtarted up preſently upon the Benediction, and called aloud to the People to ſay three Pater-noſters, and three Ave Maries, for thoſe that died at Black Friers. So that they thought it could not otherwiſe chooſe, but their Souls muſt ſoon be in Heaven. One of theſe was one Parker, a long Trader and Factor with Papiſts here in England. This Man was appointed the Week after, to carry this ſad News over Seas, to Doway; where he was likewiſe to receive Prieſtly Orders, to ſupply the room of three Prieſts here deſtroyed; but on his firſt ſetting forwards, at London Bridge, he was drowned, with a Kinſwoman of his, bound for Bruſſels, there to take on her the Habit of a Nun.

A Houſe in Black Friers ordered to be pulled down. J. S.

In King Edward III. his Reign, a Houſe being newly builded in the Black Friers, near the Wall of the City; to the Annoyance of the ſaid Friers and the City, and built without Licence, in a Perambulation was ſolemnly viewed by the Lord Maior, with many of the Aldermen his Brethren; and was ordered to be pulled down within Forty Days; otherwiſe the Sheriff was appointed to do it, and to fine the Builder beſides, 40 s. For which an antient Record of the City ran to this Tenor.

Four Heads found in Black Friers. J. S.

Before we take our leave of Black Friers, I muſt mention a memorable Paſſage that happened after the Fire of London. Some Workmen digging in a Place there where the Covent was, to clear it from the Rubbiſh, by the appointment of Mr. William Bradford, in order to building; they came to an old Wall in a Cellar, of great thickneſs; where appeared a kind of Cupboard. Which being opened, there were found in it four Pots or Caſes of fine Pewter, thick, with Covers of the ſame; and Rings faſtened on the top, to take up or put down at pleaſure. The Caſes were flat before, and rounding behind. And in each of them were repoſited four humane Heads, unconſumed, reſerved, as it ſeems, by Art; with their Teeth and Hair, the Fleſh of a tawny Colour, wrap'd up in black Silk, almoſt conſumed. And a certain Subſtance, of a blackiſh Colour, crumbled into Duſt, lying at the bottom of the Pots.

One of theſe Pots, with the Head in it, I ſaw in October, 1703. being in the Cuſtody of Mr. Presbury, then Sope-maker in Smithfield. Which Pot had inſcribed in the inſide of the Cover, in a ſcrawling Character, (which might be uſed in the times of King Henry VIII.) J. CORNELIUS. This Head was without any Neck, having ſhort red Hair upon it, thick, and that would not be pulled off; and yellow Hair upon the Temples; a little bald on the top (perhaps a Tonſure) the forepart of the Noſe ſunk, the Mouth gaping, ten ſound Teeth, others had been plucked out; the Skin like tanned Leather, the Features of the Face viſible. There was one Body found near it buried, and without an Head; but no other Bodies found. The other three Heads had ſome of the Necks joined to them, and had a broader and plainer Razure; which ſhewed them Prieſts. Theſe three Heads are now diſperſed. One was given to an Apothecary: Another was intruſted with the Pariſh Clerk; who it is thought got Money by ſhewing of it. It is probable they were at laſt privately procured, and conveyed abroad; and now become Holy Relicks.

Who theſe were, there is no Record, as I know of; nor had any of the Names inſcribed but one. To me they ſeem to have been ſome zealous Prieſts or Friers, executed for Treaſon; whereof there were many in the Rebellion in Lincolnſhire, An. 1538. or for denying the King's Supremacy. And here privately depoſited by theſe Black Friers.]

The Pariſh of St. MICHAEL the Quern.

Corn-Market by Pater-noſter Row.

Now to turn again out of the Black Friers, through Bowyer Row, Ave Mary Lane, and Pater-noſter Row, to the Church of St. Michael ad Bladum, or at the Corn, (corruptly called the Quern) ſo called, becauſe in place thereof was ſometime a Corn-Market, ſtretching up Weſt to the Shambles. It ſeemeth that this Church was firſt builded about the Reign of Edward III. Thomas Newton, firſt Parſon there, was buried in the Quire, in the Year 1361. which was the 35th of Edward III. At the Eaſt end of this Church ſtood a Croſs, called the Old Croſs in Weſt Cheap; which was taken down in the Year 1390. the 13th of Rich. II. Since the which Time, the ſaid Pariſh Church was alſo taken down; but new builded and inlarged in the Year 1430. the 8th of Henry VI. William Eaſtfield, Maior, and the Communalty, granted of the common Soil of the City, three Foot and an half in breadth on the North part, and four Foot in breadth toward the Eaſt, for the inlarging thereof.

Old Croſs in Weſt Cheap.

Repaired. R.

This Church was repaired, and with all Things, either for Uſe or Beauty, richly ſupplied and furniſhed, at the ſole Coſt and Charge of the Pariſhioners, in the Year of our Lord God 1617.]

Unbuilt. J. S.

This Church was burnt down in the great Fire, and remains unbuilt; and laid into the Street: But the Conduit which was formerly at the Eaſt end of the Church, ſtill remains. The Pariſh is united to St. Vedaſt Foſter lane.

Parſonage.

There was a Parſonage Houſe, but demoliſhed by the Fire; and the Ground now lies in the open Street. And no Satisfaction ever received for the loſs of the Ground. No Glebe belongs to this Pariſh.

Bequeſts.

There are ſeveral Bequeſts given to the Poor for Gowns and Bread; which are Yearly and Weekly diſpoſed of.

But as for Legacies or Gifts given to the Church, [ i. e. for the Repairing or Adorning thereof ] there were none.]

Water Conduit by Paul's Gate.

At the Eaſt end of this Church, in place of the old Croſs, is now a Water-Conduit placed. William Eaſtfield, Maior, the 9th of Henry VI. at the requeſt of divers Common Councels, granted it ſo to be. Whereupon, in the 19th of the ſaid Henry, 1000 Marks was granted by a Common Councel, towards the Works of this Conduit, and the Reparations of others. This ir called the Little Conduit in Weſt Cheap, by Paul's Gate.

Paſſage thorow S. Michael's Church.

At the Weſt end of this Pariſh Church, is a ſmall paſſage for People on Foot, thorow the ſame Church. And Weſt from the ſaid Church, ſome diſtance, is another Paſſage out of Paternoſter Row, and is called (of ſuch a Sign) Panyer Alley; which cometh out into the North, over againſt St. Martins Lane.

Panyer Alley

J. S.

[When you have ſought the City round,

Auguſt 26. 1688.

This is writ upon a Stone raiſed, about the middle of this Panier Alley; having the Figure of a Panier, with a Boy ſitting upon it, with a Bunch of Grapes, as it ſeems to be, held between his naked Foot and Hand: in token, perhaps, of Plenty.]

Next

Ivy lane.
Alms Houſes.
Firſt Edit.

Next is Ivy lane, ſo called of Ivy growing on the Walls of the Prebend Houſes; but now the Lane is repleniſhed on both the Sides with fair Houſes; and divers Offices have been there kept by Regiſters; namely, for the Prerogative Court of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, the Probate of Wills (which is now removed into Warwick lane) and for the Lord Treaſurer's Remembrance of the Exchequer, &c.

Lovels Inn.

This Lane runneth North, to the Weſt end of St. Nicolas Shambles. Of old time here was one great Houſe, ſometimes belonging to the Earls of Britain; ſince that, to the Lovels, and was called Lovel's Inn. For Mathild, Wiſe to John Lovel, held it in the 1ſt of Henry VI.

Eldeneſe or Warwick Lane.
Warwicks Inn.

Then is Eldeneſe lane, which ſtretcheth North to the high Street of Newgate Market; the ſame is now called Warwick lane, of an antient Houſe there builded by an Earl of Warwick, and was ſince called Warwick Inn. It is on Record called a Meſſuage in Eldeneſe lane, in the Pariſh of St. Sepulchre, the 28th of Hen. VI. Cicile, the Dutcheſs of Warwick, poſſeſſed it.

College of Phyſicians.
J. S.

In the Court of the College of Phyſicians, ſituate ſince the Fire in this Lane, is a very fine Statue of K. Charles II. fronting the Gate; and underneath, this is written:

> Utriuſq; Fortunæ exemplar ingens, Adverſis rebus Deum probavit, Proſperis ſeipſum, Collegii hujus Stator, > MDCLXXXII.
>

On the Amphitheatre over againſt this Figure, ſtands the Statue, in Stone, of Sir John Cutler, Kt. a great Benefactor to this Work; and this ſingle Hexameter.

> Omnis CUTLERI cedat Labor Amphitheatro.]

Bladder ſtreet.

Now again, from the Conduit by Paul's Gate, on the North ſide, is a large Street running Weſt to Newgate; the firſt part whereof, from the Conduit to the Shambles, is (of ſelling Bladders there) called Bladder ſtreet. Then behind the Butchers Shops, be now divers Slaughter-Houſes inward, and Tipling-Houſes outward. This is called Mount-goddard ſtreet, by all likelihood of the Tipling-houſes there; and the Goddards or Pots mounting from the Tap to the Table, from the Table to the Mouth, and ſometimes over the Head.

Alſo this Street goeth up to the North end of Ivy lane. Before this Mount-goddard ſtreet, Stall-Boards were of old time ſet up by the Butchers, to ſhew and to ſell their Fleſh-Meat upon; over the which Stall-Boards, they firſt builded Sheds, to keep off the Weather. But ſince that (incroaching by little and little) they have made theſe Stall-Boards and Sheds fair Houſes, meet for the principal Shambles.

Newgate Market.

Next is Newgate Market, firſt of Corn and Meal, and then of other Victuals; which ſtretcheth almoſt to Eldeneſe lane. A fair new and ſtrong Frame of Timber, covered with Lead, was therefore ſet up at the Charges of the City, near to the Weſt Corner of St. Nicolas Shambles, for the Meal to be weighed, in the 1ſt of Edward VI. Sir John Greſham then Maior.

The Pariſh of St. EWIN.

St. Ewin.

On this ſide the North Corner of Eldeneſe lane, was ſometime a proper Pariſh Church of St. Ewin.

Who this Ewin was.
J. S.

Which Church had not its Name from Edwin, the firſt Chriſtian King of Northumberland, (as Mr. Richard Smith ſuppoſed) but is the ſame Saint with Owen, or Audowen. And this Church in old Writing, is called Sti Audoeni juxta fratres minores London; and ſometimes infra Newgate.

A Fraternity of St. Anne here.
Record. Turr.

In this Church was founded a Fraternity of St. Anne, the Mother of Mary, from the Alms of the pariſhioners; as it is expreſt in a Certificate in the Tower, given in about it, by the then three Maſters of it; viz. John Shepye, Taylor, Nicolas Minet, Fletcher, and another. Who certified, that in the ſame Church, every Year, ſeven Wax Candles quadrate, (i. e. ſquare) were to be burnt before the Image of St. Anne, all the ſolemn Days, in which a Light burnt before the Crucifix; and yearly to be renewed the ſaid Light, as long as the ſaid Fraternity could ſuſtain it. And that every Brother ſhould offer at the High Maſs of the ſaid Day, in the Church, one Halfpenny. And four Torches of ten Pound of Wax, to be cauſed to burn upon the Obſequies of any Brother of the Fraternity, &c.]

This Church (as is before ſaid) was given by King Henry VIII. toward the erecting of Chriſt's Church. It was taken down, and in place thereof, a fair ſtrong Frame of Timber was erected; wherein dwell Men of divers Trades. And from this Frame to Newgate, is all of this Ward: And ſo an End thereof.

The preſent State of this Ward.

And now for the Modern Eſtate of this large Ward.

Streets in this Ward.
R. B.

As to the Deſcription of the Places in this Ward, I ſhall begin with Ludgate ſtreet; then proceed to Black Friers, and the Places in the Precinct. Next, to Creed lane, Ave Mary lane, and Warwick lane; taking in the Places of Note and Name on each ſide. Then to Newgate ſtreet, with the Places on each ſide; as Chriſt Church, and the Hoſpital of the ſame Name; Newgate Market, Butcher Hall lane. After that, to Pater-noſter Row, Cheapſide, the Old Change; and conclude with St. Pauls, and the Places about it.

Ludgate ſtreet.
Ludgate.
St. Martin's Church.

Ludgate ſtreet. It is a Street of a very great Reſort, both for Coach, Cart, Horſe, and Foot, through Ludgate towards Fleetſtreet, and other Weſtern Parts of the City; and from thence into the City. For which Reaſon it enjoys a very great Trade, being taken up by conſiderable Dealers: And ſince the late Fire of London, the Buildings are very lofty and uniform. For the Deſcription of Ludgate, ſee the Chapter in the firſt Book, which treats of the Gates of the City. This Street towards the Eaſt fronts the Weſt end of St. Pauls. Adjoining to Ludgate, on the North ſide of the Street, is the Pariſh Church of St. Martins Ludgate. Which ſince the Rebuilding occaſioned by the dreadful Fire of London, is very comely, and aſcended up by ſtone Steps, well finiſhed within; and hath a moſt curious Spire Steeple of excellent Workmanſhip, pleaſant to behold.

Black Friers.

On the South ſide of this Street, over againſt St. Martins Church, is the Entrance into Black Friers. The ample Privileges, that the Inhabitants of this Precinct did enjoy, have been for many Years loſt. So that now the Sheriffs Officers can Arreſt there.

Water ſtreet.

Black Friers hath but a narrow Paſſage out of Ludgate ſtreet, and turning by the back ſide of Ludgate Priſon, falleth into an open Place with very good Buildings, well inhabited by Tradeſmen. Which ſaid Street runneth down Southwards to the Thames; but that part by Apothecaries Hall, and ſo downwards, is called Water ſtreet; and hath a handſome pair of Stairs to take Water at, where plenty of Watermen termen ply: And in its Paſſage to the Water ſide, takes in ſeveral Courts and Yards.

Baniſter Court. Hughs Court. Duke Humfreys. Cloyſter Court. Ireland Yard. Jackſons Court. Canterbury Court. Friers Court. New Street. Shoemakers Row. Cob's Court. Church Entry. Glaſs houſe Yard.

As Baniſters Court, which is but ordinary. Oppoſite to which, is the Houſe of the Lady Fitch, Relict of Sir Thomas Fitch, Kt. and Baronet; now, or late, the Dwelling of Dr. Salmon, eminent in his profeſſion of Phyſick; a good large and handſome Building, with a graceful Front toward the Thames. Hughs Court, hath a paſſage into Duke Humfreys, which falls into Puddle Dock: And out of Duke Humfreys, is a paſſage into Cloyſter Court, and ſo into Ireland Yard, which comes into Puddle Dock Hill: And in this paſſage receives Jackſons Court, Canterbury Court, and Ireland Court, all Places of ſmall Account. And out of Ireland Yard, is Friers Court and New Street, both which are but ordinary, and fall into Shoemakers Row, which comes out of Black Friers in the broad Place, and falls into Creed lane, againſt Carter lane end. This Shoemakers Row is a Place of ſome Trade, and pretty well inhabited: And here are ſome ſmall Courts, as Cob's Court, &c. And out of this Row is Church Entry, but narrow and ordinary; and falls into Glaſs houſe Yard, by St. Ann's Church. This a pretty open Place, with good Buildings, and better inhabited than moſt of the other Places; and hath a paſſage into Water ſtreet, which hath good Buildings, and well inhabited.

St. Ann's Black Friers

St. Anns Black Friers Church, being in the Precinct of the Black Friers, and being burnt down in the Fire of London, is not rebuilt; but the Precinct is laid unto the Pariſh of St. Andrews Wardrobe, next adjoining.

King's Printing Houſe.

The King's Printing-houſe Yard, ſo called from the King's Printing-houſe there ſeated; a good convenient and large Building, for that Uſe. The King's Printers there printing Bibles in all Volumes, alſo Proclamations, and what concerns the publick Uſe.

The Scotch Hall. Apothecaries Hall. Worley Court. Ditch ſide.

The Scotch Hall, a large Houſe, ſeated as well in Water ſtreet, as on the Ditch ſide; made uſe of by Scotch Men for ſome Meeting. Apothecaries Hall, ſeated almoſt oppoſite to the Paved Alley that leadeth to the Ditch ſide, down Steps, againſt Bridewel Bridge. This Hall is a good Building, with a fair pair of Gates that leads into an open Court handſomely paved with broad Stones; at the upper end of which is the Hall, and other Appartments. In the corner of Black Friers, by London Wall, is Worley Court, which is but ſmall. And this hath a paſſage into the Ditch ſide; the Eaſt ſide of which, all along to the Water ſide, is in this Pariſh; and for the generality built with good Houſes, and well inhabited. And thus much for the Precinct of Black Friers.

Creed lane. Holiday Yard. Scallop Court.

Creed lane, formerly called Spurrier Row. It is a Lane peſtered with Carts and Carrs to Puddle Dock, and other Wharfs on the Water ſide, which makes it to be not over well inhabited. The Weſt ſide is in this Ward, the Eaſt in Caſtle Baynards. Out of this Lane are two paſſages into Holiday Yard or Court, which is a pretty large Place, but of no great Account: And here are two Courts into it, and both bearing the ſame Name. This Lane comes out of Ludgate ſtreet, againſt Ave Mary Lane, and falleth into Puddle Dock Hill. On the Eaſt ſide of this Lane is Scallop Court, indifferent good, with a Free-ſtone paſſage into Carter lane, againſt Puddle Dock Hill.

Ave Mary lane. Stationers Rents. Stationers Hall. Cock Alley.

Ave Mary lane hath good Houſes, many of which are inhabited by noted Tradeſmen. On the Weſt ſide is an open ſquare Court, with good Houſes, called Stationers Rents. Out of which Court is a paſſage into Amen Corner, and another into Stationers Hall; a very good Building, having a handſome large Hall, with a Court Room; and other Apartments ſeparate from the Hall, which are made uſe of for the Stock Books of the Company. Out of this Hall is a paſſage through Cock Alley into Ludgate ſtreet; which Alley is but narrow at the entrance, but againſt the Hall it is good and airy, fronting the Hall.

Amen Corner.

Amen Corner, ſhort, but indifferent well built and inhabited, fronting Pater-noſter Row. At the upper end was ſeated the College of Phyſicians, burned by the general Fire of London. Since which, in that Place, is erected a fair Houſe, now the Seat of a Reſidentiary of St. Pauls.

Warwick lane. Oxford Arms Inn. Warwick Court. Phyſicians College. White Hart ſtreet. Bell Inn. Crown Inn.

Warwick lane runneth Northwards into Newgate ſtreet; the Weſt Side being in this Ward, and the Eaſt in Caſtle Baynards. On the Weſt ſide are theſe Places, Oxford Arms Inn, very conſiderable, and well reſorted unto; the Inn ſtands backwards, and the paſſage to it hath ſmall Houſes on both ſides. Warwick Court, a very handſome, ſpacious and airy Court, with an open paſſage for Coaches into it; and is graced with very good large Buildings, well inhabited by Perſons of Repute. Phyſicians College, a very curious Structure: Of which ſee more in the firſt Book, where Colleges, Hoſpitals, &c. are treated of. Then on the Eaſt ſide of this Lane, is White Hart ſtreet, which gives a paſſage into Newgate Market, inhabited by Poulterers, and ſuch Trades whoſe Dependence is on the Market. Bell Inn, but ſmall, only for Stabling for the Market People's Horſes; and this Inn hath a paſſage into the Market. Crown Inn, alſo for that purpoſe, and but ſmall.

Newgate ſtreet. Newgate Priſon. The Preſs Yadd. Swan Yard. Phenix Court. Oxford Arms Inn. Crown Inn.

Newgate ſtreet, well inhabited by good Tradeſmen; it comes out of Cheapſide, and Blowbladder ſtreet, and runs to Newgate, the City Goal for Malefactors; as alſo for the County of Middleſex for the like Criminals, and likewiſe for Debtors. It is a large Priſon, and made very ſtrong, the better to ſecure ſuch Sort of Criminals, which too much fills it. Inſomuch that the Debtors are crowded amongſt them, except they have large Purſes to be in the Preſs Yard; which is a Place for the better Sort, or ſuch as can well gratify the Keepers extravagant Demands. And 'tis great pity, that many an honeſt Man, that through Miſfortunes of the World, hath contracted Debts more than he can pay, ſhould be confined to ſuch a Place, amongſt ſuch ill People, and to hear their Curſings and Blaſphemies; and that no other Priſon is provided for them. Of this Priſon ſee more in the firſt Book, where the City Gates and Poſterns are mentioned and taken notice of. Adjoining to this Priſon, on the North ſide, is Swan Yard, a pretty long Court, but ordinary. Phenix Court, adjoining to Newgate on the South ſide, a good handſome Place, with a Free-ſtone Pavement, and good Houſes. Oxford Arms Inn and Crown Inn by Warwick lane, both ordinary, and only for the Market Peoples Horſes.

Blowbladder ſtreet.

The Part of Newgate ſtreet, from Cheapſide Conduit, a little above St. Martins le Grand, unto the Shambles, was called Blowbladder ſtreet, from the Bladders there ſold in former Times.

Butchers Hall lane. Butchers Hall.

The Butchers inhabiting in this Street, have their Slaughter Houſes in Butchers Hall lane, formerly called Stinking lane, from the Naſtineſs of the Place; but now it is kept pretty clean, and here the Company of Butchers have their Hall. This Lane cometh out of Newgate ſtreet, and paſſing by Chriſt Church, into which which it hath an entrance, falls into Bull and Mouth ſtreet, which leadeth to St. Martins le Grand, but this is in Alderſgate Ward.

Angel ſtreet. Crow Court. The Bagnio. Pincock lane.

Out of this Lane is another paſſage into Angel ſtreet, an indifferent Place, and is but part in this Ward. Over againſt Chriſt Church, is Crow Court, which is but ſmall. Near unto this Lane is the Bagnio, a neat contrived Building after the Turkiſh Mode, for that purpoſe; ſeated in a large handſome Yard, and at the upper end of Pincock lane, which is indifferent well built and inhabited. This Bagnio is much reſorted unto for Sweating, being found very good for Aches, &c. and approved of by our Phyſicians.

Pentecoſt lane. Bull head Court.

On the North ſide of the Shambles was Pentecoſt lane. Here was antiently a Church and Churchyard, afterwards a large Square; and is now called Bull head Court; which is pretty well inhabited and built.

Chriſt Church.

Chriſt's Church was conſumed in the Conflagration of the City. And that Part called The New Church, which was made uſe of before, is rebuilt very handſome, at the Charges of the Pariſhioners of this Pariſh, and St. Leonard Foſter lane, which is united to it.

Gray Friers Court.

Adjoining to this Church and Hoſpital, is a Court, which retaineth the Name of the Grey Friers Court: a pretty large Place, having a paſſage into the ſaid Hoſpital, and another into Newgate ſtreet. And this Hoſpital gives a paſſage out of Newgate ſtreet, through the Cloyſters and Long Walk, into St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital, and ſo into Smithfield; being a great Thoroughfare all the Day long: But a Nights the Hoſpital Gates are ſhut up, as well to this paſſage, as the Town Ditch, which leadeth to Little Britain.

Newgate Market.

Newgate Market before the late dreadful Fire of London, was kept in Newgate ſtreet; where there was a Market-houſe only for Meal, and a middle Row of Sheds, which afterwards were converted into Houſes, and inhabited by Butchers, Tripe-ſellers, &c. And the Country People which brought Proviſions to the City, were forced to ſtand with their Stalls in the open Street; to the Damage of their Goods, and Danger of their Perſons, by the Coaches, Carts, Horſes, and Cattle, that paſſed through the Street. But ſince the nominating of convenient Places in the City for publick Markets, by Act of Parliament, which appoints the Lord Maior, Aldermen, and Commoners, to appoint proper Places, they have found out a moſt convenient Place for this Market, and near adjoining; being ſituate between Newgate ſtreet on the North, and Pater noſter Row on the South; and betwee Warwick lane on the Weſt, and Ivy lane on the Eaſt. The greateſt part of which Market is in this Ward, and the other part in Caſtle Baynards Ward.

The Market Place. Roſe ſtreet. White Hart ſtreet.

The Market-place is a ſquare piece of Ground, which is incompaſſed with fair Houſes, built according to the ſecond Rate of Building. In the middle of the Market-place, which is 148 Foot broad from North to South, and 194 Foot long from Eaſt to Weſt, there is erected a ſpacious Market-houſe, in form of a Croſs, ſtanding upon Twenty four Pillars or Columns, and aſcended up into the Market-houſe, by two or three broad ſtone Steps at all the Entrances. Under this Market-houſe are Vaults or Cellars; and over it ſeveral Rooms, for the ſtowage of the Fruiterers, and other Goods, in the Night; and over all a fair Cupulo, or Bell Tower. This Market-houſe is made uſe of for Fruit, Herbs, &c. And round about it, at a convenient diſtance, are Stalls for Butchers; as are Stalls alſo by the ſides of the Houſes, for Butchers and Poulterers. This Market is very well ſerved with all Sorts of Butchers Meat, and Poulterers Ware; alſo with Fruit, Herbs, Butter, Eggs, &c. The paſſages into this Market, are out of Newgate ſtreet through Roſe ſtreet, which is broad, but ſhort; well built, and inhabited by Butchers and Fiſhmongers. Another out of Warwick lane, through White Hart ſtreet, but ſhort alſo; inhabited by the like Tradeſmen. Another out of Pater noſter Row, through a ſhort Alley. And two others out of Ivy lane. As to the Laws for the well ordering of this, and the reſt of the Markets in London, they are ſet down in the Chapter of the Civil and Temporal Government of this City.

Swan Alley. Three Cup Court. Kings head Court

More Eaſtward from this Market, and in Newgate ſtreet, is Swan Alley, which is but ordinary. Three Cup Court, pretty ſmall; at the upper end of which is a paſſage into Pater noſter Row, through the King's Arms Tavern. Kings Head Court, very ſmall and ordinary.

Pater noſter Row.

Pater noſter Row. This Street, before the Fire of London, was taken up by eminent Mercers, Silk-men, and Lacemen; and their Shops were ſo reſorted unto by the Nobility and Gentry, in their Coaches, that oft times the Street was ſo ſtop'd up, that there was no paſſage for Foot Paſſengers. But ſince the ſaid Fire, thoſe eminent Tradeſmen have ſettled themſelves in ſeveral other Parts; eſpecially in Covent Garden, in Bedford ſtreet, Henrietta ſtreet, and King ſtreet. And the Inhabitants in this Street are now a mixture of Trades People, and chiefly Tire-Women; for the Sale of Commodes, Topknots, and the like Dreſſings for the Females. There are alſo many Shops of Mercers and Silk-men; and at the upper end ſome Stationers, and large Warehouſes for Bookſellers; well ſituated for learned and ſtudious Mens acceſs thither; being more retired and private.

Pauls Alley. Petty Canons. Petty Canons Alley.

This Street begins Eaſt at Cheapſide, and runneth up to Amen Corner; from which it is ſevered by Warwick lane and Ave Mary lane. And of all the Streets in the whole City, there is none to compare to it for handſome Signs, and uniformly hung. This Street hath a paſſage into theſe Places: On the South ſide, a ſmall Alley which leads to the Weſt end of St. Pauls, through London houſe Yard; where formerly the Biſhops of London had their Houſe or Palace. Pauls Alley, a Place of ſmall Trade, and very narrow, and falleth on the North ſide of St. Pauls; and about the middle divideth it ſelf into two parts, the one running ſtrait South, and the other Weſtwards. On the Eaſt ſide is a paſſage into Petty Canons, indifferent large, and now converted into Buildings; having at the upper part or end, a paſſage into Paul's Churchyard, near Petty Canons Alley, which is a good open Place, with a Free-ſtone Pavement leading into Pater noſter Row.

Meermaid Court.

Then on the North ſide of this Pater-noſter Row, next to Warwick lane, is Meermaid Court, a pretty handſome Place, with a Free-ſtone Pavement. Next is the paſſage into Newgate Market.

Ivy lane.
Sun Court.

Ivy lane, is well built and inhabited, and falleth into Newgate ſtreet, having two paſſages into Newgate Market, as aforeſaid. And on the Eaſt ſide is Sun Court, which is but ſmall.

Lovels Court.
Panier Alley.

In or near Pater noſter Row, is Lovel's Court, being a handſome large Place, with good Buildings, well inhabited. Queens head Alley, ſo called from the Queens head Tavern, there ſeated in an open ſquare Court, from which it hath a long paſſage into Newgate ſtreet. Panier Alley, near unto Cheapſide.

Eagle and Child Court.
Caſtle Tavern.

This Alley leadeth into Blowbladder ſtreet, over againſt St. Martins le Grand. This Alley is a good Thoroughfare, and a Place of a good Trade. On the Weſt ſide of this Alley, is Eagle and Child Court, which is but ſmall. Betwixt this Alley and Lovels Alley is the Caſtle Tavern, which is large, and enjoyeth a good Trade.

St Michael Quern Church.

A little Eaſtward from Panier Alley and Newgate ſtreet, like two Rivulets joining into one, they fall into Cheapſide. And juſt here, fronting Cheapſide, ſtood the Pariſh Church of St. Michaels Quern. Which ſince the late Fire of London, which conſumed it, is not rebuilt, but the Pariſh is united to St. Vedaſt, alias Foſters. And where that Church ſtood, againſt which is the paſſage into St. Paul's Churchyard, is a Conduit, not yet finiſhed; but deſigned for ſome magnificent Structure and Statue, the Place having a very fair Proſpect on Cheapſide.

Cheapſide.

This Street of Cheapſide, is ſpacious and large, graced with very lofty Buildings; which are well inhabited by Goldſmiths, Linnen Drapers, Haberdaſhers, Druggiſts, and other noted Tradeſmen; being one of the chief high Streets in the City, and of a very great Reſort, as leading to and from the Royal Exchange. This Street is ſeated in ſeveral Wards; as the part in this Ward goeth to Woodſtreet, taking in St. Peters Cheap Churchyard. Then Cripplegate Ward begins, which goeth to Milk ſtreet; then Cheap Ward begins, which taketh in the reſt of the Street to the Poultrey. And on the South ſide, this Ward runneth a little beyond Friday ſtreet; then Bread ſtreet Ward begins, and runs almoſt to St. Mary le Bow Church: And a little beyond the ſaid Church, Cheap Ward begins, and runs into the Poultry, and down Bucklersbury.

Foſter lane.
Goldſmiths Hall.

Foſter lane, for the generality inhabited by working Goldſmiths; and is of chief Note for Goldſmiths Hall here ſeated. There is but a very ſmall part of this Lane in this Ward, not above two Houſes beyond the Church. And to this Ward belongs the Weſt ſide of Noble ſtreet, in part, and Mugwel ſtreet, and the North ſide of Hart ſtreet unto Cripplegate; which is a narrow ſlip of Ground, and apart from the reſt of the Ward. The other Sides being on Cripplegate Ward, and joining to the ſaid Ward.

St. Foſters Church.

This Church of St. Foſters, ſince its burning down in the great Fire of London, is now rebuilt very decently; and beautified within, by the Pariſhioners of this Pariſh, and of St. Michaels Quern, which is united unto it.

Sadlers Hall.
Halfe Moon Alley.

Near unto this Lane, but in Cheapſide, is Sadlers Hall, a pretty good Building, ſeated at the upper end of a handſome Alley; near to which is Half Moon Alley, which is but ſmall. At the upper end of which is a Tavern, which gives a paſſage into Foſter lane, and another into Gutter lane.

Gutter lane.
Embroiders Hall.
Dayes Court.
Goldſmiths ſtreet.
Dove Court.
Inholders Hall.
Kings head Court.
Stone Court.
Huggin Alley.

Gutter lane, but narrow, and none of the beſt; here dwell ſeveral Joiners, that make Chimney Pieces, for which it is of ſome Note. Here the Company of Embroiderers have their Hall. In this Lane are theſe Places. Day's Court, on the Eaſt ſide indifferent good. Goldſmiths ſtreet leadeth to Woodſtreet, againſt the Compter, indifferent good: But of this Street, the greateſt part is in Cripplegate Ward. Dove Court, but ſmall and ordinary, ſeated on the Weſt ſide againſt Goldſmiths ſtreet. Inholders Hall, a pretty handſome Building. Kings head Court, a pretty ſquare Place, ſeated againſt Innholders Hall. Near unto this is Stone Court, but ſmall. More Northwards, and on the Weſt ſide, is Kerry lane, a pretty handſome Place, and of ſome Trade, having a paſſage into Foſter lane; but little or no part is in this Ward, but in Alderſgate Ward. Huggin Alley, comes out of Gutter lane, and falls into Woodſtreet, but no part in this Ward.

Woodſtreet.
St. Peter Cheap.

Woodſtreet, hath but a ſmall part in this Ward; only the Weſt ſide taking in the Churchyard of St. Peters Cheap, the Church not being rebuilt ſince the late Fire; and the Pariſh united to that of St. Mathew Friday ſtreet.

Fryday ſtreet.

Friday ſtreet, as far as the Church of St. Mathew Friday ſtreet, is in this Ward; the reſt in Bread ſtreet Ward.

St. Mathew Fryday ſtreet.

This Church is ſeated near the North-Weſt Corner of Friday ſtreet, next unto Cheapſide. Since its burning in the late Conflagration of London, it is rebuilt, and that of St. Peters Cheap united unto it. The Church is not very large, and built of Brick, except the Front towards the Street, which is all Free-ſtone. By this Church is a Free-ſtone paſſage, which leads to the Back Door of the Fountain Tavern in Cheapſide. In this Church are Prayers every Morning and Evening, about Seven of the Clock.

Star Court.
Shepherds Court.

Betwixt Friday ſtreet and the Old Change, is Star Court, a pretty large Place. Then Shepherds Court, very handſome, well built and inhabited. At the upper end of which is the Fountain Tavern, of good Account as moſt in Cheapſide.

The Old Change.

The Old Change. This Street begins in Cheapſide, and fall into Old Fiſhſtreet; but the part in this Ward goeth but to St. Auſtin's Church, and then the Weſt ſide, unto Old Fiſhſtreet, is in Caſtle Baynards Ward; and on the Eaſt ſide, in Bread ſtreet Ward.

Swan Cou
Green Drag
Court.
Three Dagg
Court.
Lamb Alle
Crane Cour
Crown Cou
Black Horſ
Court.
Kings hea
Inn.

This Street, taken from Cheapſide to Old Fiſhſtreet, is of a pretty good Trade, well built and inhabited. The Courts and Alleys, beginning next Cheapſide, and ſo to the Old Change, are, Swan Court, but ſmall, hath a paſſage through a Publick Houſe, called the Swan, into Paul's Churchyard. Green Dragon Court, indifferent good. Three Dagger Court, but ſmall. Purſe Court, a very handſome ſquare Place, with good Buildings, and Inhabitants anſwerable; with a Free-ſtone Pavement. Lamb Alley, long and ordinary. Crane Court, a good handſome Place. Crown Court, very good, the Front Part taken up by a Painter, ſeated oppoſite to Diſtaff lane. Black Horſe Court, narrow and ordinary. Kings Head Inn, of pretty good good reſort. Phenix Court, and Gingerbread Court, both ſmall and ordinary.

Phenix Court. Gingerbread Court. St. Auſtins Church.

St. Auſtin's Church, it was wholly conſumed in the great Fire of London, and is now beautifully rebuilt, with a moſt neat Spire, of curious Workmanſhip. To this Pariſh, is that of St. Faiths under St. Pauls united.

St. Paul Church Yard. St. Pauls School.

Paſſing out of this Street, through St. Auſtin's Gate, (which Name it retaineth, although the Gate, ſince the Fire of London, is not built, but lieth open) you enter into St. Paul's Churchyard; a ſpacious Place, and on all ſides begirt with very good Buildings, inhabited by great Traders. The Eaſt and South ſides generally by Woolen Drapers and Cane Chair Sellers. Part of the Eaſt ſide is taken up by Pauls School, a fine and large Building of Freeſtone, and held in great Eſteem for the well training up of Youth in Learning. The North ſide, which is the moſt ſpacious, eſpecially from the North Door to the Eaſt, is taken up by Bookſellers. And the Weſt ſide fronteth Ludgate ſtreet, where it is very ſpacious, and hath a very beautiful Proſpect, from St. Pauls now finiſhed.]

There are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, one Conſtable, a Beadle, and Forty Watchmen. The Watch.

The Jury returned by the Inqueſt, for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts holden in the Guild Hall, in the Month of September. The Jury.

It hath an Alderman, his Deputy, Common Council, 12. Conſtables, 17. Scavengers, 18. Wardmote Inqueſt, 18. and a Beadle. And is taxed to the Fifteen in London, at 50*l. †And in the Exchequer, at 53 l. 6 s. 8 d. The Government.

BRREADSTREET WARD. The Bounds. The Bakers of London. Cheapſide raiſed. Goldſmiths Row. The Old Change. Alhallows Breadſtreet. Mildred Breadſtreet. Gerard's Hall. The Compter in Breadſtreet. St. John Evangeliſt. St. Margaret Moyſes. The preſent State of this Ward.

Breadſtreet Ward. The Bounds.

B*Readſtreet* Ward beginneth in the High Street of Weſt Cheap, to wit, on the South ſide, from the Standard to the great Croſs. Then is alſo a part of Watheling ſtreet of this Ward; to wit, from over againſt the Red Lion, on the North ſide, up almoſt to Pauls Gate. For it lacketh but one Houſe of St. Auguſtin's Church. And on the South ſide, from the Red Lion Gate to the Old Exchange. And down the ſame Exchange, on the Eaſt ſide, by the Weſt end of Maiden lane, or Diſtar lane, to Knightriders ſtreet; or, as they call that part thereof, Old Fiſhſtreet. And all the North ſide of the ſaid Old Fiſhſtreet, till over againſt the Trinity Church, and Trinity lane.

Breadſtreet. Bakers of London.

Then is Breadſtreet it ſelf, ſo called, of Bread in old time there ſold. For it appeareth by Records, that in the Year 1302. which was the 30th of Edward I. the Bakers of London were bounden to ſell no Bread in their Shops or Houſes, but in the Market. And that they ſhould have four Hall-motes in the Year, at four ſeveral terms, to determine of Enormities belonging to the ſaid Company.

This Street, giving the Name to the whole Ward, beginneth in Weſt Cheape, almoſt by the Standard; and runneth down South, through or thwart Watheling ſtreet, to Knightriders ſtreet aforeſaid, where it endeth. This Breadſtreet is wholly on both ſides of this Ward. Out of the which Street, on the Eaſt ſide, is Baſing lane; a piece whereof to wit, to and over againſt the Back Gate of the Red Lion in Watheling ſtreet, is of this Breadſtreet Ward.

Friday ſtreet.

Then is there one other Street, which is called Friday ſtreet, and begins alſo in Weſt Cheap, and runneth down South through Watheling ſtreet, to Knightriders ſtreet, or Old Fiſhſtreet. This Friday ſtreet is of Breadſtreet Ward, on the Eaſt ſide, from over againſt the North-Eaſt Corner of St. Matthew's Church; anE on the Weſt ſide, from the South Corner of the ſaid Church, down as aforeſaid.

In this Friday ſtreet, on the Weſt ſide thereof, is a Lane, commonly called Maiden lane, or Diſtaff lane, corruptly for Diſtar lane, which runneth Weſt into the Old Exchange. And in this Lane is alſo one other Lane, on the South ſide thereof, likewiſe called Diſtar lane, which runneth down to Knightriders ſtreet, or Old Fiſhſtreet. And ſo be the Bounds of this whole Ward.

Monument of this Ward.

A fair paved Way found, 15 Foot deep, in Cheap ſtreet.

The Monuments to be noted here, are, firſt, at Breadſtreet Corner, the North-Eaſt end, 1595. one Thomas Tomlinſon, cauſing in the High Street of Cheap a Vault to be digged and made, there was found at fifteen Foot deep, a fair Pavement, like unto that above Ground. And at the further end, at the Channel, was found a Tree, ſawed into five Steps; which was to ſtep over ſome Brook, running out of the Weſt, towards Walbrook. And upon the edge of the ſaid Brook, as it ſeemeth, there were found lying along, the Bodies of two great Trees, the ends whereof were then ſawed off; and firm Timber, as at the firſt when they fell: Part of the ſaid Trees remain yet in the Ground undigged. It was all forced Ground, until they went paſt the Trees aforeſaid; which was about ſeventeen Foot deep, or better. Thus much hath the Ground of this City (in that place) been raiſed from the main.

R. B.

And here it may be obſerved, that within Fourſcore Years, and leſs, Cheapſide is raiſed divers Feet higher. For it hath been found to Twenty eight Foot higher than it was when St. Pauls was firſt built; as appeared by ſeveral eminent Marks, diſcovered in the late laying of the Foundation of that Church.]

Next to be noted, is the moſt beautiful Frame and Front of fair Houſes and Shops, that be within all the Walls of London, or elſewhere in England; commonly called Goldſmiths Row, betwixt Breadſtreet end and the Croſs in Cheap; but is within this Breadſtreet Ward. The ſame was builded by Thomas Wood, Goldſmith, one of the Sheriffs of London, in the Year 1491. It containeth in number ten fair dwelling Houſes, and fourteen Shops, all in one Frame, uniformly builded four Stories high, beautified towards the Street with the Goldſmiths Arms; and the likeneſs of Wood-men, in memory of his Name, riding on monſtrous Beaſts. All which is caſt in Lead, richly painted over, and gilt. Theſe he gave to the Goldſmiths, with Stocks of Money to be lent to young Men having thoſe Shops, &c. This ſaid Front was again new painted and gilt over, in the Year 1594. Sir Richard Martin being then Maior, and keeping his Maioralty in one of them; and ſerving out the time of Cutbert Buckle, in that Office, from the 2d of July, till the 28th of October.

Goldſmiths antiently in Cheap. J. S.

The Goldſmiths kept their Shops and Trade here in Weſt Cheape, from antient times, even before the Days of King Edward III. unto our Times. And the Exchange for the King's Coin was not far off; the Place yet called the Old Change. As appears by this Record, ſhewing not only the Place of the Goldſmiths Habitation, but their Occupation and Buſineſs about the Coin and Plate.

Their Petition againſt Strangers bringing in Coin.

Vpon the Goldſmiths Petition, exhibited to King Edward III. and his Council in Parliament, holden at Weſtminſter in the 1ſt of his Reign; ſhewing, ‘That no private Merchant
‘nor Stranger heretofore were wont to bring ‘into this Land any Money Coined, but Plate ‘of Silver to exchange for our Coin. And ‘that it had been alſo ordained, that all who ‘were of the Goldſmiths Trade, were to ſit in ‘their Shops in the High Street of Cheap; and ‘that no Silver in Plate, nor Veſſel of Gold or ‘Gold or Silver, ought to be ſold in the City

‘of

Silver and Gold to be ſold only in Cheap, or the Old Change.

‘ of London, except at or in the Exchange, or in Cheapſide, among the Goldſmiths, and that publickly: To the end, that the People of the ſaid Trade might inform themſelves, whether the Seller came lawfully by ſuch Veſſel, or not. But that now of late the ſaid Merchants, as well private as Strangers, brought from foreign Countries into this Nation, counterfeit Sterling: Whereof the Pound was not worth above ſixteen Sols of the right Sterling. And of this Money none could know the true Value, but by melting it down. And alſo that many of the ſaid Trade of Goldſmiths kept Shops in obſcure Turnings and By-lanes and Streets; and did buy Veſſels of Gold and Silver ſecretly, without inquiring, whether ſuch Veſſel were ſtolen, or lawfully come by. And immediately melting it down, did make it into Plate, and ſell it to Merchants trading beyond Sea, that it might be exported. And ſo they made falſe Work of Gold and Silver; as Bracelets, Lockets, Rings, and other Jewels. In which they ſet Glaſs of divers Colours, counterfeiting right Stones; and put more Allay in the Silver than they ought. Which they ſold to ſuch as had no Skill in ſuch Things.

‘ And that the Cutlers in their Workhouſes, covered Tin with Silver, ſo ſubtilly, and with ſuch ſlight, that the ſame could not be diſcerned and ſevered from the Tin. And by that means they ſold the Tin ſo covered for fine Silver; to the great Damage and Deceit of the King and his People.

‘ Whereupon the ſaid Goldſmiths petitioned the King, that he would be pleaſed to apply convenient Remedy therein. And he being willing to prevent the ſaid Evil (as the Letters Patents ran) did, by and with the Aſſent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Commons of the Realm, for the common Profit, Will and Graunt for him and his Heirs, that henceforth no Merchant, either Private or Stranger, ſhould bring into this Land any Sort of Money, but only Plate of fine Silver. Nor that any Gold or Silver wrought by Goldſmiths, or any Plate of Silver, ſhould be ſold to the Merchant to ſell again, and to be carried out of the Kingdom. But ſhould be ſold at the King's ſaid Exchange; or openly among the ſaid Goldſmiths, for private uſe only. And that none that pretended to be of the ſame Trade ſhould keep any Shop, but in Cheapſide; that it might be ſeen that their Work were good and right.

‘ And that thoſe of the ſame Trade might, by Virtue of theſe Preſents, elect honeſt, lawful, and ſufficient Men, beſt ſkilled in the ſaid Trade, to inquire of the Matters aforeſaid. And that they ſo choſen, might upon due Conſideration of the ſaid Craft, reform what Defects they ſhould find therein: And thereupon inflict due Puniſhment upon the Offenders; and that by the Help and Aſſiſtance of the Maior and Sheriffs, if occaſion be. And that in all trading Cities and Towns in England, where Goldſmiths reſided, the ſame Ordinance be obſerved, as in London. And that one or two of every ſuch City, or Town, for the reſt of that Trade, ſhould come to London, to be aſcertained of their Touch of Gold; and there to have a ſtamp of a Puncion with a Leopards Head marked upon their Work, as of antient time it hath been ordained.’ Theſe Letters Patents bore date at Weſtminſter the 30th of March, in the 1ſt Year of that King.]

Then for Watheling ſtreet, which Leyland calleth Atheling or Noble ſtreet; but ſince he ſheweth no Reaſon why it was ſo called, I rather take it ſo named, of the great High-way of the ſame calling. True it is, that at this preſent, (as of old time alſo) the Inhabitants thereof were and are wealthy Drapers, Retailers of Woolen Cloths, both broad and narrow of all Sorts, more than in any one Street of this City.

Knightriders ſtreet.

Of the Old Exchange here, I have noted in Faringdon Ward. Wherefore I paſs down to Knightriders ſtreet, whereof I have alſo ſpoken in Cordwainer ſtreet Ward. But in this part of the ſaid Knightriders ſtreet, is a Fiſh Market kept; and therefore called Old Fiſhſtreet, for a difference from New Fiſhſtreet.

Fiſh Market, called Old Fiſhſtreet.

Stalls.

In this Old Fiſhſtreet is one Row of ſmall Houſes, placed along in the midſt of Knightriders ſtreet; which Row is alſo of Breadſtreet Ward. Theſe Houſes, now poſſeſſed by Fiſhmongers, were at firſt but moveable Boards or Stalls, ſet out on Market-days, to ſhew their Fiſh there to be ſold. But procuring Licence to ſet up Sheds, they grew to Shops, and by little and little to tall Houſes, of three or four Stories in height, and now are called Fiſhſtreet. Walter Turke, Fiſhmonger, Maior, 1349. had two Shops in Old Fiſhſtreet, over againſt St. Nicolas Church; the one rented five Shillings the Year, the other four Shillings.

Breadſtreet, ſo called of Bread ſold there, (as I ſaid) is now inhabited by rich Merchants; and divers fair Inns be there, for good receit of Carriers, and other Travellers to the City.

Buckingham Houſe. Pet. le Neve. Norroy.

It appears in the Will of Edward Stafford Earl of Wylſhire, dated the 22d of March, 1498. and 14 Hen. VII. that he lived in a Houſe in Bredeſtrede, in London, which belonged to the Family of Stafford, Duke of Bucks afterwards; he bequeathing all the Stuff in that Houſe to the Lord of Buckingham; for he died without Iſſue. Genealogical Hiſtory of the Houſe of Mordaunt, pag. 211.

On the Eaſt ſide of this Street, at the corner of Watheling ſtreet, is the proper Church of Alhallows in Breadſtreet.

Repaired. R.

This Church, in many decayed Places of it, was repaired, and in every part of it richly and very worthily beautified, at the proper Coſt and Charges of the Pariſhioners, in the Year of our Lord God 1625.

Late Monuments.
J. S.

In the Chancel, a very large black Marble Stone, laid upon Jeremy Gouge, Citizen and Grocer of London, 1692. And two of his Children, both named Jeremy.

On the Head of this, two other Stones, one for Arthur Baron, Eſq; a worthy Member of many Societies in this honourable City, 1702. And his Nephew, Alexander Baron, 1703.

The other for Chriſtopher Rayner, and Frances his Wife, Daughter of Henry Baron, of Wells, Gent.

Humfrey Levinz, Citizen and Grocer, 1682. In the ſame Grave with his Son Humfrey, that died 1677.

In the Body of the Church, flat Stones over Mary Conant, Wife of Edward Conant, of this Pariſh, Haberdaſher, 1698.

J. Worthing.

On a Grave ſtone in the Chancel, at the Communion Table Rails, Southſide, lieth the Body of Rebecca, Wife of Mr. John Young, of this Pariſh, Merchant; Daughter of Rich. Nutcombe, of Nutcombe in the County of Devon, Eſq; She died October the 4th, 1715. Aged about 50. She was truly exemplary in her Life and Converſation, a ſincere Chriſtian, remarkable for her ſtrict Piety, Devotion, and Humility, and the pleaſure ſhe took in doing Good. She was of an affable and ſweet Temper, an excellent Wife, a kind Friend; and was bleſt with good Senſe, and many other Talents, of which ſhe made a good Uſe. It was her great delight, when alive, to draw near that holy Table, near which ſhe now lies waiting for a joyful Reſurrection.

Church ſuſpended.

In the 23d of Henry VIII. the 17th of Auguſt, two Prieſts of this Church fell at variance, that the one drew Blood of the other. Wherefore the ſame Church was ſuſpended, and no Service ſung or ſaid therein, for the ſpace of one Month after; the Prieſts were committed to Priſon, and the 15th of October being injoined Penance, went before a general Proceſſion, bare-headed, bare-footed, and bare-legged, before the Children, with Beads and Books in their Hands, from Pauls, through Cheap, Cornhill, &c.]

Spire of Alhallows Steeple ſmitten by Tempeſt.

The Steeple of this Church had ſometime a fair Spire of Stone, but taken down upon this Occaſion. In the Year 1559. the 5th of September, about Noon or Mid-day, fell a great Tempeſt at London, in the end whereof happened a great Lightning, with a terrible clap of Thunder, which ſtruck the ſaid Spire about nine or ten Foot beneath the top thereof: Out of the which place fell a Stone, that ſlew a Dog, and overthrew a Man that was playing with the Dog. The ſame Spire being but little damnified thereby, was ſhortly after taken down, for ſparing the Charges of Reparation.

The Pariſh Church of St. MILDRED in Breadſtreet.

St. Mildred.

Lower down on the ſame Side, is the Pariſh Church of St. Mildred the Virgin.

Repaired and beautified.

This Church was Repaired, and very worthily beautified, in the Year of our Lord 1628.

The greateſt part of the North Wall was new built, the Arches in the middle of the Church, four fair Windows over them, and a very fair Gallery, at the Coſt and Charge of the Pariſh.

Nicolas Criſpe,
Ralph King, } Churchwardens.

This for a general Charge, ſomewhat of particular Bounties.

At the upper end of this Church, on the South ſide, is a fair Window with this Inſcription.

This Window was glazed at the Charge of Heſter Criſpe, late Wife of Ellis Criſpe, Citizen and Alderman of London; who lieth fixt in a Vault at the bottom of this Window, 1629.

At the upper end of the Church, on the North ſide, another with this Inſcription.

This Window was glazed at the Charge of Samuel Criſpe, Citizen and Salter of London, 1630.

Between theſe two, at the upper end of the Chancel, is a fair Window, full of Coſt and Beauty; which being divided into five Parts, carries in the firſt of them a very artful and curious Repreſentation of the Spaniards great Armado, and the Battle in 1588. In the ſecond, the Monument of Queen Elizabeth, In the third, the Gunpowder Plot. In the fourth, the lamentable time of Infection, 1625. And in the fifth and laſt, the view and lively Portraiture of that worthy Gentleman, Captain Nicolas Criſpe, at whoſe ſole Coſt (among other) this beautiful piece of Work was erected; as alſo the Figures of his vertuous Wife and Children, with the Arms belonging unto them. The Verſes to every Story are theſe.

The Story of Eighty Eight.

Starre-gazing Wizards ſate upon this Yeere,
Matter of wonder,
and did threaten feare
Towards us, inſomuch that Rome and Spaine, This Land accounted their aſſured Gaine.
But marke how God did quite their Hopes confound, Both Ships and Men
we did ſee flee and drown'd.

Queen Elizabeth's Monument.

Marvell not why
we doe erect this Shrine,
Since dedicated 'tis to Worth divine;
Religion, Arts,
with Policy and Armes,
Did all concurre
in her moſt happy Raigne,
To keepe God's Church and us from plotted Harmes, Contriv'd by Romiſh Wits, and Force of Spaine.

The Powder Plot, 1605.

When Force could not prevaile, nor Plots abroad
Could have Succeſſe,
Sinne now invents new fraud;
Guy Vaux is ſent
Ambaſſador to Styx;
And thence returning,
furniſheth with Trickes
His damned Crew, who forth withall conclude,
To blow up King, the State, and Multitude.

The great Plague, 1625.

The Stories paſt,
God's Bleſſings to the State
Doe cleerely ſhew;
But ſure we were ingrate,
For now, behold, inſtead of ſweet Protection,
Thouſands are ſwept away
by foule Infection.
But marke God's Mercy,
in midſt of greateſt Cryes,
He ſheath'd his Sword, and wip'd Teares from our Eyes.

The Founder's Figure, with his Wife, Children, and their Arms.

Theſe Enſignes which you ſee, and Monument,
Are not ſo much to repreſent
The Founder's Perſon, as his zealous Care
T' expreſſe God's Love, and Mercies rare
To this his Vineyard:
For to that ſole end
Did he theſe Stories
thus commend To after Ages, that in their Diſtreſſe,
They might God's Goodneſſe
ſtill expreſſe.

With this, this Gentleman gave towards the Repair of this Church, among the Pariſhioners, above his Share as a Pariſhioner, 75 l.

Alſo for the Communion Table, two great Flagon Pots, to the Value of 57 l.

Alſo a very fair Font, in which a Child of his own was firſt Chriſtned.

His Brother, Mr. Samuel Criſpe, beſide his Window, above his ordinary Share as a Pariſhioner, gave to this fair Reparation 25 l.

The Mother of theſe worthy Gentlemen, the aforenamed Heſter Criſpe, the late Wife of Ellis Criſpe, Citizen and Alderman of London, now (by a ſecond, and thrice happy Nuptial) the Lady Pie, beſide her Window, gave to this fair Reparation 20 l. though at that time out of the Pariſh, and removed from thence to Chriſt Church.

Rebuilt. J. S.

This Church burnt down in the great Fire, was built again. It hath no Pillars, but a very fine Cupulo, and Cieling curiouſly fretted. The Pulpit is extraordinary fine Work, inlaid, and richly and artificially carved.

Here lieth a Man, that Faith and Works did even (Like fiery Chariots) mount him up to Heaven.
He did adorne this Church.
When Words were weake,
And Men forget, the living Stones will ſpeak;
He left us Land: This little Earth him keepes, Theſe black Words Mourners, and the Marble weepes.

BENEFACTORS.

Benefactors.

There is a Table of their Benefactors, on the North ſide of the Communion Table, ſet up by them in Gratitude, An. 1684.

The Lord Trenchaunt, of St. Albans, Kt. who was ſuppoſed to be the new Builder of this Church; our beſt Benefactor, about the Year 1300.

Sir John Chadworth, or Shadworth, ſometime Lord Maior of London. Who gave to this Chuch a Parſonage Houſe, Veſtry, and a Churchyard, in the Year 1430. and was buried in a Vault in this Chancel.

Mr. Coppinger, whoſe Monument ſtood in this Place before the late Fire, 1666.

Mr. Tho. Langham, a good Benefactor to this Pariſh, in the Year 1575.

Charities.

The Account given in of the charitable Gifts in the Parochial Viſitation, 1693. mentioned in general, divers Bequeſts and Legacies to the Church, Poor, and publick Uſes, Viz. Lands of the yearly Value of 50 l. and divers other Legacies, of the yearly Value of 20 l. 12 s. 2 d. as appear by the Regiſter Books; wherein the Names of all the Benefactors, and the Lands and Sums given, are particularly mentioned.

Parſonage.

The Parſonage Houſe was burnt down, rebuilt, leaſed out for Forty Years at 5 l. per ann. payable by the Executors of Mr. Thomas Hatton.]

Baſing lane, called the Bakehouſe.

Out of this Breadſtreet, on the ſame Eaſt Side, is Baſing lane, a part whereof (as is afore ſhewed) is of this Ward; but how it took that Name, I have not read: Other than that in the 20th Year of Richard II. the ſame was called the Bakehouſe; whether meant for the King's Bakehouſe, or of Bakers dwelling there, and baking Bread to ſerve the Market in Breadſtreet, where the Bread was ſold, I know not. But ſure I am, I have not read yet of any Baſing, or of Gerrard the Giant, to have any thing there to do.

Gerard's Hall.

On the South Side of this Lane, is one great Houſe, of old time builded upon arched Vaults of Stone, and with arched Gates, brought from Cane in Normandy.

A Pole of 40 Foot long, and 15 Inches about, fabuled to be the juſting Staff of Gerard a Giant.

The ſame is now a common Oſtrey for receipt of Travellers, commonly and corruptly called Gerard's Hall, of a Giant ſaid to have dwelled there. In the high Rooffed Hall of this Houſe, ſometime ſtood a large Firr Pole, which reached to the Roof thereof; and was ſaid to be one of the Staves that Gerard the Giant uſed in the Wars to run withal. There ſtood alſo a Ladder of the ſame length, which (as they ſaid) ſerved to aſcend to the top of the Staff. Of late Years this Hall is altered in building, and divers Rooms are made in it. Notwithſtanding, the Pole is removed to one Corner of the Hall, and the Ladder hanged, broken, upon a Wall in the Yard. The Hoſtler of that Houſe ſaid to me, the Pole lacked half a Foot of Forty in length. I meaſured the compaſs thereof, and found it to be fifteen Inches. Reaſon of the Pole could the Maſter of the Hoſtery give me none; but bade me read the great Chronicles, for there he had heard of it. Which Anſwer ſeemed to me inſufficient. For he meant the Deſcription of Britain; for the moſt part drawn out of John Leyland's Commentaries, (borrowed of my Self,) and placed before Reyne Wolfe's Chronicles, as the Labours of another; who was forced to confeſs, that he never travelled further than from London to the Univerſity of Oxford. Wherein the Author writing a Chapter of Giants or monſtrous Men, and having been deceived by ſome Authors, too much crediting their ſmooth Speech, hath ſet down more Matter than Truth; as partly, and alſo againſt my Will, I am inforced to touch. R. G. in his Brief Collection of Hiſtories (as he termeth it) hath theſe Words.

R. G. A Stone ſaid to be a Tooth; and ſo by Conjecture a Man to be 28 Foot of height.

I the Writer hereof, did ſee, the 10*th day of* March, in the Year of our Lord 1564. and had the ſame in my Hand, the Tooth of a Man, which weighed ten Ounces of Troy Weight. And the Skull of the ſame Man is extant, and to be ſeen, which will hold five Pecks of Wheat. And the Shin Bone of the ſame Man is ſix Foot in length, and of a marvellous greatneſs.

The Error thereof is thus: He affirmeth a Stone to be the Tooth of a Man; which Stone (ſo proved) having no ſhape of a Tooth, had neither Skull nor Shin-bone. Whereunto it is added in the ſaid Deſcription, That by conjectural ſymetry of thoſe Parts, the Body to be Twenty and eight Foot long, or more. From this he goeth to another Matter, of a Man with a Mouth ſixteen Foot wide; and ſo to Gerard the Giant, and his Staff. But to leave theſe Fables, and to return where I left, I will note what my ſelf have obſerved concerning that Houſe.

Gerards Hall reſtored to his old Name.

I read, that John Giſors, Maior cf London in the Year 1245. was Owner thereof; and that Sir John Giſors, Kt. Maior of Loudon, and Conſtable of the Tower, 1311. and divers others of that Name and Family, ſince that time, owned it. For I read that William Giſors was one of the Sheriffs 1329. More, that John Giſors had iſſue Henry and John; which John had iſſue Thomas. Which Thomas deceaſing in the Year 1350, left unto his Son Thomas his Meſſuage called Giſors Hall, in the Pariſh of St. Mildred in Bredſtreet. John Giſors made a Feofment thereof 1386, &c. So that it appeareth, that this Giſors Hall, of late time (by corruption) hath been called Gerards Hall, for Giſors Hall; as Boſoms Inn, for Bloſſoms Inn, Bevis Marks, for Buries Marks, Mark lane, for Mart lane, Beliter lane, for Belſctters lane, Gutter lane, for Gutburuns lane, Cry [or Cre] Church, for Chriſt's Church, St. Mihel in the Quern, for St. Mihel at Corn, and ſuch others. Out of this Giſors Hall, at the firſt Building thereof, were made divers arched Doors, yet to be ſeen, which ſeem not ſufficient for any great Monſter, or other than Men of common ſtature to paſs through.

Gerards Hall overthrown, with Gerard the Giant, and his great Spear.

The Pole in the Hall might be uſed in old time, as then the Cuſtom was in every Pariſh, to be ſet up in the Street, in the Summer, as a May-pole, before the principal Hall or Houſe in the Pariſh or Street; and to ſtand in the Hall before the Scrine, decked with Every Man's Houſe of old time was decked with Holly and Ivy in the Winter, eſpecially at Chriſtmas.

Holly and Ivy, at the Feaſt of Chriſtmas. The Ladder ſerved for the decking of the May-pole, and Roof of the Hall. Thus much for Giſors Hall, and for that ſide of Breadſtreet, may ſuffice.

Compter in Breadſtreet.

Priſoners removed from the Compter in Breadſtreet, to a new Counter in Woodſtreet.

Keeper of the Compter ſent to Newgate.

Queſt of Inquiry Indight the Keepers of the Goals for dealing hardly with their Priſoners.

They Indighted the Bowling Allies, &c.

Now on the Weſt ſide of Breadſtreet, amongſt divers fair and large Houſes for Merchants, and fair Inns for Paſſengers, had ye one Priſon-houſe pertaining to the Sheriffs of London, called the Compter in Breadſtreet. But in the Year 1555. the Priſoners were removed from thence, to one other new Compter in Woodſtreet, provided by the Cities purchaſe, and builded for that purpoſe. The Cauſe of which remove was this: Richard Husband, Paſtelar, Keeper of this Compter in Breadſtreet, being a wilful and head-ſtrong Man, dealt (for his own Advantage) hard with the Priſoners under his Charge; having alſo Servants, ſuch as himſelf liked beſt for their bad Uſage, and would not for any Complaint be reformed. Whereupon, in the Year 1550. Sir Rowland Hill being Maior, by the aſſent of a Court of Aldermen, he was ſent to the Goal of Newgate, for the cruel handling of his Priſoners. And it was commanded to the Keeper, to ſet thoſe Irons on his Legs, which are called the Widows Alms. Theſe he wore from Thurſday, till Sunday in the Afternoon; and being by a Court of Aldermen releaſed on the Tueſday, was bound in an Hundred Marks, to obſerve from thenceforth an Act made by the Common Council, for the ordering of Priſoners in the Compters. All which notwithſtanding, he continued as afore, whereof my ſelf am partly a Witneſs. For being on a Jury, to inquire againſt a Seſſions of Goal Delivery, in the Year 1552. we found the Priſoners hardly dealt withal for their Achates and otherwiſe; as alſo that Thieves and Strumpets were there lodged for 4 d. the Night, whereby they might be ſafe from Searches that were made abroad. For the which Enormities, and others not needful to be recited, he was Indighted at that Seſſions; but did rub it out, and could not be reformed, till this remove of the Priſoners: For the Houſe in Breadſtreet was his own by Leaſe, or otherwiſe, ſo that he could not be put from it. Such Jailors buying their Offices, will deal hardly with pitiful Priſoners.

An ABSTRACT of an Act of Common Council, held Septemb. 19. in the 3d and 4th Years of Philip and Mary, for the removing of the Compter Priſon out of Bredſtreet into Great Woodſtreet.

BY Reaſon of divers Hindrances, Injuries, Extremities, and Diſpleaſures, done unto the Priſoners in Bredſtreet Compter, by the Keepers of the ſame; who hiring the Houſe of the Goldſmiths Company, would not many times ſuffer the Sheriffs of London, who ſtand charged with the Priſoners, to uſe them ſo well as they had purpoſed. Whereby the City hath been ſlandered, Law and good Orders broken, and poor Priſoners too much abuſed. Therefore was the Priſon removed to a Houſe belonging to the City, ſituate in Great Woodſtreet; where the Sheriff and his Officers were to keep their Courts, &c. as they had before uſed in Bredſtreet. At which time it was alſo enacted, that the ſaid Compter in Woodſtreet ſhould never hereafter, for any Cauſe whatſoever, be letten out to any other Uſe or Perſon, &c.]

Maiden lane, or Diſtar lane.

On the Weſt ſide of this Friday ſtreet, is Maiden lane, ſo named of ſuch a Sign; or Diſtaff lane, for Diſtar lane; as I read in a Record of a Brewhouſe, called the Lamb in Diſtar lane, the 16th of Henry VI.

Cordwainers Hall.

In this Diſtar lane, on the North ſide thereof, is the Cordwainers or Shoemakers Hall; which Company were made a Brotherhood or Fraternity, in the 11th of Henry IV.

Long piked Shoes, tied to the Knees.

Of theſe Cordwainers I read, that ſince the 5th of Richard II. (when he took to Wife Anne, Daughter to Wenceſlaus, King of Bohemia) by her Example the Engliſh People had uſed piked Shoes, tied to their Knees with ſilken Laces, or Chains of Silver and gilt. Wherefore in the 4th of Edward IV. it was ordained and proclaimed, that Beaks of Shin* and Boots, ſhould not paſs the length of two Inches, upon pain of Curſing by the Clergy, and by Parliament to pay 20 s. for every Pair. And every Cordwainer that ſhod any Man or Woman on the Sunday, to pay 30 s.

 Read, Shoone. Piked Shoes forbidden.

On the South ſide of this Diſtar lane, is alſo one other Lane, called Diſtar lane; which runneth down to Knightriders ſtreet, or Old Fiſhſtreet.

Now to obſerve the preſent Condition of this Ward.

R. B.

The principal Streets and Places in this Ward, are Watling ſtreet, Bread ſtreet, Friday ſtreet, Diſtaff lane, Baſing lane, with the Eaſt ſide of the Old Change, from the Corner againſt St. Auſtins Gate, to Old Fiſhſtreet; and the North ſide of Old Fiſhſtreet, and Trinity lane, with part of the South ſide of Cheapſide, betwixt Friday ſtreet and St. Mary le Bow Church.

Watheling ſtreet.

Watheling ſtreet. It is a Street of a great Thoroughfare, hath good Buildings, which are very well inhabited by great Dealers, chiefly by Wholeſale. The Street begins two or three Houſes beyond St. Auſtins Church on the Weſt, and runneth Eaſtward through the Heart of this and Cordwainer Ward, almoſt unto St. Anthonincs Church; where Budge Row begins, and runneth into Canon ſtreet, in Walbrook Ward. In the part of this Street belonging to this Ward, are theſe Places, beginning by St. Auſtins Church; viz. St. John Evangeliſt Churchyard, ſeated in the Eaſt ſide Corner of Friday ſtreet, the Church not being rebuilt, but the Pariſh united to St. Alhallows Breadſtreet; and the Ground on which this Church ſtood, being incloſed, ſerveth as a Burying Place for the Inhabitants.

St. John Evangeliſt* Churchyard.

Breadſtreet.

Breadſtreet, is a good open Street, well built and inhabited by great Dealers, both by Wholeſale and Retail, Hop Merchants, Grocers, and others. It begins at Cheapſide, and runs Southwards to Old Fiſhſtreet, next to Trinity lane, croſſing Watheling ſtreet. The Courts in this Street beginning next Cheapſide, are Black Spread Eagle Court, but ſmall, with a Free ſtone Pavement; hath a very good Houſe at the upper end. Planners Court, indifferent large, but ordinary. Star Court, very large, with an open paſſage for a Cart; is well built and inhabited.

Black Spread Eagle Court. Planners Court. Star Court.

Alhallows Breadſtreet* Church.

Alhallows Breadſtreet Church, pretty large, and well built of Freeſtone; the Front being in this Street, but the Side in Watheling ſtreet.

It was conſumed in the great Fire, but rebuilt; and the Pariſh of St. John Evangeliſt, not built, is united unto it.

Three Cups Inn. White Cock Court.

Three Cups Inn, very large, well built, and of a great Trade for Country Waggons and Carriers. White Cock Court, a handſome ſquare Place, well built, and inhabited by Wholeſale Dealers.

St. *Mildreds.

St. Mildred Breadſtreet Church, deſtroyed by the general Conflagration; but now rebuilt of Free ſtone, with a Spire Steeple covered with Lead, very comely. To which Church, is united that of St. Margaret Moyſes, not rebuilt. It is ſeated on the Eaſt ſide of Breadſtreet, at the Corner of Watheling ſtreet.

Baſing lane.

Baſing lane, a pretty handſome open Street, with good Buildings; of this Lane, about half is in this Ward: The Eaſt part, towards Bow lane, being in Cordwainers Ward.

In Baſing lane is Gerard's Hall, now made uſe of for an Inn.

Red Lion Court.

Red Lion Court, hath a paſſage into Watheling ſtreet, already taken Notice of. And near unto unto the foreſaid Inn, is Horn Alley, which is but ſmall and ordinary.

Friday ſtreet.

Friday ſtreet, cometh out of Cheapſide, and runneth South into Old Fiſhſtreet; and in its paſſage croſſeth Watheling ſtreet. This Street is well built, and inhabited chiefly by Haberdaſhers, and other Wholeſale Dealers. In this Street are theſe Places: White Horſe Inn, large, and of a good reſort. Bell Inn, of a very good Reſort and Trade. Blue Boar Court, a pretty open Place, alſo inhabited by Wholeſale Dealers. Angel Court, but ordinary; with an open paſſage for Carts. Sarazens Head Inn, very large, and of a great Reſort and Trade.

White Horſe Inn. Bell Inn. Blue Boar Court. Angel Court. Sarazens Head Inn.

St. Margaret Moyſes Church.

St. Margaret Moyſes Church. It was ſeated on the Eaſt ſide of this Street, towards Old Fiſhſtreet; burnt in the Fire of London, not rebuilt, but the Pariſh united unto St. Mildred Breadſtreet; and the Place where this Church ſtood, is incloſed for a Burial Place for the Inhabitants.

Great Diſtar Lane.

Great Diſtaff, or Diſtar lane, comes out of the Old Change, and runneth up to Breadſtreet, againſt Baſing lane, croſſing Friday ſtreet on the South ſide.

Bucks Head Court.

Places of Name in this Lane. Bucks Head Court, a pretty ſmall Place, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Cordwainers, or Shoemakers Hall, a good handſome Building, ſeated oppoſite to Little Diſtaff lane, of no great Account, and runs into Old Fiſhſtreet. And in this Lane is Dolphin Court, as alſo Sugar loaf Court, both ſmall and ordinary.

Little Diſtaff lane. Dolphin and Sugar loaf Court.

Old Fiſhſtreet.

Old Fiſhſtreet hath the North ſide in this Ward; the other ſide in Queen Hith Ward.

Trinity Lane.

Trinity lane hath alſo the North part in this Ward, the other in Queen Hith Ward.

Old Change.

The Old Change hath but a ſmall part in this Ward; viz. The Eaſt ſide from Watheling ſtreet Corner, to Old Fiſhſtreet. The other Part in the Ward of Faringdon within, and Caſtle Baynard.

Cheapſide.

Cheapſide hath been deſcribed in the other Wards. The Part in this Ward, as alſo in that of Cordwainers, begins on the South ſide, ſomething Eaſtwards of Friday ſtreet, and runs almoſt to St. Mary le Bow Church; ſo that there is nothing of Courts to be here taken Notice of.

The Watch.

There are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, a Conſtable, the Beadle, and Thirty Watchmen.

The Jury.

NEXT unto Breadſtreet Ward on the South ſide thereof, is Queen Hith Ward, ſo called of a Water-gate, or Harborow for Boats, Lighters and Barges; and was (of old time) for Ships, at what time, the Timber Bridge of London was drawn up, for the paſſage of them to the ſaid Hith; as to a principal Strand for landing and unlading againſt the midſt and heart of the City. This Ward beginneth in the Eaſt, in Knightriders ſtreet, on the South ſide thereof, at the Eaſt end of the Pariſh Church called the Holy Trinity; and runneth Weſt on the South ſide, to a Lane called Lambert hill, which is the length of the Ward in Knightriders ſtreet. Out of the which Street are divers Lanes, running South to Thames ſtreet, and are of this Ward. The firſt is Trinity lane, which runneth down by the Weſt end of Trinity Church. Then is Spuren lane, or *Spooners lane, now called Huggen lane. Then Breadſtreet hill. Then St. Mary Mounthaut. Out of the which Lane, on the Eaſt ſide thereof, is one other Lane, turning Eaſt through St. Nicolas Olaves Churchyard, to Breadſtreet hill. This Lane is called Finimore lane, or Five Foot lane, becauſe it is but five Foot in breadth at the Weſt end. In the midſt of this Lane, runneth down one other Lane, broader, South to Thames ſtreet. I think the ſame to be called Deſborne lane; for I read of ſuch a Lane to have been in the Pariſh of St. Mary Somerſet, in the 22d of Edward III. Where there is ſaid to lie between the Tenement of Edward de Mountacute, Kt. on the Eaſt part, and the Tenement ſometime pertaining to William Gladwine, on the Weſt, one plot of Ground, containing in length towards Thames ſtreet, Twenty five Foot, &c.

Lambart hill.

Laſt of all, have you Lambart hill, ſo called of one Lambart, an Owner thereof; and this is the fartheſt Weſt part of this Ward.

On the North ſide, coming down from Knightriders ſtreet, the Eaſt ſide of Lambart hill is wholly of this Ward: And the Weſt ſide, from the North end of the Blackſmiths Hall (which is about the midſt of this Lane) unto Thames ſtreet. Then part of Thames ſtreet is alſo of this Ward; to wit, from a Cook's Houſe called the Sign of King David, three Houſes Weſt from the Old Swan Brewhouſe in the Eaſt, unto Huntington Houſe, over againſt St. Peters Church in the Weſt, near unto Pauls Wharf. And on the Lane ſide, from a Cook's Houſe called the Blue Boar, to the Weſt end of St. Peters Church, and up St. Peters Hill, two Houſes North above the ſaid Church. And theſe be the Bounds of this Ward; in which are Pariſh Churches ſeven, Halls of Companies two, and other Ornaments, as ſhall be ſhewed.

The Pariſh Church of the HOLY TRINITY.

Trinity Church.

Firſt, in Knightriders ſtreet is the ſmall Pariſh Church of the Holy Trinity, lately very old, and in danger of down falling. Collections were made for the repairing thereof, but they would not ſtretch ſo far; and therefore it leaned upon Props or Stilts, till the Year 1606. it being ſo lamentably decayed and periſhed, that (in the great Neceſſity of it) the Pariſhioners were conſtrained to pull it down to the Ground. And from thence, with what ſpeed they could, with much Coſt and Care, to rebuild it. Which in the Years 1607, and 1608. was finiſhed. And to enable them to go through with this chargeable Work, a general Aſſiſtance was given, as appeared by a publick Notice thereof, declared in Writing, in the Church.

Pulled down and rebuilt. R.

For in the South Ile, in the Wall, hung two large Tables: The one ſhewing the Contributions of all the Pariſhioners; the other the Contributions of all the Pariſhes within and without the City, towards the rebuilding of it. Containing the particular Sums of every Man's Gift in the Firſt, and of every Pariſh in the Second, there fairly ſet down.

Richard Owſal,
George Haſſeld, } then Churchwardens.

To this pious Work alſo, the Worſhipful Companies of the Merchant Taylors and Vintners, were very bounteous Benefactors.

Sir Thomas Cambel, } { Sir William Craven,
Sir John Swinnerton, } { Sir Tho. Middleton.
Sir John Gore,

Their Names and Arms ſtanding in a fair Window at the upper end of the Chancel.

Repaired.

This Church was alſo repaired and beautified at the Coſt and Charge of the Pariſh, in the Year of our Lord 1629.

Nicolas Salby,
Thomas Allam, } Churchwardens.]

Rebuilt. J. S.

This Church conſumed in the great Devaſtation by Fire, is indeed rebuilt; but is become a Church for Lutherans to ſerve God in; by the procurement chiefly of Theodore Jacobſon; and the Pariſh united to Queen Hith.

Charities.

There have been no Legacies or charitable Gifts belonging to this Pariſh, as the Churchwardens, 1693. knew of, given or left, either for Sermons or Reparations.

Glebe.

But fifteen Shillings per ann. for the Poor, payable to this Trinity Pariſh; to which a Stop was put about ten Years ago, or more, till a Difference depending were decided.

Perſons buried here.

John Brian, Alderman in the Reign of Henry V. was a great Benefactor. John Chamber had a Chauntry there. Thomas Riſhby, Eſq; and Alice his Wife, buried within the Chancel. John Mirfin, Auditor of the Exchequer, 1471. The State of the Lutheran Church here. J. S.

Theodore Jacobſon.

The converting of this Trinity Church into a Church for Proteſtant Foreigners, called Lutherans, is founded upon the King's Letters Patents, dated the 13th of September, 24 Car. II. to Theodore Jacobſon, and five other Gentlemen more, named in the Patent; and to their Heirs and Aſſignes; by the Conſent and Approbation of the then Archbiſhop of Canterbury, Biſhop of London, and Lord Maior. Free Liberty being granted them to cauſe a Temple to be erected on the Ruins where the Church of the Holy Trinity, before the Fire of London, ſtood. Which Ground they had purchaſed of the City of London, for the free Exerciſe ef the Auguſtan Confeſſion in the Germain Tongue; with divers other Powers and Authorities mentioned in the ſaid Letters Patents. And according to thoſe Powers granted to the Patentees, they made ſeveral Orders or Laws for the better regulating of themſelves, and for the Good of the ſaid Congregation.

Theodore Jacobſon being antient, by Indenture dated the 27th Jan. 170$\frac{2}{3}$. by Advice of able Counſel, conveyed all the ſaid Rights and Powers, unto Fourteen Perſons more, of known Honeſty and Ability, and of the ſame Congregation, and their Heirs; upon the Truſt, and to the Intents and Purpoſes in the Letters Patents mentioned. Theſe, for the Good of the Church as they pretended, altered ſome of the former Laws and Orders, and made others in their Room. Whereat the Miniſter, and four or five more of the Congregation were diſpleaſed; and they cauſed a Meeting to be held at the ſaid Temple, the 5th of May, 1703. And there, without Authority from the Truſtees, but rather in Oppoſition to them, elected twelve Perſon, under the Denomination of Deacons. And with theſe pretended Deacons, the ſaid Miniſter thwarts the intended good Deſigns of the Truſtees. Upon this, they of this Church entred into a Suit in Chancery.]

The Pariſh Church of St. NICOLAS Cold Abby.

St. Nicolas Cold Abby.

Towards the Weſt end of Knightriders ſtreet, is the Pariſh Church of St. Nicolas Cold Abby, a comely Church, ſomewhat antient, as appeareth by the Ways raiſed thereabout; ſo that Men are forced to deſcend into the Body of the Church. It hath been called of many Golden Abby, of ſome Gold (or Cold Bey) and ſo hath the moſt antient Writing. But I could never learn the Cauſe, why it ſhould be ſo called, and therefore I will let it paſs. Perhaps as ſtanding in a cold Place, as Cold Harbor, and ſuch like. The Steeple or tall Tower of this Church, with the South Ile, hath been of later building, to wit; the Firſt of Richard II. when it was meant that the whole old Church ſhould have been new builded, as appeareth by the Arching begun on the Eaſt ſide the Steeple. Under the which, in the ſtone Work, the Arms of one Buckland, Eſq; and his Wife, Daughter to Beaupere, are cut in Stone, and alſo are in the Glaſs Windows. Whereby it appeareth, he was Builder of the Steeple, and Repairer of the reſidue.

The 26th of Edw. III. Andrew Aubrey, being Maior, Thomas Frere, Fiſhmonger, gave one piece of Ground to the ſaid Pariſh Church of St. Nicolas, containing Eighty ſix Foot in length, and Forty three Foot at one end, and Thirty four at another, in breadth, for a Cemitory or Churchyard. The 20th of Rich. II. Thomas Barnard, Caſtle Clerk, John Sonderaſh, Clerk, and John Nouncy, gave to the Parſon and Churchwardens of the ſaid Church, and their Succeſſors, one Meſſuage and one Shop, with the Appurtenances, in Diſtaff lane, and Old Fiſhſtreet, for the Reparation of the Body of the ſaid Church, the Belfry or Steeple, and Ornaments.

The next is Old Fiſhſtreet Hill, a Lane ſo called, which alſo runneth down to Thames ſtreet. In this Lane, on the Eaſt ſide, is the one end of Finimore, or Five Foot lane.

Biſhop of Hereford's Houſe.

On the Weſt ſide of this Old Fiſhſtreet Hill, is the Biſhop of Hereford's Inn, or Lodging an antient Houſe, and large Rooms, builded of Stone and Timber, which ſometime belonged to the Mounthauts in Norfolk. Radulphus de Maydenſtone, Biſhop of Hereford, about 1234. bought it of the Mounthauts, and gave it to the Biſhops of Hereford, his Succeſſors. Charles, both Biſhop of Hereford, and Chancellor of the Marches, about the Year 1517. repaired it. Since the which time, the ſame is greatly ruinated, and is now divided into many ſmall Tenements. The Hall and principal Rooms, are an Houſe to make Sugar-loaves, &c.

The Pariſh Church of St. MARY Mounthaut.

St. Mary de Monte alto.

Next adjoining is the Pariſh Church of St. Mary de Monte alto, or Mounthaut. This is a very ſmall Church, and at the firſt, builded to be a Chappel for the ſaid Houſe of the Mounthauts, and for Tenements thereunto belonging. The Biſhop of Hereford is Patron thereof.

Partly new built. R.

This Church was in part new builded, and very much inlarged and beautified, in the Year of our Lord 1609.

John Skip, Biſhop of Hereford, 1539. ſate twelve Years; died at London in time of Parliament, and was buried in this Church.

Robert Belkenape's Houſe given to W. Wickham.

There was ſometime a fair Houſe in the ſaid Pariſh of St. Mary Mounthaut, belonging to Robert Belkenape, one of the King's Juſtices; but the ſaid Belkenape being baniſhed this Realm, King Richard II. in the 12th of his Reign, gave it to William Wickham, Biſhop of Wincheſter.

One old Hall of the Fiſhmongers.

On the Eaſt ſide of this Old Fiſhſtreet Hill, is one great Houſe, now letten out for Rent. Which Houſe ſometime was one of the Halls pertaining to the Company of Fiſhmongers, at ſuch time as they had ſix Hall-motes or meeting Places. Namely, two in Bridge ſtreet, or New Fiſhſtreet; two in Old Fiſhſtreet, whereof this was one; and two in Stockfiſhmonger Row, or Thames ſtreet; as appeareth by a Record the 22d of Rich. II.

Fiſhmongers Hall-motes, ſix in number. Patents.

Lambard Hill.

Blackſmiths Hall.

Next Weſtward, is one other Lane, called Lambard Hill; the Eaſt ſide whereof is wholly of this Ward, and but half the Weſt ſide; to wit, from the North end of the Blackſmiths Hall.

The Pariſh Church of St. MICHAEL Queen Hith.

St. Michael at Queen Hith.

Then in Thames ſtreet, of this Ward, and on the North ſide, over againſt the Queen Hith, is the Pariſh Cnurch of St. Michael, a convenient Church.

Repaired. R.

This Church was repaired and beautified, great Coſt beſtowed on the Roof, the Eaſt and Weſt Windows new built and glazed, with other Repairs about it, at the Coſt and Charge of the Pariſh, in the Year of our Lord 1615.

Miles Gunthorp,
Stephen Scot, } Churchwardens.]

Rebuilt. J. S.

This Church was burnt down alſo in the great Fire, built again, and Trinity Pariſh laid to it. The Communion Table was given by Mr. John Oliver, 1682. Two Damask Table Cloths, a long time ſince given; the Donors unknown.

Charities.

Charitable Gifts and Benevolences are regiſtred in this Pariſh, with the Names of the Benefactors; and laid out according to the intent of the Donors.

Parſonage.

No Parſonage Houſe belongs to this Pariſh, nor did before the Fire; nor any Glebe. Nor any in the Year 1636. for ought appeared in the Parochial Viſitation that Year.]

All the Monuments in this Church are defaced.

I find that Stephen Spilman, Gentleman, of that Family in Norfolk, ſometime Mercer, Chamberlain of London, then one of the Sheriffs, and Alderman; in the Year 1404. deceaſing without Iſſue, gave his Lands to his Family, the Spilmans, and his Goods to the making or repairing of Bridges, and other like godly Uſes. And amongſt others, to this Church, wherein he founded a Chauntry, and was buried in the Quire.

Alſo Richard Marlow, Ironmonger, Maior 1409. gave 20 l. to the Poor of this Ward, and ten Marks to the Church.

His Monument yet remaineth.

Richard Gray, Ironmonger, one of the Sheriffs 1515. gave 40 l. to that Church, and was there buried.

Queen Elizabeth hath a Monument in this Church, with the Inſcription following.

Many Daughters have done Vertuouſly, but thou excelleſt them all.

Nor any Gifts or Legacies to Church or Poor.

At the Weſt end thereof is a Lane, called St. Peters Hill; but two Houſes up that Lane, on the Eaſt ſide, is of this Ward, and the reſt is of Caſtle Baynard Ward.

On the South ſide of Thames ſtreet, beginning again in the Eaſt, among the Cooks; the firſt in this Ward is the Sign of David the King.

Towns-end lane. Then is Towns-end lane, turning down to the Thames.

Edred's Hith, or Queen Hith. Then is Queen Hith, a large Receptacle for Ships, Lighters, Barges, and ſuch other Veſſels. Touching the Antiquity and Uſe of this Gate and Hith; firſt I find, that of old time the ſame belonged to one named Edred, and was then called Edred's Hith. Which ſince falling to the Hands of King Stephen, it was by his Charter confirmed to William de Ypre. The Farm thereof in Fee and in Heritage, William de Ypre gave it unto the Prior and Covent of the Holy Trinity within Aldgate, as appeareth by this Charter. Lib. Trinitat.

Given to Trinity Priory. To Theobald, by the Grace of God Archbiſhop of Canterbury, Primate of England, and Legate Apoſtolike. To the Biſhop of London, and to all faithfull People, Clerkes and Laymen, William de Ypre ſendeth greeting. Know ye me to have given and granted to God, and to the Church of the Holy Trinity of London, to the Prior and Canons there, ſerving God, in perpetual Alms, Edred's Hith, with the Appurtenances. With ſuch Devotion, that they ſhall ſend every Yeere twenty Pounds, unto the maintenance of the Hoſpitall of Katharines, which Hoſpital they have in their Hands; and one hundred Shillings to the Monkes of Berdmonſey, and ſixty Shillings to the Brethren of the Hoſpitall of Saint Giles. And that which remaineth, the ſaid Prior and Canons ſhall enjoy to themſelves. Witneſſes, Richard de Lucia, Raphe Bigot, or Picot, &c.

Record. This Edreds Hith, after the aforeſaid Grants, came again into the King's Hands, by what means I have not read.

Grants of Queen Hith. Clauſ. 6 H. 3. m. 7. & 10 H. 3. m 22. Pet. le Neve. Nor. And in the 6th Year of Henry III. being then called Ripa Reginæ, he granted it to Richard de Ripary, i. e. Rivers. And in the 10th of his Reign, he granted it Thomæ Cirenceſtriæ ad placitum Regis; i. e. To Thomas Cirenceſter at the King's pleaſure.]

But it pertained unto the Queen, and therefore was called Ripa Reginæ, the Queens Bank, or Queens Hith; and great Profit was made to her Uſe, as may appear by this which followeth.

Ships of the Ports arreſted, and forced to bring their Corn to Queen Hith. King Henry III. in the 9th of his Reign, commanded the Conſtable of the Tower of London, to Arreſt the Ships of the Cinque Ports, on the River of Thames, and to compel them to bring their Corn to no other Place, but to the Queens Hith only.

Pet le Neve. Clauſ. 9 H. 3. m. 15. The ſame Year, viz. 9 Hen. III. the ſaid Conſtable was required to Arreſt the ſaid Ships in the Thames, to carry their Corn only to the Ports of the Realm. The Words are, De blado non cariando niſi ad portus Regni.]

In the 11th of his Reign, he charged the ſaid Conſtable to diſtrain any Fiſh offered to be ſold in any Place of this City, but at the Queens Hith.

Fiſh Boats not to tarry on this ſide the Bridge. Rot Clauſ. 11 H. 3. m. 15. Pet le Neve. J. S. The Words of the Record are, Diſtringat eos, qui ducunt piſcem venalem in Navibus uſq; London, & remanent trans Pontem London, ex parte Turris, ad ducendum dict. piſcem uſq; Hitham. The Conſtable was to compel or force them who brought Fiſh in Boats to London, to ſell, not to remain on this ſide the Bridge near the Tower, but to ſee them conveyed to Queen Hith. And again in the 10th of that King, Ducet [Conſtabularius Turris] piſcem venalem venientem ap. London. ad Ripam Reginæ.] Clauſ. 10 H. 3. m 14.

Moreover, in the 28th of the ſaid King's Reign, an Inquiſition was made before William of York, Provoſt of Beverley, Henry of Bath, and Hierome of Caxton, Juſtices Itinerants, ſitting in the Tower of London, touching the Cuſtoms of Queen Hith, obſerved in the Year laſt before the Wars between the King his Father, and the Barons of England; and of old Cuſtoms of other Times. And what Cuſtoms had been changed, at what time the Tax and Payment of all Things coming thither; and between Woorepath, and Anede Hith, were found and ſeized, according to the old Order; as well Corn and Fiſh, as of other Things. All which Cuſtoms Liberty of the Queens Hith from the Steelyard to the Black Friers.

Cuſtoms were as well to be obſerved in the part of Downgate, as in Queen Hith, for the King's Uſe. When alſo it was found, that the Corn arriving between the Gate of Guild Hall of the Merchants of Coleyne, and the Soke of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury (for he had a Houſe near unto the Black Friers) was not to be meaſured by any other Quarter, than by that of the Queens Soke.

Soke is Court.

After this, the Bailiffs of the ſaid Hith complained, that ſince the ſaid Recognition, fourteen foreign Ships, laden with Fiſh, arrived at Belinſgate, which Ships ſhould have arrived at the ſaid Hith. And therefore it was ordered, that if any foreign Ship, laden with Fiſh, ſhould in form aforeſaid arive elſewhere than at this Hith, it ſhould be at the King's Pleaſure to amerce them at 40 s. Notwithſtanding, the Ships of the Citizens of London were at liberty to arrive where the Owners would appoint them.

The Inquiſition concerning Queen Hith 28 Hen. 3. Lib. Horn. fol. 342. 6. J. S.

All this Inquiſition before the King's Juſtices Itinerants, 28 Hen. III. concerning Queen Hith, being ſet down very imperfectly and obſcurely, I ſhall here more fully and exactly relate it, as it ſtands in the Books of the Chamber.

‘ Dominus Rex mandavit, &c. i. e. Our Lord the King, (Henry III.) commanded Lord William de Eboraco, Provoſt of Beverly, and Henry of Bath, and Jeremiah de Caxton, his Fellow Juſtices Itinerants at the Tower of London, in the 28th Year of the Reign of the ſaid Henry, Son of King John, that with all diligence, and by all the ways they could, they cauſe Inquiry to be made, what Cuſtoms belonged to the Queen's Heth, London; the Year next before the War moved between the Lord John, his Father, and his Barons of England. And when it ſhall appear to them concerning thoſe Cuſtoms, and others, which belonged to the aforeſaid Heth, and which were afterwards changed and alienated, they labour with all Solicitude and Carefulneſs they can, to reform the ſaid Heth to its due State. And that the Cuſtoms in the ſame be held, which was wont to be held in the Time foreſaid.

‘ Before which Provoſt and Juſtices it was convicted by the Maior and Aldermen of the City, that in the Time aforeſaid were three Cuſtoms belonging to the foreſaid Heth; to wit:

‘ Of every Sieve* (that is a Meaſure containing five Quarters) of Salt, that ſhall belong to a Man that is a Foreigner, or to any one of the five Ports, and ſhall land and come, whereſoever it be within Woreparth, and Anedebethe, or beyond, 2 d. at the Farm of the ſaid Heth.

* Sippa.

Memorand. That Werepath, or Worepath, is in Eaſt part of the Flete of Barking, about ſeven Miles from London; and Anedebeth is near Weſtminſter on the Weſt Part of London.

‘ Alſo, if any Citizen of London, have part in the ſame Sieve of Salt, he ſhall give nothing of his Portion: But the Reſidue that belongs to Strangers, ſhall give Cuſtom according to the quantity of his Ware.

‘ Alſo, if any bring from abroad, Herring, Corn, or ſuch like, together with Salt, in one Ship, it hath been lawful for the Queen's Bailiff to take a part of the foreſaid Catals.

‘ Alſo, if any from abroad, and alſo from the five Ports, come with Salmon, if he ſhall bring an Hundred, or more, he ſhall give two Salmons to the Queen's Farm.

‘ And if he ſhall land them in the Queen's Soke, he ſhall give one of the beſt, and one of the middling Sort.

‘ And if he ſhall bring leſs than an Hundred, he ſhall give according to the Quantity of the Thing, to the fourth Part.

‘ And if he ſhall bring leſs than the fourth Part, he ſhall give nothing but Standage.

‘ Alſo, of Salt Milvel, [a kind of Fiſh] the ſame Cuſtom is to be taken at the Queen's Farm in the ſame Soke, which the Sheriff takes for the King's Uſe at Bilinſgate.

‘ Alſo, if a Stranger, and alſo any for the five Ports, ſhall bring in his Ship White Herring ſalted, in the Queen's Soke, One hundred is to be taken out of the Ship. And if any of the Citizens have a part with him, nothing to be taken from his Portion.

‘ Alſo, whatſoever Stranger brings the firſt Red Herring, not frailed, he ſhall give an Hundred Herrings. And others who ſhall come with the ſame kind of Herrings, whether they are frailed or not, ſhall give nothing through the whole Year, beſide the the Standage of the Ship.

‘ Alſo, if any Foreigner ſhall buy Salmon or Mulvel, ſalted in the Ship, and ſhall put it into another Ship; for every Thouſand he ſhall give an Halfpeny.

‘ Alſo, concerning Salmon and Mulvel bought in Shops, ſituate in the ſame Soke, of every Hundred is to be taken 2 d. as was before ſaid concerning the Ships.

‘ Alſo, of Herrings bought in Shops, of every Thouſand is to be taken an Halfpeny.

‘ Alſo, of every kind of Freſh Fiſh, coming in the Queen's Soke, the ſame Cuſtom is to be taken, which is taken of the ſame kind of Fiſh, at the Queen's Farm at London Bridge.

‘ Alſo, of every Ship that ſaileth within Orlokes, is to be taken 2 d. at the Queen's Farm; unleſs it be of London, or of the five Ports.

‘ Alſo, of a Ship which ſaileth with Toll*, is to be taken an Halfpeny.

* Cum Tholl.

‘ Alſo, of every Shout coming down in the Queen's Soke with Corn, to be taken 1 d. ob. But if with Wood, without Corn, 1 d.

‘ All Cuſtoms before written, are to be kept and held as well in the Port of Douegate, as Queen Hith, for the Lord the King's Uſe.

‘ Alſo, Corn which landeth between the Gutter of the Guild Hall of the Men of Colen, and the Archbiſhop of Canterbury's Soke, [i. e. near Black Friers] is not wont to be meaſured by another Quartern, than by the Quartern of the Queen's Soke.

‘ Alſo, it belongeth to the Queen's Bailiff, to take Scawyng in Selda Wynton, for the Queen's Uſe; under the ſame Form, as the Sheriff of London takes Scawynge elſewhere in London, for the King's Uſe.

‘ Alſo, if any withdraw his Cuſtom, and depart from the City with the ſame Cuſtom, he falls into the Mercy of the Bailiff.

‘ Alſo, if any offer to pay his Cuſtom to the Bailiff, or his Servant, and they will not take it, although he depart from the City, he is not to be amerced.

‘ Alſo, all Aſſizes of the City, in the Huſtings, provided and ordained for the Amendmenr of the City, are to be ordained and obſerved in the Queen's Soke. And therefore it is a Cuſtom, that the Lord the King have his Seizin of all the foreſaid Cuſtoms, according as it is acknowledged by the ſame Maior and Citizens.

‘ Afterwards came the Bailiffs of the ſame Heth and complained, that after the foreſaid Acknowledgment, fourteen foreign Ships landed with Fiſh at Billinſgate, which ought to have landed at the foreſaid Heth. And therefore the Cuſtom is, that if any Foreign Ship with Fiſh, land elſewhere in the Form aforeſaid, than at the foreſaid Heth, it is in the King's Mercy; to wit, at 40 s. [Forfeiture.] Let this Puniſhment have Place, until one Month after the Feaſt of St. Michael, this Year. And in the mean time, according to the Tranſgreſſion, Proviſion is made for inflicting an heavier Pain, if they will not obſerve the foreſaid Form.

‘ Afterwards came the Maior and Citizens, and ſay, that Six Ships of Strangers, with all Salt Fiſh, in Foreign Spindler Boats, landed at the foreſaid Heth, in the foreſaid Time. But Ships which were the Citizens of London, landed elſewhere, where they would. And therefore let the King have his Seizin.]

Queen Hith let to farm to the Maior and Communalty of London.

After this, the ſaid Henry III. confirmed the Grant of Richard Earl of Cornwal, for the Farm of the Queen Hith, unto John Giſors, then Maior, and to the Communalty of London, and their Succeſſors for ever; as by this his Charter appeareth.

Lib. Trinit. London.

Henry, by the Grace of God King of England, Lord of Ireland, Duke of Guien, and Earle of Anjou, to all Archbiſhops, &c. Be it knowne, that Wee have ſeene the Covenant betweene our Brother Richard, Earle of Cornwall, of the one Party, and the Maior and Communalty of London, on the other Party; which was in this Sort. In the Thirtieth Yeere of Henry, the Sonne of King John, upon the Feaſt of the Tranſlation of St. Edward at Weſtminſter, this Covenant was made betweene the Honourable Lord Richard, Earle of Cornwall, and John Giſors, then Maior of London, and the Commons thereof; concerning certaine Exactions and Demands pertaining to the Queene Hith of London. To wit, That the ſaid Earle granted for himſelf and his Heyres, that the ſaid Maior, and all Maiors enſuing, and all the Commons of the City, ſhould have and hold the Queene Hith, with all the Liberties and Cuſtomes, and other Appurtenances in Fee Ferme; rendring thence yeerely to the ſaid Earle, his Heires and Aſſignes, fifty Pounds, at Clarkenwell at two ſeveral Termes; to wit, at the cloſe of Eaſter 25 Pounds, and in the Octaves of Michaelmas, 25 Pounds. And for more Surety hereof, the ſaid Earle hath ſet thereunto his Seale, and left it with the Maior; and the Maior and Communalty have ſet to their Seale, and left it with the Earle. Where We confirme and eſtabliſh the ſaid Covenant, for Us and for our Heires. Witneſſes, Raphe Fitz-Nichol, Richard Gray, John and Will. Brithem, Paulin Paynter, Raphe Wancia, John Cumband, and others. At Windſor, the 26th of February, the 31ſt of our Reign.

The City doubt of the Earl's Title to Queen Hith.

J. S.

It ſeems Queen Hith was in the Hands of the Earl of Cornwal, at the Death of K. Henry III. and the Citizens ſuppoſed was wrongfully detained from them. For upon an Inquiſition appointed by the Juſtices the 3d of Ed. I. they make this Preſentment. That the Queen Hith was ſometime belonging to the City of London; and how it came to the Earl of Cornwal, and his Heirs, they knew not, nor by what Warrant. And that it was worth per ann. 52 l. And moreover they ſay, That King John, Father of Lord King Henry, gave Queen Hith to Alionore, then Queen of England; and was had of the King's Demeſne all his Time. But from that time, till now, the Earl of Cornwal, and his Heirs held it; and ſtill did hold it againſt the Crown, and Diſenheriſen of the King, as it ſeemed to them. But by what Warrant they knew not.]

The Charge of this Queen Hith was then committed to the Sheriffs, and ſo hath continued ever ſince. The Profits whereof are ſore diminiſhed: So that (as writeth Robert Fabian) it was worth in his time, little above twenty Marks, or fifteen Pound one Year with another.

Rob. Fabian, Lib. Conſtit.

Cuſtom of Queen Hith.

Now, for Cuſtoms of this Queen Hith. In the Year 1302. the 30th of Edward I. it was found by the Oath of divers Men, that Bakers, Brewers, and others, buying their Corn at Queen Hith, ſhould pay for Meaſuring, Portage, and Carriage, for every Quarter of Corn whatſoever; from thence to Weſt Cheap, to St. Anthonine's Church, to Horſeſhooe Bridge, and to Woolſey ſtreet, in the Pariſh of Alhallows the Leſs, and ſuch like Diſtances, one ob. q. To Fleet Bridge, to Newgate, Criplegate, to Birchovers Lane, to Eaſtcheape, and Bilinſgate, one Penny. Alſo, that the Meaſurer, or the Meeter, ought to have eight chief Maſter Porters; every Maſter to have three Porters under him, and every one of them to find one Horſe, and ſeven Sacks; and he that ſo did not, to looſe his Office.

A Corn Meeter, eight Maſter Porters, and twenty four Porters under them, at Queen Hith.

Corn Meeters and Corn Carriers, their Fees

J. S. Lib. Horn. fol. 298. b.

This being related for brevity ſake, ſomewhat imperfectly, I ſhall here exemplify it out of an Authentick Record in the Chamber of London, bearing this Title, Salarium Menſuratorum bladi & cariant. in Ripa Reginæ: i. e. The Fee of the Meeters of Corn, and the Carriers of it in Queen Hith.

Inquiſitio capta, &c. i. e. ‘ An Inquiſition taken before Elia Ruſſel, then Maior of London, and Alderman of the ſame City, on Saturday next after the Conception of the Bleſſed Virgin Mary, An. 29 Ed. I. (which was in the Year of Chriſt 1301.) by John de Stratford, William de Welles, Richard de Chingford, Will. Poyntell, John Page, Will. de Gartone, Peter de Hungrie, Will. Cok, Fruter, John de Paris, John Dode, John le Coffrer, Adam Braz, &c. Who being ſworn, and diligently examined, ſay upon their Oath, That antiently it was appointed, and hitherto uſed in the City and Suburbs of London, that the Bakers and Brewers, and others of the City of London, paid for the common Meaſure and Carriage, and Porterage to their Houſes, of one Quarter of Corn, of whatſoever Kind, bought at Queen Hith, after this manner; to wit, From the Hith of the Queen, to all Streets and Lanes as far as Eaſtchepe, and as far as the Church of St. Anthonie, and as far as Horſeſhoe Bridge, and as far as Wolfeſgate, ob. q. And from the ſame Hith, through all Streets and Lanes beyond the foreſaid Places, to the Bridge of the Flete, and to Newgate, and to Crepelgate, and as far as over againſt Berchevers lane upon Cornhul, and as far as Eaſtcheap, and as Billinſgate, 1 d. And from this Hith of the Queen, through all Streets and Lanes beyond the foreſaid Places, even to the Bars of the Suburb, 1 d. q.

‘ And they ſay moreover upon their Oath, that every Head Maſter of the Meſurers of the Men ſerving the People at Queen Hith, ſhall find a quartern-Buſhel, an half-Buſhel, and a Strike, and one Horſe. And there ſhall be there eight Head or Capital Maſters. And every one of the eight Maſters ſhall have three ſtanding Fellows or Companions. And 'each of thoſe three Standers, ſhall find one 'Horſe, and ſeven Sacks, &c. And he that 'doth contrary to the foreſaid Ordinance, ſhall 'abjure his Office.

This Hith was then ſo frequented with Veſſels, bringing thither Corn, (beſides Fiſh, Salt, Fuel, and other Merchandizes) that all theſe Men, to wit, the Meeter, and Porters, Thirty ſeven in number, for all their Charge of Horſes and Sacks, and ſmall Stipend, lived well of their Labours. But now that Caſe is altered; the Bakers of London, and other Citizens, travel into the Countries, and buy their Corn of the Farmers, after the Farmers Price.

Lib. Guild.

King Edward II. in the 1ſt of his Reign, gave to Margaret, Wife to Peter de Gaveſtone, Forty three Pounds, Twelve Shillings, Nine Pence Halfpenny Farthing, out of the Rents in London, to be received of the Queen's Hith.

Certain Impoſitions were ſet upon Ships, and other Veſſels coming thither; as upon Corn, Salt, and other Things, toward the Charge of cleanſing Roomland there, the 41ſt of Ed. III.

Romeland to be paved and cleanſed of Filth.

R.

Theſe were the Impoſitions and the Occaſions of them. This Romeland being annoyed with Dung, Filth, &c. ſo as the Sellers of Corn and Victual there, could not ſtand to ſell their Commodities, as formerly they had done, It was ordered by a Common Council, An. 41. of King Edw. III. That the Place ſhould forthwith be made clean and paved. And that from thenceforth, towards the perpetual cleanſing and reparation thereof, there ſhould be taken for every Quarter of Corn, of what Kind ſoever, there ſold or coming, a Farthing; for every Quarter of Salt, a Farthing; for every Veſſel, called a Battel, bringing Ruſhes, four Pence; for every Veſſel called a Shout, bringing Corn or Malt, two Pence; for every Ship bringing other Victuals, two Pence; and of every Perſon laying Soil there, two Shillings; and the Seller of Ruſhes, to pay for every Boat of Ruſhes, four Pence.]

The 3d of Edward IV. the Market at Queen Hith being hindered by the ſlackneſs of drawing up London Bridge, it was ordained, That all manner of Veſſels, Ships, or Boats, great or ſmall, reſorting to the City with Victual, ſhould be ſold by Retail; and that if there came but one Veſſel at a time, were it Salt, Wheat, Rie, or other Corn from beyond the Seas; or other Grains; Garlick, Onions, Herrings, Sprats, Eels, Whitings, Plaice, Cods, Mackarel, &c. then that one Veſſel ſhould come to Queen Hith, and there to make Sale. But if two Veſſels came, the one ſhould come to Queen Hith, the other to Bilinſgate. If three, two of them ſhould come to Queen Hith, the third to Bilinſgate, &c. always the more to Queen Hith. If the Veſſel being great, coming with Salt from the Bay, and could not come to theſe Keys, then the ſame to be conveyed by Lighters, as before is meant.

*Framed. Firſt Edit.

One large Houſe for ſtowage of Corn, *craned out of Lighters and Barges, is there lately builded. Sir John Lion, Grocer, Maior, 1554. by his Teſtament, gave 100 l. towards it. But ſince increaſed and made larger, at the Charges of the City, in the Year 1565.

A Corn Mill upon Barges or Lighters on the Thames.

Againſt this Queen's Hith, on the River of Thames, of late Years was placed a Corn Mill, upon, or betwixt two Barges or Lighters, and there ground Corn, as Water Mills in other Places; to the wonder of many that had not ſeen the like. But this laſted not long without decay: Such as cauſed the ſame Barges to be removed and taken aſunder, are ſoon forgotten. I read of the like to have been in former time, as thus:

Two Corn Mills in one Barge, given to this City, 1525.

In the Year 1525. the 16*th of* Henry VIII. Sir William Bayly being Maior, John Cooke of Glocester, Mercer, gave to the Maior and Communalty of London, and theirs for ever, one great Barge, in the which two great Corn Mills were made and placed. Which Barge and Mills were ſet in and upon the Stream of the River of Thames, within the Juriſdiction and Liberty of the ſaid City of London. And alſo he gave to the ſaid City, all ſuch Timber, Boards, Stones, Iron, &c. provided for making, mending, and repairing of the ſaid Barge and Mills. In Reward whereof, the Maior gave him 50 l. preſently, and 50 l. yearly, during his Life. And if the ſaid Cooke deceaſed before Joan his Wife, then ſhe to have forty Marks the Year during her Life.]

Salt Wharf.

Next adjoining to this Queen Hith, on the Weſt ſide thereof, is Salt Wharf, named of Salt taken up, meaſured, and ſold there.

Stew Lane.

The next is Stew lane, of a Stew, or Hot-houſe there kept.

Timber Hith.

After that is Timber hith, or Timber Street, ſo called, of Timber and Boards, there taken up and wharfed. It is in the Pariſh of St. Mary Somers Hith, as I read in the 56th of H. III. and in the 9th of Edward II.

Brooks's Wharf.

BrokenWharf.

Then is Brooks's Wharf, and Broken Wharf, a Water-gate or Key ſo called, of being broken and fallen down into the Thames.

A void ſpace of Ground here to be incloſed.

R.

At a Common Council, July 23. the 2d of Queen Elizabeth, Order was taken, that out of a certain void ſpace of Ground at Broken Wharf, there ſhould be Thirty three Foot incloſed, and laid to the City's Brewhouſe. Which was to have a ſubſtantial Pale about it, to keep the City's Fuel, and other Goods, &c.

Bygot's Houſe by Broken Wharf.

By this Broken Wharf remaineth one large old Building of Stone, with arched Gates; which Meſſuage, I find, in the Reign of Henry III. the 43d Year, pertaining unto Hugh de Bygot; and in the 11th of Edward II. to Thomas Brothertun, the King's Brother, Earl of Norfolk, Marſhal of England. In the 11th of Henry VI. to John Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, &c.]

An Engin for enforcing of Thames Water.

Within the Gate of this Houſe (now belonging to the City of London) is lately, to wit, in the Year 1594, and 1595. builded one large Houſe, of great height, called an Engin, made by Bevis Bulmar, Gentleman, for the conveying and forcing of Thames Water, to ſerve in the middle and Weſt Parts of the City. The antient great Hall of this Meſſuage is yet ſtanding, and pertaining to a great Brew-houſe for Beer.

Trigg lane.

Boſs lane.

Weſt from this is Trigg lane, going down to the Thames. Next is called Boſs lane, of a Boſs of Water, like unto that of Bilinſgate, there placed by the Executors of Richard Whittington.

Abbot of Chertſey's Inn.

Sandie Houſe.

Then is one great Meſſuage, ſometime belonging to the Abbots of Chertſey in Surrey, and was their Inn, wherein they were lodged when they repaired to the City. It is now called Sandie Houſe, by what Reaſon I have not heard: I think the Lord Sands hath been lodged there.

And this is an end of this Queen Hith Ward.

The preſent State of this Ward ſtands thus.

Chief Streets, Lanes, &c.

The chief Streets, Lanes, and Hills, in this Ward, are Thames ſtreet, Queen Hith, with the ſeveral Lanes which run down to the Thames, Lambert Hill, Fiſhſtreet Hill, Five Foot Lane, Breadſtreet Hill, Huggin Lane, Little Trinity Lane, with the South ſide of Great Trinity Lane, Old Fiſhſtreet. Thames ſtreeet, runneth through the Heart of this Ward, as it doth that of the Vintry; and the Lanes, Alleys, Hills, and Courts, as they lie on each ſide, ſhall be ſpecified; beginning at the Weſt end, and on the South ſide.

Thames ſtreet. Black Boy Alley. Boſs Alley. Robin Hood Court. Trig Stairs and Lane. Caſtle Lane. George Yard. Broken Wharf.

This Street enjoyeth a good Trade, and hath a great Reſort, occaſioned by the ſeveral Wharfs on the Water ſide: and therefore much peſtered with Carts. Black Boy Alley, long and narrow, having a great Diers at the lower end. Boſs Alley, alſo long and narrow, with a Diers by the Thames ſide. Betwixt this Place and Black Boy Alley, is a large paſſage to a Wood Wharf. Robin Hood Court, but very ordinary. Trig Stairs, ſo called from the Stairs on the Water ſide, which is indifferently well ſupplied by Watermen. The Lane is pretty open, reaſonably well built and inhabited. Caſtle Lane, pretty broad for Carts, having a Wood Wharf at the lower end; the Buildings are but ordinary, as are the Inhabitants. George Yard, being good and large, and taken up by Timber Merchants and Wood Wharfs at the lower end. Broken Wharf. By this is a Water Houſe to convey the Thames Water in Pipes. Which of late Years hath been much improved, as to the Revenue, to what it was at firſt, by the Induſtry of thoſe concerned therein; but not managed without a great Charge, in keeping ſo many Servants, and Horſes for the forcing the Water up into the Ciſtern at the top of the Building, which is very lofty.

Brooks's Wharf.

Brooks's Wharf leadeth alſo to the River Thames, having a large Wharf, with Keys therein, for the landing of Corn, Malt, and other Goods, thither brought in conſiderable Quantities. For which it is of great Reſort.

High Timber ſtreet. Dunghil lane. Brokers Wharf. Hamond's lane. Dark lane. Boyden's Wharf

Eaſtwards from the Water Houſe, is High Timber Street, or Hith, ſo called from the Timber or Boards there taken up and wharfed. The Place is but ordinary, and ſerveth as a paſſage to other Places which lead to the Wharfs; as Dunghill Lane, Brokers Wharf, and Hamonds Lane, formerly called Stew Lane, from a Stew, or Hot houſe there kept; all Places of ordinary Account. And from this Lane is a paſſage to Queen Hith, called the Dark Lane: And here is Boydens's Wharf.

Queen Hith.

Queen Hith, a great Reception for Weſtern Barges, Lighters, and Boats, which brings a conſiderable Reſort and Trade to the Place. Here is a great Meal Market, having the Conveniency for ſtowage of the Goods thither brought to be ſold by the ſaid Veſſels. The Market Houſe is commodiouſly ſeated by the Water ſide, and before it an open Yard for Carts to carry off the Goods there ſold; and round about the Yard, except the South ſide next the Thames, are Rows of Houſes, well inhabited; beſides good ſtore of Publick Houſes, for reception of People that thither reſort about Buſineſs, next the Stairs.

Pump Court. Townſend lane.

Eaſtward of Queen Hith, is Pump Court or Yard, a ſmall Place, which cometh out of Queen Hith, and falleth into Townſend Lane, an open Place for Carts to the Wharf; and this is the Eaſtern Limits of this Ward.

Bowling Alley. Sugar loaf Court.

Then on the North ſide are theſe Places. Bowling Alley, a ſmall Place, which falls into Sugar loaf Court, now taken up for a Brewhouſe.

St. Michael Queen Hith Church.

St. Michael Queen Hith Church, rebuilt ſince the great Fire; a good handſome well built Church, of Freeſtone, having on the top of the Steeple a ſmall Free ſtone Spire, with a Ship upon a Ball all gilt with Gold. To this Church and Pariſh is that of Trinity united.

Little Trinity lane. Painter Stainers Hall. Trinity Court. Huggin Alley. Cowden's Rents.

Little Trinity Lane comes out of Great Trinity Lane, and falls into Thames ſtreet, by St. Michaels Queen Hith Church. This Lane is well built and inhabited. Here is ſeated Painter Stainers Hall, a good handſome Building, with a large Garden on the North ſide. Oppoſite to this Hall, is Trinity Court, a pretty handſome Place, with a Free ſtone Pavement. And adjoining to the ſaid Hall, is Huggin Alley, but ſmall, which hath a paſſage into Huggin Lane. Cowden's Rents, very ordinary.

Trinity Church. The Lutheran Church.

Trinity Church, ſeated at the North-Eaſt Corner of Little Trinity Lane. This Church was deſtroyed in the Fire of London, and ſince rebuilt, and made uſe of by the Swedes, and other Lutherans, for Divine Worſhip; as the French and Dutch have certain Churches in and about this City. But the Pariſh is united unto St. Michaels Queen Hith: And the Church is now not called Trinity Church, but the Lutheran Church, and known by that Name.

Huggin lane. Faircloth Court. Star Yard.

Huggin lane, formerly called Spooners lane, comes out of Great Trinity lane, and falls into Thames ſtreet, a Lane of good Account. On the Eaſt ſide is Faircloth Court, very ſmall, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Star Yard, very ordinary; hath a paſſage into Breadſtreet hill.

Breadſtreet Hill.

Breadſtreet Hill, a Place well built, and inhabited by good Tradeſmen, moſtly Wholeſale.

St. Nicolas Olaves Church.

On the Weſt ſide of this Hill, was the Pariſh Church of St. Nicolas Olaves; the Church was deſtroyed in the dreadful Fire of London, and not rebuilt, but the Pariſh is united unto St. Nicolas Cole Abby.

Meigley's Court.

More Southward, is a very handſome ſquare Court, with three large Houſes; now called Meigley's Court, from one of that Name inhabiting there.

Five Foot lane. Star Court.

Five Foot lane, ſo called, for that the Weſt end was but five Foot broad. It hath its chief Entrance out of Thames ſtreet, and with a turning paſſage leads into Fiſhſtreet hill. It hath another paſſage out of Breadſtreet hill, by St. Nicolas Olaves Churchyard; and another into Old Fiſhſtreet, through Star Court, which is but ſmall.

Fiſhſtreet Hill.

Fiſhſtreet Hill, a well inhabited Place, comes out of Old Fiſhſtreet, and runs down into Thames ſtreet; on the Eaſt ſide is Five Foot lane, as aforeſaid.

St. Mary Mounthaunt.

More Southward, was the Pariſh Church of St. Mary Mounthaw, or Mounthaunt. It was deſtroyed in the Fire of London, and not rebuilt, the Pariſh being united to St. Mary Somerſet; and the Ground on which it ſtood, being incloſed for a Burial Place for the Inhabitants; as moſt of the Churches not rebuilt are.

Labour in vain Yard. Dove Court. Bell Alley.

Labour in vain Yard, a large Place, having at the upper end, on the North ſide, a good handſome Court, with private Houſes; the Southern Part being taken up with Stablings, where it hath a paſſage into Lambeth or Lambart hill. Dove Court, a pretty handſome Place, adjoining to the Labour in vain Yard. Bell Alley, long and ordinary, adjoining to Fiſhſtreet hill.

St. Mary Somerſet Church.

But in Thames ſtreet, over againſt Broken Wharf, is ſeated the Pariſh Church of St. Mary Somerſet, a good Free ſtone Building, having a very graceful Steeple, built with eight Pinacles on the Battlements, the four Corners differing from the reſt, which makes it Graceful to the Eye of the Beholder.

It was deſtroyed in the general Fire of London, and rebuilt as aforeſaid. To this Church and Pariſh, that of St. Mary Mounthaut is united.

Lambart Hill.

Green Dragon Court.

Blackſmiths Hall.

Lambart Hill, a Place well built, and inhabited by private Houſekeepers. Of this Hill, the Weſt ſide, about half way, viz. unto Green Dragon Court, is in Caſtle Baynards Ward, and all the reſt is in this Ward. In which is Green Dragon Court, being now a Timber Yard, and hath a paſſage into Thames ſtreet. On this Hill is Blackſmiths Hall, a good handſome Building, and the Alms Houſes are in Caſtle Baynards Ward, and there ſpoken of.

St. Peter's Church.

St. Peter's Hill, ſpoken of in Caſtle Baynards Ward. In this there are but two Houſes and the Church, which before the Fire of London, which deſtroyed it, was but ſmall; and is not to be rebuilt, but the Pariſh is united to St. Benets Pauls Wharf, near adjoining.

Old Fiſhſtreet

Old Fiſhſtreet, a good open broad Street, well built, and inhabited chiefly by Fiſhmongers, from whom it took its Name. The North ſide is in Breadſtreet Ward, and the South in this. It was formerly a Street of greater Requeſt than at preſent, and much reſorted unto for Fiſh Dinners.

St. Nicolas Cold Abby Church.

Here is ſeated the Pariſh Church of St. Nicolas Cold Abby, a very handſome Free ſtone Building, with a neat Spire Steeple. And ſince its deſtroying by Fire, is better built than formerly. And to this Pariſh is united St. Nicolas Olaves, which is not built.

Moor's Yard.

Star Court.

Near unto Cole Abby Church, is Moor's Yard, a pretty good Place. And beyond Fiſhſtreet hill is Star Court, which is but ſmall, and hath a paſſage into Five Foot lane.

Great Trinity lane.

Great Trinity lane comes out of St. Thomas Apoſtles, and runs Weſtwards to Old Fiſhſtreet. A Place pretty well built and inhabited; the South ſide is only in this Ward, the North ſide in Breadſtreet Ward.

Swediſh Court.

Jack's Alley.

Adjoining to the Lutheran Church, formerly Trinity Church, is a ſmall Place, called Swediſh Court: And more Eaſtwards is Jack's Alley, both narrow and mean; but this Alley is in Vintry Ward.

The Watch.

There are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, a Conſtable, the Beadle, and Forty Watchmen.

The Jury.

The Jurymen returned by the Inqueſt, for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts at Guild Hall, in the Month of October.]

The Government.

This Ward hath an Alderman, and his Deputy, Common Counſel, 6. Conſtables, 9. Scavengers, 8. Wardmote Inqueſt, 13. and a Beadle. It is taxed to the Fifteen in London, 20 l. And in the Exchequer, at *19 l. 16 s. 2 d.

* 20 l. Firſt Edit.

The Alderman of this Ward is Sir John Fryer, Bart.

CHAP. XI.

CASTLE BAYNARD WARD. The Bounds. Beaumont's Inn. Scrope's Inn. Burley Houſe. Baynards Caſtle. Mills on the Fleet Water. St. Benet by Pauls Wharf. St. Andrew in the Wardrobe. The King's Wardrobe. Darby Houſe. Doctors Commons. St. Mary Magdalen Old Fiſhſtreet. Three Weſt Gates of St. Pauls. Lollards Tower. St. Gregories by St. Pauls. The preſent State of this Ward.

Caſtle Baynard Ward. The Bounds thereof. The North Part.

THE next is Caſtle Baynard Ward, ſo named of an old Caſtle there. This Ward beginneth in the Eaſt, on the Thames ſide, at an Houſe called Huntington Houſe; and runneth Weſt by Pauls Wharf, by Baynards Caſtle, Puddle Wharf, and by the South ſide of the Black Friers. Then turning by the Eaſt Wall of the ſaid Friers, to the South-weſt end of Creed lane. Then on the North ſide of Thames ſtreet, over againſt Huntington Houſe, by St. Peter's Church and Lane, called Peter Hill, along till over againſt Puddle Wharf: And then North up by the great Wardrobe, to the Weſt end of Carter lane. Then up Creed lane, Ave Mary lane, and a piece of Pater noſter Row, to the Sign of the Golden Lion; and back again up Warwick lane, all the Eaſt ſide thereof, to the Sign of the Crown by Newgate Market: And this is the fartheſt North Part of this Ward.

Then out of Thames ſtreet, be Lanes aſcending North to Knightriders ſtreet. The firſt is Peter hill lane, all of that Ward, (two Houſes excepted, adjoining to St. Peters Church.) The next is Pauls Wharf hill, which thwarting Knightriders ſtreet and Carter lane, goeth up to the South Chain of Pauls Churchyard.

Adle ſtreet.

Then is Adle ſtreet, over againſt the Weſt part of Baynards Caſtle, going up the Weſt end of Knightriders ſtreet, and to Carter lane.

Thus much for Lanes out of Thames ſtreet. The one half of the Weſt ſide of Lambart hill lane being of this Ward, at the North-weſt end thereof, on the South ſide, and at the Weſt end of St. Mary Magdalens Church. On the North ſide, beginneth Knightriders ſtreet to be of this Ward; and runneth Weſt, on both ſides, to the Pariſh Church of St. Andrew by the Wardrobe.

Then at the ſaid Eaſt end of St. Mary Magdalens Church, goeth up the Old Exchange; all the Weſt ſide whereof, up to the South-eaſt Gate of Pauls Churchyard, and by St. Auſtin's Church, is of this Ward.

About the midſt of this Old Exchange, on the Weſt ſide thereof, is Carter lane, which runneth Weſt, to the Eaſt entry of the Black Friers, and the South end of Creed lane. Out of the which Carter lane, deſcendeth a Lane, called Do little lane, and cometh into Knightriders ſtreet, by the Boars Head Tavern. And more Weſt is Sermon lane, by an Inn called the Powl head. Then out of Carter lane, on the North ſide thereof, the South Chain of Pauls Churchyard, and the Churchyard it ſelf, on that South ſide of Pauls Church, and the Church of St. Gregory, the Biſhop's Palace, and the Dean's Lodging, be all of this Ward. And ſuch be the Bounds thereof.

Do little lane.

The Ornaments in this Ward, be Pariſh Churches four; of old time, a Caſtle; divers Noblemens Houſes, Halls of Companies, two; and ſuch others, as ſhall be ſhewed.

Beaumont's Inn.

In Thames ſtreet, at the South-eaſt end, is an antient Meſſuage, of old time called Beaumont's Inn, as belonging to that Family of Noblemen of this Realm, in the 4th of Ed. III. Edward IV. in the 5th of his Reign, gave it to W. Haſtings, Lord Chamberlain, Maſter of his Mints. It is now called Huntington Houſe, as belonging to the Earls of Huntington.

Huntington Houſe.

Pauls Wharf.

Next is Pauls Wharf, a large landing Place, with a common Stair upon the River of Thames, at the end of a Street called Pauls Wharf Hill, which runneth down from Pauls Chain.

Scroops Inn.

Next is a great Meſſuage, called Scroop's Inn, ſometime belonging to the Scroops, in the 31ſt Hen. VI.

Burley Houſe.

Then is one other great Meſſuage, ſometime belonging to the Abby of Fiſcampe, beyond the Sea. And by Reaſon of the Wars, it coming to the Hands of King Edward III. the ſame was given to Sir Simon Burley, Knight of the Garter, and therefore called Burley Houſe in Thames ſtreet, between Baynards Caſtle and Pauls Wharf.

Baynards Caſtle.

Then have you Baynards Caſtle, whereof this whole Ward taketh Name. This Caſtle banketh on the River Thames, and was called Baynards Caſtle, of Baynard, a Nobleman, that came in with William the Conqueror. Of the which Caſtle, and of Baynard himſelf, I have ſpoken in another Place*.

*In the Chapter of Towers and Caſtles.

The Layſtal at Baynard Caſtle removed.

There was antiently a publick Layſtal near this Caſtle; the ſtink of which could not but be an Annoyance to it. Which in the Reign of Queen Mary I. was removed; the Earl of Pembroke then living there. And at a Common Council, Auguſt the 7th, in the 3d and 4th of Philip and Mary, it was agreed, at the Requeſt of the Earl of Pembroke, that the City's Leyſtow adjoining to his Lordſhip's Houſe, and being noiſome to the ſame, ſhould be removed. Upon Condition, that he ſhould give the City, toward the making of a new Leyſtow in another Place, Two Thouſand Foot of hard Stone, to make the Vault and Wharf thereof; or elſe Forty Marks in ready Money, to buy the ſame Stone withal.]

R.

There was alſo another Tower by Baynards Caſtle, builded by King Edward II. Edw. III. in the 2d of his Reign, gave it to William Duke of Hamelake, in the County of York, and his Heirs, for one Roſe yearly to be paid for all Service. The ſame Place (as ſeemeth to me) was ſince called Legates Inn, in the 7th of Edw. IV. where be now divers Wood Wharfs in place.

Legates Inn.

Puddle Wharf.

Then is there a great Brewhouſe, and Puddle Wharf, a Water Gate into the Thames, where Horſes uſe to be watered; and therefore being defiled with their trampling, and made Puddle like; as alſo of one Puddle dwelling there, it is (as I ſuppoſe) called Puddle Wharf.

Then is there a Lane between the Black Friers and the Thames, called in the 26th of Edw. III. Caſtle lane.

Prior of Okeborn's Houſe.

In this Lane alſo, is one great Meſſuage, of old time belonging to the Priory of Okeborn in Wiltſhire; and was the Prior's Lodging when he repaired to London. This Priory being of the French Order, was ſuppreſſed by Henry V. and with other Lands and Tenements pertaining to the ſaid Priory, was by Hen. VI. given to his College in Cambridge, called now the King's College.

A Mill or Mills by Baynards Caſtle.

About this Caſtle lane, was ſometime a Mill or Mills, belonging to the Templers of the New Temple, as appeareth of Record. For King John, in the firſt Year of his Reign, granted a Place on the Fleet, near unto Baynards Caſtle, to make a Mill; and the whole Courſe of Water of the Fleet, to ſerve the ſaid Mill.

I read alſo, that in the Year 1274. the 2d of Edward I. Richard Raiſon, and Atheline his Wife, did give to Nicho. de Muſely, Clerk, ten Shillings of yearly free and quiet Rent, out of all his Tenements, with the Houſes thereunto built, and their Appurtenances, which they had of the demiſe of the Maſter and Brethren of Knights Templars in England, next unto their Mill of Fleet, over againſt the Houſes of Laurence de Brooke, in the Pariſh of St. Andrew next to Baynards Caſtle. Which Tenements lie between the Way leading to the ſaid Mill on the Weſt part. Alſo in the Rights belonging to Robert Fitzwater, and to his Heirs, in the City of London, in the time of Peace, it was declared in the Year 1303. that the ſaid Robert, Caſtillon of London, and Banner-bearer, had a Soke (or Ward) in the City, that was by the Wall of St. Paul, as Men go down the Street before the Brewhouſe of St. Paul, unto the Thames; and ſo to the ſide of the Mill, which is in the Water that cometh down from Fleet Bridge, and goeth ſo by London Walls, betwixt the Friers Preachers Church and Ludgate; and ſo that Ward turned back by the Houſe of the ſaid Friers, unto the ſaid common Wall of the Chanonry of St, Paul. That is all of the Pariſh of St. Andrew; which is the Gift of his Anceſtors by Seniority, as more I have ſhewed in the Caſtles.

Soke Court, or Ward belonging to Robert Fitzwater.

Now here is to be noted, that the Wall of London, at that time, went ſtrait South from Ludgate, down to the River of Thames. But for building of the Black Friers Church, the ſaid Wall was by Commandment taken down, and a new Wall was then made, ſtrait Weſt from Ludgate to Fleet Bridge; and then by the Water of Fleet, to the River of Thames, &c.

In the Year 1307. the 35th of Edw. I. in a Parliament at Carlile, Henry Lacie, Earl of Lincoln, complained of Annoyances done to the Water of the Fleet: Whereupon it was granted, that the ſaid Mill ſhould be removed and deſtroyed.

Mill by Baynards Caſtle deſtroyed.

And not only this Noble Earl, but the Commoners of London, and eſpecially the Inhabitants of Holborn, were Complainants and Petitioners to the ſaid Parliament. And the Annoyances they complained of, were theſe: That the Courſe of the Water was ſtop'd, that ran under the Bridges of Holborn and the Fleet, into the Thames: So that the Veſſels that uſed to come up into that part of the City, with Goods and Commodities, under Fleet Bridge, as far as Holborn Bridge, could not paſs. The Cauſe of which Stoppage, was not only the Key belonging to the ſaid Mills, but Filth thrown in, &c.

The Water of Fleet Bridge, and Holborn Bridge ſtopt, and complained of. J. S.

The Petition of the Commonalty hereupon, 35 Edward I. Tower Rec.

This may more at large be underſtood by repeating the Record of the ſame: Viz. ‘ The Petition of the Commonalty of London, complaining, That whereas the Courſe of the Water, which runneth at London, under the Bridge of Holborn, and the Bridge of the Fleet, into the Thames, was wont to be ſo large and broad, and deep, that ten or twelve Ships uſed to come up to the ſaid Fleet Bridge, with divers Things and Merchandizes; and ſome of thoſe Ships went under the Bridge, unto the foreſaid Holborn Bridge. Now that Courſe was obſtructed by the Filth and Inundation of Tanners, and by various other Stoppages made in the ſaid Water; and chiefly by the raiſing of the Key, and by diverting of the Water, which they of the New Temple had made for their Mills, without Baynard Caſtle: So that the ſame Ships cannot come in as they were wont and ought to do. Whereupon the Commons pray, that the Maior taking with him the Sheriffs, and the diſcreeter Aldermen, view the Courſe of the ſaid Water; that by the View and Oath of honeſt and lawful Men, he cauſe to remove all the Annoyances of the ſaid Water, which he ſhall find; and to repair the foreſaid Courſe, and to maintain it in ſuch a State wherein it was wont to be antiently.

To this it was anſwered thus. ‘ Let Roger le Brabazon, and the Conſtable of the Tower of London, the Maior and Sheriffs of London be aſſigned, that they, taking with them certain diſcreeter Aldermen of London, inquire by Oath, &c. how it hath been wont to be, and what Courſe. And let them remove the Annoyances which they find, and cauſe it to be maintained in the ſame State, wherein it was accuſtomed to be of old.

Commiſſion to view the Fleet Water.

And this is further explained by King Edward I. his Patent, An. 35. to Roger de Brabanſon, Raſe de Sandewyc, and John le Bland, Maior of the City, to this Tenor. ‘ Whereas by a Complaint of ſome We have heard, that the Courſe of the Water of Fleet under the Bridge of Holborn, running down to the Thames, as well by Dung and manifold Filth caſt into the ſaid Water, as by the exaltation of a certain Key, by the Maſter and Brethren of the New Temple, London, for their Mills, upon the Thames, near Caſtel Baignard new made, is ſo ſtop'd up and ſtreightned, that Boats with Corn, Wine, Faggots, and other Neceſſaries, cannot paſs as they were wont, by the paſſage of the Courſe of that Water, from the Thames to the ſaid Bridge; to the no little Grievance and Annoyance of the Men that inhabit near the Fleet, and the Neighbouring Parts, &c.

A good Motion.

Here let me add what Mr. Prinn moved about the Year 1668. ſoon after the Fire of London: Whether ſuch a Commiſſion and Inquiry, to make this River Navigable to Holborn Bridge, or Clerkenwel, would not now be ſeaſonable; and a Work worthy to be undertaken, for the publick Benefit, Trade, and Health, of the City and Suburbs?]

This Ward aſcendeth up by the Eaſt Wall of the Black Friers, to the South-weſt end of Creed lane, where it endeth on that ſide.

rnold's Gift
St. Benets.

Something more muſt be ſaid concerning the Gift of Mr. Edmund Arnold, above mentioned: Which was ſo brought in by the Officers of the Pariſh, at the Parochial Viſitation, An. 1693. Theſe three Houſes ſo given, ſtand in Knightriders ſtreet; two of them are the firſt and ſecond of the eight Tenements, called Erkenwald's Tenements; and the third is called the Stone Houſe, with a Toſt of Ground near adjoining. This held by Leaſe from Merton College, Oxon. The two former from the Dean and Chapter of St. Pauls. Which together, beſides the Rents and neceſſary Taxes, are now worth 50 l. a Year to the ſaid Pariſh.

Arnold gave theſe three Houſes, by his laſt Will, dated May the 6th, 1675. to the end that the Common Council Men, Churchwardens, and Overſeers of the Poor, with ſix or eight others of the more ſubſtantial Pariſhioners, do yearly, out of the Profits, diſtribute 10 l. per ann. to and among the Poor of the ſaid Pariſh of St. Benets; 5 l. yearly, to the Poor of St. Mary Magdalen, Old Fiſhſtreet; and with the remaining Profits, yearly to put out poor Children of the ſaid Pariſh of St. Benets, Apprentices, and for the ſetting them up when they come out of their time. Reſerving 5 l. per ann. for ever, to be paid to the Hoſpital of Bridewel, to the Uſe of the poor Boys, or other Children there.

This Gift was almoſt loſt by ſome unjuſt Truſtees, who refuſed to give Account of the Rents, and Receipts, and Diſburſements, of and about the ſaid Premiſſes, unto the Officers of the Pariſh. But at length, by the Pains and Induſtry of ſome, and chiefly Mr. Evan Pugh, one of the Inhabitants, recovered to the Pariſh, by a Decree in a Commiſſion of charitable Uſes. To which, when Exceptions were taken by the ſaid Truſtees in the Chancery, after three Years, and the Expence of 200 l. the ſaid Decree was confirmed in the ſaid Chancery.

Writings of State antiently kept here.

The ſecret Letters and Writings, touching the Eſtate of the Realm, were wont to be inrolled in the King's Wardrobe, and not in the Chancery, as appeareth by the Records. Clauſ. 18. E. 4. 1 Memb. 13. Clauſ. 33. E. 1. Memb. 3. Et liberat. 1. E. 2. Memb. 4. &c.

From this Wardrobe, by the Weſt end of Carter lane, then up Creed lane, Ave Mary lane, and a piece of Pater noſter Row, up Warwick lane, all the Eaſt ſide, to the Brewhouſe called the Crown, as I ſaid, is of this Ward.

Peters Hill lane. Alms Houſe for ſix poor Widows.

Touching Lanes aſcending out of Thames ſtreet, to Knightriders ſtreet, the firſt is Peters Hill; wherein I find no matter of Note, more than certain Alms Houſes, lately founded on the Weſt ſide thereof, by David Smith Embroiderer, for ſix poor Widdows; whereof each to have 20 s. by the Year.

The Houſe of the Abbot of St. Maries of York.

On the Eaſt ſide of this Lane, ſtandeth a large Houſe of antient Building, ſometime belonging to the Abbot of St. Mary in York, and was his abiding Houſe when he came to London. Thomas Randolph, Eſq; hath lately augmented and repaired it.

J. S.

This Houſe came afterwards to the Poſſeſſion of Sir Michael Hicks, Kt. Secretary to the Lord Treaſurer Burghley; and ſtill is in his Family. But ſince the great Fire, it was built into two fair Tenements, by Sir Will. Hicks, Bart. one whereof was lately poſſeſs'd and inhabited by Sir Michael Hicks, Kt. deceaſed; and the other belonging to Sir Harry Hicks, Bart. after the Death of his Mother, the Lady Hicks, Widow of Sir Will. Hicks, Kt. and Bart. Son of Sir William aboveſaid.]

Peters Key.

At the upper end of this Lane, towards the North, the corner Houſes there be called Peter Key, but the Reaſon thereof I have not heard.

Pauls Wharf Hill. Woodmongers Hall. Firſt Edit.

Then is Pauls Wharf Hill, on the Eaſt ſide whereof is Woodmongers Hall.

And next adjoining is [Garter Houſe, ſo called of the Office there kept by Garter King of Heralds, and other Heralds. Called alſo] Darby Houſe, ſometime belonging to the Stanleys. For Thomas Stanley, firſt Earl of Darby of that Name, who married the Lady Margaret, Counteſs of Richmond, Mother to Henry VII. in his time builded it.

Darby Houſe.

I have the Copy of the ſaid Patent delivered me by Hum. Dyſon. A. M.

Queen Mary gave it to Gilbert Dethick, then Garter, Principal King of Arms of Engliſhmen, Thomas Hauley, Clarentieux, King of Arms of the South Parts; William Harvy, alias Norroy, King of Arms of the North Parts; and the other Heralds and Purſevants of Arms, and to their Succeſſors, all the Capital Meſſuage or Houſe, called Darby Houſe, with the Appurtenances ſituate in the Pariſh of St. Benet and St. Peter; then being in the tenure of Sir Richard Sackvile, Kt. and lately parcel of the Lands of Edward Earl of Darby, &c. To the end that the ſaid Kings of Arms, Heralds, and Purſevants of Arms, and their Succeſſors, might (at their liking) dwell together; and at meet times to congregate, ſpeak, confer, and agree among themſelves, for the good government of their Faculty, and their Records might be more ſafely kept, &c. Dated the 18th day of July, 1555. Philip and Mary the firſt and third Year.

Pauls Brewhouſe, or Powl head Tavern.

Then higher up, near the South Chain of Pauls Churchyard, is the Powl head Tavern. Which Houſe, with the Appurtenances, was of old time called Pauls Brewhouſe, for that the ſame was ſo imployed; but being ſince left off, and letten out.

Antiq. Inquiſit. de Lond. in Scaccar. J. S.

In the 38th of Henry III. one Will. Hilary watched the going out of John de Codington, Clerk, being then in Bracina Sti Pauli in Warda Barnard Caſtle. When the ſaid John was gone out, preſently the ſaid William made an Inſult upon him. And as a Clerk Convict, he was delivered to the Biſhop. This Clerk was fled thither, it ſeems, for Sanctuary. The Churches very Brewhouſe was Sanctuary.]

* Viz. Trinity Hall.

* See more of this in the Chapter of Colleges. Firſt Book.

Doctors Commons.

On the Weſt ſide of this Street, is one other great Houſe builded of Stone, which belongeth to Pauls Church; and was ſometime letten to the Blunts, Lords Mountjoy, but of later time to a College in *Cambridge. And from them to the Doctors of the Civil Law and Arches, who keep a Commons there; and many of them being there lodged, it is called the *Doctors Commons.

MSS. Hutt. in Offic. Armor. J. S.

Formerly, in the Dining Chamber, were the Coats of Arms of divers of the eminent Doctors and others. As of Thomas Tale. LL.D. Matthew Carew. Denny; whoſe Bearing was three Coats. The firſt Gules, a Salteir Arg. with twelve Croſſes patee, Or. Saye, Judge of the Prerogative Court. He bore five Shields. And divers other Coats without Names.]

Pauls Bakehouſe.

Above this, on the ſame ſide, was one other great Building over againſt Pauls Brewhouſe; and this was called Pauls Bakehouſe, and was imployed in baking of Bread for the Church of Pauls.

Camera Dianæ. R.

Upon Pauls Wharf Hill, within a great Gate, and belonging to that Gate next to the Doctors Commons, are many fair Tenements; which in their Leaſes made from the Dean and Chapter, go by the Name or Title of Camera DIANÆ, i. e. Diana's Chamber. So denominated from a ſpacious Building, that in the Time of Henry II. ſtood where they now are ſtanding. In this Camera, or arched and vaulted Structure, full of intricate Ways and Windings, this Henry II. (as ſometime he did at Woodſtock) kept, (or was ſuppoſed to have kept) that Jewel of his Heart, fair ROSAMUND: She, whom there he called Roſa mundi; and here, by the Name of Diana. And from hence had this Houſe that Title.

To this Day are Remains, and ſome evident teſtifications of tedious Turnings and Windings; as alſo of a Paſſage under Ground, from this Houſe to Caſtle Baynard. Which was, no doubt, the King's way from thence to his Camera Dianæ, or the Chamber of his Brighteſt Diana.]

Addle ſtreet.

In Addle ſtreet, or lane, I find no Monuments.

Lambart hill. Blackſmiths Hall. Churchyard of St. Mary Magdalen.

In Lambart hill lane, on the Weſt ſide thereof, is the Blackſmiths Hall; and adjoining to the North ſide thereof, have ye one plot of Ground, incloſed with a Brick Wall, for a Churchyard, or burying Plot, for the Dead of St. Mary Magdalens by Old Fiſhſtreet. Which was given to that Uſe by John Iwarby, an Officer in the Receipt of the Exchequer, in the 26th of King Henry VI. as appeareth by Patent.

John Iwarby, &c. gave a piece of Land lying void in the Pariſh of St. Mary Magdalen, nigh to Old Fiſhſtreet; between the Tenement of John Phipot, on the South, and the Tenement of Bartholomew Burwaſh, on the Weſt; and the Tenement pertaining to the Covent of the Holy Well on the North, and the way upon Lambarts Hill, on the Eaſt, for a Churchyard to the Parſon, Churchwardens, &c.

The Pariſh Church of St. MARY MAGDALENE Old Fiſhſtreet.

Over againſt the North-weſt end of this Lambart hill lane, in Knightriders ſtreet, is the Pariſh Church of St. Mary Magdalen, a ſmall Church, having but few Monuments.

CHARITIES.

Charities.

The charitable Gifts belonging to this Pariſh, are theſe.

John Iwarby gave a piece of Ground on Lambeth Hill, for a burying Place for the ſaid Pariſh; ſtill made uſe of for that purpoſe.

Tho. Berry, Fiſhmonger, gave a Meſſuage in Southwark, called the Red Croſs, with its Appurtenances, for ever, to the Poor of the Pariſh; now let by Leaſe at 28 l. per ann. Out of which, is yearly paid to Walton and Booth, in Lancaſhire, 5 l. 4 s.

The Pariſh of St. Benet Pauls Wharf, pay yearly, as the Gift of Juſtice Randal, 40 s. and are to pay 5 l. per ann. the Gift of Eſq; Arnold.

The Fiſhmongers pay 13 s. 4 d. being the Gift of Tho. Jennings.

Twenty Shillings, the Gift of Juſtice Randolph.

Three Pounds, the Gift of Mr. Haſley.

Of St. Nicolas Cold Abby Pariſh, ſometimes 6 s. 8 d. yearly; ſometimes 10 s. 8 d. the Gift of Mr. ———

Four Shillings yearly, the Gift of Dame Dean.

Of the Company of Wax Chandlers, in Gowns and Money, yearly, 3 l. 18 s.

Parſonage.

No Parſonage Houſe, as far as is known, ever belonging to this Pariſh.]

Conduit of Thames Water.

On the Weſt ſide of this Church, by the Porch thereof, is placed a Conduit or Ceſtern of Lead, caſtellated with Stone, for receipt of Thames Water; conveyed at the Charges of the forenamed Barnard Randolph, Eſq.

The Old Exchange.

By the Eaſt end of St. Mary Magdalens Church, runneth up the Old Exchange lane, by the Weſt end of Carter lane, to the South-eaſt Gate or Chain of Pauls Churchyard, as is before ſhewed. And in this Part was the Exchange kept, and Bullion was received for Coinage; as is noted in Faringdon Ward within.

Do little Lane.

In this Pariſh Church of St. Mary Magdalen, out of Knightriders ſtreet, up to Carter lane, be two ſmall Lanes: The one of them called Do little Lane, as a Place not inhabited by Artificers, or open Shopkeepers; but ſerving for a near paſſage from Knightriders ſtreet, to Carter lane.

Sheremoniers lane.

Black Loft.

The other, corruptly called Sermon lane, for Sheremoniers lane. For I find it ſo called in the 14th of Edward I. And in that Lane, a Place to be called the Black Loft, of melting Silver; with four Shops adjoining.

It may therefore be well ſuppoſed, that Lane to take Name of Sheremoniers; ſuch as cut and rounded the Plates, to be coined or ſtamped into Eſtarling Pence: For the Place of Coining, was the Old Exchange, near unto the ſaid Sheremoniers lane. Alſo I find, that in the 13th of Richard II. William de la Pole, [whoſe Father or Anceſtor was, I think, the King's Merchant] had an Houſe there.

College of Phyſicians. Lecture in Chirurgery to be read.

In Knightriders ſtreet is the College of Phyſitians; wherein was founded, in the Year 1582. a publick Lecture in Surgery, to be read twice every Week, &c. as is ſhewed elſewhere.

Weſt Gates of Pauls Church.

In the South Churchyard of Pauls, is the South ſide and Weſt end of the ſaid Church. In the which Weſt end, be three ſtately Gates or Entries, curiouſly wrought of Stone; namely, the middle Gate, in the midſt whereof is placed a maſſy Pillar of Braſs; whereunto the Leaves of the ſaid great Gate are cloſed, and faſtened with Locks, Bolts, and Bars of Iron. All which notwithſtanding, on the 24th of December, in the Year 1565. by a Tempeſt of Wind then riſing from the Weſt, theſe Gates were blown open, the Bars, Bolts, and Locks broken in ſunder, or greatly bended.

Gates of Pauls Church blown open.

Alſo, on the 5th of January, in the Year 1589. by a like Tempeſt of Wind, then in the South-weſt, the leſſer Weſt Gate of the ſaid Church, next to the Biſhop's Palace, was broken, both Bolts, Bars, and Locks, ſo that the ſame was blown over.

At either Corner of this Weſt end, is alſo, of antient Building, a ſtrong Tower of Stone, made for Bell Towers. The one of them, to wit, next to the Palace, is at this preſent to the uſe of the ſame Palace. The other, towards the South, is called the Lowlards Tower; and hath been uſed as the Biſhop's Priſon, for ſuch as were detected for Opinions in Religion, contrary to the Faith of the Church.

For Lowlards Tower read Mr. Fox.

Pet. Burchet.

The laſt Priſoner which I have known committed thereto, was in the Year 1573. one Peter Burchet, Gentleman, of the Middle Temple, for having deſperately wounded, and minding to have murdered, a ſerviceable Gentleman, named John Hawkings, Eſq; in the high Street, near unto the Strand. Who being taken and examined, was found to hold certain Opinions erroneous, and therefore committed thither, and convicted. But in the end, by perſuaſion, he promiſed to abjure his Hereſies; and was, by the Commandment of the Councel, removed from thence to the Tower of London, &c. where he committed, as in another Place I have at large reported. Annals.

The

Chapter Houſe of St. Pauls.

The reſt of that South ſide of St. Paul's Church, with the Chapter Houſe, (a beautiful piece of Work, builded about the Reign of Edward III.) is now defaced, by means of Licences granted to Cutlers, Budget Makers, and others, firſt to build low Sheds, but now high Houſes; which do hide that beautiful ſide of the Church, ſave only the top and South Gate.

The Biſhop's Palace.

On the North-weſt ſide of this Churchyard, is the Biſhop's Palace, a large Thing for Receipt, wherein divers Kings have been lodged, and great Houſhold hath been kept. As appeareth by the great Hall, which of late Years, ſince the rebatement of Biſhops Livings, hath not been furniſhed with Houſhold Meynie and Gueſts, as was meant by the Builders thereof, and was of old time uſed.

Princes lodged here. J. S.

In the Year 1546. the Admiral of France, the French Embaſſador, lodged here. And before that, here Edward V. took up his Lodging, when he was brought to London to take poſſeſſion of the Crown. And under King Edw. VI. the Scotch Queen was here entertained.]

The Deans Lodging.

The Deans Lodging, on the other ſide, directly againſt the Palace, is a fair old Houſe; and alſo divers large Houſes are on the ſame ſide builded; which yet remain, and (of old time) were the Lodgings of Prebendaries and Reſidentiaries, which kept great Houſholds, and liberal Hoſpitality; but now either decayed, or otherwiſe converted.

Stationers Hall. Peter College.

Then is the Stationers Hall on the ſame ſide, lately builded for them [in the Place of Peter College. Where, in the Year 1549. the 4th day of January, ſix Men were ſlain by the fall of Earth upon them, digging for a Well. Afterwards the Stationers Hall was in Amen lane, at the end of Pater noſter Row.] And let this be an end of Baynard Caſtle Ward.

The preſent State of this Ward ſtandeth thus.

As to the Places of Note and Name in this Ward, I ſhall begin with the South Part next the Thames, and Thames ſtreet; with the Lanes, Hills, and Courts, that fall into the ſaid Street: As Lambeth, or Lambard hill, St. Peter's hill, St. Benet's hill, Addle hill, and Puddle Dock hill; then with Knightriders ſtreet, Carter lane, Creed lane, Avemary lane, and Warwick lane.

Puddle Dock.

On the Banks of the River Thames, are the Wharfs of Puddle Dock, uſed for a Layſtall for the Soil of the Streets; and much frequented by Barges and Lighters, for taking the ſame away; as alſo for landing of Corn, and other Goods. Pauls Wharf, or St. Benets Pauls Wharf, a noted Stairs for Watermen; and on each ſide of the Stairs, is a very handſome Houſe, one made uſe of by a Brewer, and the other for a Timber Yard.

Pauls Wharf.

Baynards Caſtle.

Baynards Caſtle gives Name to the Ward; was ſeated on the Bank of the River Thames, but had its entrance out of Thames ſtreet. Which being all burnt down, except a little Tower next the Water ſide, in the Conflagration of London, 1666. was converted into Buildings and Wharfs, as now it is. Hereabouts, where antiently ſtood divers Noblemens Houſes fronting the Thames, are now generally Wharfs, Dye Houſes, and Brew Houſes.

Caſtle ſtreet.

Caſtle ſtreet, ſeated near unto Pauls Wharf, a good broad Street, which falleth down to the Thames; but illy inhabited, and of no great Account.

Common lane. Dungbil lane. Queen's College Yard. Briſtol ſtreet.

Weſtward from Caſtle ſtreet, are Common lane, and Dungbil lane, both which run down to the Thames. And beyond Puddle dock, is Queen's College Yard, and Briſtol ſtreet; both which fall into Duke Humfreys: all Places of ordinary Account. It hath a paſſage into Puddle Dock, and another into Black Friers.

Duke Humfreys.

Thames ſtreet.

Thames ſtreet, begins at Puddle dock, and runs Eaſtward to the Tower, which is above a Mile in length; but is in ſeveral Wards, as hath been taken notice of. It is a Street, eſpecially Eaſtward, of a very good Trade, and inhabited by great Dealers; beſides the Diers, Brewers, Woodmongers, and Timber Yards, on the South ſide, next the Thames. And by Reaſon thereof, and of the ſeveral Keys and Wharfs, it is much peſtered with Carts, for the lading and unlading of Goods.

Great Rutland Court.

Lambard hill.

Lambard hill hath but a ſmall part in this Ward; viz. on the Weſt ſide, from a little beyond Green Dragon Court, unto the corner of Old Fiſhſtreet, over againſt St. Mary Magdalens Church: all the reſt is in Queen Hith Ward. But in this Ward here is St. Mary Magdalen Churchyard, being the Place for the burial of the Dead of that Pariſh. Here is Crane Court, which is long, and hath a paſſage into St. Peters hill, with a Free ſtone Pavement; but the Houſes are indifferent.

Crane Court.

St. Peters hill.

St. Peters Hill, well built and inhabited, eſpecially the End next to Old Fiſhſtreet. On this Hill are Alms Houſes for ſix poor Widows, built by David Smith, Embroiderer to Queen Eliz. and called Embroiderers Alms Houſes; each having two Rooms, endowed with 3 l. per an. After the Fire of London, theſe Alms Houſes were rebuilt by Sir Tho. Fitch, Kt. and Bar. ſometime a Bricklayer, deceaſed. On the Weſt ſide, is the back part of the Heralds Office, with a Door leading into it.

St. Benets Hill, or Pauls Wharf Hill.

St. Benets Hill, or Pauls Wharf Hill, takes its riſe out of Thames ſtreet, and runneth up to Pauls Chain into Pauls Churchyard. It is a Place much peſtered by Carts to the Wharfs, which makes it not to be ſo well inhabited, as otherwiſe it would.

St. Benets Pauls Wharf Church.

The Church of St. Benets is ſeated at the bottom of the Hill. It was conſumed in the Fire of London, and is now rebuilt better than before. And to this Pariſh is united St. Peters Pauls Wharf, which Church is not rebuilt.

This Place is of Note, and well reſorted unto, by reaſon of Doctors Commons, and the Heralds Office, there ſeated. The former, on the Weſt ſide, poſſeſſed by the Doctors, and others profeſſing the Civil Law, and practiſing it here.

Doctors Commons.

It is a large and well built Houſe, with ſeveral open Courts, where the Civilians have their Appartments, and where they keep their Courts for the hearing of Cauſes; viz. in their publick Hall, which is large for that purpoſe. Of this Doctors Commons, ſee more in the Firſt Book, in the Chapter of Colleges. Out of this Place, is a back Door into Knightriders ſtreet.

Heralds Office.

The Heralds Office, or College of Heralds, is ſeated on the Eaſt ſide. This Office was burnt down in the Fire of London, but now rebuilt, and far better than before; being now built into a fair uniform Quadrangular Court, containing their Hall, and Apartments for the ſeveral Members of this learned Society.

Addle hill.

Addle hill, comes out of Carter lane, and runneth down to Thames ſtreet, leaving Knightriders ſtreet on the Eaſt ſide, and Church hill Alley on the Weſt. Which ſaid Alley, with a turning paſſage by St. Andrews Wardrobe Church, falleth into Puddle dock. The Houſes are only on the South ſide, the North lying open to the Church and Churchyard. And in this Alley is Church hill Alley.

Crown Court Kings great Wardrobe. Wardrobe Court.

Crown Court, which is indifferent good. Adjoining to this Church, was the King's great Wardrobe, as being formerly imployed for that uſe. The Garden is converted into a large and ſquare Court, with good Houſes, and called Wardrobe Court.

St. Andrews Wardrobe Church.

St. Andrews Wardrobe Church, was deſtroyed in the Conflagration of London, and ſince, it is very handſomely rebuilt; being a very fair Church. And to this the Pariſh of St. Anns Black Friers is united; this Church ſerving for both Pariſhes.

White Bear Court. Roſe Court. White horſe Court. Cock and hoop Court.

On the Weſt ſide of Addle hill, is White Bear Court, very large, containing two or three Courts all of that Name; but all very ordinary, and meanly built and inhabited. Out of this Place is a paſſage up Steps into Church hill Alley; and another down Steps, into Great Rutland Court. Likewiſe on this Hill, are three ſmall and ordinary Places; viz. Roſe Court, White Horſe Court, and Cock and Hoop Court.

Knightriders ſtreet. Bell Yard.

Knightriders ſtreet, of which there is the Great and the Little; being ſevered from each other by St. Benets Hill and Pauls Chain: The Leſſer running towards Old Fiſhſtreet, and the Greater towards St. Andrews Wardrobe Church. And this Street is wider, better built and inhabited than the Little, that is, by Proctors, and ſuch as have Dependance on Doctors Commons. Out of this Street is a paſſage into Carter lane, through Bell Yard, which is a very good open Court, with handſome Houſes, well inhabited.

Little Knightriders ſtreet, but narrow, and not over well inhabited, eſpecially the end next to Pauls Chain.

St. Mary Magdalens Old Fiſhſtreet Church.

Over againſt Lambard Hill, in the paſſage to the Old Change, is the Pariſh Church of St. Mary Magdalens Old Fiſhſtreet.

Do little lane.

A little Weſtwards from this Church, is Do little Lane.

Sermon lane.

Sermon lane. This Lane alſo falls into Carter lane, and is of no great Account, either for Inhabitants or Buildings.

Carter lane. Scallop Court. Mearmaid Inn. Kings head Court. Red Lion Court. Black Swan Court. Sarazens head Inn.

Carter lane, of which there is the Great and the Little. The Little comes out of the Old Change, and falleth into the Great Carter lane, but ſevered by Pauls Chain; and thence runs Weſtwards to Puddle dock and Creed lane. The Great Carter lane is the broadeſt, beſt built and inhabited. And in both theſe Lanes are theſe Courts; viz. Scallop Court, which hath a paſſage of Free ſtone Pavement into Creed lane. Deans Court, which will be mentioned anon. The Wardrobe Court, and Bell Yard, already mentioned. Mearmaid Inn, pretty large, and of a good Trade. Kings head Court, indifferent large, with a paſſage into Pauls Churchyard. And within this Court, is another, bearing the Name of Red Lion Court; pretty handſome, with a Free ſtone Pavement. Black Swan Court, indifferent good; alſo hath a paſſage into Pauls Churchyard. Sarazens head Inn, of a very good Trade.

Old Change.

The Old Change hath only the Weſt ſide, from St. Mary Magdalens Church, to St. Auſtins Gate, in this Ward; ſo that there is little to ſay of it, more than what is ſaid of it in Faringdon Ward within.

Pauls Chain.

Pauls Chain begins at the Corner of Knightriders ſtreet, and runneth up to Pauls Churchyard. A Street large and open, well built, and inhabited by Proctors and Tradeſmen; and by reaſon of its near ſituation to Doctors Commons, is of great Reſort.

Pauls Bakehouſe. Faculty Office.

Pauls Bakehouſe, now a good ſquare Court, with four handſome large Houſes; eſpecially two, which are well inhabited. At the Eaſt Corner of this Street, next to Little Carter lane, is kept the Faculty Office, for the granting of Licences for Marriages, &c.

Pauls Churchyard.

The Part or Side of Pauls Churchyard in this Ward, all lieth open to St. Pauls; and is a ſpacious Street, graced with good Houſes, loftily built and uniform, well inhabited by Woolen Drapers; with a mixture of them that make and ſell Cane Chairs and Couches, and ſome Cabinet and Looking Glaſs Sellers.

Deans Court. St. Pauls College.

In this Row of Building, which reacheth from St. Auſtin's Gate to Ludgate Hill, are theſe Courts, beſides thoſe already taken notice of. In Carter lane, Deans Court, by many called the Prerogative Court; for that the Prerogative Office is here kept. In which ſaid Court is a very large Houſe, built by Sir Joſeph Sheldon, and now the Seat of the Deans of Pauls ſucceſſively. This Court is open and airy, and hath a paſſage into Great Carter lane. More towards Ludgate Hill, and almoſt in the South Weſt Corner, is a new Court, called St. Pauls College, made uſe of for the Singing Men belonging to St. Pauls Cathedral.

St. Gregory's Church.

St. Gregories, ſeated by the South Weſt end of St. Pauls. It was deſtroyed by the great Fire, and is not to be rebuilt; but the Ground on which it ſtood, to lie open to St. Pauls Churchyard; and the Pariſh is united to St. Mary Magdalens Old Fiſhſtreet.

On the North Weſt ſide was the Biſhop of London's Palace; long ſince converted into Tenements, now called The Biſhop of Londons Yard. The Ground Rents are the Biſhops.

Pauls Alley.

Pauls Alley, hath a Free ſtone Pavement, and ſerveth as a paſſage into Pater noſter Row.

Creed lane, Warwick lane. Crown Court.

Creed lane and Warwick lane, have the Eaſt ſides in this Ward. For the Account whereof, and for the Market, part of which ſtandeth here, ſee Faringdon Ward within. On this ſide is Crown Inn, and alſo Bell Inn, both ordinary, chiefly uſed by Market People. Over againſt the College of Phyſicians, is Crown Court; which is but ſmall and ordinary.

The Watch.

There are to watch at the ſeveral Stands in this Ward, every Night, a Conſtable, with the Beadle, and Twenty four Watchmen.

The Jury.

The Jurymen returned by the Inqueſt, for this Ward, are to ſerve in the ſeveral Courts at Guild Hall, in the Month of September.]

The Government.

This Ward hath an Alderman, his Deputy, Common Counſel, 10. Conſtables, 10. Scavengers, 7. Wardmote Inqueſt, 14. and a Beadle. And to the Fifteens taxed at 12 l. in London. In the Exchequer, at 11 l. 13 s.

The Alderman of this Ward is Sir William Lewen, Kt.

The WARD of FARINGDON EXTRA, or WITHOUT.

The Bounds. St. Bartholomews Hoſpital. St. Bartholomew the Leſs. Priory of St. Bartholomew. Great St. Bartholomew. Bartholomew Fair. Smithfield. St. Sepulchres. Ely Place. St. Andrews Holborn. The Fleet. St. Dunſtans in the Weſt. The Houſe of Converts. The Rolls. Bridewel. St. Bridgets, or St. Brides. The White Friars. The new Temple. Templars. The preſent State of this Ward.

The Ward of Faringdon without.

THE fartheſt Weſt Ward of this City, being the 25th Ward of London, but without the Walls, is called Faringdon without; and was of old time part of the other Faringdon within; until the 17th of Rich. II. in which it was divided, and made twaine; by the Names of Faringdon infra, and Faringdon extra, as is afore ſhewed.

The Bounds without Newgate.

The Bounds of which Ward, without Newgate and Ludgate, are theſe.

Firſt, on the Eaſt Part thereof, is the whole Precinct of the late Priory of St. Bartholomew; and a part of Long lane, on the North, towards Alderſgate ſtreet; and all Smithfield, to the Bars in St. John ſtreet.

Then out of Smithfield, Chicken lane, toward Turmile, or Turnmill Brook; and over that Brook, by a Bridge of Timber, into the Field. Then back again by the Pens or Folds in Smithfield, by Smithfield Pond, to Cow lane, which turneth toward Oldbourn; and then Hoſier lane, out of Smithfield alſo toward Oldbourn, till it meet with a part of Cow lane.

Then Cocklane, out of Smithfield, over againſt Pie corner. Then alſo is Giltſpur ſtreet, out of Smithfield to Newgate. Then from Newgate, Weſt by St. Sepulchres Church, to Turn again lane. Then to Oldbourn Conduit, on Snow hill, to Oldbourn Bridge, up Oldbourn hill, to the Bars, on both ſides.

Gold lane.

On the Right Hand, or North ſide, at the bottom of Oldbourn hill, is Gold lane; ſometime a filthy paſſage into the Fields, now both ſides builded with ſmall Tenements.

Lither lane.

Then higher is Lither lane, turning alſo to the Field, (lately repleniſhed with Houſes) and ſo to the Bar.

Old Baily.

Now, on the Left hand or South ſide from Newgate, lieth a Street called the Old Baily, or Court of the Chamberlain of this City; this ſtretcheth down by the Wall of the City unto Ludgate. On the Weſt ſide of which Street, breaketh out one other Lane, called St. George's lane, till ye come unto the South end of Seacoal lane; and then, turning towards Fleet ſtreet, it is called Fleet lane.

Little Baily.

The next out of the High Street from Newgate, turning down South, is called the Little Baily, and runneth down to the Eaſt of St. George's lane.

Lime burners lane, or Seacoal lane.

Then is Seacoal lane, which turneth down into Fleet lane.

Wind again lane.

Near unto this Seacoal lane, in the turning towards Oldbourn Conduit, is another Lane, called in Record Windagain lane; for that it turneth down to Turnmil Brook, and from thence back again, for there is no way over.

Shoe lane.

Then beyond Oldbourn Bridge, to Shoe lane; which runneth out of Oldbourn, unto the Conduit in Fleet ſtreet.

Fewtars lane.

Then alſo is Fewtars lane, which likewiſe ſtretcheth South into Fleetſtreet, by the Eaſt end of St. Dunſtans Church. And from this Lane to the Bars, be the Bounds without Newgate.

Bounds without Ludgate.

Now, without Ludgate, this Ward runneth up from the ſaid Gate, to Temple bar, and hath on the Right hand, or North ſide, the South end of the Old Baily. Then down Ludgate hill, to the Fleet lane, over Fleet Bridge, and by Shoe lane, and Fewtars lane, and ſo to New ſtreet (or Chancery lane) and up that Lane to the Houſe of the Rolls. Which Houſe is alſo of this Ward. And on the other ſide, to a Lane over againſt the Rolls, which entreth Ficquetes Field.

Shire lane.

Then hard by the Bar, is one other Lane, called Shire lane, becauſe it divideth the City from the Shire; and this turneth into Ficquetes Field.

From Ludgate again, on the Left hand, or South ſide, to Fleet Bridge, to Bride lane, which runneth South by Bridewel. Then to Water lane, which runneth down to the Thames.

Then by the White Friers, and by the Temple, even to the Bar aforeſaid, be the Bounds of this Faringdon Ward without.

Antiently Londons chief Buildings hereabouts. J. S. Fab. Chron. Chap. 197.

In theſe Parts from Ludgate, and ſo Weſtward, the City, in the Saxon Times, was chiefly ſituate; and more thinly built, where now the City eſpecially ſtandeth. This appears from what Fabian found in a very old Record, called Doomſday, belonging to the City. Who writes in his Chronicle, that in King Egelred's, or Ethelred's Reign, which began in the Year 981. (or 978. as Stow,) London had moſt Houſing or Building from Ludgate towards Weſtminſter; and little or none where the Chief or Heart of the City now is; except in divers Places was Houſing, but the Houſes ſtood without Order. So that many Towns and Cities, as Canterbury, York, and others, paſſed London in Building in thoſe Days. As he ſaith he had ſeen and known by an old Book in the Guild Hall of London, named Domyſday. But after the Conqueſt it increaſt; and ſhortly paſt and excelled all the other.]

Ornaments and Monuments.

Gilt Spur, or Knightriders ſtreet.

Touching Ornaments and Antiquities in this Ward: Firſt, betwixt the ſaid Newgate, and the Pariſh of St. Sepulchres, is a Way towards Smithfield, called Gilt Spurr, or Knightriders ſtreet, of the Knights, and others, riding that way into Smithfield; repleniſhed with Buildings on both ſides, up to Pie corner; a Place ſo called of ſuch a Sign, ſometime a fair Inn for receipt of Travellers; but now divided into Tenements. And over againſt the ſaid Pie corner, lieth Cock lane, which runneth down to Oldborn Conduit.

Cock lane.

The Hoſpital of St. BARTHOLOMEW.

Weſt Smithfield.

Beyond this Pie corner, lieth Weſt Smithfield, compaſſed about with Buildings. As firſt, on the South ſide, following the Right hand, ſtandeth the Pariſh Church, and large Hoſpital of St. Bartholomew, founded by Rahere, the firſt Prior of St. Bartholomews, thereto near adjoining, in the Year 1102.

Hoſpital of St. Bartholomews.

The firſt Maſter or Proctor of the Hoſpital of St. Bartholomew.

Alfune, that had not long before builded the Pariſh Church of St. Giles without Criplegate, became the firſt Hoſpitaler or Proctor, for the Poor of this Houſe; and went himſelf daily to the Shambles, and other Markets, where he begged the Charity of devout People for their Relief; promiſing to the liberal Givers (and that by alledging Teſtimonies of the Holy Scripture) Reward at the Hands of God. Henry III. granted to Katharine, late Wife to William Hardell, twenty Foot of Land in length and breadth, in Smithfield, next to the Chappel of St. Bartholomew, to build her a Recluſe or Ankorage; commanding the Maior and Sheriffs of London, to aſſign the ſaid twenty Foot to the ſaid Katharine; Charta 11 Hen. III. The Feundation of this Hoſpital for the Poor and Diſeaſed, and their ſpecial Suſtentation, was confirmed by Edw. III. the 26th of his Reign. It was governed by a Maſter, and eight Brethren; being Prieſts for the Church; and four Siſters, to ſee the Poor ſerved.

A Recluſe or Ankorage by St. Bartholomews Hoſpital.

The Executors of Richard Whitington, ſometime Maior of London, of his Goods repaired this Hoſpital, about the Year 1423.

Sir John Wakering, Prieſt, Maſter of this Houſe, in the Year 1463. amongſt other Books, gave to their common Library, the faireſt Bible that I have ſeen, written in large Vellam, by a Brother of that Houſe, named John Coke, at the Age of 68 Years, when he had been Prieſt 43 Years. Since the ſpoil of that Library, I have ſeen this Book in the Cuſtody of my Worſhipful Friend, Maſter Walter Cope.

Hoſpital of St. Bartholomew ſuppreſſed.

This Hoſpital was valued at the Suppreſſion, in the Year 1539. the 31ſt of Henry VIII. to 35*l.* 6*s.* 7*d.* yearly. But the Church remaineth a Pariſh Church to the Tenants dwelling in the Precinct of that Hoſpital. In [the Year 1546. on the 13th of Jan. the Bp. of Rocheſter preaching at Pauls Croſs, declared the Gift of the ſaid King to the Citizens, for relieving of the Poor. Which contained the Church of the Grey Friers, the Church of St. Bartholomew, with the Hoſpital, with all the Meſſuages and Appurtenances in Gilt Spur, alias Knightriders ſtreet, Briton ſtreet, Peter Kay, in the Pariſh of St. Mary Magdalen, in Old Fiſhſtreet; and in the Pariſh of St. Benet Huda, Lymehurſt, or Limehoſt, in the Pariſh of Stebunheth, &c.

The liberal Charity of the Citizens, at the firſt founding of this, and the other Hoſpitals.

Then alſo were Orders deviſed for Relief of the Poor. The Inhabitants were all called to their Pariſh Churches; where, by Sir Richard Dobbes, then Maior, their ſeveral Aldermen, or other grave Citizens, they were by eloquent Orations perſuaded, how great and how many Commodities would enſue unto them, and their City; if the Poor of divers Sorts, which they named, were taken from out their Streets, Lanes, and Allies, and were beſtowed and provided for in Hoſpitals abroad, &c. Therefore was every Man moved, liberally to grant what they would impart towards the preparing and furniſhing of ſuch Hoſpitals, and alſo, what they would contribute Weekly towards their Maintenance for a time, which, they ſaid, ſhould not be paſt one Year, or twain, until they were better furniſhed with Endowment. To make ſhort, every Man granted liberally, according to his Ability. And Books were drawn of the Relief in every Ward of the City, towards the new Hoſpitals; and were delivered by the Maior to the King's Commiſſioners, on the 17th of February, and Order was taken therein. So as the 26th of July, in the Year 1552. the repairing of the Grey Fries Houſe, for poor Fatherleſs Children, was taken in hand. And alſo, in the latter end of the ſame Month, began the repairing of this Hoſpital of St. Bartholomew; and was of new endowed and furniſhed, at the Charges of the Citizens.

Orders for St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital.

There were two Orders of Common Council made, concerning St. Bartholomews Hoſpital, that may be mentioned here: Viz.

R.
No Arreſt within the Precinct.

At a Common Council, on Tueſday, July the 19th, 33 Hen. VIII. The moſt gracious Letters Patents of King Edward II. made and granted to St. Bartholomews Hoſpital, in Smithfield, were allowed; for and concerning ſuch Privileges, as they do thereby claim at this preſent time. Which is, that none of the Officers or Miniſters of the City, ſhould do or execute any Arreſt within the Precinct of the ſaid Hoſpital. And that the Arreſt made by Underhill (one of my Lord Maiors Servants) upon Alice Brown, ſhall be diſcharged, &c.

Allowance to break down piece of the City Wall here.

Alſo at a Common Council, Auguſt the 1ſt, in the 6th of Edward VI. it was enacted, That the Lord Maior and Aldermen, ſhould have leave to break down a piece of the City Wall, behind Chriſt Church, for the making a Door or Paſſage through the ſaid Wall, for the Governors of the Houſe of the Poor of the Foundation of King Henry VIII. in Weſt Smithfield, and other Citizens; to go to and from the Houſe, ordained by the City for the Relief of the Poor, called The Houſe of Work. Any Law, &c. notwithſtanding.]

The Priory of St. BARTHOLOMEW.

Priory of St. Bartholomew.

On the Eaſt ſide of this Duck lane, and alſo of Smithfield, lieth the late diſſolved Priory of St. Bartholomew; founded alſo by Rahere, a pleaſant witted Gentleman; and therefore in his time The King's Minſtrel, about the Year of Chriſt, 1102. He founded it in a part of the oft before named Mooriſh Ground, which was therefore a common Layſtall of all Filth, that was to be voided out of the City. He placed Canons there, and himſelf became their firſt Prior; and ſo continued till his dying Day; and was there buried in a fair Monument, of late renewed by Prior Bolton.

Bartholomew Cloſe.
J. S.

By a greate Gate in the ſaid Duck lane, we enter into a ſpacious Court, inhabited, belonging to the ſaid Hoſpital, called Bartholomew Cloſe. On the Eaſt part thereof, is a late built Court, with fair Brick Buildings, called Queens Court. At the upper end thereof, Eaſt, is a curious Picture of the late Queen ANNE, in full proportion. This Court was built Anno 1708. There be alſo two or three narrow Paſſages from this Cloſe into Alderſgate ſtreet.]

Amongſt other memorable Matters touching this Priory, one is of an Archbiſhop's Viſitation; which Matthew Paris hath thus.

Archbiſhop of Canterbury viſiteth St. Bartholomew's Priory with Stripes.

Words of the Archbiſhop to the Prior and Canons.
Sub-Prior's Cope rent and trodden under Foot, and himſelf almoſt ſlain.
The Archbiſhop armed, and overthrown.
The Canons beaten, and trod under Foot.

The Canons complained, but could not be heard.
The whole City in an uproar againſt the Archbiſhop.

Boniface (ſaith he) Archbiſhop of Canterbury, in his Viſitation, came to this Priory; where, being received with Proceſſion in the moſt ſolemn wiſe, he ſaid, That he paſſed not upon the Honour, but came to viſit them. To whom the Canons anſwered, That they having a learned Biſhop, ought not, in contempt of him, to be viſited by any other. Which Anſwer ſo much offended the Archbiſhop, that he forthwith fell on the Sub-Prior, and ſmote him on the Face, ſaying: Indeed, indeed, doth it become you Engliſh Traitors ſo to anſwer me? Thus raging, with Oaths not to be recited, he rent in pieces the rich Cope of the Sub-Prior, and trod it under his Feet; and thruſt him againſt a Pillar of the Chancel with ſuch [ſpiritual] Violence, that he had almoſt killed him. But the Canons ſeeing their Sub-Prior thus almoſt ſlain, came and plucked off the Archbiſhop with ſuch force, that they overthrew him backwards, whereby they might ſee, that he was armed, and prepared to fight. The Archbiſhop's Men ſeeing their Maſter down, being all Strangers, and their Maſter's Countrymen, born at Provence, fell upon the Canons, beat them, tare them, and trode them under Foot. At length, the Canons getting away as well as they could, ran bloody and miry, rent and torn, to the Biſhop of London, to complain. Who bade them go to the King at Weſtminſter, and tell him thereof. Whereupon, four of them went thither, the reſt were not able, they were ſo ſore hurt. But when they came to Weſtminſter, the King would neither hear nor ſee them; ſo they returned without redreſs. In the mean ſeaſon, the whole City was in an uproar, and ready to have rung the common Bell, and to have hewed the Archbiſhop into ſmall pieces, who was ſecretly crept to Lambhith, where they ſought him; and not knowing him by ſight, ſaid to themſelves, Where is this Ruffian, that cruel Smiter? He is no winner of Souls, but an exacter of Money; whom neither God, nor any lawful or free Election did bring to this Promotion. But the King did unlawfully intrude him; being Unlearned, a Stranger born, and having a Wife, &c. But the Archbiſhop conveighed himſelf over, and went to the King with a great Complaint againſt the Canons, whereas himſelf was guilty.

This Priory of St. Bartholomew, was again new builded in the Year 1410.

Bolton laſt Prior of St. Bartholomew's, a great Builder there.
Canonbury.

Bolton was the laſt Prior of this Houſe, a great Builder there. For he repaired the Priory Church, with the Pariſh Church adjoining; the Offices and Lodgings to the ſaid Priory belonging, and near adjoining. He builded of new the Manor of Canonbury at Iſlington, which belonged to the Canons of this Houſe; and is ſituate in a low Ground, ſomewhat North from the Pariſh Church there. But he builded no Houſe at Harrow on the Hill, as Edward Hall hath written; following a Fable then on Foot.

Edw. Hall.

His Houſe at Harrow on the Hill.

The People (ſaith he) being feared by Prognoſtications, which declared, that in the Year of Chriſt 1524. there ſhould be ſuch Eclipſes in watry Signs, and ſuch conjunctions, that by Waters and Floods many People ſhould periſh: People victualled themſelves, and went to high Grounds for fear of drowning; and eſpecially one Bolton, which was Prior of St. Bartholomews in Smithfield, builded him an Houſe upon Harrow on the Hill, only for fear of this Flood. Thither he went, and made proviſion of all Things neceſſary within him, for the ſpace of two Months, &c.

But this was not ſo indeed, as I have been credibly informed. True it is, that this Bolton was alſo Parſon of Harrow, and therefore beſtowed ſome ſmall Reparations on the Parſonage Houſe; and builded nothing there, more than a Dove Houſe, to ſerve him when he had forgone his Priory.

Bartholomew Fair.
The Foreigners were licenſed for three Days, the Freemen ſo long as they would, which was ſix or ſeven Days.
Court of Piepowders.

To this Priory, King Henry II. granted the Privilege of a Fair to be kept yearly, at Bartholomewtide, for three Days; to wit, the Eve, the Day, and the next Morrow. To the which the Clothiers of England, and Drapers of London repaired; and had their Booths and Standings within the Churchyard of this Priory, cloſed in with Walls and Gates, locked every Night, and watched, for Safety of Mens Goods and Wares. A Court of Piepowders was daily, during the Fair, holden for Debts and Contracts. But now, (notwithſtanding all Proclamations of the Prince, and alſo the Act of Parliament) in place of Booths within this Churchyard (only letten out in the Fair time, and cloſed up all the Year after) be many large Houſes builded; and the North Wall, towards Long lane, being taken down, a number of Tenements are there erected, for ſuch as will give great Rents.

Conteſt between the City and the Prior, about the Fair.
Lib. Alb. Fol 286 b.
J. S.

The Cuſtos of the City, Raſe Sandwich, An. 1295. had a Conteſt with the Prior of St. Bartholomews, about the Cuſtoms and Benefits of this Fair. Claiming all the Cuſtoms, the Morrow after St. Bartholomew's Day, and half of them on the Eve before the ſaid Day. Of this King Edward took Notice; and the Cuſtoms being his Benefit at this time, when the City Privileges were forfeited, and in the King's Hand; he ſent this Brief a little before the Fair, to the ſaid Cuſtos and the Sheriffs, to have the Buſineſs decided by his Treaſurer and Barons. The ſaid Brief was as follows.

'Dominus Rex, &c. The Lord the King hath ' Words. Edward, by the Grace of God, to

' the Cuſtos and Sheriffs of London, Greeting.
' Whereas the Prior of St. Bartholomew of Smethefeld, in the Suburbes of London, by the Char' ters of Our Progenitors, Kings of England,
' and Our Confirmation, claimeth to have a ' certain Fair there every Year, during three ‘ Days; viz. On the Eve, on the Day, and on the Morrow of St. Bartholomew the Apoſtle; with all Liberties and free Cuſtoms, belonging to the Fair; a Contention hath ariſen between the ſaid Prior, and you the ſaid Cuſtos, who ſue for Us, concerning the Uſe of the Liberties of the ſaid Fair, and the free Cuſtoms belonging to it. And hindrance being made to the ſaid Prior, by you, the ſaid Cuſtos, as the ſame Prior aſſerteth; to wit, concerning a Moyety of the ſaid Eve, and of the whole Morrow, beforeſaid. Concerning which, We will, as well for Us, as for the foreſaid Prior, that Juſtice be done as it is fit, before our Treaſurer and Barons of the Exchequer, from the Day of St. Mechael next, for one Month. We command you, that ſufficient Security be taken of the ſaid Prior, of reſtoring to Us the ſaid Day, the Iſſues of the foreſaid Fair, coming from the Moyety of the foreſaid Eve, and of the whole Morrow, if the ſaid Prior cannot then ſhew ſomething for himſelf, why the ſaid Iſſues ought not to belong to Us. We command you, that ye permit the ſame Prior, in the mean time, to receive the foreſaid Iſſues, in Form aforeſaid. And you may have there this Brief. Witneſs my Self at Dunelm, the 9th day of Auguſt, in the 20th Year of our Reign.]

The Black Friers placed at St Bartholomew's.

This Church, having in the Bell Tower, ſix Bells in a Tune, were ſold to the Pariſh of St. Sepulchres; and then the Church being pulled down to the Quire, the Quire was, by the King's Order annexed, for the inlarging of the old Pariſh Church thereto adjoining; and ſo was uſed till the Reign of Queen Mary, who gave it to the Friers Preachers, or Black Friers, and was uſed as their Coventual Church, until the 1ſt of our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth. Thoſe Friers were once more put out, and then all the ſaid Church, was wholly as it ſtood, in the laſt Year of Edward VI. given by Parliament, to remain for ever a Pariſh Church to the Inhabitants within the Cloſe, called Great St. Bartholomews. Since the which time, that old Church is pulled down, except the Steeple of rotten Timber, ready to fall of it ſelf. I have oft heard it reported, that a new Steeple ſhould be builded with the Stone, Lead, and Timber, of the old Pariſh Church, but no ſuch Thing was performed. For it is more eaſy to pull down, than to ſet up and build. The Pariſh have lately repaired the old Wooden Steeple, to ſerve their Turn.

Repaired. R.

From the Year of our Lord 1622. to 1633. there hath not been a Year, wherein there hath been a great deal of Money expended in one part of the Church or other. In the Year 1620. the Porch at the Weſt end of the Church was new built; which, in the Year 1632. was repaired and beautified. In the Year 1622. the Inſide of the Church was new painted. In the Year 1624. the Gallery at the lower end of the Church was rebuilded, and very much inlarged. In the Years 1625, and 1626. great Coſt was beſtowed in Lead, and in the Plumbers Labour. In the Year 1628. the Steeple, being formerly part of Stone, and part of Timber, the upper part eſpecially Timber, being all ruined and decayed, was pulled down to the very Foundation; and a new one rebuilded of Brick and Freeſtone, and very richly and fairly finiſhed. Alſo the Eaſt Ile, and ſome other Parts very defective, were Repaired and Beautified at the Coſt and Charges of the Pariſhioners. The Charge of this Year, 1633. amounting to 698 l. and upwards.

Then is Smithfield Pond, which of old time, in Records, was called Horſe Pool; for that Men watered Horſes there, and was a great Water. In the 6th of Henry V. a new Building was made in the Weſt Part of Smithfield, betwixt the ſaid Pool, and the River of the Wells, or Turnmill Brook, in a Place then called The Elms; for that there grew many Elm Trees; and this had been the Place of Execution for Offenders. Since the which time, the Building there hath been ſo increaſed, that now remaineth not one Tree growing.

And thus much for Incroachments and Incloſure of this Smithfield; whereby remaineth but a ſmall portion for the old Uſes; to wit, for Markets of Horſes and Cattle; neither for Military Exerciſes, as Juſtings, Turnings, and great Triumphs, which have been there performed before the Princes and Nobility, both of this Realm and foreign Countries.

Several mentioned. Fabian.

For Example to note. In the Year 1357. the 31ſt of Edward III. Great and Royal Juſts were then holden in Smithfield; there being preſent the Kings of England, France, and Scotland, with many other Nobles, and great Eſtates of divers Lands.

In the Year 1362. the 36th of Edward III. on the firſt five days of May, in Smithfield were Juſts holden, the King and Queen being preſent; with the moſt part of the Chivalry of England, and of France, and of other Nations; to the which came Spaniards, Cyprians, and Armenians, Knightly requeſting Aid of the King of England, againſt the Pagans that invaded their Confines.

Alice Perrers rode from the Tower to Smithfield, as Lady of the Sun.

The 48th of Edward III. Dame Alice Perrers, or Pierce, (the King's Concubine) as Lady of the Sun, rode from the Tower of London, through Cheap, accompanied of many Lords and Ladies; every Lady leading a Lord by his Horſe Bridle, till they came into Weſt Smithfield; and then began a great Juſt, which endured ſeven Days after.

Alſo the 9th of Richard II. was the like great Riding from the Tower to Weſtminſter, and every Lord led a Lady's Horſe Bridle; and on the Morrow began the Juſts in Smithfield, which laſted three Days. There bare them well, Henry of Darby, the Duke of Lancaſter's Son, the Lord Beaumont, Sir Simon Burley, and Sir Paris Courtney.

In the 14th of Richard II. after Froiſard, Royal Juſts and Turnaments were proclaimed to be done in Smithfield; to begin on Sunday, next after the Feaſt of St. Michael. Many Strangers came forth out of other Countries: Namely, Valerian, Earl of St. Paul, that had married King Richard's Siſter; the Lady Maud Courtney, and William the young Earl of Oſtarvant; Son to Albret of Baviere, Earl of Holland and Henault.

Tower Royal.

At the Day appointed, there iſſued forth of the Tower, about the third Hour of the Day, Sixty Courſers, apparelled for the Juſts; and upon every one an Eſquire of Honour, riding a ſoft Pace. Then came forth Sixty Ladies of Honour, mounted upon Palfraies, riding on the one Side, richly Apparelled; and every Lady led a Knight with a Chain of Gold. Thoſe Knights being on the King's Party, had their Armour and Apparel garniſhed with White Harts and Crowns of Gold about the Harts Necks; and ſo they came riding through the Streets of London, to Smithfield, with a great number of Trumpets, and other Inſtruments of Muſick before them. The King and Queen, who were lodged in the Biſhop's Palace of London, were come from thence, with many great Eſtates, and placed in Chambers to ſee the Juſts. The Ladies that led the Knights, were taken down from their Palfrays, and went up to Chambers prepared for them. Then alighted the Eſquires of Honour from their Courſers, and the Knights in good Order mounted upon them. And after the Helmets were ſet on their Heads, and being ready in all Points, Proclamation made by the Heralds, the Juſts began; and many commendable Courſes were run, to the great Pleaſure of the Beholders. Theſe Juſts continued many Days, with great Feaſting, as ye may read in Froiſard.

In the Year 1393. the 17th of Richard II. certain Lords of Scotland came into England to get Worſhip, by force of Arms; the Earl of Marr challenged the Earl of Nottingham to Juſt with him; and ſo they rode together certain Courſes, but not the full Challenge; for the Earl of Marr was caſt, both Horſe and Man, and two of his Ribs broken with the fall; ſo that he was conveyed out of Smithfield, and ſo towards Scotland, but died by the Way, at York.

Sir William Darell, Kt. the King's Banner bearer of Scotland, challenged Sir Percy Courtney, Kt. the King's Banner bearer of England; and when they had run certain Courſes, gave over without concluſion of Victory. Then Cookborne, Eſq; of Scotland, challenged Sir Nicolas Hawberke, Kt. and rode five Courſes, but Cookborne was born over Horſe and Man, &c.

A Play at Skinners Well.

In the Year 1409. the 10th of Henry IV. a great Play was played at Skinners Well, which laſted eight Days; where were to ſee the ſame, the moſt part of the Nobles and Gentles of England. And forthwith began a Royal Juſting in Smithfield, between the Earl of Somerſet, and the Seneſhall of Henalt, Sir John Cornwall, Sir Ric. Arundell, and the Son of Sir John Cheyney, againſt certain French Men. And the ſame Year a Battle was fought in Smithfield, the one called Glauceſter Appellant, and the other Arthure Defendant; they fought valiantly, but the King took up the Quarrel into his Hands, and pardoned them both.

Combate of Carey, and a Foreign Knight. Izacke's Remarks of Exeter

J. S.

In the beginning of Henry V. his Reign, another memorable Encounter happened here in Smithfield, between Rob. Carey, of the Weſt, Son of Sir John Carey, Kt. and a Foreign Kt. called Aragoneſe, one of the Kingdom of Aragon. Who having performed many noble Atchievements in other Countries, at laſt viſited England; where he challenged many Perſons of his Rank and Quality, to make trial of his Skill in Arms. The ſaid Robert Carey accepted his Challenge. Between them was waged a cruel Encounter, and a long and doubtful Combat. But at laſt he was vanquiſhed by the Engliſh Gentleman. Who was therefore knighted by the King, and reſtored to part of his Father's Inheritance; having been Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer in King Richard II. his Time, and taking part with him, had forfeited his Eſtate. And whereas by the Law of Heraldry (ſaith my Author) whoſoever fairly in the Field conquered his Adverſary, might juſtify the wearing and bearing of his Arms whom he overcame; he accordingly took on him the Coat Armour of this Aragoneſe, being Argent, on a Bend Sable, three Roſes of the Firſt; which is ever ſince born by the Name of Carey. Whoſe antient Coat of Arms was, Gules, a Chevron Argent, between three Swans proper: One whereof they ſtill retain in their Creſt.]

Carey's Arms, how atchieved.

In the Year 1430. the 8th of Henry VI. the 14th of January, a Battle was done in Smithfield, within the Liſts, before the King, between two Men of Feverſham in Kent; John Upton, Notary, Appellant, and John Downe, Gentleman, Defendant. John Upton put upon John Downe, that he and his Compiers ſhould imagine the King's death, upon the day of his Coronation. When theſe had fought long, the King took up the Matter, and forgave both Parties.

In the Year 1442. the 20th of Henry VI. the 30th of January, a Challenge was done in Smithfield, within the Liſts, before the King; there being Sir Philip la Beauſe, of Aragon, Kt. the other an Eſquire of the King's Houſe, called John Anſley, or Antſley. They came to the Field all Armed, the Knight with his Sword drawn, and the Eſquire with his Spear; which Spear he caſt againſt the Knight, but the Knight avoided it with his Sword, and caſt it to the Ground. Then the Eſquire took his Axe, and ſmote many Blows on the Knight, and made him let fall his Axe, and brake up his Uniber three times, and would have ſmit him on the Face with his Dagger, for to have ſlain him; but then the King cried hold, and ſo they were parted. The King made John Anſley, Knight, and the Knight of Aragon offered his Harneſs at Windſor.

John David, a falſe Accuſer of his Maſter. Of him was raiſed the By-word, If ye ſerve me ſo, I will call you Davy.

In the Year 1446. the 24th of Henry VI. John David appeached his Maſter, William Cater, of Treaſon; and a Day being aſſigned them to fight in Smithfield, the Maſter being well beloved, was ſo cheriſhed by his Friends, and plied with Wine, that being therewith overcome, was alſo unluckily ſlain by his Servant. For that falſe Servant (for he falſly accuſed his Maſter) lived not long unpuniſhed; for he was after hanged at Teyborn, for Felony.

Let all ſuch falſe Accuſers note this for Example, and look for no better end, without ſpeedy Repentance.

The ſame Year, Thomas Fitz-Thomas, Prior of Kilmaine, appeached Sir James Butler, Earl of Ormond, of Treaſons. Which had a Day aſſigned them to fight in Smithfield. The Liſts were made, and the Field prepared; but when it came to the Point, the King commanded they ſhould not fight, and took the Quarrel into his Hands.

In the Year 1467. the 7th of Edward IV. the Baſtard of Burgoigne challenged the Lord Scales, Brother to the Queen, to fight with him, both on Horſeback and on Foot. The King therefore cauſed Liſts to be prepared in Smithfield, the length of 120 Taylors Yards, and ten Foot; and in breadth 80 Yards, and 20 Foot*; double barred, five Foot between the Bars, the Timber Work whereof coſt 200 Marks, beſides the fair and coſtly Galleries, prepared for the Ladies, and others. At the which Martial Exerciſe, the King and Nobility were preſent. The firſt Day they ran together with Spears, and departed with equal Honour.

* One computes this 379 Foot in length, 260 in breadth.

The next Day they turneyed on Horſeback; the Lord Scales's Horſe having on his Chafron a long ſpear Pike of Steel, and as the two Champions coaped together, the ſame Horſe thruſt his Pike into the Noſtrils of the Baſtard's Horſe; ſo that for very pain, he mounted ſo high, that he fell on the one ſide with his Maſter; and the Lord Scales rode about him with his Sword drawn, till the King commanded the Marſhal to help up the Baſtard; who ſaid, I cannot hold by the Clouds; for though my Horſe fail me, I will not fail an Incounter Companion. But the King would not ſuffer them to do any more that Day.

The next Morrow they came into the Liſts on Foot, with two Pole Axes, and fought valiantly; but at laſt the point of the Pole Axe of the Lord Scales, entred into the ſide of the Baſtard's Helm, and by force might have placed him on his Knees. But the King caſt down his Warder, and the Marſhal ſevered them. The Baſtard required that he might perform his Enterprize; but the King gave Judgment, as the Baſtard relinquiſhed his Challenge, &c. And this may ſuffice for Juſts in Smithfield.

Smithfield being continually ſubject to extremity of Weather, by an honourable Motion made, it was paved all over, An. 1614.
A. M.

But yet we may not part with Smithfield ſo: For, as it hath been a Place for ſuch honourable Juſts and Triumphs, by reaſon it was a ſoft Ground, and unpaved: So was it a Market Place for Cattle, Hay, Straw, and other neceſſary Proviſions. And likewiſe (once in the Year) at Bartholomewtide, a general Fair, commonly called Bartholomew Fair, hath uſually been kept in that Place. But in regard that it was continually ſubject to the iniquity of Weather, and being a Place of ſuch goodly extendure, deſerved to be much better reſpected; it pleaſed the King's Majeſty, with the Advice of his honourable Lords of the Councel, to write graciouſly to the Lord Maior, and the Aldermen his Brethren, that Smithfield might be ſufficiently paved; which would be the only means to have it kept in far cleaner Condition. And as no Motion (to any good End and Intent) can be made to the City, but they as gladly embrace, and willingly purſue it; even ſo this honourable Motion found as acceptable Entertainment, and it was very ſpeedily proceeded withal. Some voluntary Contributions in the ſeveral Pariſhes (what each Man willingly would give) was beſtowed on the Work; but, indeed, hardly deſerving any Report. Notwithſtanding, on the 4th day of February, An. 1614. the City began the intended Labour; and before Bartholomewtide, then next enſuing, to the Credit and Honour of the City for ever, it was fully finiſhed; and Bartholomew Fair there kept, without breaking any of the paved Ground, but the Booths diſcreetly ordered, to ſtand faſt upon the Pavement. The Citizens Charge thereof, (as I have been credibly told by Maſter Arthur Strangewaies) amounting well near to Sixteen hundred Pounds.]

Bartholomew Fair kept in much better manner, than ever formerly it hath been.

Smithfield railed and made convenient.
J. S.

Where, beſides the paving of this Place all over, and levelling it (which being in ſuch a rude foul Condition, it was before thought impoſſible to be done) it was greatly raiſed and mounted in the middle; whereby it became a very fair, clean, and ſpatious Walk: And divers Conveyances were made for the Water, from the new Channels, made by the reaſon of the Pavement. It was alſo ſtrongly railed on all Sides. And the middle Part had alſo ſubſtantial Rails round about, for the better Safety of Paſſengers, and for the Security of ſuch as ſhould walk there, from the danger of Coaches, Carts, Horſes, Oxen, and other Cattle, of which Smithfield is ſeldom empty. And that, if Occaſion were, it might ſerve for a Market Place; becauſe Newgate Market, Cheapſide, Leadenhall, and Graſchurch ſtreet (where the Markets in thoſe times were kept) were unmeaſurably peſtered with increaſe and multitude of Market Folks, Carts, and other Annoyances attending them; to the great Vexation of the Inhabitants, and Trouble of Paſſengers. So that the Magiſtrates of the City, did ſeriouſly take it into their Conſideration, how to make ſome new convenient Market Place, for the general Service of the City.

Ruffians Hall.
E. Henry.

This Field, as it had antiently been (as was ſaid before) a Place of Honourable Exerciſes of Juſts and Turnements, ſo looſe ſerving Men would commonly meet here, and make Uproars and Quarrels; inſomuch that it was many Years called Ruffians Hall, being the uſual Rendevous of Ruffians and Quarrellers, during the time that Swords and Bucklers were uſed: When every Serving Man carried a Buckler at his Back, which hung by the Hilt or Pomel of his Sword, hanging before him.

Order of Common Council, concerning this Fair, Anno 1708.

And now for a long time, the Fair kept here, inſtead of three Days, hath laſted a Fortnight; and became of little other Uſe, than for idle Youth, and looſe People, to reſort to, and to ſpend their Money in Vanity; and (that which was worſe) in Debaucheries, Drunkenneſs, Whoredom, and in ſeeing and hearing Things not fit for Chriſtian Eyes and Ears: Many of the Houſes and Booths here, ſerving only to allure Men and Women to ſuch Purpoſes of Impiety. Therefore the Magiſtracy often intending, fully, at laſt, reſolved in the Year 1708. to reduce the Fair to that ſpace of Time only, according to which it was at the firſt granted; that is, to three Days: And accordingly an Order was made. And at a Court of Common Council, in June, the ſaid Year, when ſome Petitions were offered for revoking the former Order, upon certain Inconveniencies; as the great falling of the Rents of St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital, and of the great Loſſes that many of the Inhabitants in and about Weſt Smithfield muſt ſuffer. Yet, upon the Conſideration of the great Miſchiefs and Diſorders that had ariſen by the long Continuance of the ſaid Fair, the Petitions for prolonging the Time were rejected, and the Order confirmed. Whereby the Fair was to be kept for three Days only, for the ſelling of Merchandizes, according to the Original Grants from the Crown.]

The Pariſh Church of St. SEPULCHRES.

St. Sepulchres.

Now to return through Gilt Spur ſtreet by Newgate, where I firſt began, there ſtandeth the fair Pariſh Church, called St. Sepulchres in the Baily, or by Chamberlain Gate, in a fair Churchyard, though not ſo large as of old Time; for the ſame is letten out for Buildings, and a Garden Plot.

St. Sepulchre ſo called from the Sepulchre of Chriſt at Jeruſalem. J. S. Ri. Smith.

[So called from the Holy Sepulchre of our Saviour, unto the Memory whereof, it was firſt dedicated. The Holy Sepulchre or Grove of our Saviour Chriſt at Jeruſalem, was in ſuch Regard in former Times, that an Order of the Knights of the Holy Sepulchre at Jeruſalem, was inſtituted Anno 1103. by Baldwin, ſecond King of Jeruſalem; Brother to Godfrey of Bulloin, the firſt King of Jeruſalem.]

Jo Leyland. Pophams, Builders of St. Sepulchre's Church.

This Church was newly Re-edified or Builded, about the Reign of Henry VI. or Edw. IV. One of the Pophames was a great Builder there: Namely, of one fair Chappel on the South ſide of the Quire, as appeareth by his Arms, and other Monuments, in the Glaſs Windows thereof; and alſo the fair Porch of the ſame Church, towards the South. His Image, fair graven in Stone, was fixed over the ſaid Porch, but defaced and beaten down. His Title by Offices, were theſe: Chancellor of Normandy, Captain of Vernoyle, Pearch, Suſan, and Bayon, and Treaſurer of the King's Houſhold. He died Rich, leaving great Treaſure of ſtrange Coins; and was buried in the Charterhouſe Church, by Weſt Smithfield.

The antient Family of the Pophams.

The firſt Nobilitating of theſe Pophames, was by Matilda the Empreſs, Daughter to Hen. I. and by Henry her Son. One Popham, a Gentleman of very fair Lands in Southamptonſhire, dying without Iſſue Male, about the time of Henry VI. and leaving four Daughters, they were married to Foſtar, Barentine, Wodham, and Hamden. Popham Dean (diſtant three Miles from Clarendon, and three Miles from Mortiſham) was ſometime the chief Lordſhip or Manour Houſe of thoſe Pophams.

Theſe were the Expences that were yearly laid out upon the Reparations of St. Sepulchres Church.

Reparations. R.

The rareſt Jewell)
a right humble Minde.
Here lyes her Body,
but her Soule refin'd Above th' Empyreall, hath imperiall Place,
In Bliſſe ſo boundleſſe,
as no Words embrace,
Nor Art can feigne,
nor mortall Heart can find.
Her Fame remaines
a Monument of Honour, Built by her Vertue,
gilt with pureſt Gold,
With Lilly-flowers, and Roſes ſtrewed upon her,
Her Epitaph
Urania thus enrol'd:
Milde Childe, chaſte Mayden, and religious Wife;
The Even crownes the Day,
Joane Eſſex Death, her Life.

Whoſe Life and Name
deſerved Commendation.
But in the blooming
Month of pleaſant May,
Untimely Death hath ſtolne her Life away.
Yet ſpight of Death,
her Virtue ſtill remaineth;
And in the Heaven
a better Life ſhe gaineth.
Upon whoſe Tombe
I conſecrate this Verſe,
In ſtead of Flowers,
to decke her Funeral Hearſe.

Made generous by Birth,
and kept that Fount,
From Times pollution
ſtriving ſtill to riſe
Above the Earth, high in the Worlds account,
For outward and for inbred Courteſies.
Her Actions, Almes, her Life,
Faith, Hope, and Love,
A ſuffering Spirit,
rendring Right for Wrong:
Her Heart a Spheare, where all good Thoughts did move, Whoſe Influence was diſperſed by the Tongue.

Religion was her Compaſſe,
Truth her Starre,
In ſundry Seas
of Worlds Proſperity;
Wealth her bad Angel,
Fleſh and Bloud her Warre,
Yet Wiſedome made this Diſcord Harmony.
Then Marble keepe
to all Poſterity,
Her Lives deare memory,
Upon whoſe Urne
And to her Obſequies
(O, obſequiouſly)
In Loves ſweet Odours
Hearts ſhall ever burne.
And let each Chriſtian Heart
joyne with my Pen,
T' imbalme her Vertues
in the Hearts of Men.

Thou Bed of Reſt,
reſerve for him a Roome,
Who lives a Man divorc't
from his deare Wife:
And as they were one Heart,
ſo this one Tombe
May hold them neere
in Death, as linckt in Life.
Shee's gone before,
and after comes her Head;
To ſleepe with her among the bleſſed Dead.

Here lyes one conquered that hath conquered Kings, Subdu'd large Territories, and done Things,
Which to the World
impoſſible would ſeem,
But that the Truth
is held in more Eſteem.
Shall I report his former Service done
In honour of his God and Chriſtendom?
How that he did divide
from Pagans three,
Their Heads and Lives,
Types of his Chivalry.
For which great Service,
in that Climate done,
Brave Sigiſmundus,
King of Hungarion,
Did give him as a Coat of Armes to wear,
Theſe conquered Heads,
got by his Sword and Spear.
Or ſhall I tell of his Adventures ſince, Done in Virginia,
that large Continent?
How that he ſubdu'd
Kings unto his Yoke,
And made thoſe Heathen flee,
as Wind doth Smoke:
And made their Land,
being of ſo large a Station,
An Habitation for our Chriſtian Nation.
Where God is glorify'd,
their Wants ſupply'd;
Which elſe, for Neceſſaries
muſt have dy'd.
But what avails his Conqueſts,
now he lyes
Interr'd in Earth, a Prey to Worms and Flyes?
O! May his Soul in ſweet Elyſium ſleep,
Until the Keeper, that all Souls doth keep,
Return to Judgment:
And that after thence,
With Angels he may have his Recompence.]

Rights of the Vicar.

Dr. Bell, ſometime Vicar of this Pariſh, in the Year 1681. under his own Hand gave this Account of the Rights of the Vicar.

Dr. Bell, Vic.

The Pariſh lieth four Parts in London, and the Fifth in Middleſex.

The College of St. Johns Oxon, Patron of the Living. The Pariſh, Impropriators: Both by Purchaſe of the Crown.

The Vicar was formerly endowed with a Third of the Tiths and Eaſter Book; to be paid without Defalcation for Collecting. By the late Act, his Maintenance of Tiths is to be 200 l. a Year. Towards which, that Part of the Pariſh that lieth within London, payeth 80 l. per ann, by quarterly Payments, by the Churchwardens; and giveth a Tith Book of 80 l. more. For which the Vicar payeth the Collectors 2 s. per Pound.

Middleſex Part ſhould pay the other 40 l. and have a Tith Book of 107 l. per ann. but gather yearly not above 60 l. Whereof they pay, once a Year, 20 l. as a Third; and are not included in the Act for Augmentations. About 160 l. is gathered from the whole Pariſh; much being loſt by Toſts of Ground unbuilt, Houſes unlet, and poor Inhabitants.

The Eaſter Book, formerly 150 l. a Year to the Pariſh and Vicar, is reduced to leſs than 9 l. yet collected ſtill.

The Exchequer payeth about 19 l. a Year. Whereof 14 l. for daily Morning Prayer. One Shilling in the Pound to the Paymaſter; and five Shillings for Debenture.

There is paid 1 l. 6 s. 8 d. for Coalhouſe.

The Sexton, a Sugar Loaf.

The Caſtle Tavern, for parcels of Glebe, 1 l.

Every fourth Year, for the Wardmote Sermon, preached ſucceſſively by the Miniſter of St. Sepulchres, St. Andrews, St. Dunſtans, and St. Bridgets, 1 l.

Six Sermons on Anniverſary Days; viz. the 30th of January, the 29th of May, St. James's Day, the 5th of November, the 6th of Decemb. and Mr. Shaw's Gift by the Shoemakers, 3 l.

For Prayers with the Queſt, 6 s. 8 d.

A new Houſe, free to Dr. Bell's Succeſſors, with a Yard thereto. The uſe of a Parlour, Kitchin, and Waſh-houſe, under the Queſt Houſe, that belonged to the Pariſh for the ſaid Bell's time, he being at the trouble to build it, and brought 200 l. towards it; the Uſe thereof reſerved to the Pariſh on publick Occaſions of Queſt, or Burials.

Formerly no Lights in the lower Rooms; and high and narrow ones above, that overlook'd the Vicars Yard, and no Doors below; but all made by him, for his Convenience.

There is a Watch-houſe built by Conſent of the Dioceſan and Vicar, at the Inſtance of the Pariſh, at the South-eaſt Corner of the Church-yard, on Snow hill. For daily Uſe of which, as a Shop, 5 l. is paid yearly to the Pariſh; but claimable by the Vicar, as built on his Glebe. Which Dr. Bell had not demanded, as thinking himſelf compenſated by uſe of the Queſt Houſe, and under Rooms.

A little Houſe of two Rooms, next the North Church Door, let ſometime for 40 s. a Year, with the firſt Incloſure in that Paſſage.

This above written, Dr. Bell thought good, in Juſtice to the Church, and his Succeſſors, to deliver to the Regiſtry of London, June the 24th, 1681.]

A Fraternity of St. Katharine. J. S.

In the Church of St. Sepulchre, was a Fraternity of St. Katharine. Which of the Devotion of ſome Poor of the Pariſh began, to the Honour of the Conception of St. Mary. They met on the Day of the Conception in the ſaid Church, and there had the Maſs of the Day, and offered to the ſame; and found a certain Chaplain daily to celebrate Divine Service for the Brethren and Siſters of the Fraternity, for the Living and the Dead. To meet four times a Year. To ſet up certain Wax Lights before the Image of the Fraternity on all Feſtival Days.

A Certificate of this Foundation, Government, and Continuation of this Guild, was made in the Chancery, in the Vigil of the Purification, the 12th of Rich. II. according to the Form of a certain Proclamation made thence by the King's Brief.

Next to this Church is a fair and large Inn for receipt of Travellers, and hath to Sign the Saraſens Head.

Oldbourn Conduit by Oldbourn Croſs.

There lieth a Street from Newgate, Weſt, to the end of Turnagain lane, and winding North to Oldbourn Conduit. This Conduit by Oldbourn Croſs, was firſt builded 1498. Thomaſin, Widow to John Percival, Maior, gave to the ſecond making thereof, twenty Marks. Rich. Shore, 10 l. *Thomas Kneſworth, and others, alſo did give towards it.

* Kenſworth. Firſt Edit.

The new Conduit there builded by W. Lamb.

But of late, a new Conduit was there builded in place of the old, namely, in the Year 1577. by William Lambe, ſometime a Gentleman of the Chappel to King Henry VIII. and afterward a Citizen and Clothworker of London. The Water thereof he cauſed to be conveyed in Lead, from divers Springs, to one Head, and from thence to the ſaid Conduit, and waſte of one Cock at Oldbourn Bridge, more than two Thouſand Yards in length. All which was by him performed, at his own only Charges, amounting to the Sum of 1500 l. and by him finiſhed.

Snor hill.

From the Weſt ſide of this Conduit is the high Way, there called Snor hill, ſtretching out by Oldbourn Bridge, over the oft named Water of Turnmil Brook, and ſo up to Oldbourn hill, all repleniſhed with fair Building.

Reuner ſtreet. A Street antiently ſo called, that led from Newgate toward Weſt Smithfield.]

Scroops Inn, ſometime Serjeants Inn, in Oldbourn.

Without Oldbourn bridge, on the Right Hand, is Gold lane, as is before ſhewed. Up higher on the Hill be certain Inns, and other fair Buildings. Amongſt the which, of old time, was a Meſſuage called Scroops Inn. For ſo I find the ſame recorded in the 37th of Hen. VI.

This Houſe was ſometime letten out to Serjeants at the Law, as appeareth, and was found by Inquiſition taken in the Guild Hall of London, before William Purchaſe, Maior, and Eſcheator for King Henry VII. in the 14th of his Reign, after the death of John Lord Scroope. That he died deceaſed in his Demeſne of Fee, by the Feoffment of Guy Fairfax, Kt. one of the Kings Juſtices, made in the 9th of the ſame King, unto an Eſquire, the ſaid John Scroop, Kt. Lord Scroop of Bolton, and Robert Wingfield, of one Houſe or Tenement late called Serjeants Inn, ſituate againſt the Church of St. Andrew in Oldbourn, in the City of London, with two Gardens, and two Meſſuages to the ſame Tenement belonging, in the ſaid City, to hold in Burgage, valued by the Year in all Repriſes, 10 s.

Ely Place in Oldbourn.

Then is the Biſhop of Ely's Inn, commonly called Ely Place, for that it pertaineth to the Biſhops of Ely. William de Luda, Biſhop of Ely, deceaſed 1297. and gave this Houſe, by the Name of his Manour, with the Appurtenances, in Oldbourn, to his Succeſſors; with Condition, that his next Succeſſor ſhould pay a Thouſand Marks, towards the finding of three Chaplains in the Chappel there.

More, John Hotham, Biſhop of Ely, did give by the Name of ſix Meſſuages, two Cellars, and forty Acres of Land, in the Suburbs of London, in the Pariſh of St. Andrew in Oldbourn, to the Prior and Convent of Ely, as appeareth by Patent of the 9th of Edward III. This Man was Biſhop of Ely twenty Years, and deceaſed An. 1336.

Thomas Arundel, Biſhop of Ely, beautifully builded of new his Palace at Ely: and likewiſe his Manours in divers Places, eſpecially this in Oldbourn; which he did not only repair, but rather new builded, and augmented it with a large Port, Gate-houſe, or Front towards the Street, or High Way. His Arms are yet to be diſcerned in the Stone Work thereof; he alſo ſate Biſhop of Ely fourteen Years, and was tranſlated to York.

In this Houſe, for the large and commodious Rooms thereof, divers great and ſolemn Feaſts have been kept, eſpecially by the Serjeants at the Law, whereof two are to be noted for Poſterity.

The

Serjeants Feaſt in Ely Houſe.

The firſt, in the Year 1464. the 4th of Edward IV. in Michaelmas Term, the Serjeants at Law held their Feaſt in this Houſe. To the which, amongſt other Eſtates, Matthew Philip, Maior of London, with the Aldermen, Sheriffs, and Commons of divers Crafts being invited, did repair. But when the Maior looked to keep the State in the Hall, as it had been uſed in all Places within the City and Liberties, out of the King's preſence, the Lord Gray of Ruthen, then Lord Treaſurer of England, unwitting the Serjeants, and againſt their Wills (as they ſaid) was firſt placed. Whereupon, the Maior, Aldermen, and Commons, departed home; and the Maior made the Aldermen to dine with him. Howbeit, He and all the Citizens were wonderfully diſpleaſed, that he was ſo dealt with; and the new Serjeants, and others, were right ſorry therefore, and had rather than much good (as they ſaid) it had not ſo happened.

The Maior and Citizens take Offence, and go home.

One other Feaſt was likewiſe there kept, in the Year 1531. the 23d of King Henry VIII. The Serjeants then made, were in number Eleven: Namely, Thomas Audeley, Walter Luke, J. Bawldwine, J. Hinde, Chriſtopher Jenny, John Dowſell, Edward Mervine, Edmund Knightley, Roger Chomley, Edward Montague, and Robert Torke.

Theſe alſo held their Feaſt in this Ely houſe for five Days; to wit, Friday the 10th of November, Saturday, Sunday, Munday, and Tueſday. On Munday (which was their principal Day) King Henry and Queen Katharine dined there (but in two Chambers) and the Foreign Ambaſſadors in a third Chamber.

King Henry VIII. and Queen Katharine, dined at the Serjeants Feaſts.

In the Hall, at the high Table, ſate Sir Nicolas Lambard, Maior of London, the Judges, the Barons of the Exchequer, with certain Aldermen of the City. At the Board on the South ſide ſate the Maſter of the Rolls, the Maſter of the Chancery, and Worſhipful Citizens. On the North ſide of the Hall, certain Aldermen began the Board, and then followed Merchants of the City. In the Cloiſtry, Chappel and Gallery, Knights, Eſquires, and Gentlemen were placed. In the Halls, the Crafts of London. The Serjeants of Law, and their Wives, kept in their own Chambers.

It were tedious to ſet down the preparation of Fiſh, Fleſh, and other Victuals ſpent in this Feaſt, and would ſeem almoſt incredible; and (as to me it ſeemeth) wanted little of a Feaſt at a Coronation. Nevertheleſs, a little I will touch, for declaration of the change of Prices.

The Proviſion of Fleſh and Fowl, with the Prizes.

Capons of Greece. Capons of Kent. Courſe Capons.

There were brought to the Slaughter Houſe, Four and twenty great Beefs, at 26 s. 8 d. the piece from the Shambles; one Carcaſs of an Oxe, at 24 s. an Hundred fat Muttons, 2 s. 10 d. the piece; Fifty one great Veals, at 4 s. 8 d. the piece; Thirty four Porks, 3 s. 8 d. the piece; Ninety one Pigs, 6 d. the piece. Capons of Greece, of one Poulter, (for they had three) ten Dozens, at 20 d. the piece; Capons of Kent, Nine dozen and ſix, at 12 d. the piece; Capons courſe, Nineteen dozen, at 6 d. the piece. Cocks of groſe, Seven dozen and nine, at 8 d. the piece; Cocks courſe, Fourteen dozen and eight, at 3 d. the piece. Pullets the beſt, 2 d. ob. other Pullets, 2 d. Pigeons, Thirty ſeven dozen, at 10 d. the Dozen. Swans, Fourteen dozen. Larks, Three hundred and forty dozen, at 5 d. the Dozen, &c. Edward Nevill was Seneſhal or Steward, Tho. Ratcliffe, Controller, Tho. Wildon, Clerk of the Kitchin.

Biſhop Cox refuſes to alienate his Garden to Hatton.

J. S.

To this Ely Place, in Queen Elizabeth's time, belonged Grounds, conſiſting of an Orchard and a Paſture, all incloſed within a Wall. Cox, Biſhop of Ely, upon the Queen's Solicitation, granted Mr. Chriſtopher Hatton (who was Vice-Chamberlain of the Houſhold, Knighted, and laſtly Lord High Chancellor) a part of this Houſe for Twenty one Years. Upon which he laid out much Coſt. And upon that pretence, afterward, he moved the Queen to require the ſaid Biſhop to alienate it to him, with the Garden. Which to do, he made an humble Denial to the Queen: Signifying to her, by a well penned Letter in Latin, not only the Inconveniency that would hereby come to him and his Succeſſors: Viz. 'That they ſhould want an Orchard and Ground, and that they ſhould be too much ſtreightned; but that in his Conſcience he could not do it, being a piece of Sacrilege. That when he became Biſhop of Ely, he had received certain Farms, Houſes, and other Things, which former pious Princes had judged neceſſary for that Place and Calling. Theſe he received, by the Queen's Favour, from his Predeceſſors; and that of theſe he was to be a Steward, not a Scatterer. That he could not bring his Mind to be ſo ill a Truſtee for his Succeſſors, nor to violate the pious Wills of Kings and Princes; and in effect reſcind their laſt Teſtaments. He put the Queen in Mind of that Rule of Nature, and of God, not to do that to another, which one would not have done to ones ſelf: And that the Profit of one, is not to be increaſed by the Damage of another. Nay, he told her, that he could ſcarcely juſtify thoſe Princes, which transferred Things appointed for pious Uſes, into Uſes leſs pious.' But however, Hatton failed of obtaining his Deſire at preſent, after this good Biſhop's death, the Temporalities coming into the Queen's Hands, theſe Lands were made over to him; and now go under the Name of Hatton Gardens. Of which, by Buildings, vaſt Improvements have been made.

His obſervable Letter to the Queen.

Whether this Houſe is exempt from the Maior.

This Ely Houſe, with the Bounds of it, claimed a Privilege of expreſs Exemption from the Lord Maior's Juriſdiction. About this was a Conteſt, Anno 1567. Sir Roger Martin being Lord Maior, came with his Company into the Parts about Ely Houſe, called Ely Rents, and attempted to weigh Bread, and do his Office among the Biſhop's Tenants there. Which they refuſed to ſuffer him to do, as being exempt from the Rights and Franchiſes, and Liberties of the Maior; and that they belonged to the Juriſdiction of the Church and Biſhoprick of Ely. This cauſed a great Diſpute, and at length the Biſhop and the Maior choſe certain honourable Arbitrators, to determine this Buſineſs; ſubmitting themſelves to the Order and Direction of the Right Honourable Sir Nicolas Bacon, Lord Keeper, Robert Earl of Leiceſter, Sir Rob. Catlyne, Kt. Lord Chief Juſtice of England, Sir Walter Mildmay, Kt. Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir James Dyer, Kt. Ld. Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas. And both the ſaid Parties appeared at divers and ſundry Times, with their Learned Counſel, before the ſaid Lords and Arbitrators, and ſhewed divers and ſundry Writings and Records, for the maintenance of their ſeveral Titles and Claims. And alſo, ſeverally, produced ſeveral Witneſſes, which had been examined in the Court of Chancery, and their Examinations publiſhed. And alſo produced ſeveral Witneſſes Vivâ Voce before the ſaid Arbitrators, for proof of their ſeveral Allegations.

The Conſideration of all which Matters, after divers and ſundry Debates, it was agreed, ſhould be referred to the two Chief Juſtices; and that they ſhould make their Report, and give their Opinions touching the ſaid Matter, and in whom the Right reſted.

And the Chief Juſtices having adviſedly weighed and conſidered the ſeveral Proofs, and afterwards being preſent in the Star Chamber, together with the ſaid Sir Nicolas Bacon, and Sir Walter Mildmay, the 9th of June, in the 12th of the Queen, Anno 1570. did make Report and Declaration of their Opinion, touching the ſaid Controverſy: Viz.

That the Right of the Law, as far as they could yet diſcern, ſtood for the ſaid Maior and Communalty: And that the ſaid Tenements, called Ely Rents, in Holborn, were and be within the Liberties, Franchiſes, and Juriſdiction of the ſaid City, for and concerning the Matter in Controverſy.

It was therefore by the Arbitrators (except the ſaid Earl, who was then abſent, and the ſaid Biſhop and his Counſel being likewiſe abſent) ordered and decreed, the ſaid 9th of June, That the ſaid Maior and Commonalty of the City of London, and their Succeſſors, ſhould from thenceforth peaceably and quietly have, uſe, enjoy, and exerciſe, within the ſaid Tenements, all and every ſuch Liberties, Cuſtoms and Juriſdictions, as they may uſe within any other Place, within the Liberty and Freedom of London; without any trouble to their Servants, Tenants, and Officers, until ſuch time as the ſaid Biſhop, or his Succeſſors, ſhew forth better Matter for their Parts and Defence in the Premiſſes.]

Lither lane. Furnival's Inn, an Inn of Chancery.

Next, beyond this Manour of Ely houſe, is Lither lane, turning into the Field. Then is Furnival's Inn, now an Inn of Chancery, but ſometime belonging to Sir Will. Furnival, Kt. and Thomaſin his Wife; who had in Oldbourn two Meſſuages, and thirteen Shops, as appeareth by Record of Richard II. in the 6th of his Reign.

The Earl of Bath's Inn.

Then is the Earl of Bath's Inn, now called Bath Place, of late (for the moſt part) new builded; and ſo to the Bars.

Old Baily.

Hounds Ditch.

The Chamberlain's Houſe and Court in the Old Baily.

The Seſſions Hall.

Now again from Newgate, on the Left hand, or South ſide, lieth the Old Baily, which runneth down by the Wall, upon the Ditch of the City, called Hounds Ditch, to Ludgate. I have not read how this Street took that Name, but it is like to have riſen of ſome Court of old time there kept. And I find, that in the Year 1356. the 34th of Edward III. the Tenement and Ground upon Hounds ditch, between Ludgate on the South, and Newgate on the North, was appointed to John Cambridge, Fiſhmonger, Chamberlain of London. Whereby it ſeemeth, that the Chamberlains of London have there kept their Courts, as now they do in the Guild Hall. And to this Day, the Maior and Juſtices of this City, keep their Seſſions in a part thereof, now called the Seſſions hall, both for the City of London and Shire of Middleſex. Over againſt the which Houſe, on the Right Hand, turneth down St. George's lane, towards Fleet lane.

St. George's lane, an Inn of Chancery there.

Original of New Inn, an Inn of Chancery.

In this St. George's lane, on the North ſide thereof, remaineth yet an old Wall of Stone, incloſing a piece of Ground up Seacoal lane, wherein (by report) ſometime ſtood an Inn of Chancery. Which Houſe being greatly decayed, and ſtanding remote from other Houſes of that Profeſſion, the Company removed to a common Hoſtery, called of the Sign, our Lady Inn, not far from Clements Inn; which they procured from Sir John Fineox, Lord Chief Juſtice of the King's Bench. And ſince have held it of the Owners, by the Name of the New Inn, paying therefore ſix Pounds Rent by the Year, as Tenants at their own Will. For more (as is ſaid) cannot be gotten of them; and much leſs will they be put from it.

Beneath this St. George's lane, the Lane called Fleet lane, windeth South by the Priſon of the Fleet, into Fleet ſtreet, by Fleet bridge.

A Standard of Spring Water in the Old Baily.

Lower down into the Old Baily, is at this preſent a Standard of Timber, with a Cock, or Cocks, delivering fair Spring Water to the Inhabitants; and is the waſte of the Water ſerving the Priſoners in Ludgate.

Next, out of the high Street, turneth down a Lane, called the Little Baily, which runneth down to the Eaſt end of St. George's lane.

Seacoal lane, or Lime burners lane, ſometime ſo called.

The next is Seacoal lane, I think, called Lime burners lane, of burning Lime there with Seacoal. For I read in Record of ſuch a Lane to have been in the Pariſh of St. Sepulchre; and there yet remaineth in this Lane an Alley, called Lime burners Alley.

Windagain lane.

Near unto this Seacoal lane, in the turning towards Oldbourn Conduit, is Turnagain lane, or rather, as in a Record of the 5th of Edward III. Windagain lane; for that it goeth down Weſt to Fleet Dike, from whence, Men muſt turn again the ſame Way they came, for there it is ſtopped.

Snor lane.

Shoe lane.

Then the high Street turneth down Snor Hill, to Oldbourn Conduit, and from thence to Oldbourn Bridge. Beyond the which Bridge, on the Left hand is Shoe lane, by the which Men paſs from Oldbourn to Fleetſtreet, by the Conduit there.

Oldbourn Hall.

In this Shoe lane, on the Left hand, is one old Houſe, called Oldbourn Hall; it is now letten out into divers Tenements.

Bangor Houſe in Shoe lane. J. S.

In this Shoe lane was a Meſſuage called Bangor Houſe, ſituate in St. Andrews Holbourn Pariſh; belonging formerly, as it ſeems, to the Biſhops of that See; with a conſiderable quantity of waſt Ground about it. Which Meſſuage, after a term of Years then unexpired, Sir John Barkſted, Kt. did in the Year 1647. purchaſe of the Truſtees for Sale of Biſhops Lands, with the ſaid waſte Ground thereunto belonging, containing in length 168 Foot of Aſſize, and in breadth from Eaſt to Weſt, 164 Foot of Aſſize, more or leſs, with a purpoſe to build thereupon, at the expiration of the Leaſe. The Building there, being the chief Advantage he expected to make by the ſaid Purchaſe. As appeared in an Act of Parliament made Anno 1656. againſt new Buildings in and about the Suburbs. Wherein a Proviſo was made for him, in reſpect of his Purchaſe, having given more than otherwiſe he would have done, but upon his purpoſe of erecting Meſſuages and Tenements thereupon: And in Conſideration that the ſaid Place being at that preſent both dangerous and noiſome to the Paſſengers, and Inhabitants near adjoining.]

St. Andrew Oldbourn.

Grammar School in Oldbourn.

On the other ſide, at the very Corner, ſtandeth the Pariſh Church of St. Andrew; in the which Church, or near thereunto, was ſometime kept a Grammar School; as appeareth in another Place, by a Patent, made (as I have ſhewed) for the erection of Schools.

Altars in this Church. J. S.

In this Church, about 300 Years ago, were divers Altars, beſides the High Altar; as the Altar of St. Mary, the Altar of St. John Baptiſt, St. Nicolas's Altar. There were alſo belonging to it divers Chaplains and Clerks, to ſing Maſſes, and pray for the Souls of the Departed, and ſuch as had Chauntries, or interred there. As appears by a Will of Gilbert Worthington, Rector of this Pariſh Two hundred and Threeſcore Years ago, buried at the Door of the Chancel. Whoſe Superſtitious Gifts and Legacies, according to the Devotion of that Age, mentioned in his Will, on that Occaſion, we will record; being communicated to me by a curious Man, and my worthy Friend, of the ſame Name; who took it from the Office of Wills, in the Biſhop of London's Regiſtry.

In this Church was a Guild or Fraternity of St. Siths. To the maintaining of which, before the Diſſolution of Chauntries, belonged a Meſſuage and Tenement in Faiter lane, in the ſame Pariſh, called the Plow; and one Garden, and one Barn. To which belonged divers Houſes, Edifices, Stables, Curtilages, Profits, Commodities, &c. Which coming to King Edward VI. by Vertue of the Act for Chauntries, in his ſecond Year, he granted to Thomas Bartlet, (the ſame that was the King's Printer, I ſuppoſe) and Richard Mody.]

Wants Reparation. R.

This Church, about the Year 1632. was in a very decayed Condition, and had ſo been for many Years, in many Parts of it: Inſomuch, that it then called rather for a Rebuilding, than a Reparation. Which the Pariſhioners were then providing for; purpoſing very ſhortly to pull it all down, and rebuild, inlarge, and inrich it, with that Beauty that became ſo pious a Work.]

New built. J. S.

This Church is lately new built, with capacious Galleries for convenient reception of the great number of Pariſhioners. It is paved with black Marble and white Purbeck Stone. And the Steeple, in the Year 1704. was then in building.]

CHARITIES.

Charities.

And now as to the Charitable Gifts and Bequeſts, the Churchwardens of this Pariſh of St. Andrews Holbourn brought into the laſt Parochial Viſitation this Account thereof.

That they had a Table and Regiſter of all the Gifts to the Poor, and a yearly Account of the Church Rents. And that Anno 1348. Thomas Thavie, Eſq; by Will, gave to the Fabrick of St. Andrews Holbourn, London, a Tenement and three Shops, with a Parcel of Ground belonging to the ſame; which had been ſince built into ſeveral Tenements. Parcel of which Tenements were leaſed out towards the Charge of Rebuilding and Repairing the ſaid Church. And the remaining Part kept and applied to the yearly Repairs thereof.

An. 1609. Rich. Barton, of Staple Inn, Gent. gave to the Rector of St. Andrews, to preach a Sermon the 2d Sunday in Eaſter Term, 13 s. 4 d.

An. 1651. Alexander Stafford, Eſq; by Will, gave to the Miniſter, for two Sermons, one to be preached in Eaſter, the other in Michaelmas Term, 2 l.

All three are preached, and paid for accordingly.

Parſonage.

There is a good Parſonage Houſe in the Churchyard.

School.

There is alſo a Free-School kept by one of the Curates.]

From this Church of St. Andrew, up Oldbourn Hill, be divers fair builded Houſes; amongſt the which, on the Left Hand, there ſtand three Inns of Chancery; whereof the firſt, adjoining unto Crookeborne Alley, is called Thavies Inn, and ſtandeth oppoſite to, or over againſt Ely Houſe.

Crookhorn Alley.
Thavies Inn.

Fewter lane.

Then is Fewter lane, which ſtretcheth South into Fleetſtreet, by the Eaſt end of St. Dunſtan's Church, and is ſo called of Fewterers (or idle People) lying there, as in a Way leading to Gardens. But the ſame is now, of later Years, on both ſides builded through with many fair Houſes.

Barnards Inn.
* Motworth. Firſt Edit.
Pat. Hen. 3. 32.

Beyond this Fewters lane, is Barnard's Inn, alias Mackworth's Inn*, which is the ſecond Inn of Chancery; belonging to the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, as ſaith the Record of Hen. VI. the 32d of his Reign. And was founded by Inquiſition in the Guild Hall of London, before J. Norman, Maior, the King's Excheater. The Jury ſaid, that it was not hurtful for the King to licence Thomas Atkins, Citizen of London, and one of the Executors of John Mackworth, Dean of Lincoln, to give one Meſſuage in Oldbourn, in London, with the Appurtenances, called Mackworth's Inn, (but now commonly known by the Name of Barnard's Inn) to the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, to find one ſufficient Chaplain, to celebrate Divine Service in the Chappel of St. George, in the Cathedral Church of Lincoln, where the Body of the ſaid John is buried; to have and to hold the ſaid Meſſuage to the ſaid Dean and Chapter, and to their Succeſſors for ever, in part of Satisfaction of twenty Pound Lands and Rents, which Edward III. licenſed the ſaid Dean and Chapter to purchaſe to their own Uſe; either of their own Fee or Tenure, or of any other, ſo the Lands were not holden of the King in Capite.

Staple Inn.

Then is Staple Inn, the third Inn of Chancery; but whereof ſo named, I am ignorant. The ſame of late is (for a great part thereof) fair builded, and not a little augmented. And then at the Bar, endeth this Ward without Newgate.

The Pariſh of St. ANDREWS Holborn.

The preſent State and Contents of St. Andrews Pariſh.
R. B.

This Pariſh of St. Andrews is of a very large extent; good part of which lieth within the Freedom of London, and in the Ward of Faringdon without. To lay down the Bounds thereof, together with the Names of the Streets, Lanes, Alleys, and Courts.

Its Bounds.

As to the Bounds of this Pariſh, I ſhall begin at Holbourn Bridge, which Southwards runs down by the Ditch ſide, a little beyond Eagle and Child Alley; where it croſſeth the Houſes into Shoe lane. And from thence, betwixt Robin Hood Court and New ſtreet, into Fetter lane, by the South ſide of Dean ſtreet, where it croſſeth into Churchyard Alley. Thence by the South ſide of Curſitors Alley, and ſo into Chancery lane. Which it alſo croſſeth, and runs by the back Side of Lincolns Inn, by the St. John's Head Tavern, into the new Court lately built by Sir Thomas Cook, Kt. Alderman, and others; and made a part of the ſaid Inn. Where, by the Pump ſet up by the Palliſado Pails, which ſevereth the Court from the Garden, it runs Northward croſs the Gardens, and ſo into Holbourn, by Gridiron Alley, which is a little Eaſtward of great Turnſtile Alley; and there it croſſeth the Street, and runneth Weſtward, taking all the North ſide of High Holborn, as far as the Houſe where the Stone Mark is ſet at the Door, which is about ſix Houſes ſhort of Kings Gate. And at this Houſe, it croſſeth the Buildings into Eagle ſtreet; and turning to the Corner of the ſaid Street, runneth along Kings Gate ſtreet, and ſo on the back Side of the Gardens of King ſtreet, into the Fields, taking in all the South ſide of the ſaid Street. And ſo runs Eaſtward, by the North ſide of Lamb's Conduit; and from thence to the Hamſtead Road; and leading from Gray's Inn lane, to that and other Towns. And croſſing the ſaid Road, runs to the Brook or Ditch, which after a turning paſſage by Hockney the hole, runneth down the Eaſt ſide of Saffron hill, and Field lane; and thence under Holbourn Bridge, falleth into the new Canal; and this Brook is the Eaſtern Bounds of this Pariſh, from that of Clerkenwel. Which ſaid Bounds of the Pariſh doth appear by the prick'd Line incompaſſing the Map; and the Part within the City Liberty, is ſevered from the reſt by a Chain Line.

Streets and Places.

As to the Deſcription of the Streets and Places of Name in the Pariſh, I ſhall begin with the Names of ſuch Places as are within the Freedom: And then with thoſe Places in Holbourn which are out of the Freedom, as Ely Houſe, Furnivals Inn, Brook Street and Market, and Staples Inn. Then on to High Holbourn, and the Alleys, Courts, and Places of Name on both Side; as Southampton Buildings, and Chancery lane: Next, to Red Lion Fields, as the Square and Street, which it receiveth; Red Lion ſtreet, Bedford Row, with the Courts and Places therein. Then to Gray's Inn lane, and the ſeveral Courts; Baldwin's Gardens, Perpole lane, Liquorpond ſtreet, and the adjacent Places. Next, to Leather lane, Hatton Wall, Vine ſtreet, Hockney hole, and the ſeveral adjacent Places. Then to Hatton Garden, with the Streets and Places therein; and ſo conclude with Saffron hill and Field lane, taking in all the Courts and Alleys on both ſides; and of theſe in Order.

Parts in the Freedom of London.

The Part within the Freedom of the City, is Holbourn hill, which beginneth at Holbourn Bridge, and runneth Weſtward unto the Bars: except Staple Inn. And taketh in on the South ſide, all Caſtle Yard, with the Eaſt end of Curſitors Alley. Likewiſe the North end of Fetter lane, a little Southward of Dean ſtreet, and ſo into Holbourn. Likewiſe the North Part of Shoe lane, almoſt from New ſtreet unto Holbourn, by St. Andrews Church. And on the North ſide of Holbourn, almoſt all Field lane, with the Courts, &c. up to the Bars; except Ely Houſe, Hatton Garden, Leather lane, Furnivals Inn, Brook Street and Market; which ſaid Places are in the County, as appears by the prick'd Lines in the Map. And as for the Courts, &c. within the Freedom, I ſhall only name them, referring the Reader to Faringdon Ward without, where they are treated of.

I ſhall begin at Holbourn Bridge, and ſo run Weſtward to the Bars. And then the firſt is Horn, or Horners Alley, the Bull head Tavern, Plumtree Court, St. Andrew's Church, St. Andrew's Court, Thavies Inn, Bartlets Court and Buildings, Kings head Court, Bernards Inn, Caſtle Yard, and White's Alley. Then on the North ſide, beginning at the Bars, are theſe Places. Warton's Court, Ely Court, Scroop's Court, Sutton Court, Plough Yard, and Cock Yard, near the Bridge. The Courts and Allies in that part of Shoe lane which are in this Pariſh, are Well Alley, Plumbtree Court, Molin's Rents, Spectacle Rents, Cockpit Court, Eagle and Child Alley, Brewers Yard, and Robin Hood Court. In the part of Fetter lane, which is in this Pariſh, are Dean ſtreet, Churchyard Alley, Plough Yard, Horſeſhoe Alley, Blewit's Court, Magpie Yard and Inn, Bernard's Inn, the Paſſage into Bartlet's Buildings, and Kings head Court. Then Caſtle Yard, with part of Curſitor's Alley, and Duck's Court.

That which remaineth to be treated of in Holbourn, as being in the County, are Ely Houſe, Furnival's Inn, Brook Street and Market, with Staple Inn. But firſt of the Street it ſelf.

Holborn hill.

Holbourn, or Holbourn hill, ſo called from its aſcent from Holbourn Bridge; a very ſpatious Street, well built and inhabited by Tradeſmen; as being a Place of ſo great a Reſort for Stage Coaches and Wagons; as alſo by Gentry, and others, that come to Town, induced thereunto, from the Accommodation of the ſeveral Inns, not only in this Part, but likewiſe in High Holbourn; beſides the ſeveral Inns of Chancery here ſeated, are no ſmall Advantage to the Place.

Ely Houſe.

Ely Houſe, formerly called Ely's Inn. This Houſe is, at preſent, a very old Building, and ſtands upon a large piece of Ground; having a ſpacious Hall, a good Chappel, and ſeveral large Rooms; but an old Faſhion Building, with a ſpacious Yard or Court before it, and a large Ground for Gardening, behind it; which, for want of a Gardiner's keeping, lay in a rude Condition. And were this Ground improved by Building, it would bring in a great Revenue to the Epiſcopal See; beſides a good Houſe for his City abode. The preſent Poſſeſſor thereof, is the very Learned and Right Reverend Dr. William Fleetwood, now Lord Biſhop of Ely.

Furnival's Inn.

Furnival's Inn, ſeated betwixt Brook ſtreet and Leather lane, one of the Inns of Chancery; at preſent a very handſome Building. It hath a large Court before it, and a handſome Garden behind.

Staple Inn.

Staple Inn, another of the Inns of Chancery, ſeated on the South ſide, adjoining to Holbourn Bars within, but yet it is out of the Freedom, as aforeſaid. This is a very large and handſome Inn, with a large Court Yard, ſurrounded with Buildings, and a handſome Garden behind it; which lying open, admits of a good Air.

Brook Buildings.

Brook Buildings, raiſed out of a large Houſe and Garden belonging to the Lord Brooks, and built into Streets: Viz. Brook ſtreet, Grevile ſtreet, Beauchamp ſtreet, and Doddington ſtreet.

Brook Street.

Brook ſtreet is the beſt, being a good handſome long Street, with new built Houſes, well inhabited. It comes out of Holbourn, and runs Northwards into Doddington ſtreet. Betwixt which, and Beauchamp ſtreet, is Brook Market, a good large and convenient Place, with Shambles, a Market Houſe, and Stalls, &c. for that Uſe; but is of ſmall Reſort, as to the Market, but the Shambles is pretty well ſerved with Meat.

Brook Market.

On the Weſt ſide of this Street, is a paſſage into Gray's Inn lane, through Fox Court; as alſo through Bell Court.

Grevile ſtreet. Beauchamp ſtreet. Doddington ſtreet.

Grevile ſtreet comes out of Brook ſtreet, and falls into Leather lane; the like doth Beauchamp ſtreet, and Doddington ſtreet. All which ſaid Streets, are graced with good new Brick Buildings, well inhabited.

High Holbourn.

High Holbourn, a very ſpacious Street, repleniſhed with good Buildings, and well inhabited, chiefly by Tradeſmen. This part of Holbourn begins at the Bars, and runs Weſtwards into St. Giles's; but not all in this Pariſh, as before noted.

Middle Row.

For the Deſcription of the Places in this Street, I ſhall begin on the South ſide, next the Bars, and ſo run Weſtward; and then proceed to thoſe on the North ſide. And according to this Method, the firſt Place to be taken Notice of, is Middle Row; ſo called, as being a parcel of Buildings raiſed up in the middle of the Street, next the Bars, and reacheth to the Kings head Tavern; but more to the Southward of the Street, making but a narrow paſſage betwixt the Houſes on the South ſide, and this Middle Row: Which ſaid Paſſage hath a Freeſtone Pavement, and is a Place of a very good Trade for Retailers, as Comb Makers, Cutlers, Brokers, &c. And the Houſes, ſince the Rebuilding, are good. But this Row of Buildings takes off much of the proſpect of this Street into Holbourn hill. On the South ſide of this Row, is Tennis Court Alley, very ordinary; and ſo called from the Tennis Court adjoining. A little more Weſtward, is the Kings head Tavern, which gives a paſſage into Northumberland Court.

Tennis Court Alley.

Southampton

Old Southampton Buildings.
Northumberland Court.

Southampton Buildings, or Old Southampton Buildings, to diſtinguiſh it from New Southampton Buildings in St. Giles's Pariſh; a good large Place, compoſed of two Streets, the one having a paſſage out of Chancery lane, and runneth Eaſtward to the dead Wall of Staple Inn Garden; and about the middle of this Street the other begins, and falls into Holbourn, againſt Gray's Inn: And both are handſome Streets, with good Houſes, well inhabited. In the Street next to Holbourn, is Southampton Court, with a Freeſtone Pavement; and hath a narrow dark paſſage, down Steps, into Chancery lane. Northumberland Court, having an open entrance into it, for Coach or Cart. The Houſes are indifferent good, anſwerable to the Inhabitants. Out of this Court is a paſſage into Holbourn, through the Kings head Tavern. In the place of theſe Buildings, antiently ſtood the Houſe of the Templars. It came at length to the Earls of Southampton; and in the end converted into Buildings, as now it is.

Chancery lane.
Quality Court.

Chancery lane, is a Street of a great Reſort and Trade, eſpecially the Part next Fleetſtreet; but that which is in this Pariſh, begins on the South ſide of Curſitors Alley, and ſo runs into Holbourn. And this Part hath the beſt Buildings, and beſt inhabited; being taken up by Gentry, eſpecially that Part on the Eaſt ſide, that hath the proſpect of Lincoln's Inn Gardens. Betwixt Curſitor's Alley and Southampton Buildings, is a very handſome, large, and airy Court, lately built, with very handſome Brick Houſes, called New Court: And for the goodneſs of the Houſes, and the Inhabitants, is by ſome called Quality Court. It hath a very good Freeſtone Pavement, neatly kept. The Houſes that are on the South ſide, have a proſpect into Serjeant Rawlinſon's Garden.

Lincolns Inn.

As to the Deſcription of Lincoln's Inn, it is treated of in the Liberty of the Rolls, to which I will refer the Reader. But that Part in this Pariſh, is all the old Buildings, except thoſe lately built, with the greateſt part of the Garden fronting the Buildings towards Holbourn. And this Inn, taken in the whole, is a curious Pile of Buildings, not inferiour to any of the four Inns of Court.

Curſitors Alley.

Curſitors Alley comes out of Caſtle ſtreet, and falls into Chancery lane; at the entrance into which it is but narrow, the reſt broad and handſome, with good Buildings.

Curſitors Office.

This Alley takes its Name from the Curſitors Office, ſeated on the North ſide, and next to Chancery lane; where the Curſitors Office is at preſent kept, above Stairs, and is a good large Building.

Bakers Alley.
George Yard.

On the North ſide of High Holbourn, are theſe Places of Name, beginning next to the Bars. The firſt is Bakers Alley, ſeated betwixt the Bars and Gray's Inn lane; a narrow, long, and ordinary Place, with ſeveral turning paſſages; which at the upper end falls into a ſmall ſquare Court, ſomething better built. George Yard, pretty large, containing two Courts, the one within the other, and both hath old Timber Houſes; which if new built, with good Houſes, would turn to an Improvement by good Tenements, as being ſo well ſeated near unto Gray's Inn, and ſome others of the Inns of Court and Chancery.

Grays Inn.
The Courts.
The Hall.
The Chappel.

Gray's Inn, ſo called, as belonging formerly to the Family of the Lord Gray; which having its chief entrance out of this Street, ſhall be here taken notice of, although ſeated much backward; and likewiſe taking up almoſt all the Weſt ſide of Gray's Inn lane, into which it hath a paſſage. This is another of the four Inns of Courts, and is very ſpacious; containing ſeveral Courts, ſurrounded with good Buildings, taken up by Barreſters and Students of the Law. The chief Courts are Holbourn Court, Chappel Court, and Cony Court. But ſince the taking down the middle Row of old Chambers, which ſevered Cony Court from Chappel Court, both are laid open together; only a ſeparation of a Paliſado Pail running croſs, to keep the Coachmen from driving their Horſes into Cony Court; which ſince the levelling and gravelling, is kept very handſome. And this Court being the beſt ſituate, as to an open Air, eſpecially the Weſt and North Sides, which looks into the Garden and adjacent Fields, is of moſt Eſteem, and hath the beſt Buildings. The Hall where the Gentlemen of the Society Dine and Sup, is large and good; but the Chappel adjoining is too ſmall; and I could wiſh that the Society would new build it, and to raiſe it on arched Pillars, as Lincoln's Inn Chappel, and then there would be a good dry Walk underneath, in rainy Weather. Beſides theſe Courts, there is another more Weſtward, having the Garden-Wall on the North ſide, and Buildings on the Weſt, with ſome part of the South. Out of this Court there is a paſſage, down Steps, into Holbourn Court, another paſſage into Chappel Court, another into Fulwood's Rents, and another into the Fields.

The Garden.

The chief Ornament belonging to this Inn, is its ſpacious Garden, with curious Walks, as well thoſe that are ſhady by the lofty Trees, as thoſe that are raiſed higher, and lie open to the Air, and the enjoyment of a delightful proſpect of the Fields. And this Garden hath been, for many Years, much reſorted unto, by the Gentry of both Sexes.

Fulwoods Rents.

Fulwood's Rents, oppoſite to Chancery lane, runneth up to Gray's Inn, into which it hath an entrance, through the Gate; a Place of a good Reſort, and taken up by Coffee Houſes, Ale Houſes, and Houſes of Entertainment, by reaſon of its vicinity to Gray's Inn. On the Eaſt ſide is an handſome open Place, with a Freeſtone Pavement, and better built and inhabited by private Houſekeepers. At the upper end of this Court, is a paſſage into the Caſtle Tavern, a Houſe of a conſiderable Trade. As is the Golden Griffin Tavern, on the Weſt ſide, which alſo hath a paſſage into Fulwood's Rents.

Warwick Court.

Warwick Court, newly built out of Warwick Houſe and Garden; being a very handſome and ſpacious Place, with a broad Freeſtone Pavement; and garniſhed on both ſides by large and well built Brick Houſes, fit only for Perſons of Repute. The North end lieth open into the paſſage belonging to Gray's Inn, which leadeth into Red Lion Fields, and thoſe Parts.

Brownlow ſtreet.

Brownlow ſtreet alſo cometh out of Holbourn, and runneth up into the Fields; from which it is ſevered by a pair of handſome Gates, ſhut up a Nights, for the Security of the Inhabitants, and built at their Charge. The Street is indifferent broad, and hath good Brick Buildings, well inhabited.

Hand Alley.
Leaden Porch Court.
Three Cups Inn.

Hand Alley, ſeated almoſt againſt Great Turnſtile Alley, not long built; the Houſes are good, and well inhabited; hath a Freeſtone Pavement, and a paſſage into the Fields, over againſt Bedford Row of Buildings. Leaden Porch Court, pretty large, but ill built, with old Timber Houſes, and not over well inhabited; but might be much improved by new Building. Three Cups Inn, large, and of a conſiderable Reſort for Perſons that come to Town; having great Conveniencies of Coach Houſes and Stables.

Dean ſtreet. Blue Boar Inn. Roſe Alley. Heart Alley.

Dean ſtreet, but ordinary, falls into Eagle ſtreet, over againſt Lee ſtreet, which leadeth into Red Lion Square. In this Street, on the Eaſt ſide, is a ſmall Court without a Name, where is a Coffee Houſe: The Weſt ſide is a Garden Wall belonging to a Houſe in Holbourn. Blue Boar Inn, alſo conſiderable as the Three Cups Inn, both which Inns have a back Gate into Eagle ſtreet. Roſe Alley, narrow and ordinary, with a paſſage alſo into Eagle ſtreet. Heart Alley, but ſmall and mean, ſeated not far from Kings Gate ſtreet.

Kings Gate ſtreet.

Kings Gate Street, or Kings Gate Road, as being formerly only the Road Way to the upper end of Gray's Inn lane, with Gates at each end, and the King's Locks thereon. This Street, after a good paſſage Northwards, turneth Eaſtwards into Thumbal's Row, and thence into Gray's Inn lane. Here are but few Houſes in it; the Weſt ſide being taken up by the Gardens belonging to the Houſes on the Eaſt ſide of King ſtreet: And the North ſide, by the Stables and Coach Houſes belonging to the Houſes in Red Lion Square.

Eagle ſtreet. Fiſhers Court. Bidles Court. Red Lion Inn.

Eagle ſtreet, ſeated on the back ſide of Holbourn; a Street of a good length, the Weſt end falling into Kings Gate ſtreet, and the Eaſt end into Bedford Row. The Street is pretty broad, and better built than inhabited. On the South ſide is Fiſhers Court, a pretty handſome open Place, with a Freeſtone Pavement. Alſo Bidles Court, indifferent good, with a Freeſtone Pavement. Betwixt theſe two Courts is Roſe Alley. On the North ſide of this Street, is Red Lion Inn, a Place chiefly for Stables and Coaches. And on this ſide of the Street are two other Yards, imployed for the ſaid Uſe.

Red Lion Square.

Red Lion Square, a large Place, and much longer than broad. It hath graceful Buildings on all ſides, which are inhabited by Gentry, and Perſons of Repute; the Houſes having Paliſado Pails, and a Freeſtone Pavement before them. The middle of the Square is incloſed from the Streets, or paſſage to the Houſes, by a handſome high Paliſado Pail; with Rows of Trees, Gravel Walks, and Graſs Plats within; all neatly kept, for the Inhabitants to walk in. Out of this Square are ſeveral Streets which lead to other Places: Viz. Lee ſtreet, Fiſher's ſtreet, Orange ſtreet, Drake ſtreet, North ſtreet, Lamb's Conduit paſſage, Princes ſtreet, and Gray's Inn paſſage.

Lee ſtreet. Fiſhers ſtreet. Orange ſtreet. Drake ſtreet, North ſtreet Lambs Conduit paſſage. Princes ſtreet Gray's Inn paſſage.

Lee ſtreet, a good handſome broad Street, well built, falls into Eagle ſtreet, and thence into Dean ſtreet, and ſo into Holbourn. Fiſher's ſtreet, better built than inhabited, falls into Kings Gate ſtreet. Orange ſtreet, a good broad Street, well built and inhabited; alſo falls into Kings Gate ſtreet. Drake ſtreet, and North ſtreet, both being broad, well built and inhabited, and have a paſſage into Thumbal's Row. Lamb's Conduit paſſage, but narrow, with a Freeſtone Pavement, and good Houſes; falleth into Red Lion Fields at the upper end. Princes ſtreet, large and open, with very good Buildings, taken up by Gentry: It croſſeth Red Lion ſtreet, and falls into Bedford Row. Gray's Inn paſſage, but narrow, with a Freeſtone Pavement; and is a Place of ſome Trade, as being a Thorowfair to Gray's Inn.

Bedford Row.

Bedford Row, very pleaſantly ſeated, as having a proſpect into Lincoln's Inn Garden and the Fields; with a handſome Cloſe before the Row of Buildings, incloſed in with Paliſado Pails, and a Row of Trees; with a broad Coach-way to the Houſes, which are large and good; with Freeſtone Pavements, and Paliſado Pails before the Houſes, incloſing in little Garden Plots, adorned with handſome Flower Pots, and Flowers therein.

Thumbal's Row falls into Kings Gate ſtreet, a Place of no Account, and but meanly inhabited. Out of this Row, is Devonſhire ſtreet, which runneth Northwards into the Fields, near unto the Devil's Conduit. And at the upper end of the ſaid Street, is a deſigned Square, having the Foundation of ſome Houſes laid. One of which is large, and deſigned for one of the Sons of the Duke of Devonſhire, and therefore ſo called. The Weſt ſide of this Street is built with good Houſes, but the Eaſt ſide lieth yet open.

Bedford Court.

More Eaſtward is Bedford Court, but indifferent, both as to Houſes and Inhabitants. Near unto this Court, is a Row of good new built Houſes, which runs up to Lamb's Conduit; the Eaſt ſide being not yet begun to be built, but the Street laid out. And at the upper end of this Row is another deſigned Street, to fall into Devonſhire ſtreet. But this is like the Ruins of Troy; ſome of the Houſes carried up to the Covering, others about a Story, and others only the Foundations laid; and thus they have been for ſome Years, and no likelihood of finiſhing.

Gray's Inn lane. Biſhops head Court. Fox Court. Feathers Court, or Alley. Bell Court. Plough Yard. Spread Eagle Court.

Gray's Inn lane, very long, comes out of Holbourn a little without the Bars, and runs Northwards into Hamſtead Road. The Weſt ſide, except a few Houſes next to Holbourn, is taken up by Grays Inn Houſe and Garden. And the Eaſt ſide is a Row of old built Houſes, for the moſt part Timber, and for the generality inhabited by Inholders, Cooks, Chandlers, ſuch as let Lodgings; and is a Place of ſome Trade and Reſort; being ſeated ſo near unto Gray's Inn. In this Lane are a great many Courts and Allies: Viz. Biſhops head Court, pretty large, and indifferent well built and inhabited; but hath a narrow entrance. Fox Court, large and open, with very good Brick Buildings, well inhabited, and hath a paſſage into Brook ſtreet. This Court, ſince the building, was made wider, by the pulling down of Angel Alley, and laid unto it. This Court hath a paſſage into Feathers Court or Alley, which is long, and but indifferent. Bell Court, made out of Bell Inn, a very handſome large Place, with a Freeſtone Pavement; hath good new Brick Buildings, well inhabited. At the upper end is a turning paſſage which leads into White Hart Yard, a Place for Stablings, and ſo into Brook Market. Plough Yard, long and narrow, with a Row of Brick Houſes on the North ſide. Spread Eagle Court, large and open, with pretty good Buildings on both ſides, which are well inhabited.

Baldwin's Gardens. Huns Alley. Cradle Alley. Baldwin's Court.

Baldwin's Gardens, a large Place, containing ſeveral Allies and Places of Name. The Entrance into it out of Gray's Inn lane, is but narrow and ordinary, and with a Freeſtone Pavement, the reſt being of a good breadth, well built and inhabited, eſpecially ſince the new Buildings raiſed in the Place of the old ones, on the North ſide; where there is a handſome open Square, but not yet finiſhed. It hath a paſſage into Leather lane, large enough for Coach or Cart, with a pair of Gates. In this Place are theſe Courts and Allies: Huns Alley, on the South ſide, ſmall and ordinary. Then on the North ſide, Cradle Alley, alſo ordinary; which hath a paſſage by the Square, and ſo falls into Roſe and Crown Court in Gray's Inn lane. The Boarded Alley, but indifferent; the upper end openeth into the new deſigned Square. Baldwin's Court, a pretty open Place, with a Freeſtone Pavement. The Houſes on the

the Weſt ſide have Pails and Trees before them, very handſome and graceful. Leopard Alley, hath a Freeſtone Pavement in the middle Part, which is but ordinary built; but the upper end is better, with Gardens to the Houſes.

Pinder Alley. Maiden head Alley. Kings head Inn. Roſe and Crown Court. Nags head Court. Barry's Yard. Cock and Dolphin, Red Lion, and Black Bull Inn.

Then in Gray's Inn lane, beyond Baldwin's Gardens, are theſe Places. Pinder Alley, very ordinary, both as to Houſes and Inhabitants, which are only on the South ſide. This Alley hath a narrow dark Entrance to it, down Steps. Maidenhead Alley, hath a Freeſtone Pavement, with indifferent Brick Houſes, only on the South ſide; which hath proſpect into Kings head Inn, of chief Account for Livery Stables. Roſe and Crown Court, pretty large, but very ordinary; the upper end hath a paſſage into Cradle Alley, which leads into Baldwin's Garden. Nags head Court, ſmall and ordinary. Barry's Yard, hath ſmall Houſes, and but ordinary. Cock and Dolphin Inn, Red Lion Inn, and Black Bull Inn, all three pretty good Inns, and well accuſtomed. Hamſted Coach Yard, chiefly for Stablings and Coach Houſes.

Little Gray's Inn lane. Tattle ſtreet. Middle Row. Boxford's Yard.

Little Grays Inn lane leads into Tattle ſtreet, and ſo into Leiceſter ſtreet; alſo into Middle Row, and thence down to the Bridge, over the Town Ditch, and ſo over into the Fields. In Little Grays Inn lane is Boxford's Yard, pretty large, and only for Stablings. All theſe Places are ſmall Brick Houſes, and chiefly inhabited by labouring People, or the like.

Stafford's Alms houſes. Flower de lis Yard.

Something Northward from Little Grays Inn lane, are Stafford's Alms Houſes, for ſix Men and four Women, each having the Allowance of 10 s. a Quarter. Flower de lis Yard, pretty large, but ordinary; with a paſſage into Middle Row.

Rope lane.

Rope lane, broad and dirty, as not paved; with poor Houſes on the North ſide, and leads into the Fields.

At the upper end of Gray's Inn lane, on the Weſt ſide, is Kings Gate Road, which leadeth by Red Lion Fields, and goeth into High Holbourn. Something North of this Gate, is a very handſome and genteel Row of Buildings, with a Freeſtone Walk before them, and Gardens behind; their Weſt Lights having the proſpect of Gray's Inn Fields and Walks.

Liquor pond ſtreet. Berry Court. Cow Yard. Dering's Rents.

Liquor pond ſtreet comes out of the end of Gray's Inn lane, over againſt Kings Gate, and falleth into Leather lane, againſt Bedford ſtreet. The Street is handſome and large, with pretty good Buildings, indifferently inhabited. On the South ſide is Berry Court, a pretty open Place, with ſome good Houſes; and hath a paſſage into Cox's Alley, on the back ſide of this Street, and fall into Leather lane. Cow Yard, long and ordinary. On the North ſide is Dering's Rents, which hath a paſſage into Tattle ſtreet; chiefly inhabited by labouring Men, and ſuch like.

eiceſter reet. ine ſtreet. edford ſtreet

Leiceſter ſtreet, falls into the Fields, againſt Middle Row; alſo hath ſmall Brick Houſes, which are but indifferently inhabited. On the Eaſt ſide is Wine ſtreet, which, with a turning paſſage by the Ditch ſide, falls into Bedford ſtreet; both Brick Buildings, and the Inhabitants much like thoſe aforeſaid.

yre ſtreet. mmers eet.

Ayre ſtreet, comes out of Leather lane, and runs Northwards to the Ditch. On the Eaſt ſide of this Street, is Summers ſtreet, which falleth with a deſcent into Hockley hole.

ndmil eet. ckley hole. ewers Yard. orge Yard. yal Oak d. Barn Yard.

Windmill ſtreet comes out of Leather lane, and falls into Hockley hole, a dirty Place, with ſome ill Buildings, and runneth down to the Ditch. In this part are theſe Places, Brewers Yard, George Yard, Royal Oak Yard, and Barn Yard; all very ordinary, both as to Houſes and Inhabitants.

Perpole lane. White Horſe Inn. Blackborn Court. Hoop Alley. Banner's Rents. Falcon Inn. Three Tun Court. Par's Rents. Sugar loaf Court. Half Moon Court. Bradſhaw's Rents. Cock Alley. Roſe and Crown Court. Crown Court. Kings head Brewhouſe. Sneds Rents. Pump Court. Red Horſe Inn.

Perpole lane comes out of Gray's Inn lane, and falls into Leather lane; a Street of no great Account, being old Buildings, and none of the beſt inhabited, nor much frequented. Here are theſe Places of Name: White Horſe Inn, but indifferent, and chiefly for Stablings. Blackborn Court, hath ſmall Brick Houſes. Hoop Alley, hath a pretty broad paſſage, with Brick Houſes on the Weſt ſide. Banner's Rents, an open Court, but ordinary. Falcon Inn, pretty large, and of a reaſonable Trade. Three Tun Court, but ordinary. Par's Rents, pretty large, containing two Courts one within another; the furthermoſt is large and open, with better Houſes. Sugar loaf Court, long and mean. Half Moon Court, hath Houſes only on the Eaſt ſide, the Weſt incloſed with Pails. Bradſhaw's Rents, a pretty handſome airy Court, with Brick Buildings; to ſome of which are Gardens and Trees. Cock Alley, hath a paſſage through an Entry, down Steps. The Houſes which are on the Eaſt ſide, are but mean; the Weſt ſide only incloſed by a Pail. Roſe and Crown Court, a pretty good Place, and indifferent well inhabited; the Houſe at the upper end being the beſt, and hath a good large Garden. Crown Court, but indifferent, with mean Timber Houſes. Kings head Brewhouſe, of a great Trade; and the Houſe is very large, and gracefully built of Brick. Sned's Rents, ſevered from Pump Court by a Pail, which is but ordinary. But Sned's Rents is better, and hath a Coopers Yard at the lower end. Red Horſe Inn, of no great Account; hath another Gate into Leather lane.

Leather lane. White Hart Inn. Nags head Inn. Kings head Inn and Yard. Maiden head Court.

Leather lane, of a great length, the South end coming out of Holbourn, and paſſing by Grevil ſtreet, Beauchamp ſtreet, Doddington ſtreet, Baldwin's Gardens, and Perpole lane, on the Weſt ſide; and Charles ſtreet, Croſs ſtreet, and Hatton Wall, on the Eaſt ſide; runs Northwards as far as Liquor pond ſtreet. The Eaſt ſide of this Lane is beſt built, having all Brick Houſes; and behind them ſeveral Yards for Stables and Coach Houſes, which belong to the Houſes in Hatton ſtreet. In this Lane is White Hart Inn, Nags head Inn, Kings head Inn, and Kings head Yard, all indifferent. Alſo the George Brewhouſe, and Green's Brewhouſe; both of a good Trade. And by the corner of Windmill hill, is Maiden head Court, which is but ordinary.

Hatton Wall. Bull Inn.

Hatton Wall fronts Perpole lane, and falls into Vine ſtreet, leaving Hatton ſtreet on the South ſide. This Street is indifferently built and inhabited. On the South ſide is Bull Inn, very old, and hath a paſſage into Windmil hill.

Vine ſtreet. Vine Court. Anſlow ſtreet. Bull head Alley. Small Beer Alley.

Vine ſtreet, runs down a ſteep Deſcent unto the Ditch, where there is a Bridge, that leadeth into Clarkenwel Green. On the North ſide is Vine Court, but ordinary. And on the South ſide is Anſlow ſtreet, but indifferently built and inhabited; hath a paſſage into Bull head Alley, a very mean Place, which leadeth into Saffron Hill. In this Anſlow ſtreet is Small Beer Alley, which is but mean.

Hatton Garden. Hatton ſtreet. Charles ſtreet. Croſs ſtreet. Kirby ſtreet.

Hatton Garden, is a very large Place now, containing ſeveral Streets: Viz. Hatton ſtreet, Charles ſtreet, Croſs ſtreet, and Kirby ſtreet; all which large Tract of Ground was a Garden, and belonged to Hatton Houſe; now pulled down, and built into Houſes. Which ſaid Streets are very gracefully built, and well inhabited by Gentry; eſpecially Hatton ſtreet, which is ſpacious, The Chappel.

Hatton Yard.

ſpacious, and in a ſtrait Line comes out of Holbourn, and runs Northwards to Hatton Wall. And at the corner of this Street and Croſs ſtreet, there is a handſome large Chappel, but not yet finiſhed. In Croſs ſtreet, over againſt Kirby ſtreet, is Hatton Yard; a very large Place, taken up with Stables and Coach Houſes; and hath a paſſage into Vine ſtreet.

Saffron hill.

Caſtle Alley
Bell Alley.
Blue Ball Alley.
Bull head Alley.
Dobbins Alley.
Strangeways ſtreet.
Peter ſtreet.
Harp Alley.
Paved Alley.
Lamb Alley
* Hatton Court.
Blue Court.
Wood's Alley.
George Alley.
Titus Court.

Saffron hill takes its beginning at Field lane, and runs Northwards to Vine ſtreet. It is a Place of ſmall Account, both to Buildings and Inhabitants; and peſtered with ſmall and ordinary Alleys and Courts, taken up by the meaner Sort of People; eſpecially the Eaſt ſide, unto the Town Ditch, which ſeparates this Pariſh from St. James's Clarkenwel. And over this Ditch, moſt of the Allies have a ſmall boarded Bridge: As Caſtle Alley, Bell Alley, and Blue Ball Alley. Other Places on this Hill, are Bull head Alley, and Dobbins Alley, both very ſmall and ordinary. Strangways ſtreet hath ſmall Houſes, but ſomething better than the Allies; and hath a paſſage, by a Bridge, over the Ditch. Lewis Yard, pretty large and airy, with Gardens in the middle, and indifferent well inhabited; the Entrance to it down Steps. Peter ſtreet, hath pretty good new Brick Buildings, eſpecially the lower part by the Ditch. Harp Alley, naſty and inconſiderable. Paved Alley, but mean; hath a paſſage up Steps into Hatton Garden; and the Entrance into it is but ill, and by ſome called Piſſing Alley. Lamb Alley, narrow and ordinary, hath a paſſage into Scroop s Court: But this Part is not properly Saffron hill, but part of Field lane; which ſaid Lane is already ſpoken of. Hatton Court, ſmall and ordinary. Blue Court, goes as far as the Ditch. Wood's Alley, very ſmall and ordinary. George Alley, long and ordinary, hath a paſſage into Scroop's Court. Blue Boar Court, ſmall and indifferent, with a narrow aſcending Entrance. Titus Court, very mean. And thus to make an End of Holbourn Pariſh, and the Places Good and Bad contained in it.]

Ludgate hill.

But now without Ludgate, on the Right Hand or North Side, from the ſaid Gate, lieth the Old Baily, as I ſaid. Then the high Street, called Ludgate hill, down to Fleet lane: In which Lane ſtandeth the Fleet, a Priſon Houſe, ſo called of the Fleet or Water running by it, and ſometime flowing about it, but now Vaulted over.

The Fleet, or Gaol, in the Reign of Richard I.

I read, that Richard I. in the 1ſt Year of his Reign, confirmed to Oſbert (Brother to William Longſhampe, Chancellor of England, and Elect of Ely) and to his Heirs for ever, the Cuſtody of his Houſe or Palace at Weſtminſter, with the keeping of his Gaol of the Fleet at London. Alſo King John, by his Patent dated the 3d of his Reign, gave to S. Archdeacon of Wells, the Cuſtody of the ſaid King's Houſe at Weſtminſter, and his Gaol of the Fleet, together with the Wardſhip of the Daughter and Heir of Robert Leveland, &c.

Abuſes towards the Priſoners in the Fleet.
J. S.

About the Year 1586. the Priſoners of the Fleet petitioned the Lords of the Council. The Warden had let and ſet to Farm, the Victualling and Lodging of all the ſaid Houſe and Priſon, to one John Harvey; and the other Profits of the ſaid Fleet, he had let to one Thomas Newport, then Deputy there under the Warden: And theſe two being very poor Men, having neither Land nor any Trade to live by; nor any certain Wages of the ſaid Warden. So that theſe, being alſo greedy of Gain, lived by Bribing and Extortion. And they did moſt ſhamefully extort and exact from the Priſoners; and raiſed new Cuſtoms, Fines and Payments, for their own Advantage: And cruelly uſed them, ſhutting them up in cloſe Priſons, when they found Fault with their wicked Dealings; not ſuffering them to come and go within the ſaid Priſon, as they ought to do; nor permitting their Friends to come unto them, that ſhould travail in their Cauſes for their better Relief. Which, with other their abominable Miſdemeanours, without Reformation, might be the poor Priſoners utter Undoing.

A Book of Orders for this Priſon.

And for the doing theſe Wrongs with the greater Secrecy, they made away with a Book, that was always ready to be ſhewed, containing all Orders and Conſtitutions of the ſaid Houſe. That all Men committed, might ſee what they ought to have in the ſaid Priſon; and what every one ought to do, touching all manner of Duties, Rights, Conſtitutions and Ordinances, to be obſerved and kept in the Fleet. The Cuſtoms of which Fleet were, That every Priſoner ſhould have Meat, Drink, and other Neceſſaries and Commodities, and be well and decently uſed, as was meet for every Man's Degree.

All this the Priſoners ſet forth in their Petition. And therefore prayed their Lordſhips to appoint Commiſſioners to come to the Fleet, and examine Newport and Harvey. And to ſeparate the one from the other, that they might have no Conference together. And to be examined ſeverally, upon Interrogatories already prepared to be miniſtred to them. And that the Priſoners might be examined touching their Doings. And to take ſuch good Order for the Redreſs thereof, as to their Lordſhips ſhould ſeem convenient.

In the ſaid Year 1586. I find a Commiſſion granted forth for the Relief of the Fleet. And for more convenient Uſe, the Recorder Fleetwood, by Commandment of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, did abreviate and explain it.

The Priſoners preſent a Bill to the Parliament.

Further, in the Year 1593. the Priſoners of the Fleet preferred a Bill to the Parliament, touching the Orders and Reformation of the Fleet; which Joachim Newton, Deputy Warden, did all he could to hinder. They therefore petitioned the Lord Treaſurer Burghley to forward it. And to ſhew what Reaſon they had to exhibit this Bill, they ſent a Paper of Articles, in number Twenty eight; of the Murders and other Miſdemeanors of the ſaid Joachim.]

Then is Fleet Bridge, pitched over the ſaid Water, whereof I have ſpoken in another Place.

Conduit in Fleetſtreet.

Then alſo, againſt the South end of Shoe lane, ſtandeth a fair Water Conduit; whereof Will. Eaſtfield, ſometime Maior, was Founder. For the Maior and Communalty of London, being poſſeſſed of a Conduit Head, with divers Springs of Water gathered thereinto, in the Pariſh of Padington, and the Water conveyed from thence, by Pipes of Lead, towards London, unto Tyborn; where it had lain for the ſpace of ſix Years, and more. The Executors of Sir William Eaſtfield, obtained Licence of the Maior and Communalty, for them, in the Year 1453. with the Goods of Sir William, to convey the ſaid Waters, firſt, in Pipes of Lead, into a Pipe begun to be laid beſides the great Conduit Head at Maribone; which ſtretcheth from thence unto a Separal, late before made againſt the Chappel of Rounſeval, by Charing-Croſs, and no further. And then from thence to convey the ſaid Water into the City, and there to make Receit or Receits for the ſame, unto the Common Weal of the Communalty; to wit, the Poor to drink, the Rich to dreſs their Meats. Which Water was by them thus brought into Fleetſtreet, to a Standard which they had made and finiſhed, 1471. near unto Shoe lane.

Conduit at Fleet Bridge.

The Inhabitants of Fleetſtreet, in the Year 1478. obtained Licence of the Maior, Aldermen, and Communalty, to make (at their own Charges) two Ceſterns, the one to be ſet at the ſaid Standard, the other at Fleet Bridge, for the receipt of the waſte Water. This Ceſtern at the Standard they builded, and on the ſame a fair Tower of Stone, garniſhed with Images of St. Chriſtopher on the top, and Angels round about lower down, with ſweet ſounding Bells before them; whereupon, by an Engine placed in the Tower, they, divers Hours of the Day and Night, with Hammers, chimed ſuch an Hymn as was appointed.

This Conduit or Standard, was again new builded, with a larger Ceſtern, at the Charges of the City, in the Year 1582.

Of this Church it was obſerved, about the Year 1632. that though it had not been Repaired in Twenty Years before, yet it had more Beauty, and remained freſher and fairer, than many other Churches in London, that had been Repaired and Beautified ten Years after it. Yet ſhortly after it was intended to be Repaired.]

My Friend, whoſo this Place of mine
Thou be that ſhalt behold,
With Patience pawſe, and heare a Friend
His Minde to thee unfold:
Seeke not with heapes of Worldly Toyes,
To furniſh thy Delight;
Nor let him fancy high Degree,
That hopes to live aright.
If thou have Wealth, ſupply their want
That languiſh and decay,
And linger not thy good intent,
Until the later Day.
If Poverty oppreſſe thy Minde,
Let Patience be thy Guide;
Let rigour faile to falſe thy Faith,
What hap ſo thee betide.
For, as from Death no way there is,
Whereby thee to defend;
So, Happy may no Creature be,
Before his finall end.
Wherefore, of God his Mercy crave,
Who hath of Mercy ſtore;
And unto him commend my Soule:
(My Friend) I crave no more.

The comfortable Farewell of a young Infant, ſighed out in his dying Sickneſs, to his mournefull Parents.

Let not my Father greeve, or Mother moane,
That I this wretched World have ſoone forgone:
Better I dye
before I doe amiſſe,
Than live to ſinne,
and be bereft of Bliſſe.
All that I can be charg'd with at the Tribunall Throne, Is Sinne Originall,
for Actuall I have none.
And that I know
my Saviour with his Blood
Hath waſht away,
and made my Badneſs good.
And 'cauſe I know (though Knowledge I have ſmall)
That Jeſus Chriſt did dye to ſave us all;
I paſſe with Joy, in Heaven
to meet my King,
With Angels and Archangels
there to ſing.
Then Father mourne,
and Mother weepe no more,
I now dye rich, that might have liv'd but poore;
For had I progreſt
unto Man's Eſtate,
It is not certaine
what would be my Fate:
Whether a Croſſe, or Bleſſing I ſhould prove,
Or merit Parents
direfull Hate, or Love.

For oft you ſee, how Youths rebellious Prankes,
Make Sonnes ingrate, to thoſe they owe moſt Thankes.
And might not I have beene amongſt the number
Of thoſe that doe their Parents States incumber?
Yes, yes, I might, perhaps,
have been a Slave,
And kill'd your Hearts with Care,
and digg'd your Grave.
But now my ſilly Dove-like
Soule doth part,
In Peace of God,
and Love of Parents Heart.
Sweet Innocence, my Shield,
I bear in Hand,
To guard me towards that moſt Holy Land.
Where Parents both,
and Siſter I ſhall ſee,
In God's appointed time triumphantly.

A fair Monument over the Veſtry Door, in the Chancel, with this Inſcription.

In Memory of the Honourable and Vertuous Margaret Talbot, Widow; who deceaſed the 31*ſt of* March, 1620.

By this ſmall Statue (Reader) is but ſhowne,
That ſhe was buried here;
but hadſt thou knowne
The Piety, and Vertues of her Minde,
Thou would'ſt have ſaid,
Why was not ſhe enſhrin'd?
Both Vere's and Windſor's
beſt Blood fill'd her Veines,
She matcht with Talbot,
yet their Noble Straines
Were farre below her Vertue, in whoſe Breaſt,
God had infus'd his Graces
'bove the reſt
Of all her Sex; whoſe ſacred
Courſe of Life,
Both in the State of Widow,
Maid, and Wife,
For each ſhe had beene,
though her latter Dayes Chaſte Widowhood crown'd,
to her immortall Praiſe,
Was ſo immaculate,
ſhe deſerves to be
The Cryſtall Mirrour to Poſterity.
More Honour haſt thou
by her burial here,

Dunſtan, than to thee
chanc'd this many a Yeere.
Earth from her Coffin
heave thy ponderous Stones,
And for thy ſacredſt Relique keepe her Bones.
Since, ſpite of Envy,
it cannot be deny'd,
Saint-like ſhe liv'd,
and like a Saint ſhe dy'd.

A Table hanging upon a Pillar, in the middle Row of Pews, with this Inſcription.

On the Death of the Diſcreet and Vertuous Miſtriſſe Mary Davies, Daughter of Thomas Croft, of Okley Parke, in the County of Salop, Eſquire, and Wife of John Davies, of Hereford. She died on New-yeeres day, 1612.

Here lies her Duſt, who in a ſpan of Life,
Compaſt the Vertue
of the worthieſt Wife:
If oddes there be (well meaſur'd) 'twill be found,
She more acquir'd;
ſo her bright Stocke renown'd:
And to thoſe Wives
that Glory moſt doe gaine,
She was a Mirrour that no Breath could ſtaine.
Though ſhe a Female were,
her Judgement was,
To trueſt Maſculines,
a truer Glaſſe:
For ſhe by Nature, Grace, and Wiſdome too,
Shew'd by a Woman,
what beſt Men ſhould doe
In their beſt Actions:
For ſhe acted nought
That came not from a grave and gracious Thought.
But Nature (though familiar,
yet moſt ſtrange,
Shewing how much
ſhe doth delight in change,
In thouſand Faſhions doth her Selfe array) Permits nought heere to ſtand at conſtant ſtay.
And Time and Death
with her therein conſpire, Elſe had theſe Aſhes ſtill held vitall Fire.
But theſe juſt Lines,
in Time and Death's deſpight, Shall leade all Times to doe her Vertue right.

So great a Prince, ſo good a Queene.

Sith Vertue Her immortall made,
Death (envying all that cannot dye)
Her Earthy Parts did ſo invade,
As in it wrackt Selfe-Majeſty.
But ſo her Spirit inſpir'd her Parts,
That ſhe ſtill lives in Loyall Hearts.

And the Rector of this Church, and his Succeſſors, had the Benefit of a Meſs pro manſione, for his own dwelling, for celebrating Service for the Soul of David de Wellore. Granted the 36th of Edw. II.

Another Benefit accrued to this Church, the 10th of Edw. II. for a Chauntry to be founded for Rob. Bradelby; viz. of ſix Marks, 6 s. 8 d. to be iſſuing out of his Tenements in Fleetſtreet.]

Clifford's Inn.

Next beyond this Church, is Clifford's Inn, ſometime belonging to Robert Clifford, by Gift of Edward II. in theſe Words.

The King granteth to Robert Clifford, that Meſſuage, with the Appurtenances, next the Church of St. Dunſtane in the Weſt, in the Suburbs of London. Which Meſſuage was ſometime Malculines de Herley; and came to the Hands of Edward I. by reaſon of certain Debts, which the ſaid Malculine was bound at the time of his death, to our ſaid Father, from the time that he was Eſcheator on this ſide Trent. Which Houſe, John Earl of Richmond did hold at our Pleaſure, and is now in our Poſſeſſion.

Patent the 3d of Edward II.

After the Death of this Robert Clifford, Iſabel his Wife let the ſame Meſſuage to Students of the Law, as by the Record following may appear.

Somewhat beyond this Clifford's Inn, is the South end of New ſtreet, (or Chancelar lane) on the Right hand whereof is Serjeants Inn called, in Chancery lane.

Houſe of Converts.

And then next was ſometime the Houſe of the Converted Jews, founded by King Hen. III. in Place of a Jews Houſe to him forfeited, in the Year 1233. and the 17th of his Reign. Who builded there for them a fair Church, now uſed, and called The Chappel for the Cuſtody of Rolls and Records of Chancery. It ſtandeth not far from the Old Temple, but in the mid-way between the Old Temple and the New. In the which Houſe, all ſuch Jews and Infidels as were converted to the Chriſtian Faith, were ordained and appointed (under an honeſt rule of Life) ſufficient Maintenance. Whereby it came to paſs, that in ſhort time there were gathered a great Number of Converts, which were baptized, inſtructed in the Doctrine of Chriſt, and there lived under a learned Chriſtian, appointed to govern them.

This Houſe write to King Edward for his Charity. J. S. Records in the White Tow.

If the Letter following to King Edward, was ſent from this Houſe (as it ſeems to be) it appears hence, that they were of the Carthuſian Profeſſion; and that they received yearly Allowance from the Crown. And that this King, as the Houſe was founded by his Father, continued his Favour to it. In the 6th of his Reign, viz. Anno 1278. they ſent one with their Letter, named Frier John the Convert, to bring the King's Charity. Which Letter was penned after this ſubmiſſive Manner by them; ſtiling themſelves Cælicolæ Chriſti, i. e. Chriſt's Heavenly Inhabitants, but very poor.

Since the which time, to wit, in the Year 1290. all the Jews in England were baniſhed out of the Realm; whereby the number of Converts in this Place was almoſt decayed. And therefore in the Year 1377. this Houſe was annexed by Patent to William Burſtall, Clerk, Cuſtos Rotulorum, or Keeper of the Rolls of the Chancery, by Edward III. in the 51ſt Year of his Reign; [or rather the 50th, which was the laſt Year of his Reign.] And this firſt Maſter of the Rolls was ſworn in Weſtminſter Hall, at the Table of Marble Stone. In the 15th of the ſaid King Edward III. his Reign (unleſs the Year be miſtaken) that King annexed by Letters Patents, this Houſe, to the Office of Cuſtos Rotulorum. And there was an Act, wherein it was ſaid, That the Chancellor or Keeper of the Great Seal, after the Voidance of the ſaid Office of keeping the Rolls, ſhould inſtitute, ſucceſſively, the Keeper of the Rolls in the ſaid Houſe of the Converts. After which Act of Parliament, John de Waltham, Guardian or Keeper of the Rolls, obtained of Richard II. in the 6th of his Reign, Letters Patents, whereby the King granted to him and his Succeſſors, Keepers of the Rolls, the Houſe of Converts. Maintenance allowed to Jews and Infidels converted.

Notwithſtanding, ſuch of the Jews, or other Infidels, as have in this Realm been converted to Chriſtianity, and Baptized, have been relieved there. For I find in Record, that one William Piers, a Jew, that became a Chriſtian, was Baptized in the 5th of Richard II. and had two Pence the Day allowed him, during his Life, by the ſaid King.

Chappel of the Rolls. J. S.

In the Chappel of the Rolls are Sermons preached during Term time, by one appointed by the Maſter of the Rolls. His Salary, they ſay, is 20 l. each Term. It is an honourable Place.

Monuments in the Chappel of the Rolls.

In this Chappel of the Rolls, againſt the Eaſt Wall, is a venerable Monument for Dr. Tong, ſometime Maſter of the Rolls. It is cut in the Figure of a well wrought Stone Coffin, on which lies along a Man moſt artificially carved in Stone; with a Cap with Corners covering his Ears, and a Scarlet Gown; his Hands lying upon his Breaſt acroſs. On the Wall juſt above him, the Head and Shoulders of our Saviour appearing out of the Clouds, looking down upon him; and two Angels on each ſide of our Saviour. Underneath this Figure, is this Inſcription in Capitals: Viz.

JO. YONG, LL. Doctori, Sacrorum Scriniorum ac hujus Domus Cuſtodi, Decano olim Ebor. Vita defuncto xxv Aprilis. Sui fideles Executores hoc poſuerunt M.D.XVI.

Upon the Baſe of the Coffin, Dominus Firmamentum meum.

Lower on this Wall, is a very comely Monument, propped by Marble Pillars, with fair Figures of a Lawyer and his Wife together, with a Son and a Daughter. Being erected for the Lord Edward Bruce, Baron Bruce of Kinloſs, Maſter of the Rolls. Who died the 14th of January, 1610. Aged 62.

Againſt the South Wall, another fair Monument, being the Figures of a Man in Armour, and a Woman, both kneeling; for Alington and his Wife.

Here lies alſo interred Edward Philips, Kt. ſometime Maſter of the Rolls.]

Prior of Necton Park, his Inn. Now the Houſe of the ſix Clerks.

On the Weſt ſide, ſometime was an Houſe pertaining to the Prior of Necton Park, a Houſe of Canons in Lincolnſhire. This was commonly called Hereflete Inn, and was a Brewhouſe; but now fair builded for the ſix Clerks of the Chancery, and ſtandeth over againſt the ſaid Houſe, called the Rolls; and near unto the Lane which now entreth Fickets Croft, or Ficket's Field.

Fickets Croft.

Acts of Parliament for theſe ſix Clerks. Pet. le Neve.

There was an Act made, for Aſſurance of a Tenement to the ſix Clerks of the Chancery; called Harflete Inn in Chancery lane; and for making them a Corporation. See Acts of Parliament enrolled 32 Hen. VIII. And in the 37th Year of the ſame King, another Act paſſed for the ſame. Under theſe ſix Clerks, are ſixty Clerks more for the neceſſary Diſpatch of Buſineſs. And the late Lord Chancellor Jeffreys added Thirty Clerks more, in all amounting to the number of Ninety. Which the other Clerks took great Offence at. And now there is an endeavour to reduce them to the old number, by not filling up the Vacancies by Death.]

Then

Shere lane.

Then is Shire, or Shere lane, opening alſo into Fickets Field, hard by the Bars. On this North ſide of Fleetſtreet, in the Year of Chriſt 1595. I obſerved, that when the Labourers had broken up the Pavement from againſt Chancery lane end, up toward St. Dunſtan's Church, and had digged four Foot deep, they found one other Pavement of hard Stone, more ſufficient than the firſt; and therefore harder to be broken. Under the which they found, in the made Ground, Piles of Timber, driven very thick, and almoſt cloſe together; the ſame being as black as Pitch or Coal, and many of them rotten as Earth. Which proveth, that the Ground there (as ſundry other Places of this City) have been a Mariſh or full of Springs.

The Ground againſt Chancery lane mariſh, and raiſed conſiderably.

Conduit at Fleet Bridge.

On the South ſide from Ludgate (before the Wall of the City) be fair builded Houſes to Fleet Bridge; on the which Bridge, a Ceſtern for receipt of Spring Water, was made by the Men of Fleetſtreet; but the Water Courſe is decayed, and not reſtored.

Bridewel, the King's Houſe.

Next is Bride lane, and therein Bridewel, of old time the King's Houſe. For the Kings of this Realm have been there lodged, and their Courts of Law have been there kept of old time. And till the 9th of Henry III. the Courts were kept in the King's Houſe, wherefoever he was lodged; as may appear by antient Records, whereof I have ſeen many; for Example, I have already ſet forth one, in the Chapter of Towers and Caſtles.

Lib. Burton ſup. Trentham. fol. 46.

Antiquities of Bridewel.

King Hen. VIII. builded there a ſtately and beautiful Houſe of new, for receipt of the Emperor Charles V. who in the Year 1522. was lodged himſelf at the Black Friers; but his Nobles in this new builded Bridewel, a Gallery being made over the Water, and through the Wall of the City, into the Emperor's Lodging at the Black Friers. King Henry himſelf oftentimes lodged there alſo; as namely, in the Year 1525. a Parliament being then holden in the Black Friers. He created States of Nobility there; to wit:

States created at Bridewel.

Henry Fitz Roy, a Child, (which he had by Elizabeth Blunt) to be Earl of Nottingham, Duke of Richmond, and of Somerſet; Lieutenant General from Trent Northward, Warden of the Eaſt middle, and Weſt Marches for anenſt Scotland.

Henry Courtney, Earl of Devonſhire, Couſin German to the King, to be Marqueſs of Exceſter.

Henry Brandon, a Child of two Years old, Son to the Earl of Suffolk, to be Earl of Lincoln.

Sir Thomas Manners, Lord Roſs, to be Earl of Rutland.

Sir Henry Clifford to be Earl of Cumberland.

Sir Robert Ratcliff, to be Vicount Fitzwater.

Sir Thomas Boloine, Treaſurer of the King's Houſhold, to be Vicount Rochford.

In the Year 1528. Cardinal Campeius was brought to the King's preſence, being then at Bridewel, whither he had called all his Nobility, Judges, and Councellors, &c. And there, the 8th of November, in his great Chamber, he made unto them an Oration touching his Marriage with Queen Katharine; as ye may read in Edward Hall.

In the Year 1529. the ſame King Henry and Queen Katharine were lodged there, whilſt the Queſtion of their Marriage was argued in the Black Friers, &c.

But now you ſhall hear how this Houſe became a Houſe of Correction.

Bridewel given to the City of London, to be a Workhouſe for the Poor.

In the Year 1553. the 7th of Edward VI. the 10th of April, Sir *George Barne being Maior of this City, was ſent for to the Court at White Hall, and there at that time the King gave unto him, for the Communalty and Citizens, to be a Workhouſe for the poor and idle Perſons of the City, his Houſe of Bridewel, and Seven hundred Marks Land, late of the Poſſeſſions of the Houſe of the Savoy; and all the Bedding and other Furniture of the ſaid Hoſpital of the Savoy, towards the Maintenance of the ſaid Workhouſe of Bridewel, and the Hoſpital of St. Thomas in Southwark.

* Baron. Firſt Edit.

This Gift King Edward confirmed by his Charter, dated the 26th of June, next following. And in the Year 1555. in the Month of February, Sir William Gerard, Maior, and the Aldermen, entred Bridewel, and took poſſeſſion thereof, according to the Gift of the ſaid King Edward. The ſame was alſo confirmed by Queen Mary.

Collection to be made for Bridewel. R.

Concerning the forwarding of this good Work of Bridewel, and bringing it to a deſired Perfection, this Act of Common Council was made the laſt of February, in the 2d and 3d Years of Philip and Mary.

‘ Foraſmuch as King Edward VI. had given his Houſe of Bridewel unto the City, partly for the ſetting of idle and lewd People to work, and partly for the lodging and harbouring of the Poor, Sick, Weak, and Sore People of this City; and of poor Wayfaring People repairing to the ſame: And had for this laſt purpoſe, given the Bedding and Furniture of the Savoy to that Purpoſe. Therefore in conſideration that very great Charges would be required to the fitting of the ſaid Houſe, and the buying of Tools and Bedding, the Money was ordered to be gotten up among the rich People of the Companies of London, &c.]

The Chappel. R.

There is a Chappel belonging to Bridewel Precinct. Which was inlarged and beautified at the proper Coſt and Charge of the Governours and Inhabitants of this Precinct, in the Year of our Lord 1620. Sir Thomas Middleton being then Preſident, and Mr. Thomas Johnſon Treaſurer of this Hoſpital.

The inlargement was by taking in of a large Room, that (before the Date above named) joined upon the Head of the Chappel. This Ground adding to the length of it (at the full breadth going with it) Twenty four Foot and better.

This Room thus taken in, trim'd, beautified, and conſecrated, is now a handſome Chappel; it being before, a Room empty, vaſt, rude and unſightly; though then in the Uſe deſerving a fair Commendation. For then the Ground that is now a Chancel to the Priſoners of the Houſe, was a Chappel; into which, every Sabbath, through a By or Backward Paſſage, they were brought from their ſeveral Lodgings, to hear Divine Service and Sermons.

Cloſe by the Pulpit hangs the Picture of King Edward VI. with theſe Lines under it.

This EDWARD of fair Memory the ſixt,

In this Chappel alſo is Queen Elizabeth's Monument, with the common Verſes.

Store Houſes in Bridewel. J. S.

How's Chron.

In King James I. his Time, Store Houſes were erected here for the Uſe of the City, to prevent any Dearth. For Anno 1608. it was conſidered, what an unſpeakable increaſe there was of People, as well Strangers as Natives, in and about the City. Wherefore the careful Magiſtrates, for prevention of Famine, and for Proviſion for the Poor, begun to build here twelve new fair Granaries, ſufficient to hold ſix Thouſand Quarters of Corn; and two Store Houſes more, for Sea Coal for the Poor, which might hold four Thouſand Loads of Coal. Theſe Houſes were finiſhed Anno 1610. Alderman Leman took great Care and Pains in the contriving and accompliſhing this uſeful Work. The like Care the City had at other times before taken, for providing Food for the Inhabitants of the City, as well by Bread Corn laid up by the ſeveral Companies of London, as in building and furniſhing other Granaries.]

Biſhop of St. David's Houſe.

The Biſhop of St. Davids had his Inn over againſt the North ſide of this Bridewel, as I have ſaid.

Reliq Spelm. J. S.

This Place of the Biſhop of St. Davids, was granted in the Time of King Edward VI. in Fee Farm for a Mark Rent to Dr. Huick the Phyſician. Under which Purchaſe the ſame was enjoyed long after.]

The Pariſh Church of St. BRIDGETS, or, St. BRIDES.

St. Bridget, or Bride.

Then is the Pariſh Church of St. Bridget, or Bride, (as they term it) now a fair Church; the which William Venor, Eſq; Warden of the Fleet about the Year 1480. increaſed with a large Body; and the ſide Iles from the Quire, (which of old time was the whole Church) down to the Weſt end. All through the Church builded of his Charges, is wrought in the Stone Work, round about, both within and without, the Figure or Likeneſs of a Vine, [a Rebus of his Name, as if it had been Vinor] with Cluſters of Grapes amongſt the Leaves, &c.]

The Partition betwixt the old Work and the New, ſometime prepared as a Screne, to be ſet up in the Hall of the Duke of Somerſet's Houſe in the Strand, was bought for Eightſcore Pounds, and ſet up in the Year 1557. One wilful Body began to ſpoil and break the ſame, in the Year 1596. but was (by the high Commiſſioners) forced to make it up again, and ſo it reſteth.

Repaired. R.

This Church was Repaired and Beautified at the proper Coſt and Charge of the Pariſhioners, in the Years of our Lord 1630, 1631, and 1632. In which laſt Year were

Thomas Lee,
Thomas Turner, } Churchwardens.

The Battlements were then new built. So was the middle Roof; and a very fair Gallery on the North ſide, anſwerable to that on the South; which was erected in the Year of our Lord 1607.]

The Steeple. J. S.

There is a good Cut of the new Steeple of St. Brides, in Print: Where it is ſaid to be 235 Foot high; and Sir Chriſtophen Wren the Architect. It is very lofty and beautiful; and exceedeth the Monument by ten Foot.

Wynkin de Worde's Dwelling. J. S.

In this Pariſh of St. Bridget, was a Meſſuage or Inn, called The Faulcon, in the Tenure of the famous Printer in the latter part of Hen. VII. his time, and beginning of Henry VIII. namely Wynkyn de Worde. It lately belonged to the Priory of Ankerwyke; and was given by King Edward VI. in the 3d of his Reign, to William Breton, in conſideration of Service, and ſurrender of Letters Patents for divers other Lands, the yearly Value whereof was 9 l. 6 s. 8 d.]

And moreover to the Honor of God, he bequeathed to the ſaid Rectors and Keepers of St. Bridget, thoſe Shops, with Solars and Gardens adjoining, ſituate, &c. for the mending of the Church of St. Bridget, and for the bettering and repairing of the Goods and Ornaments thereof, for ever.

J. Hill. Ed. Alex.

John Hill, of the Pariſh of St. Bridget, gave, by his Will, dated 1439. three Tenements in the ſaid Pariſh, lying between Bride lane on the Weſt, and the Inn of the Abbot and Convent of Winchcomb, on the South, and Fleetſtreet on the North, to the Rector and Guardians of St. Bridget, to celebrate his Anniverſary for ever. Dat. 7 Oct. 1437.

The Penitent Preface to a Will. J. Worthing.

One Anne Cokerer was here buried, by her Will, dated October the 8th, 1549. The Strain of whoſe Will, ran quite different from the Wills formerly made: Viz. ‘Be it known unto all Men, that this my Will, Anne Cokerer, being in good Health at that time. That I do confeſs my ſelf unto God in the ſeven deadlie Synnes I have offended my Lord. I ask Thee Mercy. My fyve Wytts I have much miſſpended. The Ten Commandements I have not fulfylled in all the Articles that belongeth thereto. Grevouſly I have offended my Lord. I ask thee Mercy, moſt merciful Jheſu, in that I have offended thee in Word, Will, Dede, or Thought. I ask thee Mercy moſt merciful Jheſu. I bequeath my Soul into thy Mercy, and my Body to be buried in St. Brydes Church, before my Pew; and 40 s. to be gyvynne in Groates to the Pariſh, whereas moſt nede is, at the Diſcretion of John Purcel, whom I make myne Executor, &c. I beſeche you for the Love of God, ſee me buried with the ſame Pſalmes that Mr. Starnell was buried with. In the Year 1662. a Legacy was given by one Mr. Brown, to this Precinct: Which will appear by what follows.

A Legacy to White Friers. W. Bowyer.

A Copy of ſo much of the laſt Will and Teſtament of Mr. John Brown, as relates to the Precinct of White Friers, London.

'In the Name of God, Amen. I John Brown, of the County of Middleſex, Gent. &c.

'Item, I give and bequeath unto the Poor of White Friers, where is moſt need, according to the diſcretion of my Executors, with the Advice of Mr. Fenſham, five Pounds.

'Item, I give and deviſe to the Maior, Communalty, and Citizens of the City of London, Governours of the Poſſeſſions, Revenues, and Goods, of the Hoſpitals of Edward King of England the Sixt, of Chriſt, Bridewel, and St. Thomas the Apoſtle, the Sum of 400 l. of lawful Money of England; to be by them yearly imployed and diſpoſed of, for the Education and bringing up of poor Children in Chriſt's Hoſpital aforeſaid. Upon Truſt and Confidence, that the Governours aforeſaid, and their Succeſſors, ſhall maintain three Children from time to time, until their reſpective Age of Fifteen Years. And as any of them die, or attain the ſame Age, to take in others in the rooms or places of ſuch of them as ſhall ſo die, or attain the ſaid Age or Ages of Fifteen Years. One of the Children to be out of the Precinct of White Friers, London, and one out of the Pariſh of St. Dunſtanes in the Weſt, London, and one out of the Lordſhip of Finsbury, in the Pariſh of St. Giles without Cripplegate, in the County of Middleſex. Lewd Women near the White Friers. J. S.

Very near this White Friers, in Fleetſtreet, many lewd Women harboured. And the Tumults there ſo diſturbed the Religious, that the King was fain to direct his Letters to the Maior and Aldermen, to rout the naughty People thence. As appears by this Record.

Rex Maiori & Aldermannis, &c, i. e. ‘The King to the Maior and Aldermen of the City of London, who now are, or ſhall be for the Time being, Greeting. Our Beloved in Chriſt, the Prior and Brethren of the Order of St. Mary of Mount Carmel, London, have beſought Us, that whereas the Lord Edward, of famous Memory, heretofore King of England, our Grandfather, had given them a certain Place in Fleetſtreet, London, where now they dwell; and that Women and Whores, and other Men of bad Report, have now for ſome time made their Abode near the foreſaid Place, and yet do abide; Whereby the ſaid Brethren, by divers Clamours and Outcries, by the Reſort of Men to thoſe Harlots, near the foreſaid Place, Night and Day made, are much hindered in their Celebration of Divine Service. And that they cannot mind other Divine Obſequies, according to the pious Deſires of our Grandfather: That We will, that ye cauſe to be removed the ſaid Women, Whores, and others of bad Fame, from the Houſes and Places in which they ſo inhabit, for the Honour of Holy Church, and the Quiet and Tranquillity of them, the Prior and Brethren, ſerving God in the ſame Place. We, minding to yield to their Supplication, for the Cauſe aforeſaid, Command, firmly enjoyning you, that you cauſe, without delay, to be removed from the foreſaid Houſes or Places, all ſuch Women, Whores, and People of bad Fame, in the Weſt Lane, or elſewhere abiding in the Houſes, adjoining to the Places of the aforeſaid Prior and Brethren; as often, and whenſoever, by them the Prior and Brethren, or any of them, upon this ye ſhall be required. Firmly forbidding, on our behalf, all and ſingular Affairs of the foreſaid Houſes and Places, being in the foreſaid Lane, or elſewhere, as afore is ſaid. That for the time to come, they do not let, or cauſe to be let, by any means, the Houſes or Places beforeſaid to ſuch Women.

New Temple.

Next is the New Temple, ſo called, becauſe the Templers, before the building of this Houſe, had their Temple in Oldbourn. This Houſe was founded by the Knights Templers in England, in the Reign of Henry II. And the ſame was dedicated to God and our bleſſed Lady, by Heraclius, Patriark of the Church, called the Holy Reſurrection in Jheruſalem, in the Year of Chriſt 1185.

The Extent of the New Temple. J. S. Origin. Juridic.

It contained all that ſpace of Ground from the White Friers, Eaſtward, unto Eſſex Houſe without Temple Bar; yea, and a part of that too. As appears by the firſt Grant thereof to Sir Will. Paget, Kt. Secretary of State to King Henry VIII. Pat. 2. Ed. VI.]

Original of the Templers.

Theſe Knights Templers took their beginning about the Year 1118. in manner following. Certain Noblemen, Horſemen, religiouſly bent, bound by Vow themſelves in the Hands of the Patriark of Jeruſalem, to ſerve Chriſt after the manner of Regular Canons, in Chaſtity and Obedience; and to renounce their own proper Wills for ever. The firſt of which Order were Hugh Paganus, [i. e. Pain] and Geffrey de S. Audomare. And whereas at the firſt they had no certain Habitation, Baldwin, King of Jheruſalem, granted unto them a dwelling Place in his Palace, by the Temple; and the Canons of the ſame Temple, gave them the Street, thereby to build therein their Houſes of Office. And the Patriark, the King, the Nobles, and Prelates, gave unto them certain Revenues out of their Lordſhips.

Profeſſion of the Templers.

Their firſt Profeſſion was for Safeguard of the Pilgrims, coming to viſit the Sepulchre, and to keep the High Ways againſt the lying in wait of Thieves, &c. About ten Years after, they had a Rule appointed unto them, and a white Habit, by Honorius the ſecond, then Pope. And whereas they had but Nine in number, they began to increaſe daily. Afterward, in Pope Eugenius's time, they bare Croſſes of red Cloth on their uppermoſt Garments, to be known from others. And in ſhort time, becauſe they had their firſt Manſion hard by the Temple of our Lord in Jheruſalem, they were called Knights of the Temple.

Many Noblemen, in all parts of Chriſtendom, became Brethren of this Order; and builded for themſelves Temples in every City or great Town. In England, this was their chief Houſe, which they builded after the Form of the Temple near to the Sepulchre of our Lord at Jheruſalem. They had alſo other Temples in Cambridge, Briſtow, Canterbury, Dover, Warwick, and divers other Places. This Temple in London, was often made a Store Houſe of Mens Treaſure; I mean, ſuch as feared the ſpoil thereof in other Places.

Mat. Paris. Hubert Earl of Kent, his Treaſure in the New Temple.

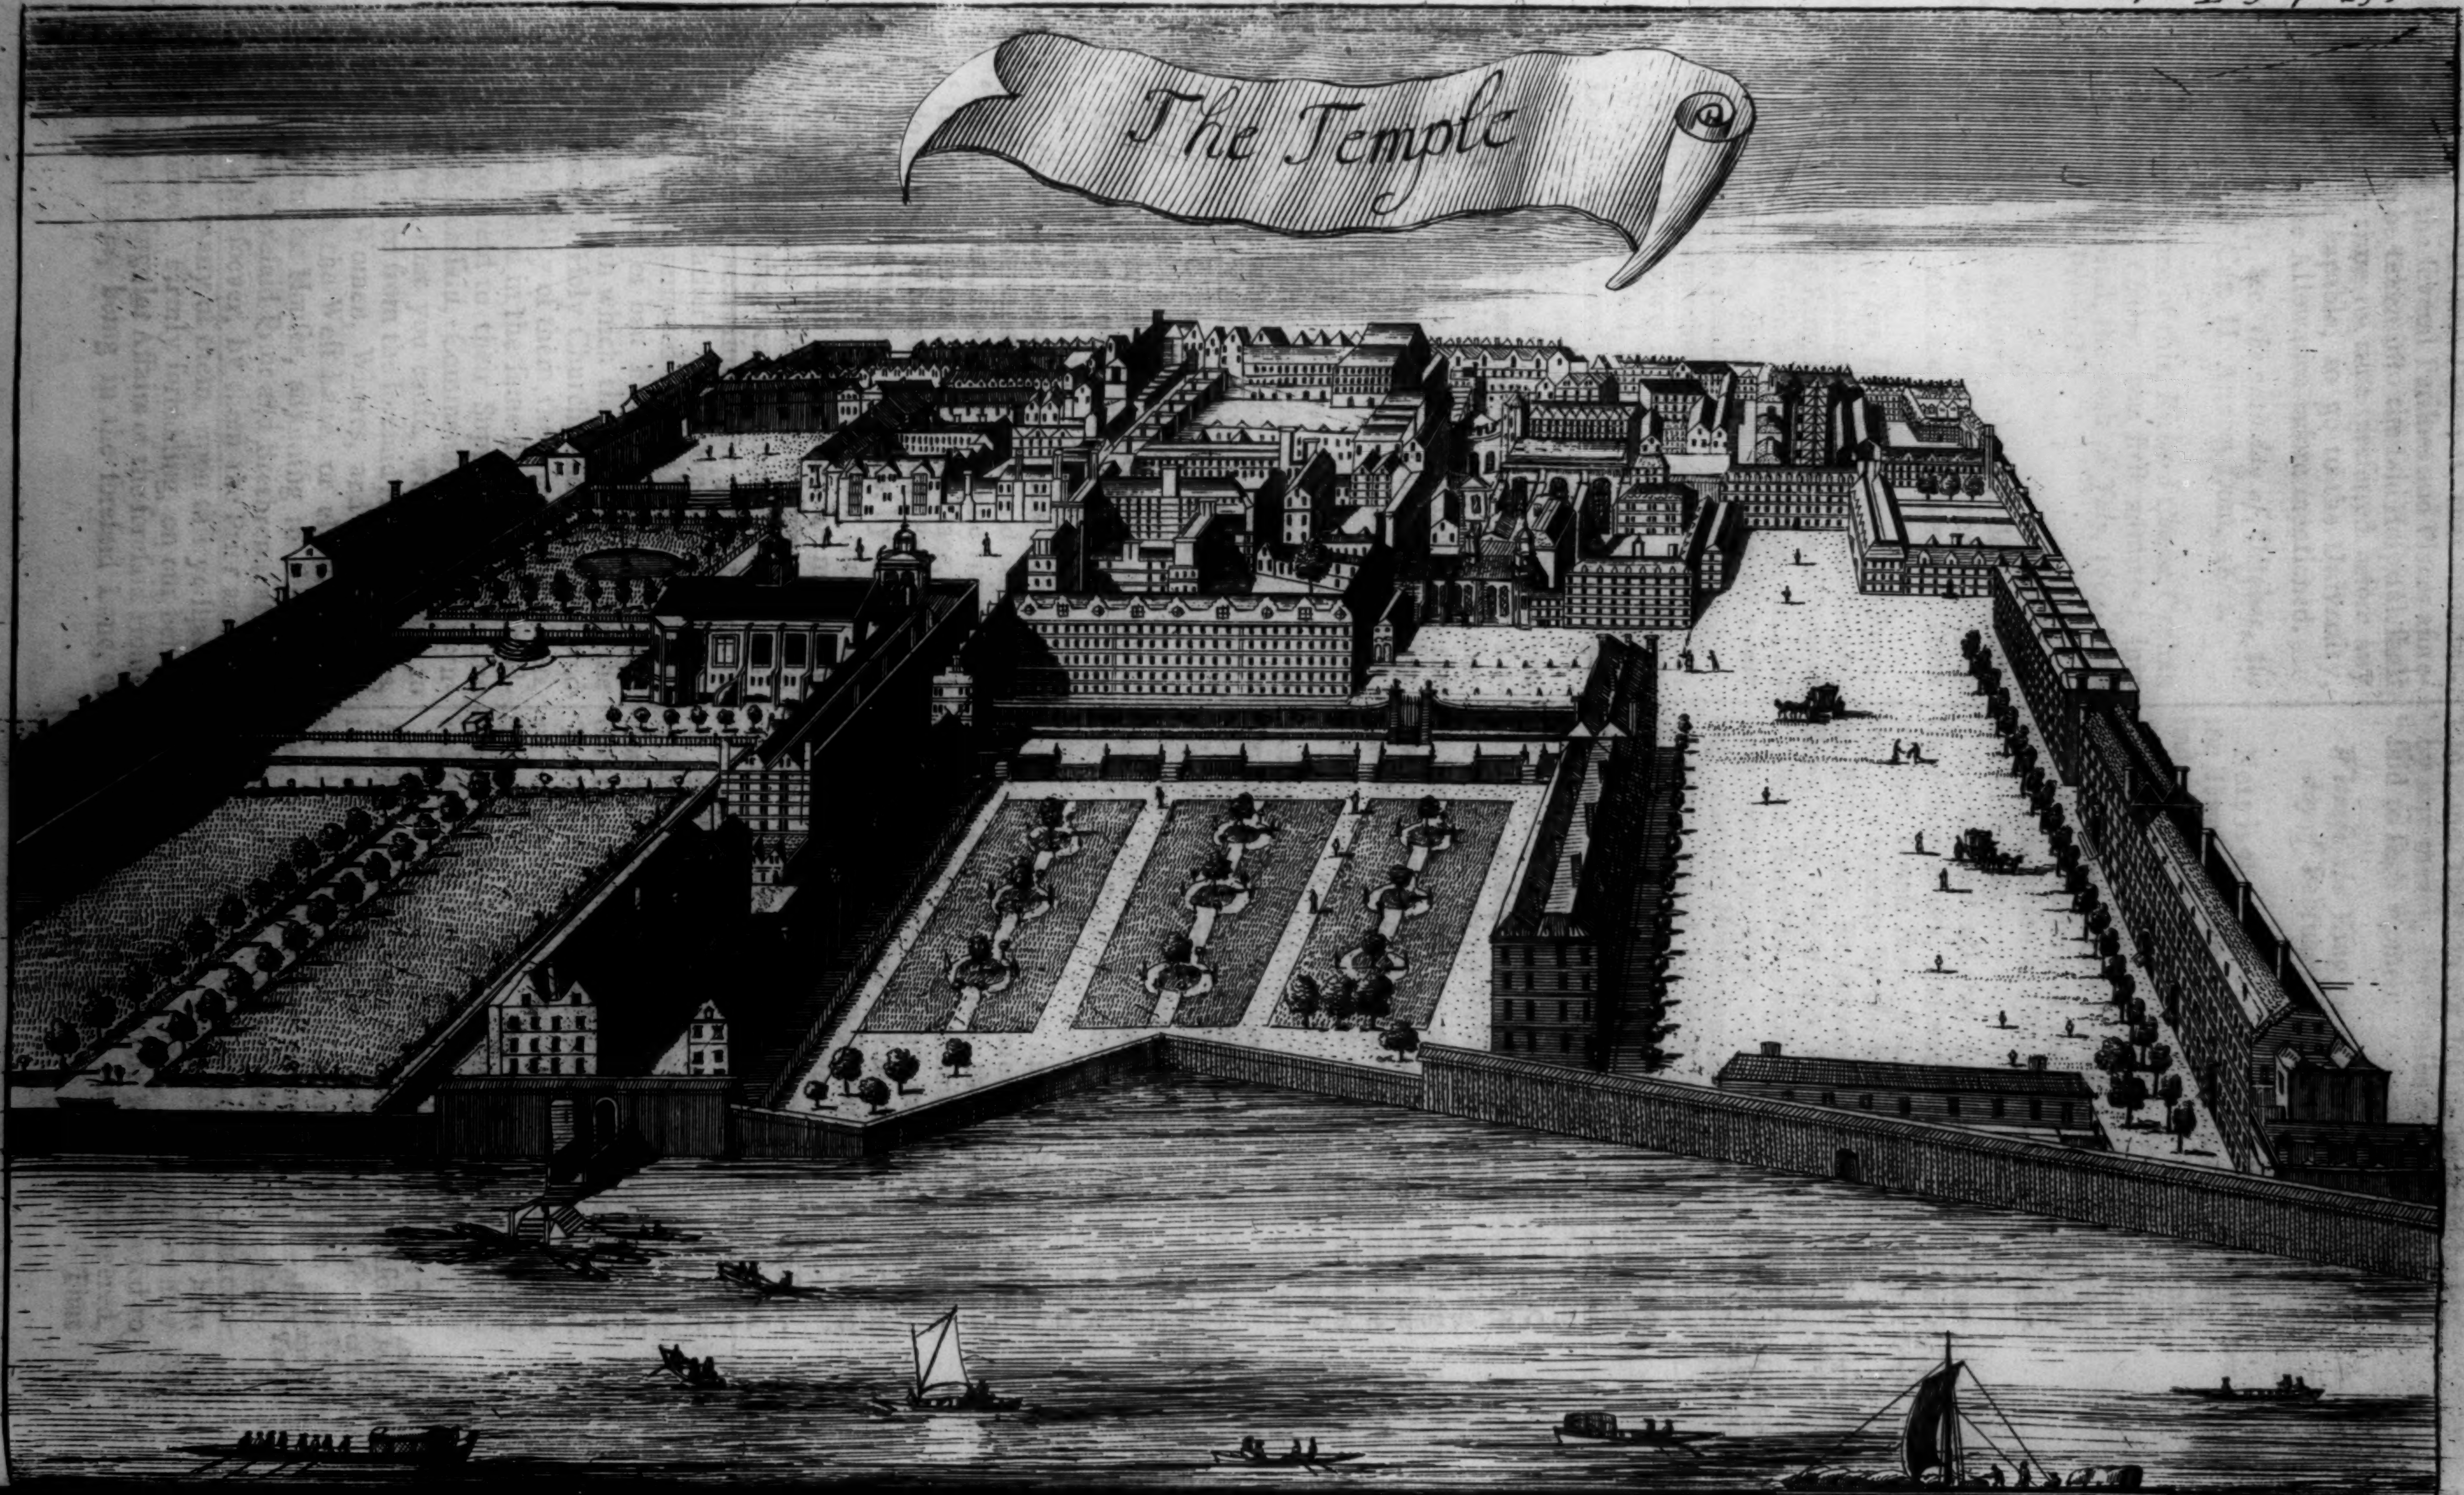
Matthew Paris noteth, that in the Year 1232. Hubert de Burgh, Earl of Kent, being Priſoner in the Tower of London, the King was informed that he had much Treaſure laid up in this New Temple, under the Cuſtody of the Templers. Whereupon he ſent for the Maſter of the Temple, and examined him ſtraightly; who confeſſed, that Money being delivered unto him and his Brethren to be kept, he knew not how much there was of it. The King demanded to have the ſame delivered; but it was anſwered,

Vl B 3 p 271



That the Money being committed unto their Truſt, could not be delivered, without the licence of him that committed it to Eccleſiaſtical Protection. Whereupon, the King ſent his Treaſurer and Juſticier of the Exchequer unto Hubert, to require him to reſign the Money wholly into his Hands. Who anſwered, That he would gladly ſubmit himſelf, and all his, unto the King's pleaſure. And thereupon deſired the Knights of the Temple (in his behalf) to preſent all the Keys unto the King, to do his pleaſure with the Goods which he had committed unto them. Then the King commanded the Money to be faithfully told, and laid up in his Treaſure by Inventory; wherein was found, (beſides ready Money) Veſſels of Gold and Silver, unpraiſeable; and many precious Stones, which would make all Men wonder, if they knew the Worth of them.

This Temple was again dedicated, 1240. belike alſo newly re-edified then.

The Pope's Nuncio reſides here. Mat Paris. J. S.

In the Year 1245. Pope Innocent's Nuncio reſided in the New Temple. And the ſaid Pope commanded the Biſhops of England, to bring to his Nuncio there, 6000 Marks, to be raiſed from the Engliſh Biſhopricks. Which King Henry forbad.]

Mat. Paris.

Seal of the Templers.

Theſe Templers, at this time, were in ſo great Glory, that they entertained the Nobility, Foreign Ambaſſadours, and the Prince himſelf very often. Inſomuch that Matthew Paris cryeth out on them for their Pride; who being at the firſt ſo poor, as they had but one Horſe to ſerve two of them; in Token whereof, they gave in their Seal, two Men riding on one Horſe: Yet ſuddenly they waxed ſo inſolent, that they diſdained other Orders, and ſorted themſelves with Noblemen.

30 Dunmow.

King Edward I. in the Year 1283. taking with him Robert Waleran, and others, came to the Temple; where calling for the Keeper of the Treaſure Houſe, as if he meant to ſee his Mother's Jewels, that were laid up there, to be ſafely kept, he entred into the Houſe, breaking the Coffers of certain Perſons that had likewiſe brought their Money thither; and he took away from thence to the Value of 1000 l.

Parliament at the New Temple.

Many Parliaments and great Councels have been there kept, as may appear by our Hiſtories.

The Templers ſeized.

In the Year 1308. all the Templers in England, as alſo in other parts of Chriſtendom, were apprehended, and committed to divers Priſons.

Charged with Hereſy.

In 1310. a Provincial Councel was holden at London, againſt the Templers in England, upon Hereſy, and other Articles whereof they were accuſed; but denied all except one or two of them. Notwithſtanding, they all did confeſs, that they could not purge themſelves fully, as faultleſs; and ſo they were condemned to perpetual Penance, in ſeveral Monaſteries; where they behaved themſelves Modeſtly.

The Order of Templers condemned.

Philip King of France procured their overthrow throughout the whole World; and cauſed them to be condemned by a general Council, to his Advantage, as he thought. For he believed to have had all their Lands in France; and therefore ſeizing the ſame in his Hands, (as I have read) cauſed the Templers, to the number of 54. or, after Fabian, 60. to be burned at Paris.

Templers burned. Rob. Fabian.

Patent. The Temple given to Aimer de Valence.

Edward II. in the Year 1313. gave unto Aimer de la Valence, Earl of Pembrook, the whole Place and Houſes, called the New Temple at London, with the Ground called Fiquets Croft, and all the Tenements and Rents, with the Appurtenances that belonged to the Templers in the City of London, and Suburbs thereof. [Alſo the Land called Fletecroft, part of the Poſſeſſions of the ſaid New Temple.]

J. S.

After Aimer de Valence (ſaith ſome) Hugh Spencer (uſurping the ſame) held it during his life. By whoſe Death [he being attainted the 1ſt of Edward III.] it came again to the Hands of Edward III. but in the mean time, to wit, 1324. by a Councel holden at Vienna, all the Lands of the Templers (leſt the ſame ſhould be put to prophane Uſes) were given to the Knights Hoſpitalers, of the Order of St. John Baptiſt, called St. John of Jheruſalem. Which Knights had put the Turks out of the Ile of Rhodes, and alſo won upon the ſaid Turk daily, for a long time.

Comes in King Edward III. his Hands.

Temple given to the Hoſpitalers of St. John of Jheruſalem.

Patent 2 Ed. 3. Clauſe, 18. Ed. 3.

The ſaid Edward III. therefore granted the ſame to the ſaid Knights, who poſſeſſed it. And in the 18th Year of the ſaid King's Reign, were forced to repair the Bridge of the ſaid Temple. Theſe Knights had their head Houſe for England, by Weſt Smithfield. And they, in the Reign of the ſame Edward III. granted (for a certain Rent of 10 l. by the Year) the ſaid Temple, with the Appurtenancces thereunto adjoining, to the Students of the Common Laws of England. In their poſſeſſion the ſame hath ever ſince remained; and is now divided into two Houſes of ſeveral Students, by the Name of Inns of Court; to wit, the Inner Temple, and the Middle Temple; who kept two ſeveral Halls. But they reſort all to the ſaid Temple Church.

The Temple granted to the Students of the Law, and made an Inn of Court.

Monuments in the Temple. Images of Knights buried croſs-legged, the Cauſe why.

In the round Walk whereof, (which is the Weſt part, without the Quire) there remain Monuments of Noblemen there buried, to the number of Eleven. Eight of them are Images of armed Knights; five lying croſs-legged, as Men vowed to the Holy Land, againſt the Infidels and unbelieving Jews; the other three ſtrait-legged: The reſt are coaped Stones, all of grey Marble. The firſt of the croſs-legged, was William Marſhall, the elder, Earl of Pembrook, who died 1219. Will. Marſhall, his Son, Earl of Pembrook, was the ſecond; he died 1231. And Gilbert Marſhall, his Brother, Earl of Pembrook, ſlain in a Turnament at Hartford, beſides Ware, twenty Miles from London. He died in the Year 1241.

After this, Robert Roſe, otherwiſe called Furſan, being made a Templer in the Year 1245. died, and was buried there. And theſe are all that I can remember to have read of.

Records of the Temple deſtroyed.

In the Year 1381, the Rebels of Eſſex and of Kent, deſtroyed and plucked down the Houſes and Lodgings of this Temple, took out of the Church the Books and Records that were there in Hutches, of the Apprentices of the Law, carried them into the Streets, and there burnt them. The Houſe they ſpoiled and burnt, for Wrath they bare Sir Robert Hales, Lord Prior of St. Johns in Smithfield. But it was ſince again, at divers times, repaired; namely, the Gate-Houſe of the Middle Temple, in the Reign of Henry VIII. by Sir Amias Paulet, Kt. upon occaſion, as in my Annals I have ſhewed. The great Hall of the Middle Temple was newly builded in the Year 1572. in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

Gate Houſe of the Temple new builded.

Great Hall of the Temple new builded.

The Front of the Temple. J. S.

At the entrance into the Temple, from Fleet-ſtreet, is a very graceful Front of Brick Work, with four large Pilaſters of Stone, of the Ionic Order; and an handſome Pediment, with a Round in the middle of it, having theſe Words inſcribed in large Capitals: *Surrexit impenſis Societat. Orders for Divine Service in the Temple.

This Temple Church hath a Maſter, and had (in Stow's time) four Stipendiary Prieſts, with a Clerk. Theſe, for the Miniſtration of Divine Service there, had Stipends allowed unto them out of the Poſſeſſions and Revenues of the late Hoſpital and Houſe of St. Johns of Jheruſalem, in England; as it had been in the Reign of Edward VI.

The Inſcription upon the Door of the Temple Church. J. S.

The Front of Stone, and South Weſt Entrance into the Temple Church, being very antient, and by Time decayed, it was of late ſubſtantially renewed and repaired. But a very antique Inſcription over the little Door, next to the Cloiſter, which was hardly to be read before, is now gone; being broken by the Workmen in the Year 1695. It was in old Saxon Capital Letters, ingraved within an half Circle; denoting the Year when the Church was dedicated, and by whom; namely, Heraclius the Patriarch of the Church of the Holy Reſurrection in Jheruſalem. And to whom, namely, the Bleſſed Virgin. And the Indulgence of Sixty Days Pardon to ſuch, who according to the Penance enjoined them, reſorted thither yearly. But happily preſerved, and exactly tranſcribed by Mr. G. Holmes: Viz.

Taken by Mr. George Holmes.

A Maſter belonging to the Temple. J. S.

Since the Diſſolution of the Hoſpitalers, in the time of Henry VIII. there hath been a Divine, by the Name of a Maſter or Cuſtos, belonging to this Church. Who is conſtituted by the King or Queen's Letters Patents, without Inſtitution or Induction.

A Reader. The Lecture.

Beſides the Maſter, there is a Reader, who readeth Divine Service twice a day, at Eight a Clock in the Morning, and at Four in the Afternoon. Formerly, they had alſo a fixed Lecturer for Sundays in the Afternoon. Who had the Allowance of 80 l. per Ann. paid from each Houſe; and convenient Lodging; and his Diet at the Benchers Table. But of late, the Lecture is carried on by various Preachers, appointed and paid by the Treaſurers of the two Houſes.

Now as for the Monuments in the Temple Church.

Here ſhe lies, whoſe ſpotleſs Fame
Invites a Stone to learn her Name.
The rigid Spartan that deny'd
An Epitaph to all that dy'd,

Unleſs for War or Chaſtity,
Would here vouchſafe an Elegy.
She dy'd a Wife, but yet her Mind,
(Beyond Virginity refin'd)
From lawleſs Fire remain'd as free,
As now from Heat her Aſhes be.
Her Husband (yet without a Sin)
Was not a Stranger, but her Kin:
That her chaſt Love might ſeem none other Unto a Husband, than a Brother.
Keep well this Pawn, thou Marble Cheſt,
Till it be call'd for, let it reſt:
For while this Jewel here is ſet,
The Grave is but a Cabinet.

Fire in the Temple.

Towards the latter end of King Charles II. his Reign, a terrible Fire happened in the Temple. Whereby the Office of Chirographer of Fines of the Court of Common Pleas, there kept, was ſo burnt down, that ſeveral Records of Fines engroſſed, of Trinity and Michaelmas Terms, were either conſumed or loſt. Wherefore an Act paſt 31 Car. II. for the re-ingroſſing of thoſe Records. And that Office is now built in an open wide Court of the Temple, near the Water ſide, not adjacent to any other Edifices, for the better Security of thoſe Records for all time hereafter.

And thus much for the ſaid New Temple, the fartheſt Weſt part of this Ward, and alſo of this City, for the Liberties thereof.

The preſent State of this Ward.

All this for the antient State of this Ward. Now for the preſent State, take it as followeth.]

Ludgate hill and Fleetſtreet.
R. B.

To begin at the South Parts, viz. Ludgate hill and Fleetſtreet, taking notice, as we paſs along, of all the Lanes and Alleys through which there lie Paſſages, in and out of the ſaid Streets. As on the North ſide, beginning at Temple Bar, there is Bell Yard, Chancery lane, Fetter lane, Shoe lane, the Town Ditch. Then on the South ſide of the Street, White Friers, Water lane, Salisbury Court, Bridewel Precinct. Then the Street beginning near Ludgate, and paſſing from South to North, called Old Baily: Which opens into the North part of this Ward, as Snow hill, down to Holbourn Bridge. Then more North is Cow lane, Hoſier lane, Cock lane, Chick lane, Weſt Smithfield, Long lane, St. Bartholomew's Cloſe and Hoſpital, Pye Corner, &c. with all the ſmaller Courts and Alleys contained in each of theſe. And laſtly, Publick Buildings, and Things worthy Remark.

Ludgate hill.

The new Canal.

Ludgate hill cometh down from Ludgate, and runneth Weſtwards to Fleetſtreet; from which it is ſevered by a handſome large Stone Bridge, the breadth of the Street; which gives a paſſage over the new Canal, where Fleet Ditch was. Which ſince the Fire of London, was made ſo deep and wide, cut from Holbourn Bridge to the Mouth of the River of Thames, that it receiveth the Tides, and bringeth up Barges and Lighters to Holbourn Bridge; a great Conveniency to the Inhabitants thereabouts. Of this more hath been ſpoken in the firſt Book, of Brooks and Rivers.]

Fleetſtreet.

This Street, as alſo Fleetſtreet (into which it falls) and ſo to Temple Bar, is a great Thorowfare for Coaches, Carts, Horſe and Foot Paſſengers; being the great Way from London to Weſtminſter, and the adjacent Parts. Both theſe Streets are therefore very ſpacious, graced with good Buildings of the firſt Rate, and well inhabited by Shopkeepers of the beſt Trades; as Woolen Drapers, Linnen Drapers, Grocers, Sadlers, Upholſters, Bookſellers, and drive a very conſiderable Trade. A great part whereof comes from the Inns of Court and Chancery, which are planted hereabouts. And for the Accommodation of this great reſort of People, here are divers noted Coffee Houſes and Taverns: Of which laſt there be little leſs than a Score: Viz. beginning at Temple Bar. The Three Tuns, the Queens Head, the Old Devil, the Young Devil, the Kings Head, the Fountain, the Bull Head, the Temple, the Crown, the Ship, the Rummer, the Horn, the Green Dragon, the Globe, the Greyhound; the Kings Arms, the Sun, the Caſtle, which hath a large Sign, and the Buſh and Hoop curiouſly gilt; the Three Tuns, and the George, which is a very large Houſe, with a curious Front and Sign, with neat Iron Work to ſupport it.

Shear lane.
Bell Yard.
Flying horſe Court.
Clifford's Inn lane, and Clifford's Inn.

To proceed to the Alleys, Courts, and Paſſages in Fleetſtreet. And firſt, on the North ſide is Shear lane, or Shire lane. This Lane gives paſſage into Little Lincoln's Inn Fields, formerly called Fickquet's Field; but this Lane being without the Freedom, is ſpoken of under St. Clement's Pariſh. The like is Bell Yard, near adjoining, except ſome ſmall part on the Eaſt ſide, againſt Crown Court, in Chancery lane; which may be rather termed a Street, for its fairneſs and good Buildings: But there being but a little within the City Liberty, I ſhall not ſpeak of it here, but in the Rolls Liberty, in which is the greateſt Part. Flying horſe Court, but ſmall, with a Freeſtone Pavement; here is kept the Marſhalſea's Office, for the making out Writs, &c. Clifford's Inn lane, hath on the Weſt ſide Houſes, and on the Eaſt ſide St. Dunſtane's Church; it leadeth into Clifford's Inn, one of the Inns of Chancery. Which Place, of late Years, is much inlarged in new Buildings, in the Garden; which is a pretty airy Place, and neatly kept; the Garden being ſevered in from the other part or paſſage, with a Palliſado Pail, with Rows of Lime Trees ſet round the Graſs Plats, and Gravel Walks. It hath the Conveniency of two Doors, the one into Serjeants Inn in Chancery lane, and the other into Fetter lane. The Hall yet wants new building.

St. Dunſtan's Church in the Weſt.

Adjoining to Clifford's Inn lane, and fronting Fleetſtreet, is St. Dunſtane's Church in the Weſt, ſo called to diſtinguiſh it from St. Dunſtane's in the Eaſt. It is a good handſome Freeſtone Building, with a fair Dial hanging over into the Street. And on the ſide of the Church, in a handſome Frame of Architecture, are placed, in a ſtanding Poſture, two Savages, or Hercules, with Clubs erect; which quarterly ſtrike on two Bells hanging there.

The Inſide of the Church is neatly kept, and hath a pair of Organs uſed in Divine Service on Sundays; but not at the Prayers, which are every Day.

This Church received ſome Damage by the great Fire, but was ſoon Repaired at the Charges of the Pariſh.

Hen and Chicken Court. Flower de lis Court.

Adjoining to St. Dunſtan's Church, Eaſtwards, is a ſmall Place of two Houſes, which bears the Name of Hen and Chicken Court. And near unto this Court, Fetter lane falleth into Fleetſtreet. Flower de lyz Court, or rather Alley, being long, narrow and ordinary, with a Freeſtone Pavement; hath three Out-lets, two into Fetter lane, and another into Three Leg Alley. This Court is of very ſmall Repute, being but meanly inhabited; the Buildings are on the Eaſt ſide, the Weſt being the back Yards to the Houſes in Fetter lane. It is of ſome Note for the Mouſetrap Houſe, being the Receptacle for leud Perſons.

Two Crane Court.

Two Crane Court, a very handſome open Place, with a Freeſtone Pavement, and graced with good Buildings, well inhabited by Perſons of Repute; the front Houſe being larger than the reſt, and aſcended up by large Stone Steps, late inhabited by Dr. Edward Brown, an eminent Phyſician. Here is kept the Muſæum of the Royal Society.

Red Lion Court. Johnſon's Court. Dunſtan's Court. Bolt Court. Three King Court. Hind Court. Wine Office Court. Kings head Court. St. Brides Court. Peterborough Court. Racket Court. Popingey Alley. Black horſe Alley.

Red Lion Court, good and large, with a Freeſtone Pavement; hath a paſſage into Weſt Harding ſtreet, in Goldſmiths Rents. Johnſon's Court, hath but a narrow entrance, but opens into a ſquare Court, with a Freeſtone Pavement, and good Houſes, well inhabited. Out of this Court is another, which bears the ſame Name, but ſmaller, with one Row of Houſes, with pretty Gardens behind them. Dunſtans Court, hath a narrow Entrance, but towards the upper end opens into two Parts, and both indifferent, as to Houſes and Inhabitants. Bolt Court, very good and open, with a Freeſtone Pavement; hath good Houſes, well inhabited. Three King Court, but ſmall, having two or three Houſes. Hind Court, large, and broad at the upper end, where the Houſes are much better built and inhabited; and to the whole is a very good Freeſtone Pavement, cleanly kept. Wine Office Court, long, with a Freeſtone Pavement; hath good Houſes on the Weſt ſide, the Eaſt ſide having a dead Wall, where there is a paſſage into White horſe Court; and at the upper end hath another paſſage into Kings head Court, which leadeth into Shoe lane, on the back ſide of Gunpowder Alley. White horſe Inn, large, and of good Reſort for Coaches and Horſes, and hath ſome private Houſes in it. St. Bride's Court, but ſmall. Peterborough Court, indifferent broad at the upper end, with a Freeſtone Pavement, and well inhabited. Racket Court, ſeated betwixt Shoe lane and the Ditch ſide, a very ſpacious and handſome Place, with good Houſes, well inhabited; the front Houſe takes up the breadth of the Court, and is the Dwelling of Dr. Drew, a noted Phyſician. Popingey Alley, hath an open paſſage, but is very ordinarily inhabited by Victuallers, Hatters, &c. Out of this Place, is a paſſage into Harp Alley, which leads to Fleet Ditch. Black horſe Alley, ordinary, and naſtily kept. Out of this Alley is a paſſage to Fleet Ditch.

Bell Savage Inn.

Beyond Fleet Bridge, on the North ſide, and on Ludgate hill, is Bell Savage Inn, very large, and fit to entertain a great many Coaches and Horſes; and hath a very good Trade, eſpecially for Stage Coaches. The firſt Yard is an open Square, with ſeveral private Houſes in it: The inner Yard, which is much larger, being taken up in Stabling.

Flower de lis Court. Sword and Buckler Court. Half Moon Court.

Flower de lys Court, long and ordinary; having at the upper end a paſſage into this Inn. Sword and Buckler Court, alſo but ordinary; hath a paſſage into Flower de lis Court. Adjoining to Ludgate, is Half Moon Court, pretty large, but none of the beſt; at the Entrance is a Coffee Houſe of a good Trade.

Oxenden Corner. Dolphin Court. Goat Alley. Hanging Sword Alley and Court. White Lion Court. Bolt and Tun Inn. Boars head Court. Ram Alley. Mitre Court. Faulcon Court. Hercules Pillars Alley.

On the South ſide of Ludgate hill, is Oxenden Corner, over againſt the Old Baily, pretty well built and inhabited. Dolphin Court, but ſmall, having but one Houſe, which is an Ale Houſe, and hath the Sign of the Dolphin. Goat Alley, indifferent good, with a Freeſtone Pavement. Hanging Sword Alley, ſo called from a Houſe of that Name; which is but ordinary, and leadeth into a Court ſo called, which hath two paſſages into Water lane, near adjoining. White Lion Court, long, narrow, and ordinary, with a dark Entrance. Bolt and Tun Inn, of a great Reſort for Coaches and Horſes, eſpecially in the Term time. This Inn hath a back Gate into Water lane. In the paſſage to it are ſeveral Dwelling Houſes. Boars head Court, but ordinary; hath a paſſage into Bolt and Tun Inn. Ram Alley, taken up by Publick Houſes; a Place of no great Reputation, as being a kind of privileged Place for Debtors, before the late Act of Parliament for taking them away. It hath a paſſage into the Temple, and into Serjeants Inn in Fleetſtreet. Mitre Court, a pretty open Place, with a Freeſtone Pavement, down into the Temple, by Steps; a Place much taken up by Publick Houſes: And this Place did pretend the like Privileges as Ram Alley, before the ſaid Act. Faulcon Court, a good open Place, with a Freeſtone Pavement at the upper end, where the Crown Tavern is. Hercules Pillars Alley, but narrow, and altogether inhabited by ſuch as keep Publick Houſes for Entertainment, for which it is of Note.

Serjeants Inn.

Serjeants Inn, ſo called, for that divers of the Judges, and Serjeants at Law, have here their Chambers or Appartments, which are very good Brick Buildings, as it were Houſes to themſelves; and their Hall where they eat in Commons, is a good large Room, aſcended up by ſeveral Freeſtone Steps. Theſe Chambers, with the Hall, incompaſs a fine large ſquare Court. This Inn, as it were, joineth to the Temple, into which it hath a paſſage; but the chief Entrance into this Inn, is out of Fleetſtreet, where there be great Gates, and their Porter to wait to open them, for Coaches to paſs in. This Inn was wholly deſtroyed by the late Fire in London; but rebuilt in a more fair, ſubſtantial, and uniform Manner, as now it is.

Serjeants Inn in Chancery lane.

There is another Inn for the Judges and Serjeants, which is in Chancery lane; which being a very old and decayed Building in general, the Front Part of late is rebuilt; and ſtanding in Chancery lane, Shops are let out to Tradeſmen. The Hall hath been ſome time Rebuilt; which is large and good, being aſcended up by Stone Steps. And in time the whole Inn muſt be Rebuilt.

The Temples.

But to return to Fleetſtreet. On the South Weſt ſide are the Temples. Theſe two Temples, called, the Inner and Middle, although the Buildings before the great Fire were for the greateſt part of Timber, yet wholly eſcaped the general Deſolation. But ſince that time, they have felt two great Fires, and both beginning within the Confines of the Houſes; which deſtroyed almoſt all the Offices and Lodgings in the ſeveral Courts; but the Church, and both the Halls eſcaped. Since which Fires, the Property of ſome of the Courts, and moſt of the Buildings, have been altered, as to their former Poſition. But again Rebuilt in a moſt beautiful uniform Manner, very lofty, and more ſubſtantial and convenient than before, and all of Brick. Theſe two Temples take up a large Tract of Ground backwards, having no viſible Front to the Street, only the two Gates at the entrance into the Middle Temple lane, leading to the Inner Temple. In both which are Chambers for the Students in the Law. And backwards they are furniſhed with divers large and fair Courts, garniſhed with lofty Buildings, all of Brick, and uniform: Viz. Exchequer Court, Tamfield Court, Cloyſters Court, Hare Court, Vine Court, Figtree Court, Elme Court, Pump Court, Middle Temple Hall Court, Brick Court, and Eſſex Court. And in theſe Courts are kept divers Offices belonging to the Crown, with others belonging to the Law: As the Exchequer Office, the Crown Office, the Firſt Fruits Office, the Attorney and Solicitor Generals Office, two of the Prothonotaries Office, the King's Bench Office, &c.

and

The Church.

Both Inns have a diſtinct Government; but for Divine Service they make uſe of one Place, viz. the Temple Church; and each Society have their Side in the Church; and the Charges of the Church is defrayed betwixt them, as well for the Maintenance of the Maſter, Reader, and Clerk, as for the Reparations of the Church; in which there is a moſt ſtately pair of Organs.

Their Halls and Gardens.

The Inner Temple is within this Ward, but the Middle Temple is without it. Each of theſe Temples have their Halls, of which the Middle is the largeſt and moſt ſtately. And both Houſes have their Gardens fronting the River of Thames, which are very well kept, with delightful Walks; the Inner Temple Garden being the largeſt, the beſt, and moſt reſorted unto. The Buildings in both Houſes that front the Thames, as lying open and airy, and enjoying a delightful Proſpect into Surrey, are of the moſt Eſteem.

Kings Bench Walk.

The Place called the King's Bench Walks, is now made all Level, neatly Gravelled, and kept in good Order; and very commodious for the Attorneys, and others concerned in the Law, do meet every Afternoon in the Term time, about their Law Concerns, for their Clients.

And at the lower end of this Walk, next the Thames, is built a large Office, called the King's Bench Office, for the keeping of the Records of the Court, in caſe of Fire: This Office ſtanding apart, and no Buildings for Lodgings over it, but a Platform, Leaded.

At the lower end of the Middle Temple lane, is a large and handſome pair of Stairs of Freeſtone, for the taking Water at, much reſorted unto.

And becauſe the Temple hath a beautiful Proſpect, and a ſtately Front towards the Thames, here is added a Figure of it, as it appears to the Eye upon the ſaid River, or on the further Bank of the River, in Surrey.

Theſe Temples have paſſages into the White Friers, by two Gates; into Fleetſtreet, through Mitre Court, Ram Alley, and Serjeants Inn; into Eſſex Street, and into the Strand, through the Palſgraves head Court; beſides the two large Gates in the two Temple lanes.

Temple Bar.

Temple Bar, is the Place where the Freedom of the City of London, and the Liberty of the City of Weſtminſter doth part: Which Separation was antiently only Poſts, Rails, and a Chain; ſuch as now are at Holbourn, Smithfield, and White Chappel Bars. Afterwards there was a Houſe of Timber erected croſs the Street, with a narrow Gate-way, and an Entry on the South ſide of it, under the Houſe. But ſince the great Fire, there is erected a ſtately Gate, with two Poſterns, on each ſide, for the Convenience of Foot Paſſengers; with ſtrong Gates to ſhut up in the Nights, and always good ſtore of Watchmen, the better to prevent Danger.

This Gate is built all of Portland Stone, of Ruſtick Work below, and of the Order. Over the Gate-way, on the Eaſt ſide, fronting the City of London, in two Nitches, are the Effigies, in Stone, of Queen Elizabeth, and King James I. very curiouſly Carved, and the King's Arms over the Key Stone of the Gate; the Supporters being at a diſtance over the Ruſtick Work.

And on the Weſt ſide, fronting the City of Weſtminſter, in two Nitches, are the like Figures of King Charles I. and King Charles II. in Roman Habit. Through this Gate are two Paſſages for Foot Paſſengers: One on the South, over which is engraven, Erected, Sir Samuel Starling being Maior. And another on the North, over which is engraven, Continued, Sir Richard Ford, Maior. Finiſhed, Sir George Waterman, Maior.

White Friers.

Upon the diſſolution of the Priory of the White Friers, the Church and Buildings in proceſs of Time became ruinous, and were pulled down. Afterwards converted into Buildings, and now containeth ſeveral Courts, Lanes, and Alleys: As Dogwel Court, Eſſex Court, Aſhen Tree Court, Watermans lane, as leading to the River of Thames, where there is a pair of Stairs to take Water at; all Places of ordinary Account; beſides the long turning Paſſage out of Fleetſtreet, into the lower end of Water lane, which runneth by the back ſide of the Temple Buildings; where there are two Doors for a paſſage into the Temple.

Dogwel Court.

Aſhen Tree Court.
Watermans lane.

This Place was formerly, ſince its building into Houſes, inhabited by Gentry; but ſome of the Inhabitants taking upon them to protect Perſons from Arreſts, upon a pretended Privilege belonging to the Place, the Gentry left it, and it became a Sanctuary unto the Inhabitants, which they kept up by Force, againſt Law and Juſtice: So that it was ſufficiently crowded with ſuch diſabled and looſe kind of Lodgers. But however, upon a great Concern of Debt, the Sheriff, with the poſſe Comitatus, forced his way in, to make a Search; and yet to little purpoſe: For the time of the Sheriff's coming not being concealed, and they having notice thereof, took flight, either to the Mint in Southwark, another ſuch Place, or ſome other private Place, until the hurly burly was over, and then they returned. But of late the Parliament taking this great Abuſe into their Conſideration, they made an Act to put down all ſuch pretended Privileged Places, upon Penalties; yet not ſo well obſerved as it ought to be.

Watce lane.

Water lane ſevereth White Friers from Saliſbury Court. It is a good broad and ſtreight Street, which cometh out of Fleetſtreet, and runneth down to the Thames, where there is one of the City Lay-ſtalls, for the Soil of the Streets; which is taken from thence by Barges and Dung Boats, and made uſe of by Gardiners and Farmers, for the manuring their Grounds. This Lane is better built than inhabited, by reaſon of its being ſo peſtered with Carts to the Lay-ſtall and Wharfs, for Wood, Coals, &c. lying by the Water ſide, at the bottom of this Lane; as alſo to White Friers, into which it hath an open paſſage; as likewiſe another into Saliſbury Court. In this Lane

Black Lion Inn.

Brittain's Alley.

Dove Court.

Lane is the Black Lion Inn, of pretty good Reſort; which hath a paſſage by Sufferance into Dogwel Court in the Friers. On the Weſt ſide of this Lane is Brittain's Alley, as alſo Dove Court, both ordinary Places, and hath paſſage into the Friers.

Dorſet, or Salisbury Court.

Dorſet street.

Dorſet Court, commonly called Salisbury Court. Of late Years the ſaid Court, and the large Houſe built there, and inhabited by the Earls of Dorſet, was pulled down, and converted into Buildings; as was the Garden and Wilderneſs; there being a handſome well built Street, which comes out of Fleetſtreet, called Dorſet ſtreet, and runneth Southwards to the River of Thames; where there is a fair Bridge, and Stairs of Freeſtone, for the taking Water at; where many Watermen ply.

The Play Houſe.

Near unto which Place, lately ſtood the Theatre or Play Houſe; a neat Building, having a curious Front next the Thames, with an open Place for the reception of Coaches. On the other ſide is a large Wood Yard Wharf, belonging to the Company of Carpenters.

Blue Ball Court.

Half paved Court.

Dorſet Court.

Sugar loaf Court.

The Wilderneſs.

Fiſher's Alley.

Crown Alley.

This Street on the Weſt ſide, paſſing down to the Thames, is a handſome, airy, open Square, all taken up with good Buildings, the beſt inhabited of any in the Court: For that part towards the Thames, as alſo the Wilderneſs, with the ſmall Courts, are not to be much boaſted of. In this Place are theſe Courts and Places of Name: Viz. Blue Ball Court, an indifferent good Place, with a Freeſtone Pavement. Half paved Court, but ordinary. Dorſet Court, a ſmall Place, handſomely built, and indifferently well inhabited. Sugar loaf Court, very ſmall and ordinary. The Wilderneſs, ſo called, as being built in that part of the Garden where the Wilderneſs was; a noted Place for leud Houſes. Fiſher's Alley, alſo but ordinary, hath a paſſage into Water lane. Near unto this Alley is George Yard, but mean. And Crown Alley, very inconſiderable, hath a paſſage into Tuder ſtreet, and ſo to the Ditch ſide.

This Dorſet, or Salisbury Court, doth claim a peculiar Liberty to it ſelf, and to be exempt from the City Government; and the Inhabitants will not admit of the City Officers to make any Arreſt there. But how far this Privilege reacheth, I ſhall not take upon me to determine: But ſo it is, that it was much reſorted unto by ſuch as there retired from their Creditors, during the time that ſuch Places were not put down, as now they are. Out of Dorſet Court, is a paved Freeſtone paſſage into St. Bridgets the Pariſh Church.

Bride lane.

Bride lane cometh out of Fleetſtreet by St. Bridget's Churchyard; which, with a turning paſſage by Bridewel and the Ditch ſide, falleth down to Woodmongers Wharfs, by the Thames. This Lane is of Note for the many Hatters there inhabiting. It took its Name from St. Bridget's Church, unto which there is a paſſage up Stone Steps.

St. Bridgets Church.

This Church of St. Bridget, or St. Brides, is large, and well built, ſince the great Fire, when it was wholly deſtroyed. In the Steeple are ten Bells, which are eſteemed as tunable as any in the City. In the Church is a pair of Organs. It was rebuilt out of the Monies raiſed by the Impoſition on Coals, as to the outward Structure; but the Pews, Galleries, and inſide Work, was performed at the Charges of the Pariſhioners and Benefactors.

Bridewel.

Bridewel, ſeated on the Weſt ſide of Fleet Ditch, a large Building of Brick, incloſing a ſpacious Court. In this Building is a curious Chappel, made uſe of by the Inhabitants of the Precinct, for the Worſhip of God; and by the Care of the Preſident and Governours, hath been well kept.

King Tuder's ſtreet.

King Edward's ſtreet.

Green's Rents.

Bear Alley.

Ditch ſide, and Canal.

This Chappel was much damnified by the general Fire, but is now beautifully reſtored to its priſtine Splendor. To this Precinct belong theſe Places, King Tudor's ſtreet, King Edward's ſtreet, Water ſtreet, Green's Rents, Bear Alley, good part of the Row of Houſes by the Ditch ſide, St. Bride's lane, &c.

Theſe Streets of King Tuder, King Edward, and Water ſtreet, are on the back ſide of Bridewel, and have a paſſage into Salisbury Court, through Crown Alley; all Places inhabited by private People, and of none of the meaneſt Rank. One Row which fronts the Wood Yard, and regards the Thames, conſiſts of good Buildings. Green's Rents, falleth into St. Brides lane, and is but mean; as is Bear Alley.

The Ditch ſide, called Fleet Ditch, is a ſpacious Place, with very good Buildings on both ſides of the Canal, ſo made ſince the Fire of London; and very commodious for Barges and Lighters, to bring up Coals, and other Loading, as far as Holborn Bridge; and on both ſides, a broad paſſage for Carts, to the Wharfs next the Thames. This Canal is railed in for fear of danger of Peoples falling into it. The part of this Canal, on the South ſide, next the Thames, hath the Eaſt ſide in the Ward of Faringdon within: But all the reſt, down to Holbourn Bridge, on both Sides, is in this Ward. The Weſt ſide of the Part next to Holbourn, is the beſt inhabited; and of late, much taken up by Upholſters, and others that ſell ſecond hand Goods; for which it is of Note. The Eaſt ſide of that Part from Fleet Bridge to the Thames, hath the beſt Houſes, and beſt inhabited. On the Weſt ſide, from Fleet Bridge to Holbourn Bridge, are ſeveral ſmall Allies, which lead up to Shoe lane, where they ſhall be ſpoken of. On the Eaſt ſide is the Fleet Priſon, which I ſhall anon ſpeak of.

Turmil Brook.

In antient Times (as you may read in the Chapter of the antient Brooks, Rivers, &c. of Freſh Water, ſerving this City) there was a Brook called Turmil Brook, which ran under Holbourn and Fleet Bridges, into the Thames. But this Brook did continually coſt much Money in the keeping it clean, and all to little purpoſe; for what by Peoples making incroachments upon the Banks, and their caſting of the Soil into the Stream, it was almoſt filled up. And of late Years, inſtead of a Brook or River, it was known only by the Names of Bridewel Ditch, and Fleet Ditch; near unto which two Places were two Wooden Bridges over it, for Foot Paſſengers. And in this Condition it continued, until all the ſmall Tenements, Sheds, and Lay-ſtalls on the Banks of it, were burnt down in the general Fire of London. After which, Anno viceſſimo ſecundo Car. II. in the Act for Rebuilding of the City, it was Enacted:

The Act to make Fleet Ditch Navigable.

Leiborn.

> ‘ The Channel of Bridewel Dock: From the > ‘ Channel of the River of Thames to Holbourn
> ‘ Bridge, ſhall be ſunk to a ſufficient Level, > ‘ whereby to make it Navigable; and that
> ‘ the Ground to be ſet out for the Breadth of
> ‘ the ſaid Channel and of the Wharfs on each > ‘ ſide thereof, ſhall not be leſs in Breadth > ‘ than One Hundred Foot; nor ſhall exceed > ‘ One hundred and Twenty Foot. And that > ‘ all the Wharf Ground on each ſide of the > ‘ ſaid River, ſhall lie open and at large (Crains
> ‘ and Stairs only excepted) without any Di-
> ‘ viſion or Separation; and each Perſon's Pro> ‘ priety therein, to be diſtinguiſhed only by

‘ Denter-Stones in the Pavement thereof.—— And that all Buildings that ſhall hereafter immediately border upon each ſide of the ſaid Wharfs, ſhall front and be placed in the Line that ſhall be ſet out for the Bounds of the Wharfs from the Channel.—— And that the ſaid Buildings ſhall be of the Second Rate of Buildings, mentioned in the Act for Rebuilding of the City. —— And that no Lighter, Boat, or Veſſel, ſhall lie before any of the ſaid Wharfs or Keys, longer than ſhall be neceſſary for the Lading or Unlading of Goods, without the Conſent or Permiſſion of the Wharfingers or Proprietors thereof. —— And that it ſhall and may be lawful for any Perſon or Perſons to land any Goods and Merchandizes at any of the ſaid Wharfs or Keys, within this new Channel or River. For Wharfage or Cranage whereof, every Proprietor, Wharffinger, or other Perſon concerned, ſhall demand and receive ſuch Rates (and no other) for the ſame, as ſhall from time to time be ſet and appointed by his Majeſty, with the Advice of his Privy Council. And that certain reaſonable Rates for Tolls, and other Profits ariſing by the Navigation of the ſaid Channel, ſhall be ſet and appointed by the Lord Maior and Court of Aldermen, (with approbation of two of the Barons of the Exchequer.) And the ſame Tolls and Profits, veſted in the Maior, Communalty, and Citizens of the City of London, for preſervation of the ſaid Navigation-Sluices, and other accidental Charges thereof.

‘ And for the carrying on of this Work, it was enacted and declared, That the ſinking and making the ſaid Channel of Bridewel Dock and Fleet Ditch, from the Thames to Holbourn Bridge, and the Sluices for the better Navigation thereof, and the Raiſing and Sinking other Wharfs or Keys, on each ſide of the ſaid Bridewel Dock and Fleet Ditch, (whereby to bring the ſame to a Level) ſhall be born and firſt defrayed, by the Maior, and Commonalty, and Citizens of London, out of the Fourth Part of the Impoſition to be raiſed on Coals, by Vertue of this Act. And in the next Place, after the Charge before mentioned ſhall be born out of the ſaid Fourth Part, Satisfaction ſhall be made out of the ſaid Fourth Part, to the Proprietors whoſe Ground ſhall be laid open, or from whom any Ground hath been, or ſhall be taken, for the ſaid Publick Uſe.

By Virtue of this Act of Parliament, the Work of making this Channel Navigable, began in the Year 1668. and was finiſhed in November, 1673. It contains in length, from South at the Thames, to North at Holbourn Bridge, Two Thouſand and One Hundred Feet. It is in breadth Forty Feet; ſo that two Lighters may meet, and paſs each other in any part of it. It is Wharfed on both ſides with Stone and Brick, laid with Tarras. It hath a ſtrong Campſhot all along on both ſides, over the Brick Wharfing, with Land Ties in ſeveral Places. It hath Rails of Oak, Breaſt high, above the Campſhot, to prevent Dangers that might happen in the Night Seaſon. It hath five Foot Water at the Head thereof, at Holbourn Bridge; and that at a Five a Clock Tide, (which is the ſlackeſt of all high Tides;) but at Spring, and other Nepe Tides, it hath much more Water. The Wharfs on each ſide of this Channel, are Thirty five Foot broad, with fair Buildings.

The whole Charge of Sinking, Clearing, and Levelling; Wharfing, Planking, and Piling; Paving, Poſting, and Railing; amounted in all to Twenty ſeven Thouſand, Seven Hundred, and Seventy ſeven Pounds; beſides what was paid to the ſeveral Proprietors whoſe Grounds were taken, or may be, for the Inlargement of the Wharfs and Keys, in either ſide of the Channel.

Bridges over the Canal.

Over this Canal there are four Bridges, all of ſolid Portland Stone; two of them, viz. Fleet and Holbourn Bridges, were of Stone before the Fire of London; but now much inlarged and beautified with Iron Grates, and carved Works in Stone. The other two, viz. one againſt Bridewel, and the other againſt Fleet lane, were, before the Fire, only of Timber. (For the Channel in theſe Places was then very narrow) but now they are two fair Bridges, ſtanding upon two Stone Arches, over the River; having Steps to aſcend and deſcend on either ſide; and a half Pace over the Arches, all of Purbeck and Portland Stone. The making of which were very chargeable; and the Charge paid out of the Money raiſed by the Impoſition laid upon Coals, by Vertue of the ſaid Act of Parliament.

Fleet Priſon.

The Fleet Priſon is ſeated on the Eaſt ſide of the Canal; being large, and reckoned the beſt Priſon of any in this City, for good Rooms, and other Conveniencies, the benefit of an open Yard and Garden, incloſed with a very high Wall and Fence. The Priſon Keeper is called the Warden of the Fleet. It belongs to the Court of Common Pleas. To this Priſon, Perſons are committed for contempt of Orders, &c. in the High Court of Chancery; or upon Debt, when they by a Writ of Habeas Corpus remove themſelves thither, from another Priſon. And as a further Perquiſite to the Warden, beſides his Fees from the Priſoners for turning the Key, Chamber Rent, &c. which is very conſiderably profitable, he hath the Rents and Profits of the Shops in Weſtminſter Hall.

The Rules of the Fleet Priſon.

To this Priſon there have been, ſome Years ſince, granted Rules; which are all the North ſide of Ludgate hill, the Weſt ſide of the Old Baily, unto Fleet lane, and down the ſame on the South ſide; and ſo the Eaſt ſide of the Row of Houſes next the Fleet, taking in all the Courts and Allies within the ſaid Limits.

This Fleet Priſon was conſumed in the Fire of London; and during the time of the Rebuilding, the Priſoners that were therein at that time, were removed to Ceroon Houſe in South-Lambeth, which was made into a Priſon; and upon the finiſhing of this Place, the Priſoners were brought back; and ever ſince it hath continued as a Priſon.

Fleet Priſon.

On the Eaſt ſide of the Fleet Ditch, from this Priſon, to Holbourn Bridge, are theſe Places. Fleet lane, which cometh down from the Old Baily, over againſt the Seſſions Houſe, and falleth into the Ditch ſide, over againſt the Bridge; a Place of no great Account for Buildings or Inhabitants. In this Lane are ſeveral ſmall Courts, as Cheſhire Rents, Well Yard, Harrow Court, and Cock Alley, all Places but of mean Account.

Cheſhire Rents.
Well Yard.
Harrow Court.
Cock Alley.

Seacoal lane.

On the North ſide is Seacoal lane. This Lane is very ordinary, both as to Houſes and Inhabitants. Out of this Lane is a paſſage to Snow hill, another into Green Arbour, and a third into Biſhops Court; the two laſt aſcended up by a great many Steps, or a pair of Stairs, made through London Wall; but having their chief Entrance out of the Little Old Baily, ſhall

George Alley.
Bear Alley.
Little Bear Alley.
Gooſe Alley.
Ford's Rents.

ſhall be there taken Notice of. On the Weſt ſide of this Lane are theſe Allies, which fall into the Ditch ſide; viz. George Alley or Yard, an open Place, and unbuilt, except the George Brewhouſe, and the end next this Lane, and that is but ordinary. Bear Alley, an indifferent open Place, and reaſonably built and inhabited. On the South ſide of this Alley, is another ſmall one, called Little Bear Alley, very ordinary. Gooſe Alley, indifferent good, but narrow. And againſt this Alley is a ſmall Place, called Ford's Rents.

Newcaſtle ſtreet.

Newcaſtle ſtreet, comes out of Seacoal lane, and falls into the Ditch ſide; a good open handſome Place, pretty well built.

Turnagain lane.
Crown Court.
Queens head Court.

Turnagain lane, hath a paſſage out of the Town ditch into Snow hill; a pretty handſome Place, reaſonably well built. At the end next to Snow hill, on the North ſide, is a Timber Yard. Crown Court, very ſmall. And on the South ſide is Queens head Court, which is pretty good.

Old Baily.
Juſtice Hall.

The Old Baily, of which there is the Great and the Little. The Great is an open Street, with good built Houſes; and well inhabited by Tradeſmen, and others; being a Place of good Reſort, eſpecially during the times of the Seſſions or Goal Delivery of the Malefactors. Which Seſſions is kept nine or ten times every Year, at Juſtice Hall, commonly called the Seſſions Houſe; as well for the City and Liberty thereof, as for the County of Middleſex.

This Juſtice Hall, is a fair and ſtately Building, very commodious for that Affair; having large Galleries on both ſides or ends, for the reception of Spectators. The Court Room being advanced by Stone Steps from the Ground, with Rails and Baniſters incloſed from the Yard before it. And the Bail Dock, which fronts the Court, where the Priſoners are kept until brought to their Trials, is alſo incloſed. Over the Court Room is a ſtately Dining Room, ſuſtained by ten Stone Pillars; and over it a Platform leaded, with Rails and Baniſters. There be fair Lodging Rooms, and other Conveniencies, on either ſide of the Court. It ſtandeth backwards, ſo that it hath no Front towards the Street, only the Gateway leading into the Yard before the Houſe, which is ſpacious. It coſt above 6000 l. the building. And in this Place the Lord Maior, Recorder, the Aldermen, and Juſtices of the Peace for the County of Middleſex, do ſit, and keep his Majeſty's Seſſions of Oyer and Terminer, for the Trial of all Malefactors, for Treaſon, Murder, Felonies, Burglaries, and all other Riots and Offences, committed within the City of London and County of Middleſex.

The Seſſions holden nine or ten times a Year.

This Court or Seſſions, is holden, moſt commonly, ſome Days before, and after, every one of the four Terms; alſo once in the time of Lent, and once in the long Vacation, about Bartholomewtide.

Upon thoſe Days which the Seſſions are held, which commonly laſts three Days, every Morning before the Court ſits, the Priſoners to be tried, are brought from Newgate, the Goal for ſuch Offenders, to this Place; where there are two Places provided for them to be kept in, until they are called to their Trials; the one is for the Men, and the other for the Women. And at Night, when the Court breaks up or adjourns to another Day, the Priſoners are returned back to Newgate, under the Conduct of the Serjeants and their Yeomen, who are the Sheriffs Officers, and take their turns to attend the Court for that purpoſe.

Book III.

The Lord Maior is chief Judge of this Court, but aſſiſted by the Recorder of the City, and oft times the Lord Chief Juſtice of the King's Bench, and ſome other of the Judges, upon Matters of High Treaſon.

Book V. Ch.

Concerning what more may be ſaid concerning Trials, I refer the Reader to the Chapter of the Courts of Judicature.

Ball's Court.
Red Croſs Court.
Ship Court.
Prideaux Court.
Black and White Court.
Checker Yard.

The Eaſt ſide of the Old Baily runneth down by the City Wall, upon the Ditch, called Houndſditch, from Ludgate to Newgate. About the middle of the great Street, on this ſide, is Ball's Court, which is but ſmall. Alſo Red Croſs Court, which is pretty good. On the Weſt ſide of this Street of the Old Baily, from the corner of Ludgate hill, to Fleet lane, are theſe Places: Viz. Ship Court, but ſmall. Prideaux Court, large, with good Houſes on the Weſt ſide, having an entrance into it, fit for Coach or Cart. Black and White Court, a good large and open Place, with handſome Buildings, at the upper end of which is Checker Yard, taken up for Stablings and Coach Houſes. Out of this Court is a paſſage into Fleet lane.

Little Old Baily.
Deans Court.
Brown's Court.
Ellis Court.
Biſhops Court.
Green Arbour.
Angel Court.
The Farthing Office.
St Dunſtan's Court.

Northwards from Fleet lane, and the Seſſions Houſe, there is a large Pile of Buildings, like unto a Wedge, being broad in Newgate ſtreet, and ſo running taper wiſe almoſt to a Point, againſt the Seſſions Houſe, and formeth two Streets; that on the Weſt ſide bearing the Name of the Little Old Baily: In which are theſe Places of Name. Viz. Deans Court, long and narrow, with a Freeſtone Pavement. Brown's Court, long, narrow, and ordinary. Ellis Court, pretty large, well built and inhabited, having a Freeſtone Pavement, and Rows of Trees before the Houſes; which is very Ornamental to the Court in Summer. Biſhops Court, a good large Place, pretty well inhabited; and hath a paſſage down Steps into Seacoal lane. Green Arbour; at the upper end is a very good Square, with reaſonable good Houſes, and Inhabitants anſwerable. Out of this Court is alſo a paſſage down Steps into Seacoal lane. And out of this Court is another paſſage into Angel Court, ſeated on Snow hill, againſt the Sarazen's head Inn; being a very handſome Place, having at the upper end a very good large Houſe, with a Garden before it; late made uſe of for the Farthing Office. St. Dunſtan's Court, ſeated betwixt Biſhops Court and Ellis Court.

Chancery lane.
Places and Offices relating to the Law, kept here.
Serjeants Inn.
Crown Court.

Now back to the Weſt Part of Fleetſtreet, on the North ſide, is Chancery lane, a Street of a very great Reſort, and well inhabited by Tradeſmen, in the Part next Fleetſtreet; and in that Part next to Holbourn, (into which it falleth) by Lawyers, and thoſe depending on them. And the rather, for that in this Lane is Lincoln's Inn, Serjeants Inn, the Rolls, the Examiners Office within the Rolls Yard, the Six Clerks Office, (to which belong Twelve Maſters in Chancery, and Six Clerks,) Symond's Inn, where the Regiſter's Office for the Court of Chancery is kept; the Curſitors Office, the Office for the Maſters in Chancery, &c. All which Places are out of the City Liberty, except Serjeants Inn, which is an antient Building, and very much decayed. Oppoſite to this Inn is Crown Court, a pretty ſquare Place, but the Buildings old. The City Liberty goeth not much further.

Fetter lane.

Next on this North ſide, is Fetter lane. For the generality, the Houſes here are good, and well inhabited. It runneth Northwards from Fleetſtreet into Holbourn: Of this Lane the middle Part is the beſt. In this Lane are theſe Places: Bond's Stables, a large Yard, with

Red Hart Inn.
Stone Court.
Three Leg Alley.
Eaſt Harding ſtreet.
Nevil's Alley.
Churchyard Alley.
Magpie Yard and Inn.
Dean ſtreet.
Plough Yard.
Bewit's Court.
Horſeſhoe Alley.
White horſe Inn.
Kings head Court.
Goldſmiths Rents.
New Court.
Goldſmiths Court.
Dean ſtreet.
New ſtreet.
Little New ſtreet.

ſome Houſes in it; beſides the Inn; but this being almoſt all in the Rolls Liberty, is there ſpoken of. Red Hart Inn, indifferent. Over againſt Bond's Stables, is Stone Court, a very ſmall Place. Three Leg Alley, on the back of Eaſt Harding ſtreet, and falls into Weſt Harding ſtreet; alſo hath a paſſage into Fleetſtreet, through Red Lion Court. Eaſt Harding ſtreet, indifferent good, falls into Goldſmiths Rents. Nevils Alley, very handſome, and well inhabited. Churchyard Alley, very narrow; which after two Turnings falls into Curſitors Alley. Magpie Yard and Inn, now very handſomely rebuilt; and hath a paſſage into Caſtle ſtreet, near unto which is Magpye Inn. Dean ſtreet, well built and inhabited; falls into Goldſmiths Rents. Plough Yard, a good large and open Place, well inhabited. Bewit's Court, a very handſome and large new built Court, with a Freeſtone Pavement, and very well inhabited. Not far from this Court, is a paſſage into Bartlet's Buildings in Holbourn; where it ſhall be noted. This paſſage hath a few neat and well built Houſes on the South ſide, with pretty Garden Spots before them, neatly kept. Horſeſhoe Alley, ſmall and ordinary. Over againſt this Court is the White Horſe Inn, which is but ſmall: Adjoining to which is the back Door of Barnard's Inn. Kings head Court, formerly called White horſe Alley, a good handſome new built Court, well inhabited; having a Freeſtone turning paſſage into Holbourn. Goldſmiths Rents, a good large Place, containing ſeveral Streets and Places of Name, and all well built and inhabited; eſpecially Eaſt Harding ſtreet, which is more open. This Street falleth into Weſt Harding ſtreet, as alſo into Three Leg Alley, which is but ordinary. In this Street are New Court and Goldſmiths Court, both but ſmall. Dean ſtreet falls into Fetter lane out of Eaſt Harding ſtreet, as aforeſaid. New ſtreet, a pretty handſome open Place, with indifferent good Buildings; of which there are four Streets, and all bearing that Name; one falling into Shoe lane, another which turns Northwards receives the other two, which comes out of Eaſt harding ſtreet. Gunpowder Alley, long and narrow; falls into Shoe lane, croſſing Little Newſtreet, which is but ordinary.

Shoe lane.
Plumb Tree Court.
Well Alley.
Molen's Rents.
Iſaac's Rents.
Spectacle's Rents.
Eagle and Child Alley.
Brewers Yard.
Queens Arms Alley.
George Alley.
Roſe and Crown Court.
Stonecutters ſtreet.
Curriers Alley.
Harp Alley.
Angel Court.
Fountain Court.

The next Lane in Fleetſtreet is Shoe lane, very long, runneth North from Fleetſtreet, over againſt Saliſbury Court, into Holbourn, by St. Andrew's Church; a Lane of no great Note either for Buildings or Inhabitants. In it are a great many Alleys and Courts, though of little Account. I ſhall begin firſt on the Eaſt ſide next to Holbourn, and ſo towards Fleetſtreet: And then the firſt is Plumbtree Court, the beſt of all; being large and well built, with Inhabitants according. It hath a paſſage into another Court, ſo called, which falls into Holbourn; that Part towards Shoe lane being pretty broad. Well Alley, very mean and ordinary. Molins Rents, indifferent good, but hath a narrow paſſage into it. Iſaac's Rents, very ordinary. Near unto this is Spectacle's Rents, very ſmall and mean. Eagle and Child Alley, narrow, but indifferent good; hath a paſſage into Fleet Ditch, down Steps. Brewers Yard, ſo called from a Brewhouſe at the lower end there, and with ſome ſmall Tenements; this hath a paſſage into Fleet Ditch. Queens Arms Alley, but narrow, with a Freeſtone Pavement which leads to the Ditch ſide, down Steps. George Alley, but narrow, hath alſo a paſſage down to the Ditch ſide. Roſe and Crown Court, but indifferent, hath a paſſage into George Alley. Stonecutters ſtreet, pretty good and open, with indifferent Inhabitants. This leadeth down to the Ditch ſide. Curriers Alley, very ordinary, runs to the Ditch ſide. Harp Alley, but narrow, runs down to the Ditch ſide; a Place of great Trade for old Houſhold Goods, for which it is of Note; but the Buildings very mean. Angel Court, ſmall and ordinary. Fountain Court, but ordinary.

Robin hood Court.
Cockpit Court.
Brown's Court.
Faulcon Court.
Kings head Court.

Places on the Weſt ſide of this Lane: Robin Hood Court, pretty broad and large, but mean Houſes and Inhabitants; hath a paſſage up Steps into Goldſmiths Rents. Cockpit Court, pretty handſome, with Brick Building at the upper end, and hath a Freeſtone Pavement. Brown's Court, but ſmall and mean. Faulcon Court, but ordinary; near unto the Corner of Newſtreet. Kings head Court, a narrow Place, which comes out of Wine Office Court, mentioned in Fleetſtreet, and leads into this Lane. Globe Court, but ſmall. And thus much for Fleetſtreet.

Holbourn hill.
Staples Inn.

Now more on the North is Holbourn hill, a very broad and ſpacious Street, of a good Trade, and a great Thoroughfare; being very much frequented by Wagons, Coaches, and Horſes, from ſeveral Parts of England, chiefly Weſtwards and Northwards. And for their Accommodation, this Street, as alſo Snow hill, hath ſeveral conſiderable Inns; as the Greyhound, the Crown, the Checker, the Bell, the Black Bull, the Black Swan, the George, the Sarazen's Head, the King's Arms, the Swan, and the Roſe. The Part of this Street in this Ward, begins at the Bars, by Gray's Inn lane, and runneth down to Holbourn Bridge, where Snow hill begins; and ſo with a turning paſſage to St. Sepulchres Church, and thence to Newgate. As to the Courts and Alleys, I ſhall begin at the Bars, and ſo down Eaſtwards on the South ſide, and afterwards on the North ſide. And according to this Method, the firſt Place is Staple's Inn, one of the Inns of Chancery; a very handſome, open, and well built Place, with a Garden behind it.

Caſtle ſtreet.
Tucker's, or Duck Court.

Caſtle ſtreet, a good handſome well built and inhabited Place: It hath theſe Inlets and Outlets, viz. It comes out of Holbourn and leads into Curſitors Alley, with an open Paſſage. On the Eaſt ſide it hath a paſſage into Fetter lane, through Magpie Yard. And on the Weſt ſide, Tuckers, or Duck Court, a large and well built Place, much inhabited by Lawyers, as ſeated amongſt the Inns of Court and Chancery; and this hath an open paſſage into Curſitors Alley. Beſides, here is a narrow paſſage on the South Eaſt Corner, through Churchyard Alley, into Fetter lane.

Curſitors Alley.
White's Alley.
Barnard's Inn.
Bartlet's Buildings.

Curſitors Alley leads into Chancery lane, over againſt Gray's Inn; and this Place took its Name from the Curſitors Office adjoining thereunto. It is a Place well built and inhabited, and ſtands well for Lodging for thoſe that come up to the Terms. The Weſt end of this Alley, from or near the Roſe Tavern, unto Chancery lane, is in the Rolls Liberty. Betwixt this Street, and Furnivals Inn, is White's Alley, an indifferent Place, with old Timber Houſes. Barnard's Inn. The Buildings of this Inn are very old, and much want Rebuilding; the back Court hath a paſſage into Fetter lane. Kings head Court, already ſpoken of. Bartlet's Buildings, a very handſome ſpacious Place, graced with good Buildings of Brick, with Gardens behind the Houſes; and is a Place very well inhabited by Gentry, and Perſons of good Repute. Out of this Court, through a long Alley, wherein are ſome very good Houſes, is Bartlet's Court.

Thavies Inn.

is a paſſage into Fetter lane. Adjoining to Bartlet's Buildings, is a Court ſo called, which is but ſmall. Thavies Inn, another of the Inns of Chancery; which is but ſmall, and chiefly taken up by the Welſh Attorneys. St. Andrew's Court, indifferent good, but the Houſes old built.

St. Andrew's Church.

St. Andrew's Church, ſeated in a very ſpacious Churchyard, incloſed with a Wall. And ſince the new building of the Church it is made very Ornamental both without and within, as to the Pews, Galleries, Pulpit, Communion Table, &c. It ſtands gracefully fronting Holbourn; and having on the Eaſt Shoe lane.

Bull head Tavern.

Beyond Shoe lane, and on the ſame ſide of Plumbtree Court, already mentioned, is the Bull head Tavern, which was built upon the Ground of Feathers Alley.

Now to go back to Holbourn hill, North ſide, beginning at the Bars. In which ſide there are ſome Parts out of the Freedom; as Brook ſtreet, Furnival's Inn, Hatton Garden, Ely Houſe, &c. which doth appear by the Chain Line in the Map, which is the Separation of the County from the Freedom.

Warton Court.
Furnival's Inn.
Ely Court.
Ely Houſe.
Scroop's Court.
Antiently the Serjeants at Law had an Inn here.
Dyer's Court.
Sutton Court.
Plough Yard.

The Places of Name are, Warton Court, very long, with a paſſage into Brook ſtreet. The Court is new built with good Brick Houſes, hath a Freeſtone Pavement, and well inhabited. Furnival's Inn, another of the Inns of Chancery, and is a very good Pile of Building, with a handſome Garden behind the Hall, and a large Court before it. Ely Court, very handſome, large, with new Brick Houſes, and a Freeſtone Pavement, and well inhabited. This Court lieth betwixt Leather Lane and Hatton Garden; which being out of the Freedom, but in that part of the Pariſh that lieth in the County, it is there ſpoken of; as likewiſe Ely Houſe. Scroop's Court, formerly Scroop's Inn, and belonged to John Lord Scroop; after whoſe Death it was let out to ſome Serjeants at Law, and then called Serjeants Inn in Holbourn. And upon their removal, it was converted into Tenements, with Gardens unto them. Since which, being old, and the Houſes very much decayed, it is of late rebuilt with very good Houſes, and the Place very much inlarged by the additional Buildings; and divideth it ſelf into two Parts, that towards the Weſt ſide being long, like unto an Alley, having yet a great deal of waſte Ground to be built upon, which lieth behind Field lane, which I doubt not but in a ſhort time will be all built upon, into Courts, or otherwiſe. Out of this Court is a paſſage into Field lane. Dyer's Court, oppoſite to Shoe lane, indifferent good. Sutton Court, over againſt St. Andrew's Church, pretty large and good. Plough Yard, very ordinary, hath a paſſage into Field lane.

Field lane.

Field lane, very narrow, but mean Houſes, and the Place naſtily kept; as being inhabited by Butchers and Tripe Dreſſers on the Eaſt ſide, by reaſon of the benefit of the Ditch that runs on the back ſide of their Yards and Slaughter Houſes, to carry away their Filth. This Lane runneth up to Saffron hill, and receiveth Chick lane; but the part of this Lane in the Freedom goeth but little beyond the paſſage into Plough Yard.

Holbourn Bridge, and Snow hill.

Holbourn bridge and Snow hill,. This part of Holbourn goes to Lamb's Conduit, and there begins Snow hill; which, as I ſaid before, in a winding Paſſage runneth up to St. Sepulchre's Church; and both theſe Places are graced with good Buildings, well inhabited by noted Tradeſmen, and is a Place of great Reſort. The South Side by the Bridge, lieth open to the Canal, already treated of. Here are theſe Places: Horn Alley, near the Bridge, but indifferent. Beehive Alley, long, narrow, and ordinary. Katherine Wheel Alley, indifferent good. Kings Arms Inn, very conſiderable and large, having at the upper end of the Yard a paſſage into Chick lane. Betwixt this Inn and Swan Inn, is Hand and Crown Alley, very ſmall. George Inn, very large, and of a conſiderable Trade; the paſſage to the Yard is through Cow lane; and the entrance to it in Holbourn, is through a paved Court, with indifferent good Houſes on both ſides. Bell Alley, but ordinary. Cock Court, ſeated almoſt againſt the Conduit, by the corner of Cow lane; indifferent good, and hath a paſſage into Bell Alley. Lamb's Conduit, or Holbourn Conduit, built in the middle of the Street fronting Holbourn bridge, Snow hill, and Cow lane. Repaired and beautified, as yet it remains.

Horn Alley.
Bee hive Alley.
Katharine Wheel Alley.
Kings Arms Inn.
Hand and Crown Alley.
George Inn.
Bell Alley.
Lamb's Conduit.

St. Sepulchres Church.

St. Sepulchres Church, or St. Sepulchres in the Baily, ſeated on the top of Snow hill; a very large and ſpacious Church, with a lofty Towered Steeple, Spires at each corner, and Weathercocks on the tops. In which Steeple is a gallant ring of eight Bells; and in the Church is a pair of Organs. To this Church there is a large Churchyard both before and behind it; although not ſo large as of old time, good part being taken away, and converted into Buildings; ſo that now it is not enough for the burial of their Dead; and the Inhabitants are forced to make uſe of another large piece of Ground in Chick lane.

Benefactors.

Robert Lewis, Leather-ſeller, gave to this Pariſh 30 l. a Year for Coals to the Poor.

Robert Dove, Merchant Taylor, gave 50 l. for the Priſoners Bell. The Meaning is, that when the Condemned Priſoners are drawn to their Execution at Tyburn, there is a Man with a Bell, who ſtands in the Churchyard, by the Wall next the Street, and ſo tinkles his Bell, and repeats ſome Verſes, to put them in mind of their Death approaching.

This Church was very much ruined in the late dreadful Fire; but by the Money raiſed from the Impoſition on Coals, and the Charges of the Pariſhioners, and Benefactors, it is Rebuilt, and beautified both within and without.

Sarazens Inn.

Next to this Church is Sarazen's Inn, very large, and of a conſiderable Trade for Wagons, Coaches and Horſes.

Pye Corner.

Church lane, adjoining to this Church Eaſtwards, which leadeth into Pye Corner; noted chiefly for Cooks Shops, and Pigs dreſt there during Bartholomew Fair.

Nags head Court.
Green Dragon Court.

Nags head Court, long and ordinary. And oppoſite to this is Green Dragon Court, which is but ſmall.

Giltſpur ſtreet.
Ball Court.
Horſ ſhoe Alley.
Roſemary lane.
Church Alley.

Giltſpur ſtreet. In this Street are theſe Places: Ball Court, pretty long, but ordinary. Horſeſhoe Alley, long, narrow, and but indifferent. Roſemary lane, pretty large, but ordinary; and hath a paſſage into the Long Walk betwixt the two Hoſpitals. Church Alley, ſo called, as fronting St. Sepulchre's Church; and hath a pretty good Row of Buildings on the Eaſt ſide; the Weſt ſide lying open, and only ſevered from the Churchyard by a Wall.

Cock Lane.

Cock lane, an ordinary Place; it cometh out of Snow hill, and falleth into Pye Corner.

Cow lane.

Cow lane, a great Thoroughfare for Carts, &c. out of Snow hill into Smithfield. In this Lane are ſeveral Coachmakers, for which it is of chief Note. In this Lane is a paſſage to Hoſier lane, which falleth into Smithfield. And here

Foxes Court.
White Lion Court.
Green Dragon Court.
Bull head Court.
St. John's Court.
Hand and Crown Court.
Pheaſant Court.
Redcroſs Court.

here are theſe Places: Foxes Court, but ordinary, hath a paſſage into George Inn. Nigh to this Court is White Lion Court, but ſmall. Green Dragon Court, a pretty large and open Place, but ordinarily built. Bull head Court, very mean. St. John's Court, a pretty large Place, indifferently inhabited; with old Buildings, and hath a paſſage into Chick lane. Near unto this Court is Hand and Crown Court, which is but ſmall. Pheaſant Court, near unto Smithfield Sheep Pens, on the South ſide, which is but ordinary. And on the other Side is Red Croſs Court, but ſmall.

Hoſier lane.
Bell Alley.
Three Diamond Court.

Hoſier lane, comes out of Cow lane, and runs into Smithfield. A Place not over well built or inhabited, having all old Timber Houſes. This Place is of a great Reſort during the time of Bartholomew Fair. All the Houſes generally being made Publick for Tipling, and leud Sort of People. In this Lane is Bell Alley, as alſo Three Diamond Court, both ſmall and ordinary Places.

Chick lane.
Newcaſtle ſtreet, or Durham Yard.
Katharine Wheel Yard.
Churchyard Alley.
Hide's Rents.
Croſs keys Court.
St. Martin's Court.
White horſe Alley.
Sun Alley.
Thatcht Alley.
Sharp's Alley.
Old Brewers Yard.

Chick lane, an ordinary Place, both for Buildings and Inhabitants. It comes out of Smithfield by the Sheep Pens, and runneth down to Field lane. In this Lane are ſeveral Courts and Alleys: As Newcaſtle Street, or Durham Yard, pretty open to receive Carts and Coaches; having at the lower end a Yard for Stabling. And at the upper end is a paſſage into Katherine Wheel Yard, which is none of the beſt. Blue Boar Court, is ordinary, and aſcended up by Steps. Churchyard Alley, but narrow and ordinary. At the upper end is a Churchyard which belongs to St. Sepulchre's Pariſh. Hide's Rents, a ſmall open Court, very ordinary. Over againſt this Place is Croſs Keys Court, alſo ſmall and mean. St. Martin's Court, a pretty open Place, but ordinarily inhabited. White Horſe Alley, narrow and ordinary. Out of this is a paſſage into Sharp's Alley, which leads to Cow Croſs. Sun Alley, over againſt St. John's Court, very ſmall. Thatcht Alley, narrow, ſmall, and mean. Sharp's Alley, but indifferent, having turning Paſſages; and falls into the lower end of Cow Croſs, as aforeſaid. Oppoſite to this Place, is the Old Brewers Yard, but indifferent; and hath a paſſage into Holbourn, through the Kings Arms Inn.

Smithfield Pens.

Smithfield Pens, ſo called from the Sheep Pens placed in that Part, for the Sale of Sheep every Market Day in Smithfield. The North, Weſt, and South Sides having Rows of Buildings, moſt inhabited by Inholders, and ſuch as keep Publick Houſes: Of which the North ſide is the beſt, and hath theſe three Inns of a very good Trade; viz. The Katharine Wheel, the [illegible]ſe, and the Ram. Near unto the Ram is Adam and Eve Alley, which is but ordinary, and hath a paſſage into Smithfield Bars, through the Boars head Tavern.

Smithfield Bars.
Nags head Alley.

Smithfield Bars, ſo called from the Bars there ſet up, for the ſevering of the City Liberty from that of the County. This Place is generally inhabited by Butchers, who are great Dealers, as well by Retail, as Wholeſale, for Sheep and Lambs to other Butchers. In this Place is Nags head Alley, both ſmall and ordinary.

Long lane.

Long lane, may properly be ſo called for its length, coming out of Alderſgate ſtreet, againſt Barbican, and running into Smithfield. The Lane, or rather Street, is good; the Houſes pretty good for Timber Buildings, and is very well inhabited by Shopkeepers who deal in Apparel, Linnen, and Upholſters Goods, both new and old; and for this Trade it is of very good Account.

Three Fox Court.
Charterhouſe ſtreet.
Three Horſeſhoe Court.
Cat Alley.
Golden Dragon Yard.

This Lane goeth in this Ward from Smithfield unto the Red Lion Inn, the other Part being in Alderſgate Ward; but ſomething further on the South ſide, even to Golden Dragon Court. The Places in this Lane are Three Fox Court, but ordinary. Charter houſe ſtreet, a neat new built Place, with an open paſſage into the Charter houſe Yard; with very neat and genteel Houſes, well inhabited. This Place, before its new building, was called Carpenters Yard. Three Horſeſhoe Court, but ordinary. Cat Alley, hath a narrow Entrance, but is pretty good. And on the back Side of this, is another Court ſo called. Red Lion Inn, hath a large Yard for Stabling and Coaches; and hath a paſſage into the Charter houſe Yard, and another into Goſwel ſtreet. Golden Dragon Yard, alſo for Stabling.

Great St. Bartholomew's Cloſe.

Great St. Bartholomew's Cloſe. This Cloſe is open and large, with ſeveral good Houſes, which generally are all well inhabited; as being a creditable Place to live in. Out of this Cloſe are ſeveral paſſages into Duck lane, Little Britain, and two into Alderſgate ſtreet; of which one is through Northumberland Alley, and the other through Half Moon Alley; another paſſage into Cloth Fair, and another into Long lane.

Weſtmoreland Court.
Weſtmoreland Alley.
Half Moon Alley.
Middleſex Houſe.
Parker's Yard.
New ſtreet.
Middle ſtreet.
Back Alley.

Places of Name in this Cloſe, and near unto it, are Weſtmoreland Court, a ſquare Place, formerly a large Houſe, now converted into Tenements. Out of this Court is Weſtmoreland Alley, by ſome called Paved Alley, as paved with Freeſtone, and leads into Alderſgate ſtreet. Half Moon Alley, very narrow. Middleſex Houſe, an old large Building, now ſevered into Dwelling Houſes, with a Court Yard before it, incloſed within a Wall. Over againſt this Place is Parker's Yard, indifferent good. Paſſing Northwards is a Gate-way, the Bounds of this Cloſe; where beyond there are ſome Streets and Buildings; as New ſtreet and Middle ſtreet, both indifferent; and Back Alley, which is but ordinary; all three falling into another Street, which hath a paſſage into Long lane.

Cloth Fair.

Cloth Fair comes out of Smithfield, a Place generally inhabited by Drapers and Mercers, and is of ſome Note.

Duck lane.
Blue Anchor Inn.
Bookſellers.
Well Cloſe.
King ſtreet.

Duck lane cometh out of Little Brittain, and falls into Smithfield, a Place generally inhabited by Bookſellers, that ſell Second-hand Books. In this Lane is Blue Anchor Inn, which is but of an indifferent Trade; being the corner Houſe, and part of it in Little Brittain, leading to the Hoſpital, which is in this Ward as far as Well Cloſe. But the Part of Little Brittain, from St. Bartholomew Cloſe, Southward, towards the Pump, and ſo bending Eaſtward to Alderſgate ſtreet, is in the Ward of Alderſgate. This Part alſo is chiefly taken up by Bookſellers; who formerly were much reſorted to by learned Men, for Greek and Latin Books. But now the Station of ſuch Bookſellers is removed into Pater-noſter Row and Paul's Churchyard. Well Cloſe, a very handſome open Court, with good Houſes, which are well inhabited. It hath another paſſage into King ſtreet, by St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital; this Street is ſhort, and goeth from the ſaid Hoſpital into the Long Walk, and ſo to Chriſt's Hoſpital.

St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital.

St. Bartholomew's Hoſpital, commonly called the Lame Hoſpital, for that the Lame, Wounded, and Diſeaſed People, are hither ſent for their Cure.

The Cloiſters.

From Kingſtreet is a paſſage into Smithfield, through a fair Cloiſter, well paved with Freeſtone. On both ſides of which are Rows of Shops moſt taken up by Semſtreſſes and Milleners; and over the Shops, on the Walls, are the Names of the Benefactors to this Hoſpital, fairly painted; and this Cloiſter gives entrance into the ſeveral Wards belonging to this Hoſpital, and other Rooms and Appartments.

Adjoining to this Hoſpital is the Pariſh Church of Little St. Bartholomews, which is but ſmall, nor very neat.

This Hoſpital is of late Years much improved and inlarged by the addition of Wards, and the Bounty of Benefactors, which yearly increaſe.

Bartholomew Fair.

Hereabouts, and in Smithfield, at Bartholomewtide, is the antient Fair kept, that borrows its Name thence, Bartholomew Fair; although by the original Grant it ought to be kept but three Days, yet for many Years paſt, it hath been kept fourteen Days; rather connived at, than allowed, for the ſake of the Benefit that accrues from it: Each that hath a Booth there, paying ſo much a Foot every Day, during the three firſt Days. It is moſt conſiderable for the Sale of Cloth, Stuffs, Leather, Pewter, and Live Cattle. The reſt of the Fair time is for Recreation chiefly; viz. To ſee Drolls, Farces, Rope dancing, Feats of Activity, Wonderful and Monſtrous Creatures, wild Beaſts made tame, Giants, Dwarfs, &c.

Pie Powder Court.

In Cloth Fair is kept, during the three firſt Days, a Court, called Pye Powder Court, where People are ſued for Debts and Contracts relating to the Fair. And in this Court the Party ſhall be Arreſted, the Cauſe Tried, and Judgment paſt, in a few Hours. The Earl of Warwick and Holland is concerned in the Toll gathered the three firſt Days in the Fair, being a Penny for every Burthen of Goods brought in or carried out; and to that end there are Perſons that ſtand at all the Entrances into the Fair; and they are of late Years grown ſo nimble, that theſe Blades will extort a Penny, if one hath but a little Bundle under ones Arms, and nothing related to the Fair.

The Place where this Fair is kept, is a large Tract of Ground; the Houſes round about it in Rows, are generally Publick Houſes, as Inns, Taverns, or Alehouſes, by reaſon of the great reſort of People, not only every Fair time, but chiefly for the Markets there kept Weekly, each Day in the Week, either for live Cattle or Horſes; for Horſes every Friday, and for Hay and Straw. Which Markets draw a great Reſort of People thither.

Diviſion of this Ward.
